LODGE SENDS REPLY TO HYDE ON HIS LEAGUE COURT LETTER

Proposal, He Asserts, Provides for a Tribunal, Already Elected With the Approval of Council and Assembly; Declares Independent Action Is Impossible.

DEMANDS EQUALITY IN REPRESENTATION

Replying to Governor's Telegram, Republican Leader in Senate, Expresses Hope Harding Will Be Re-elected and Agreement Reached.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A suggestion that the Senate may propose some reservations of its own, before it assents to "joining a court elected by the council and asembly of the League of Nations," was advanced tonight by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and Senate floor leader of his party.

The reservations put forward by the administration as a part of President Harding's plan for membership in the world court are highly important, the Senator said, but he added that it would remain for the Senate itself to decide its attitude toward "participation in the league court."

Without referring directly to the differences which have arisen on the subject among Republican leaders, he declared he naturally wanted to see President Harding reelected and believed that after there had been a careful consideration of the "league court problem, a satisfactory adjustment would be reached."

The views of the Foreign Relations chairman were contained in a letter written by him in response to a telegram from Gov. Hyde of Missouri, made public here. The letter, which constiuted Lodge's first contribution to public discussions of the court issue, follows:

Party Favors Arbitral Tribunals.

"I have received your telegram in which you say 500,000 Missouri Republicans are looking hopefuly to you to prevent the disaster to nation and party of any membership in the league court. May we not depend upon you to serve us in the present crisis.'

"It has always been the policy of the United States, and very emphatically the policy of the Republican party, to promote in every way possible the settlement of international differences by arbitration and through the medium of arbitral tribunals. We have advocated in the past the establishment of a permanent court of arbitration. If it had been proposed to establish a permanent international court for the settlement of international disputes, selected as is proposed in the league court from the panel created by groups under the terms of the Hague convention; if it had been proposed to make the judges thus selected permanent and to be appointed by the nations severally and independently and not by a majority of the council and assembly of the league and with long terms and sufficient salaries, in my judgment such a court would have received universal approval, not only in the Senate of the United States, but by the people of the United States.

League Not for U. S., He Says.

"In his speech in New York on Tuesday, April 24, the President said: 'I have no unseemly comment to offer on the League. If it is serving the old world helpfully more power to it. But it is not for us. The Senate has so declared, the executive has so declared, the people have so declared. Nothing could be more decisively stamped with finality.' With this strong and complete statement, I believe that the great mass of the American people

FORMER FRENCH PREMIER HAS NEW RELATIVITY THEORY

Prof. Painleve Tries to Reconcile Newton and Einstein Philosophies.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS April 28.—A new theory of relativity is announced by Professor Paul Painleve, former premier and noted mathematician, who declares his conception is based on mechanics of broader lines than those developed by Professor Albert Einstein, the German scientist.

"My work is to attempt to reconcile the old school springing from Newton's theory of gravitation with the new school emerging from Einstein's theory," he said.

"I consider Einstein's theory a step in the right direction; certainly it was necessary to science to explain phenomena which could not be explained under the old theories.

"Under the old teachings it was explained that the world turned on its axis, and in space. Of course this is mere talk for children; no such thing occurs, but such explanation must be given so the ignorant can have a mental picture so as to know what the world is like. Neither the earth nor stars whirl in space."

Professor Painleve thus far has written two parts of his new philosophy of relativity, and it is his intention to complete the work during the coming summer. The French Bureau of Longitude is arranging to use a naval vessel with a staff of astronomers and mathematicians to study the eclipse of the sun next Sept. 10, the line of which will pass across Mexico. The studies will be in connection with the Einstein theory.

TREASURE HUNT ON WHEN CONVICT ESCAPED

Guards Listened to Story About $40,000 Having Been Buried in Woods Years Ago.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28—How Riley Davis, two-term convict, employed a rather hackneyed pretext to be taken from prison, and then lulled his guards into dreams of treasure, so that he could escape their vigilance and once more become a free man, was disclosed by his successful escape near Marceline last Sunday night.

Davis did not permit the monotonous routine of prison life to pall upon him, and in the droning hours of life behind prison walls he nurtured a bright idea that brought its reward, as bright ideas usually do when properly applied.

To begin with, Davis confided to guards that he had conceived a marvelous invention, which he had placed in the keeping of a professor at the University of Missouri.

Leave of Absence Granted.

It appears from what Davis said that the world was sadly in need of this invention and its perfection depended upon his final approval of it. Would the Warden permit him to leave from prison, under guard, of course, to have an inspection. The Warden would do so, so that the world might profit by the genius of this criminal, and it was so ordered.

In accordance with Davis' plans (which were to escape from prison, but he did not confide this little secret to the prison officials) the Warden granted leave of absence to Davis and Jerry Martin, cellmate of Davis, both of whom were serving 15 years for grand larceny, under guard of Charles Gillespie, to go to Columbia last Sunday morning.

Tale of Buried Treasure.

On the way to Columbia in an automobile, Davis and Martin unfolded an enchanting tale of fabulous wealth that had been buried in the woods near Marceline, the location of which they knew. This secret they imparted to Gillespie, and would he take them there and allow them to dig up the treasure—$40,000.

Ed Castelle, sales manager for the prison industries, was along and he and Gillespie were prevailed upon to consent to this laudable enterprise.

The woods near Marceline were reached Sunday night and the search for the "treasure" begun. The four men tramped around through the woods for some time, and in the darkness, Davis slipped away, much to the chagrin of his guards. There was no treasure, and Martin was brought back to prison. It is presumed that Davis has gone into seclusion to perfect his invention, after which he expected to resume his 15-year sentence.

DECLARES PURNELL BETRAYED GIRLS IN NAME OF RELIGION

Federal Judge, in Opinion, Characterizes Leader of House of David Colony as Fraud.

VERDICT AMOUNTING TO $15,000 AWARDED

Former Member of Cult and Family, Expelled in 1920, Had Brought Suit for Value of Services.

By the Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 28.—Religion was used as a cloak for immorality by Benjamin F. Purnell, leader of the House of David colony at Benton Harbor, Judge John E. Satter of Columbus, O., declared today in an opinion filed in Federal Court here, awarding damages approximating $15,000 to John W. Hansel and his family, of Nashville, Tenn.

The plaintiffs, former members of the colony, had sued for $80,000 which they asserted represented the value of property donated to the colony and labor performed during their nine years membership.

Purnell not only betrayed a number of young girls and women, in the name of religion, but taught his followers to perjure themselves and stifled threatened investigations, the court declared.

"Secrecy Enjoined."

"Because of secrecy enjoined by Purnell upon his victims," the opinion added, "knowledge of his relations with them did not extend to the members of the society excepting a relatively few."

A low moral tone, serious moral offenses and petty theft have existed in the colony and have gone unpunished and in almost all cases unrebuked, the court held. Referring to the teachings of Purnell, the court declared that this utterance, oral and printed, given out to the general public and to members of the colony when collectively assembled do not conform to his real teachings to an inner circle and to the manner of life prevailing within such circle.

"In the third volume of the 'Star of Bethlehem' which goes to his people," Judge Satter declared, "it is openly taught that even the courts cannot make them testify against themselves as to any evil they may have confessed, or cause them to touch upon the same."

Judge Satter quoted extensively from the book of rules of the colony and said that this, with other publications issued by Purnell, "make clear that he dictates as to both spiritual and temporal affairs and exacts implicit obedience."

Regarding Purnell's relations with girl members of the colony, the opinion says:

"That a man may so dominate young girls or maturer women as to render them submissive to him may be doubted or disbelieved by some, but not by a person who knows the details of genuine white slave cases. In this case the submissive girls received their keep and in the name of religion were taught that subjection was a holy rite and insured immortality of their bodies."

Purnell's Absence Noted.

Purnell's failure to appear at the hearing of the suit was noted by the Court. Declaring the cult leader alone could refute charges of immoral practices with women members of the colony, Judge Sater said:

"His absence at this critical period in the life of himself and his colony when he should have been quick to defend, is significant."

As to charges that Purnell breaks up families, the opinion declared:

"The bitterness which Quinto Rosetta and his wife exhibited toward their brother, Emil Rosetta, was such as is rarely witnessed, ina courtroom and illustrates that there is that in the teachings of Benjamin which not only separates families, but disrupts them and awakens intense hatred among their numbers. Other instances of it appear in the record."

The Court declared Hansel's claim for $80,000 was excessive. The amounts allowed total about $11,050. Interest computed at 5 per cent will

"Canon of Journalism" Adopted by Editors in Convention

Independence, Nonpartisanship, Decency, Sincerity, Truthfulness and Accuracy Declared to Be Cardinal Points; Editor Harding a Speaker

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Speaking intimately as an editor to editors, President Harding in an address tonight before the American Society of Newspaper Editors declared to be without truth statements that the administration had proposed American membership in the Permanent Court of International Justice at the behest of international bankers.

The President touched upon a number of subjects of especial interest to the editors of the country, and said he would "rather be a newspaper publisher than any thing else in the world." For that reason, he added, he was going to remain publisher of the Marion Star "until they settle up my estate."

John W. Davis, president of the American Bar Association, talked to them on "The Press and the Constitution."

Accuracy and truthfulness, combined in a policy of nonpartisanship, the President agreed today, should be the aim of the new organization.

Seven Cardinal Principles.

The editors adopted a "canon of journalism," covering the ethical standards of the profession and the aspirations of American newspapers. The code was drawn up by a committee headed by S. S. Wright, of the New York Globe and contains seven cardinal principles which follow:

"FIRST — RESPONSIBILITY — The right of a newspaper to attract and hold readers is restricted by nothing but considerations of public welfare. The use a newspaper makes of the share of public attention it gains serves to determine its sense of responsibility, which it shares with every member of its staff. A journalist who uses his power for any selfish or otherwise unworthy purpose is faithless to a high trust.

"SECOND — FREEDOM OF THE PRESS—Freedom of the press is to be guarded as a vital right of mankind. It is the unquestioned right to discuss whatever is not explicitly forbidden by law, including the wisdom of any restrictive statute.

"THIRD — INDENPENDENCE—Freedom from all obligations except that of fidelity to the public interest is vital.

(1)—Promotion of any private interest contrary to the general welfare, for whatever reason, is not compatible with honest journalism. So-called news communications from private sources should not be published without public notice of their source or else substantiation of their claims of value as news, both in form and substance.

(2)—Partisanship or comment, which knowingly departs from the truth, does violence to the best spirit of American journalism; in the news columns it is subversive of a fundamental principle of the profession.

"FOURTH — SINCERITY, TRUTHFULNESS, ACCURATENESS—Good faith with the reader is the foundation of all journalism worthy of the name.

(1)—By every consideration of good faith a newspaper is constrained to be truthful. It is not to be excused for lack of thoroughness or accuracy within its control or failure to obtain command of these essential qualities.

(2)—Headlines should be fully warranted by the contents of the articles which they surmount.

FIFTH — IMPARTIALITY Sound practice makes clear distinction between news reports and expressions of opinion. News reports should be free from opinion or bias of any kind. (1) This rule does not apply to so-called special articles unmistakably devoted to advocacy or characterized by a signature authorizing the writer's own conclusions and interpretations. (2) Critics of the arts should possess authority based on knowledge, sympathy based on understanding, independence of judgment that demands complete freedom.

SIXTH—FAIR PLAY—A newspaper should not publish unofficial charges affecting reputation or moral character; full opportunity should be given to the accused to be heard; right practice demands the giving of such opportunity in all cases of serious accusations outside judicial proceedings. (1) A newspaper should not invade private rights or feelings without sure warrant of public right, as distinguished from public curiosity. (2) A newspaper has no right to publish a private statement ascribed to its author without his permission. (3) It is the privilege, as it is the duty, of a newspaper to make prompt and complete correction of its own serious mistakes of fact or opinion whatever their origin.

"SEVENTH — DECENCY — A newspaper cannot escape conviction of insincerity if, while professing high moral purpose, it supplies incentives to base conduct, such as are to be found in details of crime and vice, publication of which is not demonstrably for the general good. Lacking authority to enforce its canons, the journalism here represented can but express the hope that deliberate pandering to vicious instincts will encounter effective public disapproval or yield to the influence of a preponderance of professional condemnation."

Officers Elected.

Casper S. Yost of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat was elected president of the society. E. C. Hopwood of the Cleveland Plain Dealer was chosen secretary; E. S. Beck, of the Chicago Tribune, treasurer, and George E. Miller, Detroit News, and Edgar B. Piper, Portland Oregonian, vice-presidents.

Directors elected include Frank I. Cobb, New York World; Ralph I. Stout, Kansas City Star; Willis J. Abbot, Christian Science Monitor; David E. Smiley, Philadelphia Public Ledger; C. H. Dennis, Chicago Daily News; Joseph Pulitzer, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and T. J. Dillon, Minneapolis Tribune.

'MELTING SPEECH' OF LAWYER CITED IN LAUMEIER SUIT

Sanctity of Motherhood Address Is Reputed to Move Juries to Tears, St. Louisan Avers in Court Action.

REFERS TO ATTORNEY FOR MRS. SHOEMAKER

Realty Man and Sister Ask Courts Here to Secure Them in Their Titles to Property.

A New York lawyer, with a moving speech about the sanctity of motherhood, is mentioned as one of the chief assets of Mrs. Byrd Shoemaker in her pending claim against her former husband, Henry H. Laumeier, in a court proceeding instituted here yesterday by Laumeier, a St. Louis real estate owner, and his sister, Mrs. Ida L. Gempp.

Laumeier and Mrs. Gempp, in their suit, ask the St. Louis courts to take steps which will secure them in their titles to property, as against the claims of the former Mrs. Laumeier and her son, who was born in December, 1919, following the obtaining of a divorce by Mrs. Laumeier in June of that year.

Say Dealings Are Hampered.

Laumeier and Mrs. Gempp say that because of the woman's claim against Laumeier, which has been asserted in suits in New York and in this State, they are hampered in property dealings. Those who might otherwise buy parts of their property, they allege, hesitate to make purchases which, they fear, might subject them to litigation later, if Mrs. Shoemaker should obtain a judgment. Therefore, the brother and sister ask that the woman's claim be investigated and disposed of, and that a decree be rendered setting forth their right to dispose of their property.

In their joint petition, Laumeier and Mrs. Gempp allege that the former Mrs. Laumeier began, a year before her divorce, to scheme to extort money from her husband. They allege that she associated with a man who looked like Laumeier, and thus caused some persons, who knew Laumeier slightly, to believe that she and Laumeier were still living as husband and wife.

Wants Hearing Held Here.

Laumeier said that, if some of his wife's witnesses were to see him in court, they would realize that he was not the man whom they had seen with the former Mrs. Laumeier at times shortly before the divorce. For this reason, re argues, the hearing should be in St. Louis, where the attendance of these witnesses could be obtained, and not in New York, where they would testify only by deposition.

The petitioners further aver that "the said Byrd Shoemaker has been coached to act the part assigned to her with the quintessence of aplomb and finesse, and is, moreover, equipped with an attorney who is reputed to have an unbroken record of some 40 odd victories in similar cases, and to have a speech on the sanctity of motherhod which will melt any jury into tears." Therefore, there is grave danger, the petition continues, that the so-called conspiracy will succeed if the case is tried in a foreign jurisdiction.

Carruthers Ewing is Mrs. Shoemaker's New York counsel. Laumeier has been represented in New York by Dudley Dupignac, and here by Randolph Laughlin, who filed the petition in the joint proceeding. Mrs. Gempp's interest, it was explained, is due to the fact that some of their property, an inheritance from their mother, is still held jointly.

Mrs. Shoemaker's young son is named as a defendant in the suit, and the fact that he owns realty is mentioned. Attorney Laughlin said, when asked about this, that the property mentioned was deeded by Laumeier to the boy yesterday, in a document filed in the Recorder's Office. The property is unimproved realty, said to be worth $5000. Laumeier's reason for deeding it to the boy, his lawyers said, was that the child could not be named as a party to the suit without possessing some property. The deed will stand, whatever the outcome of the present proceedings.

150 STUDENTS AND 50 WOMEN ARE SAID TO HAVE BEEN IN CROWD

James T. Scott, Charged With Attempted Assault on 14-Year-Old Girl, Tells Post-Dispatch Reporter Just Before He Is Hanged, He Is Not Guilty.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 29.—James T. Scott, a negro janitor in the Medical School of the University of Missouri, was lynched here at 1:40 a. m. today by a mob of about 600 persons, including about 150 university students and 50 women, for an alleged attempted assault on Miss Regina Almstedt, 14 years old, daughter of a professor in the university, a week ago Friday.

Scott went to his death declaring his innocence, and a moment before he was tossed from the Stewart Bridge, a trestle over the M. K. & T. right-of-way, a Post-Dispatch reporter on the scene asked him:

"Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"I am not guilty," Scott firmly proclaimed, adding, "God, have pity on an innocent man."

Sheriff Fred C. Brown and his deputy, Wilson Hall, addressed the mob from the Sheriff's residence, adjoining the jail.

But the mob only jeered and with a battering ram drove through the first iron door of the jail entrance. Then the men started to batter off the hinges and locks of a barred door to the inner cell room. It resisted their efforts, and then an acetlyene torch was obtained, which made quick work of the hinges and locks. Once inside the lock of the negro's cell was burned off. The negro was seized and marched with shouts to Stewart Bridge, a quarter of a mile away.

Youth Produces Rope.

At the bridge several persons, including Dr. H. B. Almstedt, father of the gril, who is professor of German at the University, requested the mob to desist and let the law take its course. They were howled down, and a youth, about 19 years old, without coat or collar and wearing glasses, adjusted a thin rope about Scott's neck, while another youth fastened the other end of the rope to the trestle.

At that moment a large man pushed through the crowd with a heavier hope. He cut the small rope from Scott's neck and substituted the heavier rope. While these preparations were in the making, Scott repeatedly asserted that he was not guilty.

He then was seized by two men who tossed him off the trestle and the lifeless body was left to swing at the end of about 20 feet of rope.

Accused Another Negro.

Scott at one time declared that another negro in the jail had confided to him that he had attempted the assault charged to Scott. Scott was 25 years old; married and father of three children. He had been employed in the university since last November.

The girl is said to have positively identified Scott as the man who attempted to assault her.

The girl was enticed by a negro to a secluded point on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad right-of-way at the edge of the city, where an attempt at assault was made. The negro was frightened away by section men on a handcar, and the girl, in a fainting condition, made her way home.

Almstedt reported the occurrence to the Sheriff and a posse was formed that searched the hills for the negro.

The girl was returning home from school when she met the negro, who told her some children were playing on the railroad track and might be killed by a train. He induced her to accompany him down an embankment to the tracks, and then seized her and carried her in woods bordering the right-of-way. The chance passage of the handcar saved the girl serious injury.

Iowa Senator Hopes Housewives Will Refuse to Make Purchases.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A hope that housewives will "put these sugar speculators out of business" by refusing to purchase sugar at the present prices was expressed in a statement issued here today by Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa.

"It is true the canning season is at hand," the Senator said, "but they can put up the fruit by the 'cold pack' method and by the time it is to be used the new crop of sugar will be on the market and these speculators will have been driven to cover."

DISCUSSIONS OF CONCESSIONS AT LAUSANNE HALTED

Gen. Pelle Goes Home to Give Poincare Report on Decision to Hold Conversations at Constantinople.

FRENCH TO DEFEND 1914 CONCESSIONS

Appointment of Weygand as Syrian High Commissioner a Warning to Turks Against Action on Frontier

By the Associated Press.

LAUSANNE, April 28.—Premier Poincare of France will be given a complete report on the Near East conference tomorrow by Gen. Pelle, who has gone to Paris to discuss particularly the definite decision of the conference today to suspend action here on the foreign concessions tangle with Turkey, pending the outcome of direct conversations at Constantinople between the concession holders and the Angora Government.

Gen. Pelle is also expected to talk over with the Premier and Gen. Weygand, newly appointed High Commissioner in Syria, the general military situation in Turkey, including the activities of Turkish divisions in Cilicia, which the French guard as a possible menace to Syria, held under mandate by France.

The French in Lausanne openly admit that the appointment of Gen. Weygand as Syrian High Commissioner may be taken as a warning to the Turks that any aggression against the Syrian frontier will not be tolerated.

The French Intention.

The present French intention is, during the direct negotiations, to defend the French railroad concessions of 1914, with which, they contend, the Chester agreement interferes. The Allies will insist, it is understood, that these negotiations be held in Constantinople instead of Angora, as the Turks are proposing.

All official circles in Lausanne welcome the transfer of the concession conversations to Turkey, as this step is likely to remove one of the most difficult obstacles to a satisfactory peace, eliminating, at least for the present, possible controversies between governments which might feel impelled to insist upon the concession of rights to their nationals.

Grew's Statements Studied.

The two statements made before the conference by Joseph C. Grew, the American Minister to Switzerland, outlining the general attitude of the United States, are being closely scrutinized for any possible indirect references to such pertinent questions as the Chester concession, by which an American syndicate is given the right to exploit railroads and mining rights in Turkey.

Members of the American delegation, however, insist that Grew's pronouncements were frank declarations of general policy, without any mysterious meanings. It was simply deemed desirable, they assert, to point out that the United States will not necessarily be bound by any decisions of the Lausanne conference concerning the abolition of capitulations in Turkey, but stands ready to revise the existing treaties with Turkey when the proper time comes, perhaps at the conclusion of the Lausanne conference.

In the meantime the United States will not recognize that the Turkish decree of 1914 abolishing the capitulations, or extra territorial privileges, can affect the rights of Americans in Turkey.

Trade Mark Question Up.

The question of recognizing trademarks and patents, which affects American interests also was considered today and finally referred to experts. The Turks objected to the article in question, which would confirm the validity of patents granted by the Ottoman Government since 1918.

The Turks, when asked today to adhere to the international postal convention, complained against the maintenance of foreign postoffices in Turkey, particularly in Constantinople, insisting that they should be abolished. The allies assured Ismet Pasha, the chief Turkish delegate, that the postoffice would eventually be closed under the provisions of the treaty and in connection with the abolition of the capitulations in general.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, April 28.—According to information received by the Greek Government the Turks have confiscated the safety deposit boxes held by Greeks in the Bank of the Orient at Smyrna. The Greek funds in the various Smyrna banks are estimated to exceed one billion drachma.

By the Associated Press.

LAUSANNE, April 28.—Riza Nur Bey, who, with Ismet Pasha, heads the Angora delegation to the Near East conference, said today he believed soviet Russia would sign the straits convention, framed at the first Lausanne conference and that George Tchitcherin, the Russian soviet Foreign Minister, would come to Lausanne to sign the document. Riza Nur Bey is in close touch with Russian affairs.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST TWO EAST ST. LOUIS OFFICIALS

Fire Chief Lynch and Police Sergeant O'Flaherty Suspended, Pending a Hearing.

Charges were filed yesterday with the secretary of the East St. Louis Board of Fire and Police Commissioners against Police Sergeant Matthew O'Flaherty and Fire Chief Leo Lynch, who, with Detectives Luther Heilig and Harry A. Schuetz, were asked to resign Friday by the new commissioners. O'Flaherty and Lynch were suspended, pending a hearing before the board.

The exact nature of the charges against them was not made known, but Commissioner Michael J. Whalen, in charge of the fire department, said that charges against Lynch would embody, among other things, an incident several months ago, when, he says, Lynch was disorderly in a saloon. O'Flaherty was suspended for "conduct unbecoming an officer" by Mayor Stephens, Commissioner of Police. Heilig and Schuetz have announced their intention of resigning before Tuesday, the date for which their resignations were requested.

Five other police officers, including Chief of Detectives James Neville, have been discharged this month and the resignation of Chief of Police William Mulconnery has been accepted.

PENNSYLVANIA FILES BRIEF SUPPORTING MATERNITY LAW

Stresses Difference Between Child Labor Laws and Sheppard-Towner Act, Under Attack by Massachusetts.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Pennsylvania, through Attorney-General Woodruff, filed in the Supreme Court today a brief supporting the constitutionality of the Sheppard-Towner maternity law, which is under attack by Massachusetts.

The brief upheld the right of Congress to appropriate money raised by taxation to be distributed among the States for the promotion of the welfare and hygiene of maternity and infancy, citing the good roads law, the Smith-Lever act, and other statutes which, like the maternity law, embody that method of administration. It further stressed the difference between child labor laws, held unconstitutional because a restraint upon the police powers of the State, and the maternity act, which it insisted was effective only upon its voluntary acceptance by the states.

KNUTE NELSON, U. S. SENATOR SINCE 1895, DIES ON TRAIN

Oldest Senator, 80, Succumbs En Route From Washington to Chicago—Was Depressed After Wife Died.

BORN IN NORWAY; FOUGHT IN CIVIL WAR

Was Chairman of Senate Judiciary Committee—Aided in Passage of Bankruptcy and Espionage Acts.

By the Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 28.—United States Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota, died on a Pennsylvania railroad train at 8:15 o'clock tonight when on his way from Washington to his home in Minnesota. Death was due to heart failure. He was 80 years old.

The train crew said that as the train was passing through Timonium, Md., 11 miles from Baltimore, the aged Senator had an attack of angina pectoris and died in a few minutes. Dr. E. M. Ewers of New York attended the Senator and pronounced him dead. The train on which the Senator died left Washington at 6:50 p. m. Senator Nelson occupied a lower birth.

The body was removed to an undertaker's establishment here and immediately prepared for its removal to St. Paul. The present plan is to have it taken west on the train leaving here at 1:03 Sunday afternoon.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28—The death tonight of Knute Nelson, senior senator from Minnesota, abroad a train enroute to Chicago, removed from the Senate its oldest member, and one of those with the longest service record. He was 80 years old, and had served 28 years.

Senator Nelson, although ill last Winter with influenza, was active during the last session of Congress and today when he left Washington for his home he appeared in excellent health, although the death of his wife a year ago had greatly depressed him. Those who were closest to him said he never fully recovered from that blow.

Civil War Veteran.

Senator Nelson was a Civil War veteran and worked hard, especially during the war, in pushing legislation dealing with Americanization. The espionage act was one of the bills he fought for. He was chairman of the Judiciary Committee and a member of the Commerce Committee. He supported the Dyer antilynching bill, which failed to passage, and the child labor constitutional amendment.

Under the rules of seniority Senator Dillingham, Republican, of Vermont, would succeed to the chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee.

Senator Nelson's term would have expired in 1925.

President Harding received the news of the sudden death of Senator Nelson while attending the dinner tonight of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Nelson Was Noted for Physical and Mental Strength.

Great strength—physical and mental—was the first thing that impressed one in meeting Knute Nelson, long affectionately referred to as the "Grand Old Man" of Minnesota. His physique was stocky and muscular, his head larger than that of the average man, his features cast in a strong mold. His whole personality was suggestive of unaffectedness, breadth of mind and decisiveness.

Nelson had a peculiar aptitude for statecraft, evidenced by the fact that, besides being a member of the United States Senate for more than 25 years, he was for six years in the House of Representatives, and he served in the Legislature of Wisconsin and Minnesota and twice as Governor of Minnesota. He was frankly proud of his record of never having been defeated for any office for which he became candidate. In politics he was a Republican.

Helped Pass Bankruptcy Law.

In dealing with legislative questions he was fearless in his public utterances and, in private conferences, was outspoken. One of the many laws passed largely because of his initiative and aggressiveness was the bankruptcy law, which, from his active and successful connection with it, was known as the "Nelson Cure."

Born in Voss, Norway, on Feb. 2, 1843, Knute Nelson came to the United States, with his widowed mother, when he was six years old, and they found their first American home in Chicago. Knute helped his mother by selling papers on the streets. Later they moved to Wisconsin and the youngster obtained his first schooling in Dane County, going to the academy at Albion, Wis., where he studied for three years.

Fought in Civil War.

In the Civil War Nelson entered the Fourth Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry. He served three years, taking part in the capture of Fort Jackson, St. Phillip and New Orleans, in the siege of Vicksburg and the battles of Baton Rouge, Camp Bislan and Franklin. In the fighting at Port Hudson, La., he received a wound in the thigh, the effects of which he always felt. Taken prisoner, he was kept at Port Hudson until it surrendered.

Returning to Dane County, Wis., after the war, Nelson studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1867. In 1868 he married Miss Nicholina Jacobson, at Christiania, Wis., and they moved to Alexandria, Miuu.. Five children were born, but four have died.

In Senate Since 1895.

Nelson was elected to the House of Representatives in 1883, after he had served terms in the Legislatures of both Minnesota and Wisconsin as State Senator. After six years in the lower house of Congress he retired and resumed his law practice. He was elected Governor of Minnesota in 1892 and was re-elected two years later, but resigned in 1895 to become United States senator, which office he had held since.

The home life of the Nelsons was marked by the same simplicity that chaarcterized the personality of the lawyer and statesman, as neither the Senator nor his wife cared for social activity. Mrs. Nelson, long after her husband became a national figure, adhered to old-world customs of housekeeping, among them sanded floors.

Spent Much Time in Library.

Nelson's amusements and recreations were simple. He loved to be out-of-doors, but when in the house his chief pleasure was found in his library, where he read almost daily, his favorite books being historical. The Alexandria home is on a large and well managed farm and the Senator was pleased if referred to as "Farmer Nelson." He once said he did not wish to be called statesman and that he was a "hayseed."

The first book he ever had was an old school reader for which he traded a "jag" of wood. He kept that little book all his life. Accomplished as he was in knowledge of history and the law, he was accustomed to say that his best university had been the war of the North and South and the service he saw in it.

Citizens' Safety Committee to Meet.

A meeting of the Citizens' Safety Committee of 100 has been called for 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Marquette Hotel to consider a report on reorganization of the committee. One of the objects of the proposed reorganization is to assist in obtaining strict enforcement of all traffic laws, according to E. J. Wallace, chairman.

Daughter Learns of Senator's Death From News Dispatches.

ALEXANDRIA, Minn., April 26.—Mrs. A. G. Nelson, daughter of United States Senator Knute Nelson, who died on a train while en route from Washington to Chicago after leaving Baltimore, had not received any direct word of her father's death late tonight.

Mrs. Nelson was greatly shocked at the news of the sudden death of the senator as announced in news dispatches, who was expected to return to his home within a few days. Mrs. A. G. Nelson is the only child.

RIFT BETWEEN PROSECUTOR AND PARTNER OVER MORRISON CASE

Former Says Senator Irwin, Who Signed Bond of Accused Legislator, Has Been Retained as Special Prosecutor.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—Prosecuting Attorney Haley of Cole County and his law partner, State Senator William C. Irwin, were slightly at variance here yesterday over the case of Allen D. Morrison of Green City, Mo., Democrat, Representative in the Legislature from Sullivan County, who is charged with the theft of a typewriter from the State.

Haley said residents of Sullivan County, where Irwin formerly resided, had retained Irwin to act as special prosecutor in the case, and that this was not exactly in keeping with the Senator's action in signing the common-law bond given by Morrison, when he was here Friday. At that time Haley was in St. Louis.

Senator Irwin said he had been approached in the matter, but no retainer had been paid, and he had not determined whether he would accept employment to help prosecute the charge against Morrison. He signed the bond given by Morrison, he said, because he did not want to see a former neighbor go to jail.

The warrant against Morrison was issued in connection with an investigation by Attorney-General Barrett, Haley and Harry Woodruff, Commissioner of the Permanent Seat of Government of the disappearance of seven typewriters, an adding machine, 21 desk lamps and other property, all owned by the State, from the State Capitol, coincident with the close of the Legislature about March 24.

State Senator Tillman W. Anderson of Commerce, Mo., is under bond of $1000 on a charge of theft of an adding machine. His trial is set for June 18.

PLAINTIFF ASKS VENUE CHANGE

Suing City for $10,000, Fears Prejudice on Part of Taxpaying Jurors.

Alleging he cannot get trial in St. Louis because he is suing the city for $10,000 damages, Octavius D. Poole yesterday applied in the Circuit Court for a change of venue to some other jurisdiction in the State. He avers that on account of the Judge and jurors being taxpayers they would hesitate to render a judgment in his favor against the city. Poole, in his suit, avers he suffered a concussion of the brain Aug. 9, last, as result of being run down by a city automobile driven by Ernest Paffrath, a city engineer.

The accident happened at Spring and Gravois avenue just after Poole had alighted from a street car. He alleges careless driving on the part of Paffrath, who is named as co-defendant. The change of venue application will be decided by Judge Hall.

47 MEN, 5 WOMEN, SENTENCED IN GARY LIQUOR RING CASE

Stiffest Punishment Meted Out to Mayor, Who Receives Year and Six Months in Prison.

OTHER OFFICIALS AMONG DEFENDANTS

Former Sheriff, Judge and City Attorney Get Penitentiary Terms and Fines of $1000.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 28.—The final step toward breaking up an alleged liquor ring which had as its leaders a number of officials of Gary and Lake County, Ind., was taken in the United States District Court today, with the sentencing of 52 men and women to jail and prison. They were convicted by a jury on March 31, following a trial at which Government witnesses testified that protection was given liquor law violators by political leaders in return for assistance at the polls.

Stories of grafting from liquor dealers also were told. Sentences ranged from one day to a year and a half. Fines as high as $2000 also were assessed.

Mayor Gets Stiffest Sentence.

Roswell C. Johnson, Mayor of Gary, received the stiffest sentence—a year and six months at the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., and a fine of $2000. Sentences of a year and a day were given to Lewis Barnes, formerly Sheriff of Lake County, and now chairman of the Gary Board of Public Works; William M. Dunn, Judge of the Gary City Court until after his conviction, and Blaz. A Lucas, City Attorney. They were also fined $1000.

Judge Geiger divided the defendants into groups for receiving sentences as follows: First, dealers who sold liquor; second, those whose soft drink establishments, pool rooms and cabarets ran more openly in violation of the law; third, outsiders, including policemen and constables and attorneys, and fourth, public officers and former public officers.

Sentencing of the defendants followed the denial of new trials to all but three of 40 applicants. Those who will be re-tried are William H. Olds, Sheriff of Lake County; Fred Sebright, formerly a deputy Prosecuting Attorney, and Charles L. Clemens, a Gary justice of the peace. Judge Geiger ordered the verdict of guilty in these three cases vacated.

75 Named in Indictment.

Seventy-five persons were named in the indictment when it was returned by the Federal grand jury shortly after the Christmas holidays. Of this number 55 were declared guilty and seven not guilty by a jury in Federal Court; seven have not been arrested; five pleaded guilty, and the charge against one was nol prossed on motion of the Government. Disclosures made in other liquor cases in United States District Court here in 1921 resulted in the indictment against 75 residents of Gary and Lake County charging conspiracy to violate the Volstead act. Prominent Gary and Lake County officials were among those named. Among the defendants was Agnes Szabo, 19, whose operation as a transporter of intoxicating liquor between Chicago, Gary and South Bend had won her the title of "Queen of the Bootleggers."

Others Sentenced.

Other prominent Gary and Lake County persons among those sentenced follow:

Clyde Hunter, former Prosecuting Attorney, one year and a day in prison and a fine of $1000.

Dwight M. Kinder, Prosecuting Attorney, one year and a day in prison and a fine of $1000.

Five women were among those sentenced. One, May Russell, who had pleaded guilty, did not appear. Mary Allen and Velma Jones, each received a sentence of 80 days in jail. Jennie Miller was given three months and a fine of $200, while Pauline Schultz was given three months and a fine of $300.

Prior to the passing of sentences, four defendants announced they would appeal their cases. Those who announced they would take such action are Mayor Johnson, Hunter, Lucas and Nathan Potts, a Gary detective.

The trial of the convicted men and women was one of the most sensational in years in Indiana. On the eve of the trial a prosecuting witness was killed and during the course of the trial both the District Attorney and Judge Geiger received threatening letters.

Truce at Herrin Myth, Says Union Leader; 'Met Bullets Instead of a White Flag'

Fox Hughes, Miner Chief, Refutes Testimony Before Legislative Inquiry That McDowell Agreed to Cease Firing and Closed Shaft.

By the Associated Press.

MARION, Ill., April 28.—The mystery surrounding the failure of a truce arranged the night before the Herrin riots was explained by Fox Hughes, mine union leader, today at an executive session of the Legislative Investigation Committee, which then adjourned to meet here again Monday morning.

Previous witnesses testified that through the efforts of Col. Sam Hunter, personnel officer on the staff of Adjutant-General Carlos Black, and Marion business men, W. J. Lester agreed to close down his mine which he had been operating with nonunion labor.

This was on Wednesday afternoon after one of the mine trucks had been beset and three of its occupants shot and after three union miners had been shot at the mine and while the mine itself was surrounded and under attack.

Witnesses testified that Hunter telephoned to C. K. McDowell, superintendent at the mine, and he agreed to cease firing and raise the white flag when informed that Lester was willing to close the mine.

Hunter then, according to previous testimony, talked to Hughes at the miners' headquarters in Herrin, told him Lester had agreed to close the mine and that the defenders had raised a white flag. "Col. Hunter called the miners' headquarters at about 6 o'clock that day and asked for William Sneed, president of the sub-district and a State Senator, or Hugh Willis, State executive board, member of the Illinois mine workers," Hughes testified. "I told him that Sneed had gone back to Springfield and that Willis had just stepped out and he said he had arranged to have the men at the mine hoist a white flag and close down the mine and said we ought to do what we could to stop the trouble, I agreed with him.

"Then I put a white rag to use as a flag of truce in my shirt and started to the mine in an automobile. I got out at Crenshaw crossing and walked to the mine. I did not see any white flag, but heard shots, and bullets whizzed past my head.

"So I returned to town. I did not see Willis and did nothing further because I heard Willis had already started to Marion to confer with Col. Hunter. I did not know anything about an agreement to take the men out of the mine the next morning."

Disagree Regarding Time.

Other witnesses testified that Hunter had telephoned to Black at Springfield the same day that hardware stores had been raided and arms seized, that several union miners had been shot and that the mine was then being attacked. At 11 o'clock that night, after a conference with Delos Duty, State's Attorney; Hugh Willes, Melvin Thaxton, Sheriff of the county, and Circuit Judge D. T. Hartwell, Hunter, according to the testimony, telephoned to Gen. Black that a truce had been arranged and troops would not be needed.

It was agreed at this conference that Hunter, the Sheriff and Willis would go out to the mine the next morning early and see that the truce was carried out, but witnesses disagreed as to the time fixed for the meeting.

Maj. Robert Davis of Carbondale said they were to meet at the Sheriff's office at 6 o'clock, but the Sheriff did not arrive until about 8 and when they reached the mine an hour later the nonunion workers there had surrendered. Twenty-three of them were later shot down.

Six police officers from Marion and Herrin also testified during the day and were severely criticised by members of the committee for their confessed inactivity.

Jacob Jones, a Herrin policeman, testified that he had heard of the raiding of the hardware stores the day before the slayings.

"What did you do about it?"

"Nothing."

"It Wasn't My Business."

"Is the raiding of a store and the taking of guns considered a crime in Herrin?"

"I don't think so in this case, as the proprietors just let them have the guns."

"Why didn't you do something?"

"It wasn't any of my business."

"Did you do anything to try to find out who committed these murders?"

"No, sir."

"Well, I can't understand why they don't jail all the policemen in the town," said Representative H. H. Pierce. "They all should have been indicted for complicity in the murders."

Richard Saddler, night Police Chief at Herrin, also said that he did not consider that he had any authority to investigate the killings.

"Suppose I had asked somebody about them and they had told me it was none of my business?" he said.

"I suppose if they had told you that you would have believed it," Representative M. L. Igoe declared.

Denies Watching Mob.

Robert Herrin, Chief of Police in Herrin at the time of the riots, but now a coal miner, denied that he had watched the mob march six prisoners through Herrin to a cemetery, where they were shot down, as was testified by a witness at the first murder trial resulting from the wounded victims and that the only inquiry he had made was to "talk to some people" whom he could not name. He testified that he did not recognize anyone when he went to the cemetery to bring back the bodies.

"Isn't that a lie?" demanded Representative Pierce.

Representative M. P. Rice protested, declaring that he thought the witnesses should receive better treatment and that he did not want the impression to go out that the question represented the sentiments of the entire committee.

MAGNETIC IRON ORE DISCOVERY SOLVES MYSTERY IN RUSSIA

Soviet Expedition Finds Important Deposits Which for 50 Years Caused Compasses to Swerve.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 28.—A scientific expedition financed by the Government has solved a mystery of 50 years' standing by its discovery in Kursk of a magnetic iron ore field. The ore was found at a depth of 600 feet and in such quantity as to arouse the hope that it may develop into one of the world's largest fields.

About 50 years ago it was noted that compasses used in Kursk, instead of pointing directly to the north magnetic pole, swerved as much as 15 degrees toward an indefinable stretch of territory. The presence of magnetic ore was agreed to be the cause, but hundreds of borings failed to locate it.

The soviet expedition was sent at the instance of Premier Lenine and was headed by Professors Lazarov, Gubkin and Archangelsky. They found the ore after six months' work in the vicinity of the provincial town of Tchigri. The ore sent here assays from 50 to 75 per cent pure magnetic iron. Researches indicate that the ore field is 250 kilometers long and from one to two kilometers wide, varying in depth from 500 to 800 feet.

BARS IN SEVERAL CELLS AT WORKHOUSE FOUND SAWED

Discovery Made by Representative of all Construction Company.

Partly sawed bars in several cells at the City Workhouse where 18 prisoners attempted to escape early Friday morning, and six of them were wounded by a guard, were discovered yesterday in an inspection that was begun by a representative of a jail construction company. Inmates of the cells denied that they had tampered with the bars. They were removed to other cells.

In cell No. 15, occupied by William (Dagger Bill) Loubis, serving three months, who is said to be wanted in Canada, three bars were sawed through at the top and partly through at the bottom. Two bars in cell No. 48 and a bar of cell No. 26 were also found to have been partly sawed.

In an areaway separating the negroes from the white prisoners, were found two keys, one fitting the prison library and the other a master cell lever, and a bundle of used hacksaws, which are presumed to have been used recently on the bars.

Two bars in another cell had been sawed entirely through and were held in place by gum. A guard who leaned against them discovered that they had been sawed.

A thorough inspection of each bar in the cellhouses will be made by the jail construction company's representative.

PRINCE OF WALES UNVEILS MONUMENT TO BELGIANS

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, April 28.—In the presence of the King and Queen of the Belgians, Cardinal Mercier, Field Marshal Haig and a great concourse of people, the Prince of Wales unveiled the monument erected by the British people in recognition of assistance rendered by the Belgians during the World War.

In presenting the memorial to the King, the Prince said it was given by the British nation as a symbol of its unchanging gratitude toward all those who succored Britain's prisoners of war and soldiers in distress. He referred to the strong bonds existing between the two peoples and said the friendship of the past would stand in the future.

King Albert tonight gave a great state banquet in honor of the Prince of Wales.

CONSULS' DEPARTURE DUE TO SOVIET ORDER

State Department Did Not Instruct Agents to Leave Siberia, It Is Explained.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—S. Pinkley Tuck, American Consul at Vladivostok, and the three vice consuls serving under him, are leaving the Siberian district because all foreign Consuls were ordered out, effective some time in May.

This is the real reason for the departure of Tuck and Vice Consuls Charles H. Stephan, Frederick [illegible] Pray and Millard L. Thomas. While administration officials have been greatly shocked over the recent execution of church dignitaries by the soviet government, the orders sent to Consul Tuck were not the result of that develpment.

Some time ago the Moscow authorities ordered all foreign Consuls out of Siberia except the American and British. The consular representatives of 10 foreign Governments were involved. Subsequently the American and British representatives were included in the order.

The State Department determined not to wait until May 15, but to withdraw Tuck and his associates May 1. The understanding here is that consular records and other movable property already have been shipped to Tokio, where Tuck and the three Vice-Consuls have been directed to await orders.

Meanwhile Boris Skvirsky, formerly representative of the Far Eastern Republic here, who remained after the Chita Government was absorbed by Moscow, has strongly urged the soviet authorities to rescind their action as to the American consular officers in Siberia. If this should be done there is a possibility that Tuck will be ordered to remain at Vladivostok, since he is the only source of official information in Russian territory. Otherwise Skvirsky probably will have to leave. If Tuck is permitted to remain it will be with the distinct understanding that no question of official recognition of Moscow is involved.

SUPREME COURT'S TREND IN ZONING CASES INDICATED

Validity of Kansas City Ordinance Sustained by Decision in Banc—Condemnation Right Included.

HAS BEARING ON ST. LOUIS LITIGATION

Two Cases, However, Vary Widely in Means by Which Restricted Districts Are to Be Established.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—Some light on the probable fate of the St. Louis zoning ordinance, which is under attack in three cases before the State Supreme Court in banc, all of which will be argued or reargued May 9, may be gleaned from decision of the court in banc today sustaining the validity of a zoning ordinance in Kansas City.

In that case, which was instituted by Fred Liebl and others to prevent the formation of a restricted residence district in the Gladstone boulevard section of Kansas City, the court held that Kansas City had the right to form benefit districts, condemn all the land within them, restrict its use and then assess benefits and damages as the various land was enhanced or depreciated in value by the operation.

Provisions in Kansas City Case.

In this instance the ordinance establishing the district provided that all of the buildings in it must be used for residential purposes or as appurtenances thereto, and specifically barred the erection of bill boards and gasoline filling stations. Liebl and his associates moved to dismiss the condemnation proceedings in Circuit Court, wherein they were sustained. The Supreme Court, however, in an opinion by Judge White, in which Chief Justice Woodson and Judges Graves, James T. Blair and Ragland concurred, reversed the ruling of the Circuit Court and ordered the case remanded for new action.

The St. Louis and Kansas City cases vary widely, in that the Kansas City ordinance provided for zoning by condemnation, in which property owners, whose holdings are depreciated in value by restrictions on the districts in which it is located, are compensated by those whose property benefits from the restrictions.

Police Power Invoked.

In St. Louis, however, it has been sought to zone under the very broad police power, which in such application is the "power to restrict the right of private property for general good without compensation for restricted" as a prominent Missouri jurist has said.

This same jurist has pointed out that "a building may be burning in the center of a big block of buildings. Under the police power the structure may be torn down to protect the other property because such is for the general public good. This is under the rule of necessity, it is the police power in one phase or other. Of such also are quarantine laws."

In the White opinion in the Liebl case, it was held that the taking of private property in establishing restricted districts, constitutes "public use" and not private use as all opponents of zoning have contended. In this connection Judge White pointed to a decision by the United States Supreme Court in which a Boston ordinance, limiting the height of buildings in certain parts of the city, was upheld as constitutional. This point bears on the St. Louis cases.

Trend of Thought.

Another thing of deep importance in the St. Louis cases is the trend of thought of the Judges of the court, as shown by their division in the Liebl case.

In the original zoning case before the court, in which St. Louis junk dealers attacked the St. Louis ordinance in what is known as the Evraiff case, Division No. 2 of the court, composed then of Judges Higbee, who wrote the opinion, Walker and David E. Blair, unanimously held that the St. Louis ordinance was in conflict with the State and Federal Constitutions and was invalid for a number of other reasons. The court also in a four to three opinion last December held the Kansas City ordinance, sustained today, to be unconstitutional.

The complexion of the court changed considerably Jan. 1 last, Judges Conway Elder of St. Louis and Higbee retiring in favor of Judges White and Ragland. Kansas City zoning advocates then asked for re-argument of the Liebl case and the Evraiff case meanwhile had been transferred to the court in banc.

In the Liebl case today Judges Walker and David E. Blair stood by the guns they have manned against zoning from the start, whereas the other five members of the court took a favorable view of the question.

The Evraiff case will be reargued for the benefit of the two new Judges of the court and the other two cases which have been filed more recently will be argued for the first time May 9.

Bakule Chorus Arrives to Sing Here Two Days

Twenty-Four Girls and 11 Boys From Prague Will Greet Mayor and Give Concerts Monday and Tuesday Under American Red Cross Auspices.

The Bakule chorus of 35 children who are singing their gratitude to America for aid to starving children of Czecho-Slovakia, arrived in St. Louis last night to remain over Tuesday.

A large gathering of St. Louis Czechs enfolded the youngsters at Union Station and lionized them and carried them off in automobiles to the Hamilton Hotel, which is in proximity to the setting of the chief event of their stay, a public concert in the Pershing theater tomorrow night.

Twenty-four are girls and 11 boys—the girls quite American with uniformly bobbed hair and gray Norfolk jackets resembling those of Girl Scouts in pattern. The boys look little old men in long trousers.

Will Sing Mayor a Song.

Their stay in St. Louis will be a busy one. First of all, tomorrow at 11:30 a. m. they will go to the city hall to greet the Mayor and sing him a song, a formality they insist upon in every city visited. At noon they will be guests of the Missouri School of Occupational Therapy at its annual luncheon in Hotel Statler. This is because of the presence in the party of seven crippled children and youths who are accompanying the chorus to demonstrate the accomplishments of their leader. Prof. Frantisec Hukule, whose school for crippled children in Prague is credited with miracle-like accomplishments.

The crippled group will give a demonstration from 3 to 5 p. m. in Hotel Chase and at 8:15 p. m., the chorus will appear in its concert. The same group will give a demonstration in the Webster Groves schools Tuesday at 9 a. m. and will repeat before the staff of the Washington University School of Medicine at 11:30 a. m. in the medical school adultorium, Scott and Euclid avenues.

Concert at 4 P. M. Tomorrow.

The children will give a free demonstration for school children and will repeat their concert in the Pershing Theater at 4 p. m.

Today the children are guests of the St. Louis Czechs who will drive them about the city and give them a reception in Bohemian Hall, 1701 Allen avenue.

Their American tour is under the auspices of the American Red Cross and their St. Louis visit under the auspices of the St. Louis chapter of that organization.

bring the total to approximately $15,000.

In his decision the Court said Purnell "for his own protection and to prevent disclosures by investigations conducted by public officials as to evil practices attributed to him, has claimeddivine character and has deliberately and systematically taught utterance of falsehoods and the commission of perjury" on the part of his followers.

Grand Jury Inquiry.

Trial of the suit several weeks ago brought charges of immorality against Purnell and these charges resulted in quo warranto proceedings in the Ingham County Court at Lansing as a step toward possible disbanding of the cult, and the present grand jury investigation of the organization now under way at St. Joseph.

At the Grand Rapids trial, attorneys for the colony attempted to show Hansel had been engaged in attempts to disaffect members of the colony with the idea of starting a rival cult. Hansel declared he and his wife were ousted from the colony earl yone morning in 1920, hurried early one morning in 1920, hurried aboard a train for Tennessee.

The Hansels were members of the House of David colony from 1912 to 1920, inclusive.

Purnell has been missing since Christmas time. He has been reported variously as hiding in Canada and Australia, while rumors that he is dead have been circulated.

Colony's Appeal Against Dissolution Proceedings Denied.

By the Associated Press.

LANSING, Mich., April 28.—The last hope of the House of David colony of Benton Harbor to prevent the State from taking steps to bring about its dissolution has been dissipated. The Michigan Supreme Court, in an opinion last night, denied the appeal of the colony from the Ingham Circuit Court to dismiss the proceedings.

As a result, Circuit Judge Leland Carr, of this district, will set a date when the colony must file an answer to charges of fraud, decent and immorality preferred by the State. Following the filing of the answer, hearings will be held at which the colony would show cause why it should not be disbanded.

The State, it has been intimated, will seek to throw the cult into the hands of a receiver, pending outcome of the quo warranto proceedings.

WITNESS AT INQUIRY INTO AUDITOR'S OFFICE OUSTED

Harry E. Jackson Receives Notice of Dismissal From Bookkeeping Job Under Hackmann.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—Harry E. Jackson of Carthage, for two years a bookkeeper in the office of State Auditor George E. Hackmann, has been notified by Hackmann of his discharge, effective April 30.

It is recalled that Jackson was one of the principal witnesses in the investigation of affairs in Hackmann's office by a senatorial committee during the recent session of the Legislature. Jackson told the committee that he was required to give Hackmann a portion of the salary paid to Jackson's daughter by the State for two months, during which she was employed in Hackmann's office, in 1921.

Jackson said he was granted a vacation of two weeks recently, and while at his home in Carthage received a letter from Hackmann announcing his dismissal. No reason was given, Jackson said. Hackmann today told the Post-Dispatch correspondent "no explanation is necessary." Jackson is here, and is understood to have another State position.

INQUIRY INTO REPORTED DEATH OF WOMAN AT COLONY TWO YEARS AGO

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich, April 28.—SHERIFF GEORGE C. BRIDGMAN and State Police today began an investigation into a report concerning the death two years ago of a woman whose body was taken from the House of David and is alleged to have borne marks of violence about the neck. The body, it is reported, was buried in Crystal Springs Cemetery. It is said the body was placed nude in a rough wooden box and covered only with some wrapping paper.

Rumors concerning the woman's death said to have come from some one in the colony two weeks ago. The body, according to reports reaching the Sheriff, was given to an undertaker in Benton aHrbor who prepared it for burial. The man who dug the grave and covered the box is said to have told officers that the cover of the box fell off, revealing the corpse while it was being lowered in the grave. He is said to have declared he drove the nails "back in," with his shovel.

The investigation has not yet revealed the identity of the woman or the place of burial. When found, the body will be exhumed and an effort made to determine whether death was natural, the Sheriff said.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN WEDS WEALTHY CATTLE DEALER

Mrs. Emma L. Godair Married to Former Chairman of Oklahoma Republican Committee.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 28.—Mrs. Emma L. Godair, 50 years old, of St. Louis, and S. G. Victor, 55, of Afton, Ok., Republican politician and wealthy cattle dealer, were married here this afternoon in the First Christian Church.

Mrs. Godair is the widow of Arthur G. Godair, St. Louis livestock commission dealer, who was killed in St. Louis in March, 1913, when a taxicab in which he was riding collided with a street car. Victor had been a friend of Godair for several years and frequently visited at the Godair home.

Victor was United States Marshal of the Eastern District of Oklahoma from 1907 to 1913, and formerly was chairman of the Oklahoma Republican State Committee. He was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1916.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor will make a honeymoon trip to Chicago and then go to Afton to reside.

The former Mrs. Godair resided at the Windermere Hotel until last week.

Considerable litigation arose over Godair's will, which left the larger part of his estate to his private secretary, Miss Irene A. Gormley of East St. Louis. The case was settled out of court, partly through the efforts of Godair's father, the late William H. Godair, a Chicago millionaire.

Wounded Man Withholds Name.

A man, who refused to give his name, was found at Tower Grove and Hunt avenues shortly after last midnight with a knife wound in the abdomen. He is about 30 years old. To all inquiries he replied the affair was no one's business and he would rectify the matter when he recovered. His condition is serious. He was taken to the City Hospital.

LATIN AMERICA TRUSTS U. S., SAYS CHILEAN ENVOY

Ambassador, in Banquet Speech, Tells How the Hostile Sentiment of Recent Years Was Dispelled.

CITES "BUGBEAR OF YANKEE IMPERIALISM"

Society of International Law Requests Council to Ascertain Views of Members on World Court.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The American Society of International Law ended its convention here today without taking specific action on the question of United States jurisdiction beyond the three-mile limit in fighting rum runners, or on the Permanent Court of International Justice—two problems that have commanded major attention.

A dinner, at which Ambassadors Mathieu of Chile and Hanihara of Japan delivered addresses, was given by the society tonight.

On the question of the International Court, discussed in detail last night by Secretary Hughes, a resolution was referred to the Executive Council with a request that it ascertain and make public the opinions of the society's members. The council today instructed Elihu Root, the president, who with other officers was reelected, to set in motion measures to comply with the resolution, which was introduced by Frederic R. Coudert of New York, a supporter of the administration's plan for American participation in the court.

Ambassador Mathieu discussed the Monroe Doctrine and related the steps taken by the United States in the last few years to promote pan-American accord.

Anti-American Sentiment.

"I will not attempt to conceal," he said, "that there existed, in not a very remote past, a certain anti-American sentiment that had become inflamed in some quarters to the point of conjuring up the bugbear of Yankee imperialism. The Monroe Doctrine itself, which had served as a policy of insurance for the new republics during their emancipation, became so obscure in meaning and distorted in form that instead of being a principle of national preservation, it was converted into a declaration of hegemony and guardianship over all the free nations on the American continent.

"This distortion having been exploited by foreign interests, fomented by patriotic but misinformed writers and aggravated by minor incidents, carelessly explained or but little understood, it was only natural that it should produce an impression upon a proud people and eventually create a feeling of mistrust, which the weak always experience in the presence of the strong.

"Cloudless Confidence Reborn."

"But meanwhile, men have spoken, and a cloudless confidence has been reborn among us. President Wilson spoke with that accent of profound conviction and apostolic unction which characterized his addresses. President Harding has spoken and shown himself to be a frank exponent of a policy of disinterestedness and generous and free co-operation. Secretaries of State Root and Hughes went into South America speaking authoritatively for the United States. I can, at least, permit myself to quote from Mr. Hughes' great speech at the Brazilian capital:

" 'We have our domestic problems incident to the expanding life of a free people, but there is no imperialistic sentiment among us to cast even a shadow across the pathway of our progress. We covet no territory; we seek no conquest; the liberty we cherish for ourselves we desire for others; and we assert no rights for ourselves that we do not accord to others.'

"That, I say, is the language of a statesman; that is the policy of a powerful nation that concerns itself more with making itself loved for its justice than feared for its power.

"Where, then, is the bugbear of Yankee imperialism and the sibylline oracle of the Monroe Doctrine Thank God, our republics can live secure in that regard and take their part, to the full measure of their powers in the rational, human and generous policy of co-operation."

CLARKE ANSWERS 2 OBJECTIONS TO LEAGUE COVENANT

Former Supreme Justice Says Article X, as Intrepreted by Assembly, Is Monroe Doctrine in New Form.

INDORSES HARDING'S WORLD COURT PLAN

Characterizes Objection on Ground of Britain's Six Electoral Votes as Unworthy Assumption of Corruption.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 28.—The present apparent prosperity is sporadic and cannot be permanent until the European markets are restored to the American farmers, John H. Clarke, former Justice of the United States Supreme Court and proponent of the League of Nations, said in an address here tonight.

In praising the league and indorsing President Harding's proposal for American participation in the World Court of Justice, he declared isolation was impossible for the United States, with responsibility for the Philippines, the Panama Canal, its great commerce and the "open door" in Asia and Africa.

He expressed the opinion that the proposed reservations to the court protocol would meet the objection of some persons that to join the World Court would "carry us into the League of Nations." A second objection that has been made, he said, was that Great Britain would have a greater voice than the United States in the election of Judges. Of this he said:

"The objection is that Great Britain would have six votes in the election of judges of the court to our one. This objection rests wholly upon the base, unworthy assumption that the representatives of the friendly British commonwealths would corruptly combine with the mother country in an attempt to corruptly elect corrupt judges to render corrupt decisions — for this is what the insinuation really means.

How Judges Are Named.

He explained that the judges must be nominated by the representatives of the various nations in The Hague tribunal, of which the United States long has been a member, and must be elected by a clear majority in both the Council and the Assembly of the League.

"Has America no friends in the world upon which it could rely for union against such an assault upon the integrity of the court, if Great Britain and her associates were corrupt enough to make it?" asked the speaker.

"Of one thing we may be sure, that if we cultivate such international suspicions and bad manners as are implied in this objection to the court, we shall soon be as friendless as Germany was in 1914."

Answers Objections to League.

Of the objections to American participation in the League of Nations, he said, only two survive—article 10 and the six votes of the British Empire in the assembly.

"It is no longer necessary to consider article 10," he said, "because the assembly construed it to mean that no state could be required to go to the assistance of another except in the same part of the world, meaning on the same continent, in which occasion for war should arise, and this is simply our old friend, the Monroe Doctrine, with a new face."

He added that the United States in joining the league could remove all doubt by a single sentence interpreting article 10 as being subject to the constitutional limitation that only Congress shall declare war.

He said that while Great Britain has six votes in the assembly, that body is chiefly one of discussion, whereas in the council of the league Great Britain has but one vote and the United States, if a member, would have one. As unanimity is required on all important matters, each nation would possess a veto on the other.

Senate May Alter World Court Plan, Lodge Says

are in full accord. I certainly am.

"Nothing would have ever induced me to have voted for the covenant of the League of Nations, which Mr. Wilson laid before the Senate on July 10, 1919. But I voted twice in favor of the treaty with the reservations adopted by the Senate. As I have watched during the past three years the performances and futilities of the League of Nations, I have become convinced that it was fortunate that the Senate rejected it and that it is best for the world, for the cause of the world peace and for the American people, that the United States should not under any circumstances become a member of the League.

Equality of Representation.

"In the plan now before us, the Permanent Court of International Justice is not to be formed by the nations independently, but is to be the court already elected by the council and assembly of the League of Nations, and this fact, as is already obvious, will lead to much discussion and it will have to be determined whether the Senate will assent to accepting the court as proposed and chosen by the League.

"The secretary of State in his letter accompanying the President's message recommending our participation in the court, proposed certain conditions to be appended to the resolution to be passed by the Senate in giving their advice and consent to the signature of the protocol or statute regarding the international court. This condition must include a declaration of the refusal of the United States to join the League of Nations, and second a declaration that the United States shall have an equality of representation, both in the council and in the assembly in voting for the election of the Judge of the court. These two suggestions of the secretary of state are vitally important.

Senate May Propose Reservations.

"It will be the duty of the Senate, therefore, to frame conditions under the first two suggestions of the Secretary of State and it also may be assumed that the Senate may very possibly originate and propose other conditions. What the attitude of the Senate will be upon the question of joining a court elected by the council and assembly of the League of Nations or upon certain specified conditions or reservations is at present necessarily unknown; that is, the decision of the Senate as to our participation in the League court or as to the form of the advice and consent to be given cannot in the nature of things be determined at this time.

"It so happens that I am chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, and occupying that position, I do not feel willing nor do I think it would be becoming or suitable for me to attempt to anticipate or predict the action of the Senate when it has an opportunity to discuss the President's recommendation and request which it has not yet had because the President's message only reached the Senate four days before the adjournment of the last Congress.

For Harding's Renomination.

"As always, I most earnestly desire the success of the Republican party, and am equally desirous that President Harding should be renominated and re-elected, and when the subject of the League Court has been fully discussed and considered, I hope and believe that a satisfactory adjustment will be reached. If I were now to discuss the questions which I have indicated as to the League Court and as arising under the suggestions of the Secretary of State, what I said might be easily misconstrued and regarded as an effort to forestall or forecast the action of the Senate, which I have neither the right nor the authority to undertake."

U. S. Isolation Near End, Cecil Asserts

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Convinced that the American people have accepted the view "that isolation was an impracticable ideal, if it was an ideal, and that some attempt must be made to answer the great question of, what we are going to do" about international co-operation, Lord Robert Cecil sailed today on the liner Olympic.

Lord Robert said his tour had convinced him that Americans, "from Main street to Wall street," were interested in the league, even though all were not converts.

In his farewell address last night Lord Robert made it clear that he does not "suggest for a moment that they accept the League of Nations," but added that the American people will devise some method for helping Europe out of its trouble. This was the impression he gathered in his four weeks' tour of the country, under the auspices of the Foreign Policy Association, he said.

"Sailing with him are Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., and Mrs. Lamont, whose guest he was, and James D. McDonald, chairman of the Foreign Policy Association.

To the Economic Club, whose members heard his final discussion of the league, Lord Robert said he had received in this country no suggestion of a plan preferable to the league for preventing wars.

"Has anything been said to me," he asked, "which shows a real alternative, something which will do as well, about which I can go back to Europe and say, 'you are all wrong; the right plan is something quite different from your league. Abandon that and take up some new plan?' Well, honestly, I cannot say that the suggestion reached that point."

John H. Clarke of Youngstown, O., president of the League of Nations Nonpartisan Association, has accepted an invitation from the St. Louis branch of that association to be its guest at dinner Thursday evening, at the Buckingham Hotel. Hundreds of invitations to the dinner were mailed yesterday to men and women of both parties known or believed to be friendly either to the League of Nations, as a whole, or to the Court of International Justice. The acceptances re to be sent to Mrs. Philip N. Moore. The dinner is to be informal and is set for 7 o'clock.

WILL PROTECT MAJOR TERMINALS IN STATE

Missouri Service Commission States Position as to Proposed Railway Regrouping.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—The Missouri Public Service Commission, which will participate in a hearing by the Interstate Commerce Commission beginning Monday at St. Louis on the proposed regrouping of the railway systems of the country, gave out a statement here today in which its position upon that question was declared to be as follows:

"We shall lend every aid to the Interstate Commerce Commission in arriving at the best conclusion possible,, but have no desire to place barriers before the commission in complying with the mandate or the statute. We desire to aid, not to hinder, a proper solution of the questions involved for the common and the highest good of the man who pays the freight. To that end we will lend our full support."

The commission discussed the regrouping as it affects Missouri, as follow: "The groupings made by the Interstate Commerce Commission offect the interests of Missouri as a whole in so far as they might eliminate competition between existing lines and change present channels of traffic. We believe that the Interstate Commerce Commission should give further careful consideration to some of the groupings so as wholly to preserve the present major terminal facilities, and likewise should rearrange those groupings that might materially destroy effective competition now existing. In fact, this is the mandate of the statute.

"As stated by Commissioner Hall of the Interstate Commerce Commission at the hearings at Kansas City, there is no intention, and the statute would seem to forbid such consolidation of railroads as to destroy or to hinder the growth of any of the established industries located at Kansas City, St. Louis or any of our other industrial centers. Such an effect would indeed be harmful. The groupings contained in the tentative plan fairly well preserve the competing lines between Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago. The tentative plan as submitted gives to Missouri seven competing groups of railroads. It appears, however, that in some of these groups competition now existing between lines extending into the Southwest and in some of the other groups serving Missouri cities and their territories would be eliminated to a certain extent. Our commission will endeavor to present evidence to the Interstate Commerce Commission pointing this out and requesting that the same be remedied As to the detail of what such evidence will be we shall have to await the presentation thereof."

DRASTIC CAMPAIGN TO 'DRY UP' U. S.; GOVERNMENT PLAN

Unless Barred by Ruling of Department of Justice, Auxiliary Fleet of Navy Will Attack Rum Fleet.

CHARGES OF GRAFT TO BE INVESTIGATED

Woman Assistant to Attorney-General Will Determine Whether Naval Vessels May Be Used.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Startled by reports of piracy and murder on the high seas, and by stories of killings growing out of prohibition enforcement measures; by charges of graft and collusion inside the prohibition service, the Federal Government has decided to throw every ounce of power it has in the scale of enforcement of the liquor laws.

Unless barred by an adverse opinion from the Department of Justice, the auxiliary fleet of the United States navy will be massed to repel smugglers and control the activities of lawless rum-runners on the waters, while special agencies of the Government will undertake to dam the flow of liquor from Canada across the northern border and via the Great Lakes.

While these steps are being taken, the "super-intelligence" department of the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue will be marshalled to investigate graft charges and find out how brazenly violators of the liquor law work through collusion with the men charged with enforcing the Volstead act.

Last Word Up to McCarl.

The appeal of the Government to the Department of Justice for a ruling on its power to use appropriations made by Congress for the navy for purposes of civil law enforcement may run counter to decisions reached by J. R. McCarl, Comptroller General, whose power is above that of the Department of Justice, and has been placed beyond that of the President through immunity granted him of removal from office by the executive. McCarl, it is admitted, will have the last word in this decision.

The Government's request for a ruling on its right to declare an "emergency" and to divert funds for the support of the fleet in the rum war, has been turned over to Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General, with instructions to determine the law. Mrs. Willebrandt intimated today the investigation might require two or three weeks for its completion.

Details of the manner in which the fleet will be operated are being worked out in advance of the confidently expected favorable opinion. The naval officer assigned the task will have charge, it is expected, of the subsidiary vessels of the prohibition unit, with full power to co-ordinate all activities.

Drastic Steps Along Border.

E. C. Yellowley, former prohibition director for New York, has been stationed at Detroit, with instructions to direct the war against the Canadian liquor flow across the Great Lakes, while drastic steps are being taken to protect the border west of the Great Lakes and on the Pacific Coast from Canada, where liquor is being smuggled into the United States by way of automobiles and by coastwise shipping on the Pacific seaboard.

While the State Department has made a request to Great Britain for co-operation in keeping illicit liquor out of the United States, little aid is expected from this quarter, and the Government is preparing to rely mostly upon its own agencies. One decision reached is that the rum war fleet will operate within the three-mile limit and will direct its energies off the New Jersey coast, in and about Long Island and near the gulf ports in order to stop the flow from Cuba and the Bahamas getting in through gulf approaches.

The decision of the Federal Government to utilize all its power in stopping the rum traffic is the result of a constantly accumulating toll of deaths and scandals which are increasing. Thirty-three dry agents are reported to have been killed in the performance of their duty, while the number of deaths growing out of bootlegging episodes make the situations used in "Nick Carter" stories and in the sea yarns of Capt. Maryatt look tame.

I. W. W. STRIKE TOTAL PUT AT 10,000 TO 20,000

More Men Walk Out in Pacific Coast States—Militiamen Are Ready for Duty in Oregon.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—The general strike of the Industrial Workers of the World resulted in additional men walking out today in Pacific Coast states. Oregon reported a camp at the Dalles shut down.

Estimates as to the number of men on strike in Washington as reported by employers were that 10,000 had responded to the strike call, but the I. W. W. headquarters said the number was between 20,000 and 30,000.

Waterfront employers in Seattle say the strike of the marine workers has produced no noticeable effect. The leaders of the strike said it was spreading in Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho lumber camps.

In California few reports were received. The strike is more effective in the lumber camps than on the waterfront of the cities, it was stated.

Ship Owners at New York Report Marine Strike Broken.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Ship owners reported today that the backbone of the I. W. W. marine workers' strike at this port had been broken, having failed to interrupt or seriously delay scheduled sailings of ocean passenger liners. Officials of the strikers' union declared they were still confident of success.

Today, with its usual heavy week-end sailings, was looked upon as a test of the strike. A score of trans-Atlantic shipwise liners left port and almost without exception they departed on schedule. While walkouts threatened to cause delays, the Marine Relief Association provided men for engine crews that were short-handed.

BRYAN SUGGESTS DANIELS AS NOMINEE FOR PRESIDENCY

Says Former Secretary Can Poll More Votes Than Anyone Else Suggested.

By the Associated Press.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 28.—Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, was suggested as the Democratic nominee for the presidency by William Jennings Bryan, in an address here last night.

Bryan said he would be glad to vote for the former Secretary and believed he would poll more votes than any other man suggested for the Democratic nomination. He continued:

"New York and Indiana have been claiming the presidency and vice presidency on the ground that they are 'close' States, but I don't know when we ever carried them with a citizen of either State when we couldn't have carried them with a citizen of any other.

"I think it is time to quit selecting men from pivotal States and give the people of the United States an opportunity to vote for the man they want."

BRIDGE CLOSED; AMERICANS SPEND NIGHT IN MATAMORAS

By the Associated Press.

BRONSVILLE, Tex., April 28.—Many Americans visiting Matamoros were compelled to spend last night in the Mexican town because immigration officers closed the International Bridge at 8 o'clock without warning, when proprietors of gambling houses refused to close their places in accord with orders from Mexico City. The port will be closed every night until gambling stops, Mexican officials say.

The Mexican Government recently instructed border officials to stop all gambling and to close the border at night, if necessary, to keep away patrons of the games from the American side.

MOFFETT ACCEPTS INVITATION TO AIR BOARD DINNER HERE

Navy Aeronautics Bureau Chief to Take Part in Discussion of Plans May 9.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy, today definitely accepted an invitation to attend a dinner to be given by the Air Board in St. Louis May 9 for the discussion of plans for the air meet next fall. Major-General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service, has also been invited to attend, and will probably accept. The schedule of a Western tour he is making calls for his presence in Kansas City May 7.

Keen interet in the St. Louis races was expressed today by Capt. Georges Thenaul, air attaches of the French Embassy, and Wing Commander Christie of the British Royal Air Service. Each said that he would bring the meet directly to the attention of his home Government with a view to enlisting entries.

Capt. Thenault said he was confident the airplane manufacturers, as well as the flyers of France, would desire to have their country well represented. He said he would go to St. Louis in May, possibly by air, to look over the flying field.

2 BOYS PLAYING IN STREETS FATALLY INJURED BY AUTOS

Adolph Becker and Martin Struharik, Both 7 Years Old, Die as Result of Injuries.

Two boys playing in the streets were fatally injured in automobile accidents yesterday afternoon.

Adolph Becker, 7 years old, of 2342A Michigan avenue, as told elsewhere in today's Post-Dispatch, was run over in front of his home and died a few minutes later. Felix Siebert, 30, of 4939 Seibert avenue, a huckster who operates a truck, was arrested and held for the accident.

Martin Struharik Jr., 7, of 1015 Lafayette avenue, died at 7 p. m. from injuries suffered at 3 o'clock at Seventh and Carroll streets, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Harry P. Gould, 53, of 2701A St. Vincent avenue, a laborer. Gould was arrested.

Boy Suffers Fractured Skull When Struck by Auto.

William Westemeyer, 13, of 4841 Hamburg avenue, suffered fracture of the skull when struck at 4 p. m. by an automobile operated by Albert E. Reinhardt, a chauffeur of Clappington, St. Louis County, at Hamburg and Gravois avenues.

While playing baseball in the 1100 block of Walton avenue at 4:30 p. m. yesterday, Joseph Lutker, 10-year-old son of H. J. Lutker, 1151 Walton avenue, police sergeant, was seriously injured by an automobile operated by Augustus Houston, negro chauffeur for Phil Levin, 1339 Walton avenue. The boy suffered fracture of the left leg and severe cuts and bruises. Houston was arrested.

Henry Varwig, 63, of 2131 John avenue; his son, Louis, 31, of 2048A Alice avenue, and grandchild, Helen, 10 months old, were cut and severely bruised at 5:40 o'clock in a collission of their car and an automobile operated by John Balducci of 4285W Easton avenue, at Emily and College avenue. A lamp post was broken off by the collission. Balducci was arrested and the injured taken to Marion Lee Hospital.

Runs Into Street; Hit by Truck.

James Fisher, 8-year-old son of Gustave Fisher of 7329 Virginia avenue, was cut and bruised at 2 p. m. when he ran out into Virginia avenue from a gangway in the 3300 block and was struck by an automobile truck driven by Fred Grunzinger, 802 Russell avenue. Gruninger told police that he was driving east in the alley in the 3300 block and had just turned into Virginia avenue when the boy ran into the right fender of his truck and was knocked down.

The automobile of William L. Bohnenkamp of 2046A Adelaide avenue suddenly left its parking space on the downgrade at Main and Olive streets at 3 p. m. and, unoccupied, started for the river, three blocks below.

The wheels were locked straight ahead and with increasing momentum the car sped down the hill, crossed the railroad tracks under the levee trestle, and then down the embankment to the river.

Directly in its path stood a portable steamboat office, about half way between the railroad tracks and the river. In the shack were A. F. Buchanan, a clerk, at work, and Harry Sanders, a negro, dozing in a chair.

The runaway car struck the shack head-on, bowled it over and stopped. Buchanan and Sanders, cut and bruised, were rescued from the wrecked office by several men who had pursued the car. Office and car were damaged about $300.

Crippled Peddler Hurt.

Oscar Beyer, 63, a peddler, suffered lacerations of the head at 11:30 p. m. when struck by a machine driven by John Hickey, 1009 Blandon place. Beyer, who has one leg, and walks with the aid of crutches, was crossing Chouteau avenue in front of his home, 1336 Chouteau avenue.

Miss Thelma Pflanz, 22, a clerk, residing at 908 Marion street, and Oscar Lang, 26, a vocational student, of 1013 Rutger street, were slightly injured when the automobile in which they were riding was overturned at 11 o'clock at Michigan avenue and Arsenal street. At the city hospital Lang said their car had been struck by another machine.

FOOTBALL CROWD IN STAMPEDE; 1000 HURT

Overflow Crowd at English Stadium Breaks Down Gates.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 28.—Approximately 1000 persons were hurt in disorders attending a football match today in the great new stadium at Wembley Hill, which seats 120,000 people.

Most of the injuries were handled by the first aid detachments on the grounds and about 50 people were taken to hospitals, most of them with broken legs or collar bones. The work of rescue was difficult, the stampede of the crowd impeding the stretcher bearers. A number of women were badly crushed against railings.

The stadium was opened with the association football final to decide the championship between England and Wales.

Forty casualties resulted immediately when the doors were stormed after the stadium was full.

Just before the match began the crowd moved on the field, seeking better positions to see the game. It took the police an hour to clear the field. The game had been in progress only 13 minutes when the spectators broke through the cordon of police about the field. It took another 15 minutes' work by the police before play could be resumed.

Meanwhile thousands at the entrance threw themselves against the gates and broke through, the police being unable to stem the rush. Many women fainted.

ROME DeLuxe QUALITY

"DeLuxe" The Bedspring LUXURIOUS

Physicians Work With Nature

Successful physicians recognize that Nature is their greatest aid in restoring health. Restful sleep is the greatest builder and restorer of energy ever discovered. But unfortunately the ordinary bed spring is not designed for rest. It exerts heavy pressure where it shouldn't and fails to support where it should. Thus the spine is distorted and the body held cramped and uncomfortable, thus absolutely preventing relaxed sleep.

The Rome De Luxe Bedspring is designed and built to correct such evils. It flows about the body curves, supporting each part equally. It does not sag, and two persons can lie comfortably upon it side by side each on his own level. Nervous diseases and lassitude induced by an uncomfortable bedspring will disappear when a Rome De Luxe is used.

Ask for Rome Quality De Luxe at your dealer's today. It is interchangeable—fits either wood or metal beds. Write for our book "Sleep and Its Relation to Health." It's free.

BROWNS LOSE TO TIGERS, 4-1; CARDINALS DEFEAT REDS, 4-3

Vangilder Is Pounded Hard By Cobb's Men

Big Right-Hander, Just an Ordinary Pitcher, Is Hit Safely 11 Times, and Pillette Is Easy Winner.

ST. LOUIS THREATENS IN ONLY ONE INNING

Double Play Stops Impending Rally in Seventh — Fohlmen Show Little Dash While Performing in Field.

By J. Roy Stockton,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

DETROIT, Mich., April 28.—Herman Pillette, right-hander of the Detroit pitching staff, ran into an unexpectedly pleasant assignment this afternoon in the third of the Tigers' series with the Browns. It was thought that Ty Cobb had picked a difficult task for Herman, inasmuch as he always had been a mark for the Fohlmen, and especially this afternoon did Herman's immediate future look dark, with Elam Russell Vangilder assigned to do the "throwing" for the Browns.

But Vangilder was just an ordinary pitcher today. The Tigers slammed him for 11 hits and four runs which were enough to give Pillette an easy victory, with the Brownies scoring only one run off seven hits.

There was no punch in the Fohlmen. At bat they were able to meet the ball consistently. Only two men struck out, but hitting the ball safe was something else again. The Tigers supported Pillette brilliantly and the result was that the Browns looked very weak and helpless. In the field their work showed the effects of their batting slump. While the fielding was satisfactory, with two exceptions, there was no dash to the Brownies' work. The men went about their duties silently, mechanically, and with the Tigers fighting every minute, the game was far more one-sided than the score of 4 to 1 indicates.

Browns Threaten Only Once.

Only once did the Browns threaten. That was in the seventh inning when they scored their only run. McManus started by beating out a bunt and Severeid lined a single to center. Jacobson caught one of Pillette's offerings squarely, but the ball went straight to Rigney. The shortstop made a brilliant stop of the hot smash and his toss to Pratt started a double play. That was the play that beat the Browns. If that ball had passed Rigney, the entire game probably would have changed. Gerber followed with a double which scored McManus, but there were two down and Vangilder ended the rally with a grounder to Haney.

That was the only inning in which the Browns saw third base, and the first and the eighth were the only others in which a Fohlman advanced as far as second. In the opening inning Tobin bunted safely with two down and went to second on Williams' single to right. McManus ended that rally with a foul to Blue. In the eighth, it took an eror and a base on balls to advance Eddie Foster to second base.

Detroit expected an overflowing crowd and temporary seats were in place all around the outfield. There was no overflow, but the seats were left there and so ground rules were in effect, all drives to the seats being ruled doubles. It happened that the rules helped the Tigers more than they did the Browns. In the third inning, Woodall walked, Pillette singled and Blue sacrificed. Haney sent a long fly to left which Williams would have caught if the seats had not been in his way. But it went for two bases, scoring Woodall and Pillette.

Veach Hits Home Run.

The Tigers scored their other two runs in the sixth. Veach started with a home run into the right field seats and Heilmann followed with a double to right center. Pratt sacrificed Heilmann to third. Rigney tapped to Foster whose throw to Severeid had Heilmann at the plate. Heilmann turned around to return to third, but Severeid missed the ball and Heilmann scored.

The ground rules helped make the Brownies' work in the field appear listless. Outfielders chased long drives leisurely, knowing that no matter how far they rolled in the park the limit to the batter would be two bases.

Pratt had an unusual day. Three times he was called on to sacrifice and each time he bunted to McManus and was tagged by the first baseman.

Danforth to Work Today.

Chilly weather held down the crowd and even at that 22,000 persons attended. The three games thus far have attracted 67,000 persons. There were 35,000 Thursday and 10,000 Friday. A capacity crowd of 36,000 is expected tomorrow afternoon if the weather is fair, which will put the series second only to one in New York last year in total attendance. About 110,000 persons saw the Browns and Yankees play at the Polo Grounds last May. Thursday's crowd here was the second largest that ever saw the Browns play. Thirty-eight thousand attended the first game of the Yankees-Browns series in New York last May.

Dave Danforth is due to work for the Browns tomorrow and George Dauss for the Tigers.

Hollis Thurston, former Salt Lake pitcher, objected to pitching in batting practice today and as a result will be sent home tomorrow night. His departure from the league probably will follow shortly.

Headed Right but He Failed to Score

Bottomley was out at the plate on Pinelli's throw to Keck, who covered home when Wingo, standing near Pinelli, was drawn toward third in the run-up.

Penn State Team Forced to Break World Record to Defeat Oxford Runners; 40,000 Witness Meet

Americans Victorious in Two Races, British Win One in Two-Day Carnival—Leconey and Woodring Win Sprints—Norton of Kansas First in High Jump.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—England, represented by Oxford University, failed today in a gallant attempt to capture for a second time the two-mile college relay championship of America, but the great British quartet forced an even more brilliant Pennsylvania State team to set a new world's record to win before the Union Jack bowed to the Stars and Stripes. It was the outstanding event on the closing day's card of the twenty-ninth annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival.

Allan Helffrich, national half-mile champion, running the last relay for Penn State, broke the tape nearly 30 yards ahead of Milligan, the Oxford captain, in 7 minutes 48 4-5 seconds, bettering by 3-5 of a second the former world's record, established at last year's races by Pennsylvania. Three years ago a combined Oxford-Cambridge team, of which Milligan also was a member, won the championship in world's record time.

The international slate for the two-day carnival showed two victories for America against one for England, the Britons scoring their only triumph yesterday in the sprint medley while C. B. E. Morgan, their distance star, was badly beaten by his Yankee rivals in the two-mile individual race.

Navy Wins Four-Mile Race.

Other major college relay championships were captured by Lafayette, in the half mile; Syracuse, in the one mile, and the United States Naval Academy in the four-mile test. The other 1923 relay college championships of America decided yesterday are held by Georgetown, in the distance medley, and Pennsylvania in the quarter mile, in addition to Oxford's sprint medley victory.

The four-mile race, concluding the final day's program, was run in a heavy rain, conditions which seemed admirably suited to the sea legs of the midshipmen, who scored a decisive victory after a tense duel most of the way with Columbia.

The latter was deprived of a fine chance of victory when Moore, third relay runner, dropped his baton on the back stretch and lost 25 yards and the lead, at the time, to both Navy and Georgetown.

Brennan, running the second mile leg for Columbia, opened up a gap of 50 yards over his navy rival before handing the baton to Moore, but the latter, dissipating the lead gained, virtually tossed away the New Yorker's chances of victory when he dropped his baton a furlong from the three-mile mark. Navy and Georgetown both passed him and Newhall, anchor for the Midshipmen, leaped into a 50-yard lead before covering the first lap of the last mile. Higgins, victor in

WEBSTER TRACK MEN BEAT KIRKWOOD, 61-52

Bob Schwentker was the outstanding star of the meet. He won the 50, 100, 220 and the high jump. His time in the 100 was 10m. 1s. He scored 24 4-10 points of his team's total.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The Astor Cup match representing the high school championship of the United States in prone rifle firing has been won for the fourth time by Central High School here. The Modesto, Cal., high school, tied with Central in the first match, but in the shoot-off Central turned in seven perfect scores, while the California school made but five.

QUINN RETURNS HOME; RELEASES THREE PITCHERS

Bob Quinn, vice president of the Browns, returned yesterday from Detroit where he saw the first two games of the series with the Tigers, and straightway proceeded to release three young pitchers to minor league clubs, subject to recall.

He sent Ray Donovan to Nashville in the Southern Association and George Blaeholder and "Stick" Williams to Terre Haute in the Three I League.

Quinn said he was very favorably impressed with the spirit of the Browns. He offered the opinion that as soon as the pitchers settle into their stride, the team will turn in its share of victories.

FLAGSTEAD GOES FROM TIGERS TO RED SOX

Over 120,000 Watch English Soccer Final; 1000 Hurt in Crush

LONDON, April 28.

INTENSE feeling between supporters of the Westham Uniteds and the Bolton Wanderers in the association football final in the Giant Wembley Hill stadium this afternoon, combined with the effort of thousands to gain entrance to the already crowded bowl, brought about disorders which resulted in fully 1000 cases of injury, most of them, however, minor.

The great arena has a capacity of 120,000 persons and when the gates were closed at 2 o'clock this afternoon it held the greatest crowd that has ever witnessed a football match in Great Britain. Despite the presence of King George the spectators spread over the field before the game in their efforts to secure points of vantage, and it was fully an hour before the police were able to clear the field so the game could be started. Later the play was interrupted by another incursion of the mob, necessitating a 15-minute recess.

RED SOX HIT BUSH IN PINCHES AND WIN, 5-3

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, April 28.—George Murray gave his former Yankee playmates something to think about today when he piloted the Red Sox to a 5 to 3 victory over the American League Champions. He let the Hugmen down with five hits. The Red Sox mauled Joe Bush, once their pal, for eight, half of them doubles.

Murray had a bad opening inning when he walked two, hit another and Pipp's single to center and Liebold's error let two Yanks score. In the eighth the Yanks got another on singles by Pipp and Meusel and an infield out.

Doubles by Fewster and Reichle in the fifth, mixed with a pass to Picinich, Murray's sacrifice and Harris' single, gave the Sox three. They got two more in the seventh on Collins' double, Harris being hit, his steal and Shanks' single.

Texas U. Wins Meet.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 28.—The University of Texas defeated Louisiana State, 62½ to 43½, in a dual track and field meet here today. L. S. U. was unable to overcome the handicap of losing seven first places in the track events although they captured five firsts in the field events.

Exterminator, Conceding 31 Pounds, Beaten

"Old Poison" Fails by Inches in Effort to Pass Man O' War's Money Record.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 28.—Man o' War is still the champion American money winner, but his throne was saved by a matter of inches when Chickvale beat Exterminator in the running of the Old Dominion Handicap at a mile and 70 yards here this afternoon. Third fell to Paul Jones from the Garth establishment.

The defeat of Exterminator was a bitter disappointment to the crowd that cheered him in his heroic failure. Cheer after cheer rent the air as he paraded to the post. Encouragement roared from the throats of thousands as he fought valiantly through the last furlong and just failed to be up. His defeat is tempered by the fact that Chickvale, a Derby and Preakness candidate, in the stable of Harry Payne Whitney, shouldered but 101 pounds to his 132.

The Old Dominion brought out a field of five. There was no delay at the post and Johnson had Exterminator away on his toes. Paul Jones and Chickvale broke beside him, while Baby Grand was on the inner rail, with Devastation last away.

Johnson Forced to Take Up.

Racing to the first turn, Claver sent Baby Grand through on the rail. In doing so he bothered Exterminator and Johnson was forced to take up. Baby Grand went into the lead, followed by Paul Jones and Chickvale, while Exterminator was racing on the outside.

Baby Grand dropped back after the first half mile, and gave way to Paul Jones. Chickvale was moving up with a rush on the rail. The latter shook off Paul Jones when straightened out for the stretch run. Exterminator had worked his way up on the outside and inch by inch he wore down the Whitney starter, but Chickvale hung on with rare courage and just lasted to earn the verdict.

Wilderness Is Winner.

R. T. Wilson's Wilderness, a homebred son of Campfire and Genesta, was an easy winner of the Chesapeake stakes for three-year-old colts and fillies at a mile and one-sixteenth. The victory sent his stock soaring for his future engagements in the Preakness. Butwell had the Wilson colt well in hand at the end to beat the Greentree stable's Barbary Bush, the Clown, Dunlin, Daniel and St. Valentine.

A fine field faced the starter for the Chesapeake, but much regret was expressed when Sally's Aley was withdrawn. The filly, it it said, disappointed her trainer, in a workout for the race, and for this reason was withdrawn.

Rickeymen Win From Cincinnati When Toney Allows but Four Hits

Frank Keck, Who Relieves Adolpho Lague, Holds Cardinals Hitless for Four Innings, Is Beaten on Two Hits in Eighth.

By Joseph F. Holland,

Fred Toney invariably has one bad inning. There is always one period in all his games when his control takes flight and leaves him floundering in deep water. But if Fred emerges from that temporary era of near-choas, it is just as well to consider his game won. Consequently, when he slipped out of his bad inning yesterday in the final game with the Cincinnati Reds with three runs scored against him, it remained only for Hy Myers to drive over the winning marker in the eighth.

The score was 4 to 3.

The voctory enabled Branch Rickey to slip out of the cellar into seventh place on the eve of the four-game series with the Pittsburg Pirates which opens at Sportsman's Park today.

Toney's pitching exhibition, even including that one bad inning, the fifth, was as close to perfection as these modern days of long distance shelling will permit. He gave only four hits and two of them came on long flies that Myers and Flack reached but could not hold. Eliminating the fourth round, he gave only two hits and only four Reds became base runners in the remaining eight innings.

Keck Loses "Tough One."

It was distinctly a performance calculated to insure victory. Cincinnati, when it failed to reap a harvest in that one bad inning which invariably appears, was out of it. Frank Keck, who relieved the firey Cuban, Luque, in the third inning, held the Cardinals off until the eighth when he had his bad inning. But inasmuch as Toney had had his earlier, there was no chance for recovery.

Keck pitched remarkable ball in the attempted role of saviour of the Red cause, he held the Cardinals hitless and, it followed, runless for four and two thirds innings before the opening of the eighth when Flack, Hornsby and Myers prepared a miniature reproduction of the original which the Duke of Wellington served to Napoleon some five score and eight years ago at Waterloo.

Flack opened with a single that skidded off Keck's outstretched glove. Frank pitched carefully to Hornsby, so carefully that he walked him. Bottomley then performed the conventional act of sacrificing, which put Flack on third and Hornsby on second. The chance was Milton Stock's. But he lifted a high pop that sought refuge in the glove of Sammy Bohne.

Hy Myers, with nothing to show for two hard hit liners in his previous trips to the plate, then crashed one to the right of Bohne for a single. It scored Flack with the winning run and it mattered little that Bohne recovered the ball in time to catch Hornsby in a run-up off third and eliminate him two yards from the plate.

It was what is commonly termed a tough game for Keck to lose. Seldom has any relief pitcher excelled his performance and two infield hits finally spelled his ruin.

His predecessor was not quite so successful. Adolpho Luque had neither control nor the "stuff" he is reputed to own. The Cardinals crashed his tosses for seven hits, including two doubles and a single, in less than three innings. Excellent fielding saved him and a double play in the first inning nipped a Cardinal rally that held great promise.

He started by hitting Blades. Then Flack lined straight into Caveney's hands on an apparent hit and run and Ray was, of course, doubled off first. Hornsby renewed the offensive with a double to center and scored a moment later on Jim Bottomley's single to the same territory. So much for the first.

Cuban Fails in Third.

Luque weathered the second although Freigau singled and was caught trying to steal. The third, however, offered the insurmountable obstacle and the Cuban trudged to the bench to make way for the Kirkwood commuter.

Blades opened this inning of Luque's retreat with a home run drive over the left field fence, his third of the year. Flack sent a high fly to Caveney, but Hornsby singled to center. When Bottomley pounded a single to right, Rogers took third from whence he scored on Stock's double to deep right. Keck entered the picture at this point with men on second and third and one out. He stopped the rally by getting the next two men on easy infield taps.

There the matter stood until the

Genewich Again Defeats Giants

Braves Win Deciding Game of Series — McInnis Hits Home Run.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The world's champions were beaten for the second time this year by Joe Genewich, a rookie pitcher, today when they lost, 6 to 4, in a game marked by long hitting. John Scott, a world's series hero, was forced to retire in the seventh.

Stuffy McInnis hit a home run with Southworth on base in the fourth and Bagwell, the next hitter, batted another into the right field stands. In the seventh, the Braves batted Scott out of the box, a single, an error by Frisch, two sacrifices and Powell's two-bagger turning the trick. Hits by Groh, Meusel and Young gave the Giants their two runs in the seventh.

The last half of the game was played in a drizzling rain. The attendance was 15,000, despite threatening weather. The score follows:

Dozen Records Fall in Drake Relay Carnival

Illinois Quarter-Mile Team Establishes World's Standard of :42 3-10 Seconds in Capturing the Championship.

FORMER PRINCIPIA BOY SETS POLE VAULT MARK

Brownell Wins With 12 Feet 10 Inches—Angier Tosses Javelin 203 Feet 9½ Inches in Shattering Old Figure.

By the Associated Press.
DES MOINES, Ia., April 28.—A world's record was smashed, one—possibly two—American records were shattered and 10 Drake records were broken today in the fourteenth annual Drake relay carnival which attracted more than 1300 track and field stars, the greatest entry list in the history of the event. Perfect weather, with a warm sun and a track lightning fast, made conditions favorable for the wholesale shattering of records.

The world's record to fall was made by the crack University of Illinois team in the 440-yard relay, the time being :42 3-10, a tenth of a second faster than the distance has ever been covered before.

An American record in the javelin was established by Milton Angier of Illinois, holder of the mark, who heaved the shaft 203 feet 9½ inches, bettering his record established in the Drake games a year ago by an even foot.

In addition to these undisputed records, athletic authorities tonight were unanimous in their opinion that Illinois should be credited with an American collegiate record in the 880-yard relay which the Illini quartet won in 1:27 5-10. This performance is one tenth second slower than the world's record created by B. J. Wefers Jr., H. Ray, F. K. Lovejoy and Edward Farrell in 1921. This same quartet held the world's record for the 440 made in 1921 which Illinois shattered. No other college team the coaches assert, has covered the distance as fast as Illinois.

Record Claimed for Iowa.

The coaches also claim a world's intercollegiate record for the University of Iowa team in the one-mile relay which the Hawkeyes reeled off in 3:16 9-10, one-tenth of a second slower than the world's record made by C. B. Rogers, Earl Eby, Lawrence Brown and Robert Maxam competing as an American Legion team in 1921.

The new records established for the Drake games follow:

Half-mile high school relay—Won by University High School, Chicago. Time—1:33 1-5.

Two-mile high school relay—Won by Northeast High School of Kansas City, Mo. Time—8:25.

Discus throw—Won by Platt, Denver University. Distance—138 feet 11-4 inches.

440-yard relay—Won by Illinois. Time—:42 3-10.

400-yard high school shuttle race—Won by University High School, Chicago. Time—:41 9-10.

Two-mile college relay—Won by Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill. Time—8:10 3-10.

880-yard relay—Won by Illinois. Time—1:27 5-10.

Javelin throw—Won by Angier of Illinois. Distance—203 feet 9½ inches.

Pole vault—Won by Brownell of Illinois, formerly of Principia Academy, St. Louis. Height, 12 feet 10 inches.

One-mile university relay—Won by Iowa. Time—3:16 9-10.

Blanchard, representing Washington University of St. Louis, took second place in the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet 6¼ inches, just half an inch behind Graham of Kansas, who won the event. In the half-mile relay the Washington team, composed of Andewert, Blanchard, Bremser and Bien, finished in fourth place. The Piker team won from Northwestern and Missouri in the first section of the race, but lost to Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska in the second. Mitchell, the Washington pole vaulter, fell under 12 feet.

In addition to this list of broken records, Lester Irwin, the Kansas Aggies' sprinter, tied the Drake record for the 100-yard dash, breaking the tape in :09 4-5, the same time made by Jackson Scholz, the University of Missouri flyer in 1920.

Illinois Carries Off Honors.

Illinois carried off the lion's share of the university relays, winning three of the five. The Illini captured the 440 and 880 yard events and finished the day by winning the four-mile.

Illinois also had two winners in the special events—Angier in the javelin, and Brownell, who broke the pole vault record.

Michigan triumphed in the two-mile relay chiefly because of the thrilling race of Reinke in the last lap, while Iowa was without serious opposition in the mile.

In the college relays Monmouth, Wabash and Butler divided honors by winning one each. Florida and Oregon failed to break into the winning column.

In the individual events, Kansas in addition to Illinois, produced the only double winner. Merewin Graham of Kansas City won the running jump with a leap of 22 feet 7 inches, while Poor, also of Kansas, captured the high jump, clearing the bar at 6 feet 4 inches. Towler of Minnesota won the 120-yard high hurdles, leaping the barriers in :15 1-5.

Washington Star Who May Prove Another Simpson

RALPH BLANCHARD

His hurdling has been one of the out standing features at Washington, this year. He won the hurdles at the indoor Valley meet and again in the dual events with Vanderbilt. He is expected to score in the outdoor Valley championships.

National League Hitters Outbat American Leaguers, Figures Show

Season Starts Out With Surprising Reversal of Form Both in Regard to Teams and Individuals — 28 Men Hit .300 in Junior Circuit, 46 in Senior Organization.

A new problem has arisen for speculators in baseball matters. The question, after a perusal of the first crop of big league hitting averages, immediately is raised: "What's the matter with the American League hitting?"

Figures for games up to Friday in both leagues show that both team and individual clouting in the National has been superior to that in the American. The reverse had been anticipated.

To begin with, there is not a club in the American League that, as a team has hit up to the .300 mark. Detroit topped the bunch with .290. But as on last year's averages the team figured to hit about .320, it is evident either that the pitching is better or that the team has not found itself.

Again, it may be that one of those mysterious changes in ball construction has overtaken the American and not the National. In any case, whereas no club in the National figured to swat in the .300 division, three clubs, Chicago, Cincinnati and Brooklyn, batted over this figure and one other team hit .294, better than the vaunted Tigers.

In the American League 28 men were swatting the ball at a rate better than .300, whereas in the National 46 .300 hitters were recorded in the first averages.

There is no reason to expect a radical change in either pitching or hitting in either organization; just why the National should start off with such a hitting punch is not yet explainable.

At any rate, here are the averages up to Friday last; they speak for themselves, if any can interpret the message:

Kansas Splits a Double-Header With the Aggies

Jayhawkers Lose Pitchers' Battle, 3 to 2, but Return to Win by 16-to-3-Score.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 28.—The University of Kansas baseball team opened its home season today by splitting a double-header with the Kansas Aggies. The Manhattan nine took off the first contest, 3 to 2, and the Jayhawkers carried home the second battle, 16 to 3. Both contests were to have gone seven innings, but it took nine to decide the first game.

In the opener, Cunningham of the Aggies, pitched good ball and turned the Jayhawkers back when men were on bases and a hit would have meant the game. Bloomer of Kansas also pitched a good brand of ball, but an error by Price in center field in the ninth inning, after Aiken had singled, let in the winning run.

The second contest saw the Aggies taking the lead with two runs and annexing another in the third, but Kansas came right back in their half of that session and tied things up. In the fifth inning the Jayhawker bats started swinging and this, coupled with Aggie errors, let eight runs across before the side could be retired. Conroy was called in to replace Davis in this fatal inning with the bases full and only one out. Conroy let in four more runs and was touched for five more in the next period.

Davis of K. U. let the Aggies down with only one hit in the seven-inning affair.

Nebraska Wins From Oklahoma U., 4 to 3

LINCOLN, Neb., April 28.—Nebraska University upset the University of Oklahoma today by winning the last baseball game of the series, 4 to 3.

Durkee replaced Johnson on the slab for Oklahoma in the last inning and was greeted with three successive singles, scoring the winning run for the Huskers. Lewellen, Nebraska pitcher, hit a home run in the third inning.

Score by innings:

Innings—	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Nebraska	0	0	1	2	0	0	0	0	1—	4

Batteries: Johnson, Durkee and Groom; Lewellen and Petty.

MISSISSIPPI A. AND M. WINS GEORGIA MEET

ATLANTA, Ga., April 28.—Mississippi A. and M. athletes, headed by the fleet-footed Cochran, had things their own way in the Georgia Tech relay carnival here today. They won five first places in the 11 events, finished second in another and took third place in two contests.

Georgia Tech with three first places—Pole vault, high jump and freshmen mile relay, were next highest, with Clemson following in third place.

MEXICAN SPRINTER MAY DETHRONE 'KING' CHARLES

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, April 28.—Julio Gallegos, 18 years old, may be the man who will eventually defeat Charley Paddock, the American sprinter. Americans in this city who have timed Gallegos in the 100 say he can cover the distance in 10 seconds flat, despite the fact that he has never had any training or instruction in running. He plans to visit the United States.

Toledo Buys Dempsey.

By the Associated Press.
TOLEDO, April 28.—The Toledo club today announced the purchase of First Baseman Dempsey from San Antonio in the Texas League and Outfielder Joe Shannon from Memphis. Dempsey was turned back to San Antonio after a trial with the New York Giants. Shannon was sold to Memphis by Columbus, but refused to report there.

Yeatman Wins, 12-4, and Goes To Lead in High School Race

Soldan Nine Proves Easy for North Siders, Losing by 12 to 4 Score — McKinley Defeated by Cleveland, 13—11, Despite Seven-Run Rally in Ninth.

Defeating Soldan, 12 to 4, Yeatman High School yesterday went into first place in the Interscholastic League baseball championship drive. The game, played at High School Field, was called because of darkness, after one Yeatman batter had been retired in the eighth inning. McKinley lost to Cleveland, 13 to 11, in the other contest.

It was a hard day on pitchers. Ten men were used by the four teams and Mel Stremmel, Yeatman, was the only one to go the route.

The Yeatman-Soldan scrap had all the ear marks of a real game until the Yeatman half of the fifth inning, when the North Enders scored five runs. Yeatman tallied in the first by means of the old army game, a walk to Rower, a sacrifice and Mulhivill's single doing the damage. Soldan tied it in the second on singles by Shaw and DeStabler and an infield out.

Soldan went ahead in the fourth, counting on Stanford's double Stremmel's error and Mullen's bunt. Yeatman regained the lead in it's half, four walks and an error netting two runs.

Yeatman Continues Drive.

Yeatman added one in the sixth, on two walks and an infield out, two more in the seventh on two passes and Hannegan's double to right. The ball hit the very rim of the fence and bounded back into the right fielder's mit. Still another came in the eighth when Stremmel singled and Steiner tripled. At this point Umpire Byrne called the contest on account of the darkness.

Soldan had brought it's total to four in the sixth. Stanford walked, Shaw singled, Mullen forced Stanford, but Shaw and Mullen counted on a single by Branconier.

Stremmel hurled a creditable game. His control in the pinches was good. In the first inning he retired two men with the bases full. In the fourth, after one run had been scored and with second and third occupied, he tightened and prevented further scoring. He gave four walks and struck out seven. Crause was not hit hard during his stay on the mound but his wildness was costly. He walked eight. The succeeding hurlers passed five more.

The opening game was a thriller. Although the baseball displayed was not the best, the thrills made up for other shortcomings. A seven-run rally by McKinley after two were out in the ninth was the piece de resistance of the afternoon.

McKinley Gets Early Lead.

The Crimson took an early lead by counting threes against one for Cleveland in the first inning. Cleveland counted another in the fourth and the Crimson scored one in the fifth. Two runs came for the Carondelet entry in the sixth on two singles, a walk and two infield outs. Four more were added in the seventh when three men walked and two singled. Three more in the eighth on a walk, error, single and double, bringing the Cleveland total to 11, a lead of seven runs.

Kaiser, a left-hand pitcher, was on the hill for Cleveland. With the exception of the opening inning, he had held McKinley helpless. But he aviatd in the ninth.

Two walks and an error filled the bases. Kaiser managed to retire the next two men without a score. Then Tommy Condon, the McKinley second sacker, singled, scoring two. Another walk and Selucky's single counted two more. Kaiser was jerked and Beck took up the job. A walk and an infield tap scored another. With three balls called on the next batter, Reinhardt moved to the hill from first base. The batter walked forcing in another run, and in field tap scored the tying run, but a fast return to the plate cut off the winning marker.

Two walks, an eerror by Kaiser on first base for McKinley and Sheller's hit counted two for Cleveland in the tenth. This proved to be the winning margin as McKinley was retired in its half.

WILLIAMS' HOME RUN HELPS PHILLIES WIN, 3-2

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—Art Fletcher's Phillies, playing before a large crowd turned back the Brooklyn Dodgers in the last game of the series here today, 3 to 2. The verdict was in doubt until a double play in the ninth inning ended what looked like a rally for the visitors.

Vance started for the Dodgers, lasting five innings, before he gave way to a pinch hitter. Decatur, who relieved him, pitched well. Jimmy Ring worked for the locals. He held the sluggers of Uncle Robbie to eight scattered hits. Cy Williams hit a home run.

TONEY HOLDS REDS TO FOUR HITS, CARDS WIN

Reds tied it in Toney's "bad inning." Fred walked Daubert to start, but Duncan forced the Red captain. Then Roush drew a pass. Bohne hit a long, high fly to deep right center that Myers reached, but could not hold. It went for a single and the bases were filled. Blades then made a remarkable running catch of Pinelli's foul and Duncan scored after the catch. At which point Caveney lifted a liner against the right field fence that Flack reached, but dropped. It went for a double, deservedly, and Roush and Bohne scored the tying runs.

Then the Reds subsided. Daubert doubled with two out in the fifth and Caveney led off the seventh with another double, but both were srtanded. Pinelli was the only other Red to reach first base. He walked with two out in the sixth, but was immediately picked off first by Toney.

In five of the nine innings, only three Reds faced the Tennessee Mountaineer. And in three of the other four they might just as well have foregone the privilege for all the benefit they reaped therefrom.

Cards Win Series.

The victory of Toney yesterday enabled the Cardinals to take two out of three from the Reds. It was their first victory in a series this year. They have now won four games and lost seven. All four have been won from the Reds, two of them by Toney. Three of the defeats were thrown in by the Reds and the other four were received at the hands of the Chicago Cubs.

Jake Daubert, veteran Cincinnati first sacker, who this spring suffered an attack of pneumonia, played his initial contest of the season yesterday. He made one double in three trips to the plate.

Pirates Here Today.

The Pittsburg Pirates will be here today. Bill McKechnie probably will pitch Wilbur Cooper or George Boehler, former Brownie for whom the Pirates paid $30,000 to Tulsa. Jess Haines or Jeff Pfeffer will attempt to lengthen the Cardinal winning streak to three games.

The attendance yesterday was about 10,000.

U. S. Tennis Body Joins Federation

Ten Years of Negotiation Closed by Acceptance of America's Application.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 28.—The United States Lawn Tennis Association has been admitted to membership in the International Lawn Tennis Federation, according to a communication received by the association today from Henry Walton, federation president. The entry of the American tennis organization into the international body made after 10 years of negotiations, marks one of the greatest steps in tennis history.

The International Lawn Tennis Federation was organized in 1913 by Germany, Great Britain, Australia, Belgium, Denmark, Spain, Holland, Hungary, Russia, South Africa, Sweden and Switzerland. An invitation immediately was issued to the United States Lawn Tennis Association, offering membership. In connection with the formation of the federation, however, grants had been made in perpetuity to the English Lawn Tennis Association for what was termed the "world's turf tennis championship," and a similar tournament to the French Lawn Tennis Association for the world's hard court championship."

The U. S. L. A. in considering the invitation was of the opinion that such permanent tournaments grants and titles were not for the best interest of tennis throughout the world, and so informed the federation.

In 1923 Henry W. Slocum went abroad as representative of the U. S. L. T. A. for further consideration of this matter as well as the association's representative at a conference having to do with the International playing code and the revision of the Davis Cup rules. As the result of his negotiations the English association agreed to request the International Federation to revoke the award of championships and the French Lawn Tennis Association took similar action. At a meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation in Paris in March, it was decided to discontinue all awards for world's championships in lawn tennis after Jan. 1, 1924.

Milam Entry Is Winner in Ashland Oaks

Anna M. Humphrey Qualifies as Dangerous Contender in Kentucky Derby as Result of Victory at Lexington.

SPANISH ROSE PAYS $81 ON $2 TICKET

Jockey Mooney Pilots Two Horses Home in First Place—Digit Victor at Good Odds in Second Race.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 28.—An immense crowd of racing fans saw J. Cal Milam's 3-year-old chestnut filly, Anna M. Humphrey, daughter of Peter Quince-Eden Hall, take the measure of three other thoroughbreds in the historic Ashland Oaks, carrying an added value of $3000, here this afternoon. Anna M. Humphrey, with Jockey Mack Garner in the saddle, had little trouble disposing of her field and won going away by four lengths from Sweetheart, with Great Luck third and Grand Dame, the only other starter in the event, pulling up a bad last.

The winner qualified as a dangerous contender for Derby honors and was well favored in the betting, paying only $4.30 for a $2 ticket.

Today's races opened spring racing in the West. A steady downpour of rain fell until after the third race and the track was a sea of water and mud, resembling a lake more than a racing course. The heavy going caused many horsemen to scratch their entries. Blossom Time, E. R. Bradley's entrant, was scratched just before the running of the fourth event, causing only four horses to face the barrier in the Oaks.

Spanish Rose Pays $81 to $2.

The day was not without its thrills, however, for Jockey Tommy Murray piloted Spanish Rose, from the stable of Clyde Van Dusen, home in front of a good field in the sixth race and for the odds of $81 for a $2 pasteboard. Hello and Bright Lady finished second and third, respectively.

The William Barnes Memorial for three-year-olds and up over a six furlong route, inaugurated the meeting and was taken by Marvin May, well backed in the mutuels. My Reverie and Donges, finished for the place and show, with Wida and Auntie May, the other starters, out of the money although Wida set the early pace.

Digit took the second, an event for youngsters, from Black Gold and Wilmer the Wizard. The former got away to a bad start and finished only a neck from the winner. Black Gold was heavily backed. Digit paid $16.25 to $1.

Good Ride Helps Pumps.

Pumps took the third after a splendid ride by Jockey Corcoran who kept the black Whiskbroom filly well back until the stretch was reached to win going away by three lengths from Megan, with Fantoche third and Bit of Green last.

Bullet Proof was the second winner of the day for Jockey Mooney, who carried off riding honors. Golden Floss was second, and Glynn the favorite, finished third, several lengths behind the winning gelding.

Jockey Kelsay brought Evelyn White home in front in the night cap, a mile and one-sixteenth. Alameda Girl was second and Cantilever showed with the field well strung out.

FLAGS IN N. L. PARKS AT HALF MAST BECAUSE OF SENTELLE'S DEATH

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Flags in National League baseball parks were halfmasted today for Paul Sentelle, the umpire who died last night in Cincinnati. Games in the league will be halted several minutes Monday while fans pay silent tribute to the popular arbiter.

John G. Heydler, president of the league, said that Sentelle, who came to the National last year from the Texas League, was one of the most capable and best liked umpires in the game.

"He had been a credit to baseball and will be remembered as one of its finest characters," he added.

Robert Emslie, dean of National League umpires, will attend the funeral in New Orleans Monday as Heydler's representative.

27-Year-Old Mat Star Threatening Lewis' Supremacy

John Pesek, Nebraska Pole, Picked to Win Title Before the Year Ends.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 28.—The greatest heavyweight wrestler since the days of Frank Gotch. That tribute has been paid to John Pesek, the "Tiger Man" of the head-spinning union, by hundreds of fans who have seen him in action during the 1922-23 season. Pesek has wrestled his way to the second step from the top of the heavyweight ladder, and before the present season passes on into history, Revena, Neb., probably will be the home of the next world's champion. Pesek is matched to meet Lewis May 20 here.

In his match with Stanislaus Zbyszko here, April 12, John Pesek gave as fine an exhibition of wrestling as has been seen here since the days when Frank Gotch made a living dumping foreigners. The Nebraska Pole was on his countryman from the first sound of the gong. The old man, powerful but slow, never was able to trick his opponent into holds. Pesek was too fast for him. Once Zbyszko applied a headlock, but Pesek twisted out, and in doing so wrapped his legs around Zbyszko for a head scissors.

"Strangler" Lewis has his headlock, and that's about all. John Pesek, like Gotch, is the master of all holds, wrist locks, hammer locks toe holds, bar arm and the alligator clutch. He uses them all, and as a rule is just about two holds ahead of his opponent.

Pesek Also a Farmer.

In a Polish settlement at Revena, Neb., Pesek is just plain farmer, but he doesn't spend all his time working the soil. He has a gymnasium on the farm, and seldom a day passes without the young Polish wrestler going through a routine of training. In 1917 Pesek threw his hat into the ring as a professional wrestler. Revena was proud of its entry into the heavyweight ranks, and reports were sent out of Nebraska that Pesek was a world's champion in the making.

Wrestling is the favorite sport in the Pesek family. Pesek's brother, Charley, a 142-pounder, is a good mat man, but lacks the size to make a name for himself. But John uses brother Charley as a training partner. That's one reason why Pesek always is in grand condition. The brothers always are wrestling during the lonesome days in Revena.

John Pesek is only 27 years old, married and the father of a 2½-year-old son. Pesek's wrestling name, the "Tiger Man," was tacked on him in New York. Always aggressive and working in and out of his opponent, Pesek's attack is like that of the jungle beast.

A. outfielder, led the team's sluggers with four out of five. Next Saturday, Western Military plays the Concordia Seminary at Alton.

Wills Willing to Box Firpo, Johnson and Willard on Same Day

NEW YORK.

HARRY WILLS, negro heavyweight challenger, who is out in the cold as far as the "white hopes" and Jack Dempsey are concerned, wants to give his services free to the Milk Fund.

"I'll agree to fight Willard, Floyd Johnson, Firpo and Jack McAuliffe II. in the same ring on May 12 at the Yankee Stadium," says Wills, "and I don't ask for a penny. But if I stop all of them I want a match with Dempsey."

Wills' proposition, no doubt, will be ignored, but he may be asked to sign articles to meet Dempsey at the Polo Grounds on Labor Day. In that case Dempsey will have to fight.

PENN STATE SETS NEW RECORD BEATING OXFORD

the two mile international run yesterday, tried gallantly to make up the ground lost by Moore, but the best he could do was to land second place, outrunning Connolly of Georgetown, who was weakened by his efforts in previous events.

Kirby finished fourth for Cornell, which had won the race the previous year.

Lecony in Form.

A spectacular burst of speed by Alf Lecony, Lafayette's sprint champion, enabled the Eastonians to capture the half-mile championship while Allen Woodring, Olympic 200 meter champion, stepped a fast quarter mile to clinch the mile title from Syracuse, although the Orange flash, starting with a 25-yard lead, gathered by his teammates, was not extended. He was clocked in 49 3-5.

Hamilton Collegiate Institute of Canada scored an international victory in the two-mile championship for both high and preparatory school runners. Mercerburg, Pennsylvania Academy, carried off the honors in the one mile prep school event, while Lakewood, Ohio high school, decisively vanquished a strong field of rivals in the one-mile high school title race.

Leconey showed his heels to the best college sprinters of the country in the 100-yard dash, breaking the tape in the final heat in 10 seconds after benig clocked 9 4-5 seconds for his first heat.

C. Moore, of Penn State, sprang a surprise by winning the 120-yard hurdles from Brickman, of Chicago, and Treman of Cornell, the indoor international collegiate champion. Havers, of Harvard, outdoor titleholder, failed to qualify for the final.

Weather conditions handicapped Dehart Hubard, Michigan's great negro athlete, who failed in his attempt to break the broad jump mark, but the Westerner easily won first place with a leap of 23 feet 10¼ inches.

Five American college teams lined up with Oxford in the feature event of the afternoon. Georgetown's first two runners, Geegan and Brewster, set a fast pace for the first mile, closely pressed by Stevenson, the American member of the Oxford team and his teammate, Hewetson with Pennsylvania State in third place.

At this point Enck of State shot out into the lead and opened up a gap of about 20 yards over Miller, the third Oxonian, when he turned over the baton to Helfferich. Milligan running anchor for Oxford started out in pursuit, but Helfferich had something in reserve to answer the challenge.

Milligan's final bid in the last quarter was not good enough and the Penn State flier added 10 yards to his lead as he raced down the stretch. Connolly exhausted by the swift pace, fell yards back of the Oxford Captain.

Aspiration Has Made Fast Time In Derby Trial

Benjamin Block's Candidate, Recently Purchased, Has Negotiated Mile in 1:41 4-5.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 28.—With the running of the forty-ninth renewal of the Kentucky Derby a matter of only three weeks off, the condition of the various candidates, their ability to carry weight and their endurance in races over a route of ground, and also the class of opponents they are meeting in races at different points where racing is in progress, are being closely watched by the students of the merits of the thoroughbred horse.

Some of the seasoned 3-year-olds that have engaged in racing at Bowie and Harve de Grace are finding favor with the racing public such as their performances justify.

Gen. Thatcher made his 3-year-old debut early at Bowie, and while he had little in the way of class to beat, did so in such convincing fashion that his admirers are sanguine that he will be a hard horse to beat.

W. S. Kilmer's Sally's Alley, the champion 2-year-old of last year, won at the first asking, and her stock soared immediately. She was soon backed into equal favoritism with the Rancocas stable's Zev, which, according to reports from the East, has worked exceptionally fast.

Zev Has Not Yet Started.

Zev, however, has not been to the races this year, and may not make his bow to the public for some days yet, if at all, before he goes in the Derby, which will assure a good price against him even if he shows faster trials before May 19, as the fans figure that one race under a horse's belt is worth two or more workouts.

J. S. Cosden's Dunlin, winner of the Hopeful Stakes, has not shown to the satisfaction of the racing public that he is the great 3-year-old his performances last year would lead them to believe, and while he gave lumps of weight away in his last race at Havre de Grace, the fact that Eulalia defeated him does not speak very well for him. Cosden's Golden Rule showed to good advantage in his racing, but has not covered a route of ground, and may be only a sprinter at best.

Martingale, from the same barn, has not started and no line on his condition can be gained until he does. This colt favors mud and if he is in condition to race by Derby Day and the track is heavy he will be dangerous.

Goshawk Training Satisfactorily.

Gifford A. Cochran's Goshawk is training very satisfactorily at Jamaica and will be seen in action probably on the opening day of racing on the Metropolitan Circuit May 2.

August Belmont's Messinger, winner of the Grab Bag handicap last season, is reported to be going along well in his preparation at Belmont Park.

The Whitney horses are still at Red Bank, N. J., and little information as to their condition can be gleaned, but their trainer, the veteran James Rowe Sr. will have any one of the candidates that he sends to the post as fit as hands can make them.

Enchantment occupied the post of favorite in the future book on the Derby until a week ago and is the most formidable of the Harry Payne Whitney eligibles.

Aspiration Has Shown Well.

The colts, geldings and fillies in the West that are eligible to the Derby have been showing to good advantage, with Louis Marshall's Prince K. having the fastest mile trial to his credit to date over the Downs course. Many of the candidates for the classic will get into action at the Lexington meeting in the Blue Grass stakes and other races that will help to fit them for their engagement in the feature race of the year.

JOCKEY ALFRED ABEL WON FIVE RACES IN ONE DAY AT BOWIE

BALTIMORE, April 28.—Thunderous ovation, of which kings and princes would be proud, greeted Alfred Abel, a thin, lanky lad of 19, who rode horses at Bowie race track, Maryland, this spring.

He rode into fame last April 6 aboard five winners in seven mounts. Cheap horses they were, not a real good one among them, and horsemanship was the answer. No wonder Abel, an apprentice boy, is the sensation of the turf world today.

Three of the boy's winners came in a row—Faith W. in the second, Windigo in the third and Flying Devil in the fourth race. Then he piloted Tingling to victory in the sixth and St. Germain in the last.

Abel developed under the tutelage of James Arthur, to whom he is under contract. Arthur is noted for making famous riders. His most famous boy is "Chick" Lang, whose contract he sold to J. S. Cosden, Baltimore oil magnate, for $25,000 last year. Other successful boys handled by Arthur are Rick Creek, Robbins, Rodriguez and Otis.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Fred Fulton, Minnesota heavyweight, passed through Chicago today on his way from New York to Park Rapids, Minn., where he announced he had purchased a summer business place. After a few days in Minnesota, Fulton said he would return to New York, where he is expected to be kept busy by Tex Rickard.

U. S. Municipal Net Event to Be Played in August

Six Tournaments Are Sanctioned by Local District Association Committee.

By Davison Obear.

Four important tournaments will be played here during the tennis season. These events will be open to local players holding membership in clubs belonging to the district and municipal tennis associations.

Six tournaments were sanctioned by the St. Louis District Association committee, composed of Harold M. Hess, chairman; Alvin Schwarz, president of the Municipal Tennis Association; Woodward H. Brown, secretary of the district body, and Fred C. Whiting, at a meeting last week.

It is also probable that there will be tournaments for the championship of St. Louis County and St. Clair County, Illinois. The tournament committee will send out a questionnaire tomorrow to all the clubs in the district association. It will pertain to tournaments and there will be a request for views on the desirability of holding interclub matches during June and July.

There has been no organized interclub play during the past four years. The Triple A, St. Louis Country Club, Kirkwood Country Club and a few of the smaller clubs played a number of matches during the season of 1922. In the year 1919 a very successful interclub tournament was held. A total of 15 senior teams took part in the play and there was a junior division with teams from four clubs.

List of Sanctioned Events.

The schedule of tournaments as sanctioned by the St. Louis District Tennis Association is as follows:

June 16—Triple A Club championship.

June 23—Junior District center championship for boys.

July 2—Central States championship for men, Triple A Club.

July 7—Local municipal championship for men and women—public park courts.

July 15—Open date (Missouri Valley at Kansas City).

Aug. 8 to 11—National municipal championship of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Sept. 1—City district championship, for men, Triple A Club.

The most important event on the schedule is the National Municipal Championship. It will start on August 8 and should be completed Aug. 11. No announcement has been made as to where the matches will be played, but the Forest Park courts will probably be the scene of the tournament.

At its annual meeting Feb. 3, the United States Lawn Tennis Association voted to establish a national municipal championship. At the March meeting of the executive committee the tournament was awarded to St. Louis. Public park tennis champions from a number of cities are expected to participate.

Central States a Fixture.

The Central States tournament is a usual fixture for local players as well as for those in nearby states. This classic has been played on the courts of the Triple A Club in Forest Park almost every season for a period of over 15 years.

According to the official schedule the annual championship tournament of the Municipal Tennis Association will start on July 7. This event usually attracts an entry of 400 players using the public courts. Each park club holds a tournament and the semifinalists then play in an elimination event at Forest Park. The winners of the elimination of playoff become the champions of the Municipal Association.

Some of the local ranking tennis players are planning to take part in the Missouri Valley championship during the week of July 15. This tournament will be played on the courts of the Rockhill Tennis Club in Kansas City. The team winning the doubles title will be sent to Boston for the national doubles championships, to be held in August.

U. S. Golfers Divide Honors With Britons

Win Only Two of Four-Ball Matches, but Capture Four of the Six Two-Ball Contests From Rivals.

SWEETSER AND OUIMET ARE AMERICAN STARS

Amateur Champion Has a Par 71, While Boston Player Amazes English Followers With His Deadly Putting.

By Patterson McNutt.

(Copyright, 1923.)

RYE, England, April 28. — The American golf team split even here today in playing their first official matches.

Playing team matches against the Oxford and Cambridge Golfing Society, the Yankees won only two of the six four-ball matches in the morning, but in the afternoon they came back and won four out of six of the two-ball matches.

Considering that the best English players are represented and it is the second day on the course for the Americans the results are satisfying to the Yankee rooters.

Jess Sweetser and Francis Ouimet were the stars of both morning and afternoon matches. Sweetser played the first nine holes of the morning round in 35, one under par and had par of 71 when the match ended at the fifteenth hole. The American champion was hitting tee shots powerful enough to bore through the heavy wind and at the same time pitching toward the pin with deadly accuracy. His putting was confident and his play impressed the British observers greatly, and they confess frankly that they fear he has the stuff to win the English title.

Ouimet Dazzles Gallery.

Ouimet dazzled the big gallery which followed the players with his brilliant putting. He also is beginning to place tee shots, but his approaches still are a bit ragged. He is improving every day and his opponents are sure he is a dangerous competitor with which to deal. In holing out he dropped them in today from all parts of the greens.

Sweetser, Ouimet, George V. Rotan and Jack Neville were the only Americans to win this morning, but the United States players began to get red behind the ears during luncheon and were determined to "go get 'em" in the two ball matches. They gathered in the locker room before starting and adopted the slogan, "Let's go, gang, and give them the old championship stuff."

In the afternoon, Sweetser and Ouimet beat Cyril Tolley and R. H. DeMontmorency, two and one. Robert A. Gardner and Max Marston took Roger Wethered and Bernard Darwin, two up. S. Davison Herron and Harrison R. Johnston defeated E. W. E. Holdernes and A. J. Evans, one up. Dr. O. F. Willing and Fred Wright Jr. beat D. E. Landale and I. F. Storey, seven and five.

Putting Amazes English.

The English are all amazed at the skill of the American putting and the ability of the Yankees to drive through the wind. The boys also are learning how to handle the tricky greens on approaches and it seems they have better than an even chance to win the English title.

I should say that Sweetser, Gardner or Ouimet have the best chance to collect. Gardner is coming along fast and should be in top form when the championship begins.

Champion Gene Sarazen Advises Careful Selection of Sticks

Beginner Should Use a Driver With Face Laid Back — When in Doubt Always Play the "Longer" Club.

By Gene Sarazen.
World's Champion Golfer.

SELECTING a set of clubs should be done with great care by any person who intends to play golf well. But the great majority of players are indifferent about this matter, and are content to take the advice of some friend. No man can play good golf who hasn't a good set of clubs; an army must be properly equipped to fight a successful battle and a golfer must have the right kind of clubs to make the shots properly.

If you are just beginning the game and do not know the kind of clubs you can use best select only a few—say five at the start. After you have played a while you will be better able to judge the worth of a club and to select the kind that is fitted for your swing.

I advise most beginners to start playing with a driver, having a brass plate, and with the face laid back quite a bit, which he can use for a brassie; a midiron, a mashie, a niblick or a deep-faced mashie-niblick, and a putter, preferably a steel putter.

Do not concern yourself with any ribbed clubs or with any fancy grips. The thinner the grip the better for a beginner because such a player ought to get into the habit of gripping the clubs with the fingers and not the palm of the hand.

I advise a driver with a slanting face because it is easier to control the ball with that kind of club. You will probably have a tendency to hit the ball high with such a club, but do not trouble yourself about that if you are hitting the ball straight. After you have developed accuracy and direction you can proceed with the task of getting a low trajectory on your drives.

Suggestions as to Clubs.

A driver of about 42 inches long and weighing about 14 ounces is suitable for the average beginner. You don't want a club that is too light for then you will have a tendency to hurry your backswing.

Neither do you want a club that is too heavy because you don't want to have to labor in swinging the bludgeon. A good hickory shaft with a fairly large head makes the best kind of wooden club I think. The shaft shouldn't be too stiff, but should have just enough whip in it to give it flexibility. You want to be able to feel the shot, as we say.

Your midiron should be about 38 inches long and fairly heavy; a No. 3 iron is best for a beginner. The shafts of all iron clubs should be very stiff—no whip whatever, because all good iron shots are played firmly and with the arms held rigidly. The reason I advocate a No. 3 iron is that this kind of club has more left in the face than a No. 1 or No. 2 iron and you will be better able to get the ball up.

A mashie with a fairly deep face is the right kind to use if you are just starting. The length of a mashie should be about 37 inches. A broad-faced niblick or a wide mashie-niblick will do for recovering from traps or deep rough and for high pitch shots. About 36 inches is good enough for this kind of a club.

A Steel Blade Putter.

Until you have developed a good putting touch I would suggest the steel blade putter. It is easier to handle and can be used more around the greens than the aluminum putter or any other kind. In fact it would be practically impossible to use an aluminum putter on a shot from off the green successfully.

I carry both. When the greens are heavy or if they are true I use my aluminum club. I like rather to drive my putts. Hutchison like to dribble his putts into the cup. If the greens are rough I use my steel putter.

As your game develops you will probably want to change your clubs. You will then want a driver that has very little loft in the face. I wouldn't advise a perfectly straight-faced club for it is very difficult to control the ball with that kind.

"Use the Longer Club."

As you progress you will want also a spoon. This is one of the most useful clubs a player can have. If the lie is none too good you can use the club in place of the brassie. Often you can use it playing out of rough or even out of traps—although my advice when trapped is—"make sure to get out and forget about distance."

You can use a spoon in place of a full midiron too if that kind of shot looks a little too long. Harry Vardons' advice in this respect is worth remembering: "When in doubt always use the longer club."

Having become proficient—if you have—you will have a No. 1 iron for shots into the wind, for distances ranging from 160 to 190 yards. A mashie-iron is also a useful club for playing into the wind and for pitch shots to short holes averaging about 150 yards.

Don't overload at the start with too many clubs. Get acquainted with a few and add to your equipment as you progress.

Sarazen-Hagen Are Beaten in Special Match

Hutchison and Barnes Win From Rivals by 6 Up and 5 to Play Score.

By Leased Wire From New York Bureau of Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The foreign-born professionals, Jim Barnes and Jock Hutchison, proved too much for Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen in their 36-hole "international" match at the Westchester-Biltmore Country Club today, the first named pair finishing 6 up and 5 to play.

As a result, Barnes and Hutchison are three points to the good for the purse put up by Sir Stanley Cochrane, the Irish sportsman. There are seven points in all to be won, the other four to be divided tomorrow when conditions call for 36 holes of medal play, two points being awarded for the best individual total, one point for the second best, and one for the best 36-hole aggregate total. For the match play $2000 was put up; for medal, $1000.

To revert to the match yesterday, Gene and Walter, after losing the lead early in the morning round, never regained it. They stood 2 down, retiring for luncheon, and after Barnes won the first two holes in the afternoon it was all over so far as Walter and Gene were concerned.

Barnes had not been playing in anything like his regular form early in the day, but he shone like a bright light in the second round. He won the first hole in 3, and supplemented that by running down a 15-foot putt for a 2 at the second. The others had a stroke more at that hole.

Barnes Sinks Long Putt.

Both Sarazen and Barnes drove into the brook at the third hole, but even so it was a halved affair when Barnes got a 4, the same as Hagen. At the next, Hutchison had his brilliant moment when he sank a putt of 30 feet. Barnes came right back by running down the longest putt of the match, a 40-foot affair, for a 2, at the fifth. That gave Jock and Jim commanding lead of 6 up. All had 4s at the sixth.

The seventh is a short hole and all of the players got home from the tee. Barnes was short on his try for a 2, and Hagen, after overruning on his approach putt, tried again, the ball practically rolling into the cup and out again. Hutchison was short on his approach, but showed himself equal to the occasion after Sarazen ran down his for a 3. Jock saved a half for his side there.

All had 4s at the eighth, so that 4s at the ninth left the foreign-born professionals 6 up turning for home. Both Hagen and Sarazen got 4s at the twelfth hole, but a wining streak on the part of the leading combination gave them the thirteenth and fourteenth and Jock settled matters with a 2 at the fifteenth.

Hutchison Gets a 75.

The golf in the morning round was anything but championship caliber. Hutchison's 75 was only two strokes more than the best ball for his side. There were just a few instances where one or the other player stood out, one in point being at the third hole. There Sarazen after a bad shot ran down a long putt for a 4 to win the hole and become an up. There Hutchison got into trouble and picked up. It was Hagen's turn to pick up at the next, while Hutchison got four, a stroke better than Sarazen and Barnes. Both Hagen and Gene scored for their sides at the next, and after that it was a case of first one side and then the other taking the lead. All had 5s at the ninth, so that the players turned for home even.

Practically the only hole where one put was needed was at the tenth, where Barnes, after having his ball stopped by a spectator, the ruber core rolling to the sandpit guarding the green, ran down his putt for a 3, whereupon "Hutch" not to be outdone got his 3 there. Sarazen and Hagen both had 4s.

Gene run down a long putt to win the fourteenth. At that time the opposing side stood 2 up. Hutchison and Barnes regained that lead at the fifteenth where both the pros got threes. Hagen scored his side at the seventeenth after being short on his second shot so that the champions were only 1 down going to the home hole. There Jock's second shot overran the green, but he laid his approach putt to within a few feet of the hole and won in 4 when the others needed 5.

Eden Defeats McKendree.

Eden Seminary baseball nine won from McKendree College at Lebanon, Ill., yesterday, 12 to 5. The score: McKendree, 5-8-3; Eden, 12-10-1. Batteries: Isom, Sayre and Sayre, Utter; Garnand, Kissell, Kruger and Kindt.

Columbia Varsity Oarsmen Capture Childs Cup Race

Rice's Crew Takes Lead at Start and Is Able to Ward Off Penn for Entire Route.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 28. —Columbia University scored a double victory today when her varsity crew won the seventeenth annual race for the Childs cup over the American Henley course, defeating Penn and Princeton, and her junior eight went over the Schuylkill ahead of the junior crews of the same two universities.

In the varsity race Columbia won by two lengths, with Penn second, Princeton third. In the junior race the finish positions were the same. Columbia's time was 7m. 44s.; Penn, 7m. 56s.; Princeton, 8m. 8s.

Columbia took the lead at the end of the first 15 strokes and was never headed. At the Trolley Bridge Penn tried in vain to overtake Coach Rice's crew, but failed in the effort. Princeton was hopelessly outclassed from the start.

At the three-quarter-mile post Penn spurted and almost caught the winners, but the Columbia oarsmen raised their stroke slightly and by the time they reached Peters Island they were one and a half lengths ahead, and had two full lengths of open water at the finish.

Columbia Jumps Into Lead.

From the start to the end of the first mile it was a hard race, but at that point Columbia, without much effort, jumped into the lead. They rowed a 31 stroke and Penn rowed 33 over most of the course. When the varsity race started the ranks of the spectators were swelled to around the 10,000 mark and the drive literally packed with automobiles.

The weather conditions were very unfavorable, due to a strong head wind and a light shower which preceded the first race, but which gave way to the sun just before the varsity event was held.

Columbia junior varsity crew crossed the line first in the second event of the day after a gruelling race in which Penn held the lead for three-quarters of a mile.

Penn shot out in the lead at the start with Columbia second and Princeton bringing up the rear. At the Trolley Bridge, Penn had a half length lead and the crew was rowing a 36 stroke, Columbia 37 and Princeton 35.

Penn Crew Loses Lead.

At the half mile post Columbia challenged Penn, but the Red and Blue oarsmen were equal to the occasion and held their lead for a time, but at the three-quarter post they momentarily lost their form and Coach Rice's proteges took advantage of this. The Blue and White crew took the lead. The result was never in doubt from the point near Peters Island. Columbia finished one and a half lengths ahead of Penn in 8 m. 18s. Penn's time was 8m. 26s., and Princeton's was 8m. 29s.

The Penn freshmen second eight scored a close victory in the preliminary scholastic race. The "B" crew edged ahead of the Penn freshmen "A" crew after a spurt down the home stretch. The margin of difference between the two Red and Blue shells at the judges' stand was six feet. Episcopal, the third entry, placed a poor third. The winners' time for the mile was 6m. 1¼s; and the time of the second boat was 6m. 2¼s.

GOLF INNOCENTS ABROAD

Close-ups of Personality and Game of American Invaders

By PATTERSON McNUTT

No. 4—Dave Herron.

S. Davidson Herron of Pittsburg completes the list of national champions accompanying the U. S. G. A. expeditionary force sent in quest of the Walker Cup and the British amateur championship. Herron was a power on the links in 1920, when he climaxed a great year of golf by winning the national amateur title after a stubborn battle with Bobby Jones.

Bobby was not the spectacular golfer then that he is today, but even so, the golfing man who beat the Southern star could legitimately take a lot of unction to his soul if he cared for that commodity.

After winning the national title, Herron apparently decided that he had done well by himself and that he was entitled to a rest.

Since that time he has stayed home from the wars, but toward the latter part of the 1922 season he became restive again and served notice that he might once more do his championship stuff.

Herron is a powerful hitter through the fairway and fairly steady on his short game. His temperament is ideally suited to match play, and he is a handy man to have around the place when the boys get mad and the hostile niblicks start swinging through the air.

Osner to Battle Sparks Wednesday

Double Windup to Feature Boxing Show at First Regiment Armory.

Frankie Osner, who won from "Peewee" Kaiser on the occasion of his latest appearance in a boxing ring, will oppose Kid Sparks of Terre Haute, Ind., in one half of a double windup which will feature the Business Men's Athletic Association's show at the First Regiment Armory Wednesday evening.

A toss of a coin will decide whether the Osner-Sparks bout or the Johnny McCoy-Frankie Conway bout will serve as the main event of the evening.

McCoy has been in St. Louis for several days, working out at the Business Men's gymnasium. Sparks and Conway are due to arrive today.

All the principals of the main events are bantams.

The eight round semi-windup may furnish more real action than either of the finals. Buddy McHale and Ora Dean, are the opponents in this event.

A preliminary bout brings together Morris King and "Young" Dundee, 125-pounders. The main events will go 10 rounds; the semi-windup 8 rounds and the preliminary 4 rounds.

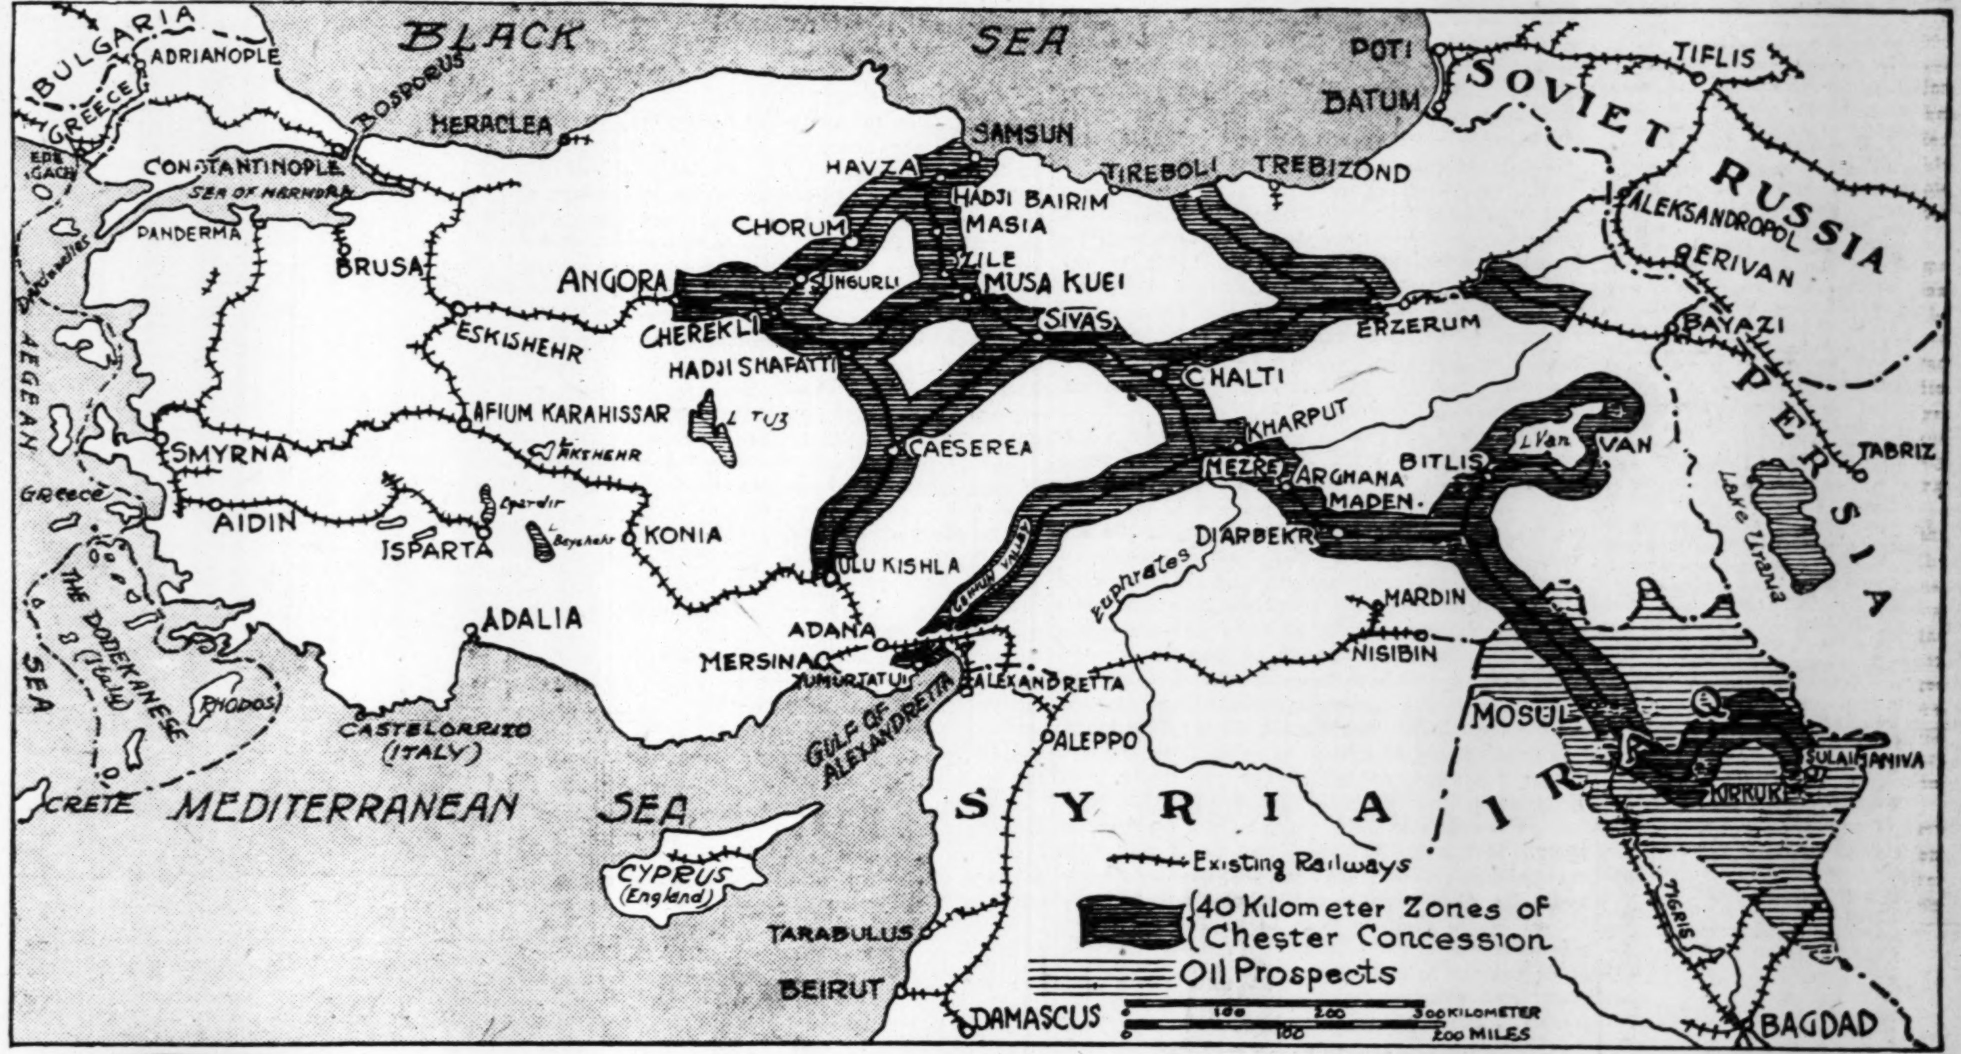
The Chester Concession in Turkey

Just What and Where It Is and What It Signifies

PROGRESSIVE AMERICAN ENGINEERS TO DIG MOSLEM PEOPLE OUT OF THE DUST OF ANTIQUITY

How an Admiral of the U. S. Fleet Won the Sublime Porte's Regard on a Secret Diplomatic Mission During Roosevelt's Administration to Such a Degree He Was Urged to Come to Turkey to Command and Build Up the Fleet, an Honor That Also Was Offered Later to His Son, Likewise an American Naval Officer — Now as a Sequel to This High Regard Comes the Exclusive Privilege to Exploit a Vast Region With Mineral Wealth Estimated at Over $4,000,000,000 While English and French Capitalists Vainly Rave.

Map of the immense railroad concession granted to the Chesters, with the 20-mile zone of rich mineral lands on either side of the right-of-way indicated.



By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 28.

IN the beginning, the story of the vast Chester concession which the Turkish Government has granted American interests for the economic development of Turkey is the story of a Connecticut Yankee at the Sultan's court.

Later chapters ramify into world politics. Oil, newest and most virulent of international trouble-makers, becomes the theme. Roosevelt and Root are characters; European diplomatists, keen on the scent of oil, stalk across the pages; in the background are unidentified American financiers and the American State Department.

The leading character throughout is the adventurous American naval officer from whom the concession takes its name. He is the Connecticut Yankee of the story. At the age of 79, he is watching, with jealous interest, a train of events that he set in motion 23 years ago.

Colby M. Chester, now a Rear Admiral of the United States Navy, on the retired list, went to Turkey in 1900 in command of the U. S. S. Kentucky. His mission was to help collect an American claim for indemnity growing out of the destruction of missionaries' property in 1896, not a mission, it would seem, calculated to win him the favor of the Turks. He got the indemnity and so tactfully and skillfully did he conduct his negotiations he made a warm friend of the Sultan, Abdul Hamid.

Had "Time of His Life"

He has since remarked that during the 10 days he spent in Constantinople as the guest of the Sultan he had the "time of his life." Then and later he was showered with honors by the Turkish Government. On one occasion he was offered the command of the Turkish Navy and, when he declined, the Sultan told him that the Government would get an order from Roosevelt compelling him to accept. The name of Roosevelt, the Admiral says, was a name to conjure with in Turkey in those days. As a result of the friendly feeling for America engendered by the negotiations of 1900, the Sultan made a contract for the building of a Turkish cruiser at Philadelphia and gave encouragement to Robert College. The fair policy of the United States, explains Admiral Chester, was an eye-opener to the Sultan, who, during the whole 23 years of his reign up to 1900, had been the constant victim of European intrigues. He let the Admiral know that he would welcome a closer relationship with America and a large increase of the trade between the two countries.

In 1906, after he had filled a number of important posts in the navy, Admiral Chester, being then 62 years old, was retired. The Government, however, recognizing his flair for diplomacy, did not let him go into seclusion, and in 1908 he was sent abroad to represent the United States at an international congress of geographers at Geneva, an aeronautic congress at London and a convention of navigation experts at St. Petersburg. More important than any of these assignments, which furnished the ostensible reason for his tour, was a commission that he carried from the New York Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Trade and Transportation of New York to go to Turkey and see what could be done to foster trade relations with the Near East.

Roosevelt and Root Supported Move

President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Root were in full sympathy with this effort of American capital to break into the rich Near Eastern field. Admiral Chester was to find the door through which it might enter. The success which had attended his first visit to Turkey made him the right man for the job.

Going to Constantinople, Admiral Chester received a warm greeting from his old friend, the Sultan, and began forthwith the negotiations which have just culminated, 15 years later, in the ratification of the Chester concession by the Turkish National Parliament at Angora.

The Admiral's task was smoothed by the esteem in which the Turks held him. First, the Sultan wanted to decorate him, but the Admiral, being an American naval officer, refused. He did decorate a son of the Admiral with one of the highest Ottoman orders.

Coming down to the business in which the Admiral was interested, the Sultan suggested that he undertake the direction of all the public works of which Turkey stood in need. Abdul Hamid, the Admiral says, actually proposed that he assume full responsibility for the letting of all contracts for railroad, docks, oil and other developmental works, with the sole restriction that all the contracts should go to Americans.

Young Turks Overthrew Sultan

The negotiations were in a fair way to come to a happy ending when Abdul Hamid was overthrown by the Young Turks and locked up in the Bosporus Palace. Finally, however, in 1909, the Admiral got assent to a concession based on the scheme of railroad and port construction and mineral development which he had laid down. As its chief feature, the concession carries the right to construct 1200 miles of railway and develop a strip of territory 20 kilometers wide on each side of the right of way. An incident of the plan is the proposed continuation of the Bagdad Railway eastward to the Persian border, where it is contemplated that Persia, aided by British capital, will continue the construction through that country and thus bring to realization the long-cherished dream of a Constantinople-to-Bagdad road.

COMMANDER CHESTER, U. S. N.
He is a son of the Admiral.

This, in brief outline, is the concession which has just been ratified. There is no doubt, according to Admiral Chester, that it would have received parliamentary sanction long ago if a succession of wars had not prevented. When the negotiations were completed in 1909 Turkey was in a turmoil after the revolution. The war between Turkey and Italy, the two Balkan wars and the World War followed. During all this period it was manifestly impossible for the American promoters of the scheme to operate. Their claim, however, the Admiral insists, validly runs back to the grant of 1909, because the contract, as signed by the Turkish Minister of Public Works, expressly stipulated that operations might be suspended in the event of war, without loss of any of the concessionaires' rights.

Turks Dated Back Concessions

The Admiral points out, moreover, that the Turkish Parliament, in its recent act of ratification, which passed with only 12 dissenting votes in a total of about 350, safeguarded the American's claims by dating the concession back to 1909.

The companies which have been organized to exploit the concessions are the Ottoman-American Development Co. and the Ottoman-American Petroleum Co. The nature of the financial backing has not been disclosed.

Standard Oil, it is known, is not only not associated with the project, but is antagonistic. At the head of the Ottoman-American Industrial Co., which proposes to build the railroads provided for by the concession, is Major-General George W. Goethals of Panama Canal fame. Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late President, has also been mentioned as one of Admiral Chester's associates. An active assistant in the enterprise is one of the Admiral's sons, Commander Arthur T. Chester, U. S. N., retired, who, after seeing the concession through the Turkish Parliament, is now on his way home with the contracts to arrange financial details prior to the beginning of surveys. An interesting sidelight on the good will of the Turks for the Chesters is the fact that Arthur, like his father before him, was offered the command of the Turkish Navy.

In all his dealings with the Turks, the Admiral has seen the return of the bread that he cast upon the waters. For instance, he persuaded President Roosevelt to send the American fleet to Constantinople during its world tour.

The Turkish Government, naturally, was pleased. Going further, Admiral Chester arranged for 12 young Turkish naval officers to return with the fleet and receive instructions at Annapolis.

One of these officers, Rouf Bey, was present when the Turkish Parliament ratified the Chester concession, with only 12 dissenting votes. He happens to be now the Grand Vizier of Turkey.

Not long ago, a representative of the Standard Oil Co. called on the Grand Vizier and said:

"I presume you understand that the Standard Oil Co. is not back of this concession?"

"I presume you understand," returned the Grand Vizier, "that the Turkish Government is back of it."

If the story of the Chester concession ended here, it would need only an epilogue telling that American capitalists are getting ready to reap the fruit of Chester's long labors, but oil enters

Conditions of Chester Grant Which French Banker "Calls Most Amazing Bargain World Has Ever Known"

Reveal Remarkable Confidence in the Ability of Admiral Chester to Finance and Carry Out Tremendous Enterprise.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, April 28.

"THE most amazing bargain sale the world has ever known," is the way a prominent French banker today characterized the Turkish Government's concessions to Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, U. S. N., which the Angora Government for some reason is anxious not to have broadcast.

They reveal, however, a remarkable confidence in Admiral Chester, as controlling finances necessary to carry out the task of constructing railways and ports, exploiting hundreds of mines and building schoolhouses which would require almost unprecedented influence in all branches of human effort.

This correspondent has obtained one of the few copies of the concessions terms secretly brought here from Constantinople, not even the French Foreign Office being yet provided with complete texts of the three accords.

They show that the Turkish Government in what seems a dream of making Turkey the economic master of both Europe and Asia, has virtually placed itself for 99 years in the hands of the Chester group or any one to whom Admiral Chester might sell out the operating rights in the multitudinous grants and all for the lump sum of 70,000 pounds, Turkish. (The pre-war value of a Turkish pound was $4.375.) Today this is worth less than $40,000 in American money.

What French Concessions Were

The concessions which the French claim were accorded them in 1914 in return for the loan promised of 1,000,000,000 francs and only a small part of what is granted to the Chester Syndicate, although the French, having already lent half a billion before hostilities broke out, would have paid another 800,000,000 francs.

A secret report by Feyzi Bey, Minister of Public Works to the Angora Government early in February, also shows that an American, Dr. Glasgow, representing the C. J. Whyte Construction Co. of New York as early as 1909, also was after the 3000 kilometer railway and mineral grant on a basis of paying 20,000 pounds Turkish but was outbid by Admiral Chester, who a year later obtained the Grand Vizier's consent to commence operations, but the deal was not ratified by the Chamber "For political reasons."

Feyzi Bey's report, a copy of which the correspondent possesses, continues:

"Recently A. Kennedy and Clarence Chester, son of Admiral Chester, acting as the Ottoman Development Co., by virtue of a procuration signed on the 8th of May, 1922, came to Angora to ask that their project be resumed. My department was instructed to study the question. I received a letter dated Nov. 4, 1922, from Banca Commerciale D'Italia, announcing a deposit of 50,000 pounds Turkish as a guarantee. Likewise this bank wrote that the petitioners had the means to execute the work in question. The Guaranty Trust Co. had written a letter to the same effect in August, 1922.

"Official private information gathered by my department confirmed these declarations the work represented in round figures an expenditure of at least 400,000,000 pounds Turkish and it is impossible to envisage a method of construction which will be more advantageous for our railway system. It is certain today, because of the lack of companies, we could not get more than five per cent of the revenues of the mines already in exploitation: For example, the copper mines of Arghana, which are among the richest in the world, cannot provide even a living for the population of the region, which is now the poorest in the world."

Playing for U. S. Sympathy in War

One of the most startling paragraphs in Feyzi Bey's report, however, shows he was not only thinking of economic superiority but for exploiting American assistance in future wars.

"In the event of the construction of these lines, which have received the approval of the General Staff—thus becoming an essential part of Turkey's future strategic system—our country will increase in riches and will be in position to oppose no matter what aggression from the exterior."

Herewith is the principal condition between Gant and Oads (Grand Assembly of National Turkey and the Ottoman American Development Society), covering the main railway lines, mineral rights and water exploitation grants.

Under Article 1, Gant accords Oads, which accepts, a concession to construct and exploit on conditions herein announced the foreign railways, to be approved by the Commissioner of Public Works, and to be a width of 1.48 meters:

A.—A line leaving Sivas, pass Karpout, Arghana, Diarbekir and Bitlis and terminating at Van.

B—A line from the vicinity of Karpout to Youmourtalik, via the Valley of Djeihoun.

C—A line from a point on line A passing by Mosul and Korkut, terminating at Suleymanie.

Facts on Financial Terms

Article II.—Stipulates that the duration of the concession shall be 99 years from date of ratification of the concession.

Article III.—Stipulates that Oads, within 30 days of acceptance of concession, must deposit as guaranty of execution with the Banca Commerciale D'Italia, 70,000 pounds Turkish, this sum to be refunded after construction and acceptance of the first 200 kilometers of railway. The company may deposit the guaranty with any other bank except the Ottoman Bank, but in the event it is a foreign bank the company must obtain of the Ambassador of that country a letter declaring that, if conflicts arise, the deposit must be transmitted to tribunals appertaining to the Turkish Government. In the event the sum does not total 70,000 pounds Turkish within the specified grace of one month, the initial deposit of 50,000 pounds becomes the property of Gant. Likewise, in the event Oads is not constituted under the commissioners specified in this concession as a Turkish company, the whole guaranty of 70,000 pounds Turkish becomes the property of the Government.

ARTICLE IV.—Pledges Oads to become constituted within six months following ratification as a Turkish corporation, to be submissive in the present and future to Turkish laws, the constitution to be approved by Gant. Oads promises to put at the disposal of Turkey, during a period of 80 days, one-half the shares of the corporation thus constituted, after which delay the society may dispose of all shares not taken by Turkish subjects.

Article V. and VI. provide three months for the Turkish Government to study the plans for railway construction, which must be prepared within 12 months of ratification, though this period may be extended by the Commissioner of Public Works in case of necessity; but the society is pledged to commence line B within six months thereafter and terminate within three years, work on the other lines to begin within two years following acceptance of the plans and finished within seven years.

Article VII says the Commissariat will name technicians to supervise and study construction and administration but to cover the expenses of such supervision the com-

Free Speech in England.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

READING of the spectacular success of the British Labor party in England and its conspicuous leaders, I feel like expressing my opinion on the subject. Remember, a citizen of England can speak his mind in public without fear of molestation. Can you conceive of a McDonald or Snowden exhorting the laboring classes in America to put their own class in power? Can you conceive of a Lincoln today challenging the right of any man to enslave another, or teaching the masses the truth of political democracy?

We know of recent events which prove to the contrary. Senator La Follette was almost expelled from the Senate for telling the truth of the political trickery surrounding the war. Debs paid the price for exposing the real identity of the war makers, and the political vassals who ushered us into the war. Hundreds of others found a prison their reward for attempting to enlighten the masses. Duly elected representatives of the laboring classes were expelled from Legislatures, and one denied his seat in Congress.

Quite a contrast! Free speech, free press and assemblage—no Palmers, no Daughertys in Britain, while we in America tolerate the inquisition. Hail to the British Labor party. Let us working people all unite under the banner of labor and march triumphantly into the legislative halls of government.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IT was a great pleasure to see your editorial on Woodrow Wilson's comment on the world's court. It has always gladdened my heart to see your paper upholding our former President and the League of Nations. I have voted for Wilson two times and will do so again if I had the opportunity.

Limiting Immigration.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ in the columns of your worthy paper of an effort on the part of Mr. Gary to induce Washington to lift the immigration ban as a panacea for the alleged labor shortage. There would be no shortage of labor if the bootleggers and moonshiners would turn to honest labor.

Let Mr. Gary call on Mr. Harding and induce him to try and lift the prohibition ban and he will get all the labor he wants because the moonshiners will turn to honest work when they find no field for their poisonous products. The lifting of the immigration ban will simply bring more bootleggers and anarchists into the country, and the ones who will benefit by it will be the prohibition enforcement agents and all law enforcement agents who will reap a fat harvest, together with Mr. Gary and his ilk, who want cheap and ignorant labor.

Culture in America.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THAT'S just what we have been longing for—world's championship dancing contests under medical supervision! Our culture is not enough developed yet. In addition to the boxing champion, whose merit is to smash the other guy's jaw and blacken his eye, we will now have a new idol—the girl who holds the world's endurance dancing title. We all will adore her; yes, we will; why should we not? Because she is the girl who uses up half a dozen male partners, perhaps a whole dozen, and still dances strong! Notwithstanding the fact that she ruins her health and wrecks her nerves in exchange for the more than questionable honor of being a dancing "champ." But not enough that she ruins her own health—and, believe me, she certainly does—in addition she endangers her posterity. And all this under medical supervision!

Why, those doctors ought to be ashamed of themselves and their profession to attend and countenance such things. Or have they not that much sense to realize that such a torture to any human body as 65 hours' lasting dancing must ruin its system? Are they going to say that such insanity does not affect both heart and nerves? And those amok-dancing girls, do they not think of their children? What will they say if their babies suffer from nerve or epileptic disease, or are inclined to St. Vitus' dance?

And the parents of those girls, have they not enough power to prevent these outrages? We are ever so eager and ready to criticize the godless Bolsheviki and so irritated about their system of ungodliness, but I am sure over there the girls don't dance for 65 hours!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IT seems from the testimony given by Sheriff J. R. Jones of Tallahassee, Fla., that the Sheriffs of Florida have been guilty of selling men to lumber companies the same as the old slave traders, at $22 a head. Cheap, indeed! The authorities of Florida owe the people of that State a thorough investigation of the conduct of every Sheriff in Florida. He says, other Sheriffs were getting $15 a man. It seems they have violated the Constitution of the United States. The Sheriffs as well as lumber companies benefited by the transfer of the men. Similar conditions may exist in other states.

W. W. REYNOLDS.

EDUCATING A PARTY.

If you are to treat participation in a Permanent Court of International Justice as an entanglement foreign to our institutions you must rewrite American history.

This statement by Secretary of State Hughes in his address to the American Society on International Law can be buttressed by a longer list of citations than Mr. Harding submitted in his speech at the Associated Press luncheon in which he undertook to educate the Republican party with respect to its own attitude on the proposal of a World Court.

Had he spoken over the heads of his audience, as Mr. Harding did, Mr. Hughes might have informed the Republican irreconcilables that the first treaty of peace into which the United States entered—that with England in 1783—provided that any dispute arising under the treaty should be settled by arbitration.

He could have told them that the Treaty of Ghent, in 1814, provided for arbitration.

Under the heading of Wars That Might Have Been Fought he might have referred to the Northeastern boundary question in 1828, to the Trent affair, to the Alabama claims, to the Venezuelan dispute, to the Canadian fisheries—all of which aroused high temper and brought the jingoes of both nations to the bellowing front, but all of which were settled amicably and justly by the processes of reason.

Mr. Hughes might have instructed Republicans who, like Gov. Hyde of Missouri, regard participation in the World Court as a departure from the precepts of Washington that in 1890, in the Republican administration of Harrison, Congress, by joint resolution, authorized the President to negotiate with the Powers for the creation of an international tribunal which would pass upon differences which the diplomatic agencies were unable to adjust.

Mr. Hughes, on the authority of American history, might have dwelt upon the splendid truth that the United States never has rejected arbitration as a method for settling a dispute, that arbitration is an American idea, that in the advocacy and support and practice of arbitration we have led all the other nations, and that not until a plan had at last been perfected by which arbitration could be established as a going concern and war prospectively made as obsolete as the barbarism to which it belongs—that not till the realization of the age-long dream was within humanity's grasp did the United States desert and betray the cause of reason as opposed to force.

The education of the Republican party, evidently, has been sadly neglected. That is true, too, of a considerable element of the Democratic party. But it is the Republican party that now especially needs enlightenment, since on that party rests the responsibility of deciding whether the United States shall be false to its traditions and professions or shall faithfully co-operate with the other nations in substituting law and justice for might and conquest and establishing the reign of reason in the world.

THE MINSTREL OF DIPLOMACY.

Ambassador Harvey's speech at the dinner of the Royal Society of St. George in London was far more than a speech. It was a rhapsody, a devotional, the impassioned outburst of a heart brimming over with love for Albion. Had Col. Harvey been born with a monocle, instead of having first blinked his naked eyes at a Vermont sun, he could not cherish the British Lion more tenderly than he does. Let us face the fact, with such fortitude as we may, that we have lost our peppery, mordant Colonel. England has got him. He belongs to her by the unimpeachable title of pride, admiration and affection.

In one of his earlier ballads Kipling asked: "What do they know of England who only England know?" and answered forthwith by reading the tidings borne back to the island home by all the winds from the empire's far-flung outposts. It was the strident jingle of a super-jingo, but Kipling is out-Kiplinged by the Chauvinism of Harvey for England's dear and precious dust.

That the Royal Society of St. George properly appraises the Colonel's laudation may be taken for granted. That it will place the manuscript in its archives for the enrichment and inspiration of posterity is also a good bet. And along with the papyrus the royal society, we suppose, will surely deposit the original trowel with which Harvey spread it on so fluently and floweringly and thick.

The English are a great people and our friendship ought to be cemented, but Harvey honey spoils the cement.

FARMS AND RAILROADS.

Simultaneous reports on the state of the railroads and farms of the nation afford interesting data on the possibility of rate revisions. The Department of Agriculture announces that the cash balance on the average farm available for living expenses and the payment of debts in 1922 was only $715. This does not represent the entire gain, however, as the average increment in inventories of crops, livestock and machinery was $202, and food and fuel produced and consumed on the average farm averaged $294. In addition is the item, formidable to city dwellers, of house rent which is not figured in the report.

With all these items added together the showing is not so unfavorable. But from the total of $1211 subtract 6 per cent interest on the average farm investment of $16,400, and you have a residue of $227 as the total reward in savings for the year's work of the farmer and his family.

The report of the American Railway Association above referred to covers only the increase in equipment and traffic as an index to prosperity. In the 37 weeks from July 1, 1922, to March 17, 1923, the roads handled more freight than ever before in their history for the corresponding period, exceeding the record of 1919 by more than a million tons. From Jan. 1, 1922, to March 15, 1923, they purchased 223,616 new freight cars and purchased or put in service 4219 locomotives. This compares with an annual average of 101,199 new cars and 1960 new locomotives for the period from 1912 to 1922.

The catching up of the roads with the accumulated shortage of equipment during the war and depression periods is a wholesome result for the railroads and the country. It ought to prepare the way for the reduction of freight tariffs which are the bugaboo of the farmer and, by stimulating traffic, should add to the prosperity of both. Legislative farm blocs, however, should not forget the reflection of exorbitant railway taxes on the roads' ability to offer low freight tariffs. The average per mile taxes of class 1 railroads increased from $680 in 1916 to $1179 in 1921. The total in the same period soared from $157,118,372 to $275,882,150.

SCIENTIFIC IMMIGRATION.

Notwithstanding his subsequent statement of qualification, Judge Gary's complaint against the restrictive immigration law, because of its effect on the labor supply, and the responses it has drawn from Government officials and other authorities offer an unprecedented occasion for considering the immigration problem in a scientific light.

Why is immigration? In whose interest has it been maintained? Is it for the benefit of unfortunate aliens, for the nation as a whole or the employers of unskilled labor? Whatever the purposes and effects, have not these been affected by altered conditions?

Immigration to the United States, invited in the beginning, took care of itself. No immigration statistics whatever were kept prior to 1820. No action was taken by Congress either to promote or restrict immigration until 1864, and then only to accelerate the influx. There was no restriction except to bar out idiots, criminals and undesirables and to prohibit contract labor until 1921.

The beneficial effect of the "old immigration" from Northern and Western Europe on the growth and development of the United States is rarely questioned. More recent immigration has revealed another side. How to regulate it in the public interest—that is the question.

The present restriction was laid down principally as a temporary expedient, but as yet has not been followed by any permanent plan. Mr. Gary and other employers chafe at the limitation of the supply of cheap labor. President Harding sympathizes with their position. Other voices, however, moved, we believe, by deeper considerations, dissent from this attitude.

The question has come to a point, we believe, where immigration should be taken out of the hands of the industrial barons, who are active while the public interest goes by default, and turned over to regulation for the greatest good of the country. It is a social problem.

Greater calamities have befallen the country than that Mr. Gary should be compelled to raise the wages of his unskilled labor from 36 to 40 cents an hour. Only a year ago last autumn a conference in Washington was considering the acute problem of unemployment. So common has become the excess of workers over jobs in this country that statisticians have a figure which they refer to as "normal unemployment," and, as we recall, the figure is not less than a million. We also have a seasonal unemployment problem in the best of times and a chronic race problem. Relative to the latter the secretary of Howard University (Alabama) has informed Judge Gary that 8,000,000 negroes in the South are available to supply any labor deficiency in American industry.

Congress should turn a deaf ear to special pleas and consult the facts and authorities. There is a scientific way to regulate immigration for the good of the country, for the protection of labor, of industry and society. Congress should find it.

COMMUNISM FOR COMMUNISTS.

Bulgaria has hit upon an engaging plan for dealing with her communists. The Government proposes a law, Premier Stamboulisky explains, which provides for the expropriation of the property of communists and the creation of colonies where the votaries will share equally in the labors of production. The thing is compulsory, not elective. Those who preach communism shall practice communism.

There have been many voluntary adventures of this character, and from Brook Farm to Moscow it is an invariable story of disillusion and defeat. The theory, which has inspired many a visionary and attracted many a villain, never has worked out in practice. Casuists make it look well on paper, but when this ideal of selflessness, the execution of individuality, tries a sortie into fact it smashes on the impregnable traditions and instincts.

The Bulgarian treatment for the communistic excrescence is drastic. Still, the communists cannot consistently object, since they are to be given their heart's desire. They will not sojourn long in their valley of content before they are cured.

GOVERNMENT FOR SUGAR GAMBLERS.

When Lincoln, in his Gettysburg speech, expressed the hope that government for the people should not perish from the earth, he could not have had in mind the workings of the protective tariff, which just now has resulted in government for the sugar gamblers, to the injury of the sugar growers and the sugar consumers; that is, all the rest of us.

With domestic beet sugar out of the hands of the producers and controlled by the speculators, the price is being boosted nearer and nearer to war figures. At the same time, according to reliable Wall street brokers, there are 737,174 tons of raw sugar in Cuban ports, while the total stock in Atlantic ports is 200,245 tons. In other words, the American consumer, with the fruit-canning season close at hand, is debarred from the plentiful Cuban supply and faces a sugar famine, because of the tariff. But the beet sugar producers are getting no benefit, having been compelled to sell their produce at low prices to the speculators, who are the sole beneficiaries of this governmental interference with the law of supply and demand.

The Farmers' Union is urging the beet sugar growers to combine and establish co-operative sugar refineries. If this could be done, it might benefit the growers. But the consumer would still be unprotected. The tariff would still work, as at present, solely in the interest of the jobbers and gamblers in the foreign product. The domestic product does not begin to supply the country's needs. And the consumer always gets the worst of it. Government is not working for him. He is its biggest but at the same time its most exploited and most helpless element.

POEMS OF APRIL.

THE THRASHER.

THE thrasher is singing
For love of delight;
For ecstasy born
Of the plum blossoms white,
A paean for morning
Come after the night.

O dear little bird,
Had you doubted the Spring
Or feared that the stars
Were forever to sing,
Earth cold and despairing?
How foolish a thing!

MUSHROOMS.

Alas, Ali Baba
I fear me is dead,
And this is the legend,
No doubt, at his head:
"Hic Jacet: A. Baba,
Of whom you have read."

One Spring to another—
For such was his fun—
He sent me a basket;
'Twas handsomely done.
But now, though I hunger,
He sendeth me none.

THE REDBUD.

You know not what magic
The season can do
Until the blown redbud
Shall burst on your view,
Or with what a vainglory
The Spring is got through.

O too-gorgeous hoyden!
Art not thou ashamed?
How many sweet flowers
Had happily flamed
Except for thy dulling
Whom God might have tamed!

APROPOS OF—NOTHING IN PARTICULAR.

"One hundred and forty persons, all Puritan notables, including five from Scotland and six from Ireland, were invited to become members of an assembly which was to undertake the rule of the Commonwealth; it is the assembly known from one of its members as Barebone's Parliament. Cromwell welcomed it (July 4, 1653) in an extraordinary outburst of half-mystical enthusiasm. The rule of the saints had been brought about by the manifest guidance of God. 'I never looked to see such a thing as this. This may be the door to usher in the things that God hath promised and prophesied of. Indeed, I do think somewhat is at the door. We are at the threshold.'

"But alas! The saints were not very practical rulers, though they did not go quite so far as the Fifth Monarchy men, who would have had them abolish all the laws of England and substitute the Mosaic code. They started to do everything at once, and put everything in confusion. And meanwhile the Levelers were denouncing Cromwell for not having called a real elected Parliament. The practical side of Cromwell's nature reasserted itself. There was a moderate party even in Barebone's Parliament. They held an early meeting (Dec. 12) before the enthusiasts could come, and hastily resolved that the further sitting of this Parliament 'will not be for the good of the Commonwealth, and that therefore it is requisite to deliver up to the Lord-General Cromwell the powers which they received from him.' Cromwell accepted the resignation with relief. The experiment had lasted only five months and four days."—(Ramsay Muir—History of British Commonwealth, vol. 1, p. 66.)

FIDDLERS AS VIOLINISTS.

(Jack Blanton in Monroe County, Mo., Appeal.)

State-wide interest in the fiddling contest that is to be held in Paris next month raises the question: What is the difference between a fiddler and a violinist, since both play the same instrument? The Horse Editor's answer is that a violinist is one who plays by note and restrains the fool from keeping time, while the fiddler is one who plays by ear and pats his foot during the process. Violinists go in for music in its standardized forms. Fiddlers go in for melodies characteristic of backwoods days—tunes that were evolved by men in deerskin clothes and coonskin caps to give expression to ecstacies which filled their souls as lye hominy, venison and corn pone gave forth their odor from the cabin fireplace, and maple sap, boiled down to proper consistency, was being stirred off in the form of syrup and sugar. These and similar blessings, including absence of politics and strivings for wealth, combined to inspire sentiments which could only be expressed by the development of a new school of music. Because people gathered in one another's cabins for their corn-shuckings, dances, weddings and other sorts of celebrations, the cultured restraint characteristic of present-day society was unknown. Plenty of meat for the killing, plenty of hominy and corn pone for the making, plenty of sugar and syrup for a mere cooking of sap from the trees, plenty of fuel just outside the door and plenty of clothing for the simple dressing of skins, all combined to emancipate the pioneer from the extortion and oppression that is practiced by intrenched highwaymen on his descendants. To further stimulate him to special efforts there were inexhaustible supplies of corn liquor whose drinking was considered good form and against which no prohibition or revenue laws were enacted. Everything, it seemed, combined to promote peace, plenty and exuberant spirits. No artist on earth could have done justice to such a situation by invoking the dignified notes of classical music. And thus it happened that necessity, which is the mother of genius, came to the rescue and the world, through untutored men in deerskin clothes and coonskin caps, received "Arkansaw Traveler," "Leather Breeches," "Lost Indian," "Turkey in the Straw," "Fisher's Hornpipe," and similar melodies as a legacy from joy-ridden settlements in the midst of its primeval forests. There's a real uplift about those old tunes. Men cannot hear them without harking back in some mysterious manner to backwoods scenes in which their forefathers reveled, just as they cannot enter a tent without mental outreachings and homey feelings inherited from ancestors who dwelt in abodes of skin or cloth before the invention of four walls and a roof. The fact that the Mayors of Missouri's largest cities, along with others who have attained to great wealth, position and fame, are coming to Paris to enjoy the fiddling festival is not only an evidence of interest in every move to keep alive this joyous backwoods art, but is also proof of the fact that a revolt has set in against those who punish a noble instrument and a patient public with nightmares that are so devoid of melody that nobody can find any provocation for nodding his head, swaying his body and patting his foot, things that all normal people do when a real fiddler gets into action.

PARAGRAPHS.

Ow-o-o-o.

There was a young singer named Fay,
Who sang at a matinee.
When she started to shout,
The audience cleaned out,
For she was a soap-rano, they say.

The fracas now going on about dairies being located in the city reminds us that all the outlying pastures are being converted into golf links.

HONOR IN PRISON.

From the Youngstown Vindicator.

SOMETHING out of the ordinary happened at Columbus a few days ago when an honor parole was granted to a prisoner serving life sentence in the penitentiary to leave the State to visit his aged mother who was seriously ill. In the last decade many honor paroles have been granted, but always to prisoners to go to some point in the State to visit sick relatives or attend the funerals of relatives, and in no case was there a betrayal of the confidence placed in them. Every one returned to prison on time. The latest honor parole was given after the Governor had interviewed the prisoner and the Warden of the penitentiary had expressed his confidence in the man and his belief that he would return. He was permitted to go to Lexington, Ky., unattended and he returned as he had agreed to do. Here was faithful keeping of promise that might be studied by a good many who enjoy their liberties yet care little for their word. The prisoner, unguarded, had nothing to hold him to serving the remainder of his days behind the bars but his word and honor which he regarded more highly than the time he might have remained out of prison. If there is a spark of manhood left in a man it will show when he is placed upon honor.

KINDNESS TO ANIMALS.

From the Galveston News.

SO far as the time is concerned, there is no reason why one should give a stray dog shelter this week and eject the same canine when "be kind to animals week" is over. A temporary respite for suffering members of the brute kingdom is not, of course, the object of the observance. It is simply educational—a means of impressing the heartlessness of cruelty to animals on people who more often than not simply do not credit creatures of a lower order with much capacity for physical suffering. The exercise of mercy is a benediction on him who bestows it. Pity for suffering and the desire to relieve it is a distinguishing trait of civilization. * * * Kindness to animals is the basis for a nobler and more worth-while humanitarianism. We are not necessarily adjudged to be lacking in kindly feeling because the sight of a dog arouses in us no particular affection, but if our sympathies are extended to a brute they will surely not be withheld from our fellow beings.

CHURCHES AND RACE PROBLEM.

From the Chicago News.

CHICAGO has the largest Baptist congregation in the world. It is the congregation of Olivet Baptist Church, with more than 10,000 members, all colored. It grew from a handful of people and the greatest expansion took place after adequate facilities for church work were obtained. Other great colored congregations, principally of the Baptist and Methodist faiths, also are being provided with suitable houses of worship. * * * Through the Federal Council of Churches a national race relations movement is under way and is seeking to promote cordial co-operation of whites and negroes in meeting interracial problems. Throughout the Southern states the churches are taking the leadership in a movement which is bringing greater tolerance for the vast colored populations there, as well as more adequate educational facilities. No set program alone will solve the problems that must be solved in order that two races may live together in unbroken harmony. The spirit of good will and co-operation is the first fundamental. In cultivating this spirit and exemplifying it in interchurch relationships, the church is pointing the way.

YANKEE ENGINEERS TO DIG TURKEY OUT OF THE DUST OF ANTIQUITY

the plot, and oil, in its internal aspect, brings plot and counterplot, claim and counter-claim. No sooner had the Chester concession been ratified than protests from British and French sources began to be heard.

If the concession meant only the building of railroads in Turkey, the British and French might view the prospect with comparative equanimity. What galls is the fact that the concession opens up to Americans a territory which, according to Admiral Chester, is estimated by experts to contain $4,000,000,000 worth of oil, or about the amount of the British debt to the United States. Just the statement of that fact indicates the dynamite in the situation. Both the British and the French put forth claims in opposition to the Chester grant.

Concession Runs Into Mosul Area.

Briefly, the French contend that the Chester claim is invalidated by a prior concession granted before the World War for the development of harbors and railroads in Northern Anatolia. The French have indicated to Secretary of State Hughes that they will not recognize the Chester concession in so far as it impinges on what they assert are their own rights.

To understand the British claim, it is necessary to know that the Chester concession runs into the Mosul area, whose oil fields have made it one of the principal bones of internal contention in the world today. Mosul oil was one of the issues that kept the last Lausanne conference from an agreement. It is a highly contentious issue before the present conference. The Turks claim that the Villayet (Province) of Mosul, where the rich oil fields lie, is part of their territory, to do with as they please. The British assert that Mosul is part of the territory of Mesopotamia, or Irak, which they hold under mandate. At the last Lausanne conference the British asked that the dispute be referred to the League of Nations. The Turks demurred, saying they would have no chance against British influence in the league. They proposed, instead, a plebiscite, which the British declined to accept. There the matter rested, to come anew before the conference now sitting.

The British contend that the Turks not only have no authority over Mosul, but that even if they had they would have no right to grant a concession in conflict with claims of the Turkish Petroleum Co. Lord Curzon set out this view in detail at the last Lausanne conference. He said that just before the war a concession was given for the oil fields of the Mosul and Bagdad Vilayets by the Turkish Government to the Turkish Petroleum Co., in which Germans had an interest with the British. On the defeat of the Germans, he maintained, their interest passed to the British.

"The British Government, after full examination," said Lord Curzon, as reported in the official minutes of the proceedings, "were convinced, and remain convinced, of the validity of this concession. They felt, and feel, bound to uphold it."

In a statement declining to admit that Mosul was a part of Irak, the Turkish delegate, Ismet Pasha, summed up the Turkish position with regard to the Turkish Petroleum Co.'s concession in the following words:

"All the treaties, agreements and conventions which England may have concluded in regard to a country which is still legally part of the Ottoman Empire can have no legal value. The more so because the populations have not been given a chance of expressing their wishes freely and safe from all pressure and foreign occupation."

The attitude of the American Government toward conflicting concessions in the Near East was set forth by Ambassador Child at Lausanne on Jan. 23, as follows:

"Where there are conflicting claims already in existence in respect to legal rights to resources, there should be provided a means for judicial settlement of the rights which would give full and complete assurance of impartiality.

'The American representatives feel it their duty to remind the conference that, without seeking special privileges or favor, the Government of the United States has not assented to the principle that it may be dissociated in the rights of peace from he usual consequence of association in war.'

Admiral Chester Would Hold On.

How far the State Department would go in upholding the Chester concession against British and French counter claims remains to be determined.

In the opinion of Admiral Chester, the British and French claimants "have not a leg to stand on." He has announced his determination to hold on to the Chester grant against all comers, while Dr. Fouad Bey, who is now in this country as a special representative of the new Turkish Government, has declared, that no power on earth could induce Turkey to withdraw the concession.

Before continuing with an interview given the writer by Admiral Chester, it is, perhaps, pertinent to say that in some Washington quarters there is a feeling that his failure to name the financial backers of his project may be due not to any desire for secrecy but to difficulty in interesting American financiers in the scheme. It is estimated that the amount needed for the projected works is $300,000,000. The question is whether American investors will be willing to risk large sums in a disturbed part of the world without any guarantee of permanent protection by the American Government.

However that may be, Admiral Chester appears to be supremely confident that his dream of a Turkey rejuvenated through American capital will be realized. His concession makes possible not only the construction of railroads and the working of mines and oil fields, but the building of canals, factories, banks, hotels, telephone and telegraph lines, and even, it is hinted, a new, model capital city on a site chosen by the Turkish Parliament. The plan goes so far as to contemplate a social welfare program, embracing the establishment of social centers and organized sports, all with a view to the general improvement and Westernizing of the Turkish character.

The American nation, in Admiral Chester's opinion, has much to gain from the commercial development of Turkey.

"After the Revolutionary War, when we were practically bankrupt," said the Admiral, "we went out and developed the West and made it bloom. In that way we paid our war debts. A similar process followed the Civil War. We built railroads and continued westward.

"Must Get New Ideas to Develop."

"Now there is nothing left in this country for us to develop. If we keep up with our current requirements we are doing well. To pay our debts, we must get new territory to develop. I've got it for the country. That's the thing in a nutshell.

"Lausanne has nothing to do with this. It is not an issue between the Government of the United States and any other Government. The syndicate that I represent has gone into Asia-Minor just as commercial bodies have gone into South America. As American business men, we have the right to go to our Government for protection against any foreign Government that rises to interfere with a legitimate enterprise.

"I want to eradicate the idea that I have carried this country into trouble. This project was designed under the Roosevelt administration. Wars broke out and prevented our taking over the property. Now we are ready to proceed.

"With materials from America, we're going to build another Denver, another Albuquerdue, another Cheyenne. To become prosperous, Turkey waits only on railways to bring out its products. To illustrate, the cost of taking ore from the copper mines at Arghana to the border for smelting is $50 a ton—a prohibitive price. Railways will carry the ore at $2 a ton.

"If, as I believe, there is enough oil to pay the British war debt to the United States, there is in the whole concession enough potential commerce to pay all the national debt of the United States.

"American business concerns have been trying to get into South America but have found that they can't compete with European nations in that field. The British and French have covered South America with banks.

Breaking Into Asia by Back Door.

"We've tried for 20 years to break into Asia through China, where John Hay established the principle of the open door, but have been hindered by European spheres of influence. Now we propose to go in through the back door—Asia Minor—which is the nearest door. All trade there is tending toward the West. Turkey is closer to our eastern coast by 5000 miles than is China.

"France has forfeited the concession that she got from Turkey. She didn't put in all the money agreed on. Besides, France went to war with Turkey and the United States did not. Our concession, moreover, came first.

"Neither the French nor the English claim has a leg to stand on. I think that in both cases the Governments are being put up to make protests by their citizens, and that when the record is revived it will be found that the claims are not of a nature to cause international controversy. The so-called British concession was granted in 1914 by a Turkish Minister of Finance who shortly afterward was deprived of office. It never was ratified by the Turkish Assembly.

"The Turks are united under Kemal Pasha. If England should try to coerce Turkey, she would lose India. I am for the Young Turks, who are fighting for the freedom of their country just as we fought for ours, against England."

Intriguing European Powers, according to Admiral Chester, have fastened on the Turk, for their own purposes, the reputation of being an "unspeakable" person.

"James Bryce," he said, "declared that the Turks were a lovable and honest people, but that Turkish Governments had been horrible. That is the case. Now the Turks have destroyed despotism. They look on us as their protectors.

"I have sometimes been accused of expressing pro-Turkish views because I am a concessionaire of the Turkish Government. The truth is the other way about. I was willing to become a concessionaire because I believe in the Turks."

Admiral Chester explained that the syndicate is given 18 months in which to make surveys. If at the end of that time it does not find enough minerals to make the project a paying venture, it need not go further. The concession runs for 99 years, Turkey having the right to buy at the end of 30 years.

Admiral Chester is an ardent admirer of Roosevelt.

Speaking of a trip he made to Angora last spring in the interest of the Chester concession, the admiral said if Roosevelt had been alive he would have taken his picture out there and done more with it than he could have done on an order from the Sultan.

Terms of Chester Grant Protect Interests of Turk

pany will pay the commissariat monthly, commencing with ratification, 270 gold piastres for each kilometer of the concession.

Article VIII.—Specifies that such work being a public utility, the land and building necessary, where they are owned by individuals, will be appropriated at the expense of the company, according to Turkish laws, appropriation to be terminated inside two months of each request. Quarry and sand hills necessary to construction will be turned over to the company upon indemnification of the proprietors by the society, but State properties are to be offered gratuitously.

Article IX—States that the lines are to be single track only, but land is to be expropriated sufficient for a double track, and when the revenues of the society are as described in Article XXII, is sufficient to meet amortization and interest charges, the Government will have the right to demand the last named construction at the expense of the society.

Materials to Enter Turkey Duty Free

Article X—Lifts customs duties from all material necessary to construction, including all coal imported during duration of the concession, exploitation of the lines during duration of the concession. The grounds and works as well as the capital and revenues of the society are to be freed of all taxes.

Article XI to XVII—Provide for governmental supervision and acceptance of the branches as constructed, but in the event the society is unable properly to exploit them during a period of nine months, except in case of force majeure, the whole rights revert to the Government.

But the company promises to carry, in time of peace or war, soldiers and war material at special rates to be fixed by the Turkish Government.

Article XVIII. Without signifying it is an exclusive right, gives the company the right to construct the necessary lines to join the principal lines leading to the mines exploited under this convention, these secondary lines to revert to the Government at the expiration of the concession. The society will have the right to establish the pipe lines necessary to technical economic exploitation of the oil wells. The same regulations for expropriation of the land necessary to pipe lines apply as for railways.

Article XIX. Though giving no monopoly, gives the company within the limits of present and future agreements the right to use all natural waterpower upon which no rights have yet been obtained, in order to supply the electricity necessary to exploitation of the railways and mines. The society, in conformity with the laws, will have the right to sell this current to third persons. At the end of the concession all such installations shall revert to the Government.

In the event the Government wishes to use its right to purchase the railways, it will pay for construction according to the figure fixed by two technicians—one designated by the Government and the other by the society; in case of disagreement to select an arbitrator, preferably the Court of Appeals of Turkey. Nevertheless in the event of purchase of the railways all electrical instalaltion not connected with the mines remains the property of the society till expiration of the concession, as provided in Article II.

TO BUILD A PORT.

Article XX. Gives the society the right to construct a port at Youmourtalik in such manner as to enable ships to reach the quays to permit loading and unloading of goods for storage in port buildings. The society is to submit plans for the port within five years and terminate work within seven, dating from ratification of the concession. The society shall fix the tariffs to be applied at the railway system, gross revenues to be included in the gross revenues of the railways. The port is to be retored gratuitously at the end of the concession to the Turkish Government.

If, within the period provided for the port plans are not submitted or the port not constructed, the Government reserves the right to have it constructed by a third party. Nevertheless, the society will have the right to use the port of Yourmourtalik and create the organization necessary to receive material for its construction.

Article XXI says: the company must construct all the lines provided under Article I and exploit them at its own risks and perils without guaranty or pecuniary assistance by the Government. In return for all revenues the lines and their ramifications will belong to the society during the period of the concession, except in the event of repurchase.

Turkey's Purchase Right After 30 Years.

Article XXII. Relates that the Government, on the expiration of 30 years after ratification, may purchase any works of railways or port excepting mines and different installations, paying in this case an annual sum equal to the average net revenues for the preceding five years till expiration of the period of the concession. In any event, the Government will pay a sum equal to 7500 francs gold for each kilometer, and if service amortization and interest should exceed that sum the Government will pay the difference.

Articles XXIII and XXIV provide

TERMS OF RICH TURKISH GRANTS TO AMERICAN ADMIRAL

that all functionaries and employes or laborers are to be Turkish subjects, the society to build schools to train its personnel. Nevertheless, the society may employ foreigners by communicating their names to the Commissioner of Public Works, and likewise may employ even technicians and specialists of foreign nationality. The company is further authorized to bring from abroad Turkish subjects in order to complete constructions.

To Fortify Railroads.

The next two articles provide the Government with the right to construct fortifications along the railways and ports as well as for the application of Turkish laws to all archeological discoveries.

Article XXVII says in the event the company suspends exploitation without being able to invoke force majeure it will lose all its rights to railways, ports and mines. Likewise if the society does not commence within the specified time in conformance with its agreements, construction of the branch from Karpout to Youmourtalik, or if unable to complete it, or after having completed the line does not commence levelling the first 158 kilometers of the Sivas-Van line, it will lose all rights to these, and penalties are to be applied after official notice by the Government verifying the failure, in the event the company does not remedy its failure within this period.

In case the society, after completing the Karpout-Youmartalik road completes the work demanded on the Sivas-Van line, but does not satisfy conditions accruing on other items, it will lose its rights to all unconstructed portions of these lines, as well as the mines, which will revert to the Government.

Articles XXVIII, XXIX and XXX provide for the erection of stations and telephone and telegraph services, reserving the Government's right to the use of the poles, and to own the wires, as well as a free postal service; but the Government generously allows the company a free ride to all rail employes, but mine workers must pay fares, while mine material will pay the usual freight rates.

Article XXXI authorizes the society to construct all railways necessary to prolongation of the lines laid down in Article I, by the conforming with or obtaining the Government's permission. In case the Government wishes to construct junction lines the society will have priority of option during a period of 20 years, and must notify the Government within six months of receiving the offer for construction whether it wishes to avail itself of this right.

Article XXXII says that in case the Government wishes to construct roads across the company's railways, the company may not oppose, provided the construction entail no new expense or prejudice to the company.

Gets Right to All Mines.

Article XXXIII is very important, giving away a veritable mineral empire. It says the Government, although reserving the rights already acquired by others accords to the Turkish corporation to be formed by virtue of this convention the right to the exploitation of all mines found inside a zone of 20 kilometers on each side of the railway lines constructed according to this convention. These mines are those exploited by concessionaires or representatives or those discovered by third parties following ratification of this convention, those now exploited by the State and those abandoned by their owners. The term mines includes all mineral layers, mineral waters, petroliferous deposits, all quarries and sandpits. If the Government modifies the line proposed by the company, the latter may reclaim inside of a year instead of a new zone around the conceded territory, that originally traced by the company, provided the initial plan be conformed to the general directions of this contract.

Articles XXXIV to XXXVIII provide that the company shall exploit the mines under Turkish laws, paying all taxes, but there shall be no increase in taxes in the future. But the company loses the right to exploit any mines left unexploited during more than two years. However, exploitation may begin as soon as the plan for the railway under article I has been approved; and while not given a monopoly, the company is authorized to build factories for the manufacture of metallurgical ware from minerals thus obtained.

Article XXXIX provides that the society must report every six months to the Department of National Economy and Public Works on the exploitation of its mines.

Discovery Rights End in 20 Years.

Article XL says that commencing with the twenty-first year of the concession the society shall have no rights to any mines discovered by others within the zone conceded.

Articles XLI and XLII provide that if the Government imposes a consumer's tax on petroleum or other mineral products the company pledges to acquit the tax promptly. After taking from the gross receipts from mines, railways and ports first, expenses of exploitation; second, an annual sum for interest and amortization on capital engaged; third, a fixed reserve, and, fourth, a dividend of 12 per cent for the shareholders, the remainder will be divided 30 per cent to the Turkish Government and 70 per cent to the society.

The final three articles, which are brief, provide for the prompt expropriation of all territories adjacent to the mines and necessary or profitable to exploitation. They provide that all differences between the contracting parties are to be submitted to the Turkish Council of State, differences between the society and its employes to go before the Turkish lower courts.

The convention terminates with a provision which will necessitate any American business man or banking firm engaged in this mammoth scheme that gives Turkey modern railways, mines and ports employing a Turkish scholar, as "all correspondence between the company and the Government will be in the Turkish language and all services under exploitation shall be conducted in the same tongue."

Terms of Turkish Grant to Admiral Chester

cording to the French, coincides with numerous points in the concession granted them in 1914.

Article 1: The Government (G A N T) accords O A D S who accepts the concession to construct and exploit in conformance with the disposition of the principal convention, as well as the general agreement a first line commencing at Samsoun, passing via Havre, Amassia and Zile, terminating at Sivas; a second line leaving the first line at Moussa going through Kouy and terminating at Angora; a third line, starting at Tchalti on the first line of the principal convention and terminating at Erzerum; a fourth line, commencing at some point on the line from Tchalti to Erzerum and terminating at some point on the Black Sea coast. All these lines are to have a rail width of 1.35 and are to be constructed according to plans drawn and approved by the Commissioner of Public Works.

Article II defines the term of the concession as ninety-nine years, dating from the coming into effect of this annexed convention.

Article III says that the government (Gant) shall transfer, on payment of their cost, to Oads the documents relative to the Samsoun-Sivas line the Port of Samson, and the line from Angora to Sivas as well as foundation works, shops, buildings, stationary tools and rolling stock already in existence.

Article IV says the society shall advise the commissariat of public works, within six months of date of ratification of this convention, whether it accepts and will construct the Samsoun-Sivas line, the Port of Samsoun and the line from Moussa, via Kouy, to Angora. In the event of acceptance the society will commence work on the Samsoun-Sivas road within a month of the date of acceptance and within six months of the same date will start construction on the line through Angora, Moussa and Kouy. The company must communicate acceptance of the line from Tchalti to Erzerum within two years of ratification and the society shall advise of its acceptance of the fourth line within three years, and will commence work within two years of such acceptane, terminating work within three years, when the roads must be ready for exploitation.

Provision for Samsoun-Sivas Line.

Article V says Oads will pay to the government of Turkey the price of the concessions accorded by Article XII.

Article VI says the engagement contracted herein shal be executed by Oads, or the Turkish corporation which may be substituted in accordance with Article IV of the principal convention.

Article VII says the Samsoun-Sivas line shall be terminated within three years following commencement of work on the line, and that from Angora to Moussa and Kouy within four years. One year after construction of the branch from Sivas to Tchalti of line A of the principal convention the society will commence the construction of the line from Tchalti to Erzerum and finish it within four years.

Must Build Harbor at Samsoun.

Article VIII pledges the society to construct at its own risks and perils a port at Samsoun in conformance with the original project, or introduce permissible modifications at this port, which is to possess docks and permit the harboring of vessels, as well as machinery, stationary and mobile, the rolling stock necessary to the embarkation and debarkation of voyagers, as well as to the loading and unloading of merchandise.

Article IX limits the period for construction of the port to four years, beginning with the date of ratification of the present convention.

Article X provides for the establishment of a special agreement as to details of construction.

Article XI, without implying a monopoly, declares the society will have the right of ferrying the lake of Van and will be allowed to extend the terminus of the first line mentioned in the principal convention to some point on the lake's shore.

Article XII says the society may modify the principal conventions second line to connect the line with a point to be selected on the Bagdad line, leaving the latter at another point. In the event of the Government approving this modification it will do all necessary that the society may reap the advantages of the Bagdad line thus used.

Article XIII gives the society the right to an option of seven years dating from ratification of this convention, to construct the following lines: A line to Erzerum and Beyazid, on the Persian frontier, with material, now existing, this line to be ceded on payment of its value. A line from Sivas to Cesarea. A line from Hadji to Chefaatli, on the line between Angora and Moussa Kouy, terminating at Cesarea. A line from Cesarea to Oulokichla. A line leaving the neighborhood of Hadji and Beiram on the line between Samsoun and Sivas, passing Tchoroum and Songounlou, in order to terminate in the vicinity of Tchereki, on the road from Angora to Moussa and Kouy.

Infringing on British Mandate Area.

Articles XIV and XV provide briefly that an understanding of terms must be reached between the two parties and defines the annexed convention as supplementary to the principal convention. Some of these lines are in the area the British Government considers mandated to it.

Herewith the text of the preliminary convention, wherein Feyzi Bey, Public Works Commissioners for Turkey, and Messrs. Kennedy and Chester in the name of the Ottoman-American Development Society constituted under the laws of the State of Delaware, agree:

Article I. Subject to ratification of this convention by law (the law passed by the Angora Assembly includes all three conventions, as well as supplementary documents and drawings affecting the Chester concessions) OADS accepts the following at its own risks and perils:

To prepare plans and maps for the construction of the railway lines A, commencing at Sidas and passing Karpout, Arghana, Dierbekir and Bitlis, to terminate at Van, rounding the Lake of Van by either the north or the south, and, B, in the vicinity of Karpot, by following the valley of Djerhoku to Youmourtalik, from a point to be chosen on the first line, to terminate at Suleymanie, passing Kerkut and Mosul.

Article II. All plans to be approved by the Commissioner of Public Works.

Article III. GANT acocrds a delay of two years from ratification of this convention to execute Article I of this convention.

Article IV. OADS has the right to declare at the end of two years whether it will undertake construction and exploitation of railways and exploitation of the mines within 20 kilometers of each side of the lines described in Article I.

Turkey's Protection Is Air Tight.

Article V. In the event OADS has not notified in writing at the expiration of this period, the convention will be annuled, neither party having the right to ask damages or interest. The guaranty sums provided in Article IX will be restituted to the company after receipt of plans, etc., by the Commissariat of Public Works. In the event these documents are not entirely returned or do not conform with the stipulations the sum deposited as guaranty will become the property of the Government.

Article VI. In the event OADS accepts within two years, the sum deposited as guaranty wil be increased to 70,000 Turkish pounds and the company will be the concessionaires under the terms of the attached conventions.

Article VII. In the event OADS does not increase this guaranty to 70,000 pounds the conveitno will be annulled and the first guaranty deposit seized by the Government.

Article VIII. Except for force majeure, if CADS does not fulfill the engagements of this convention the guaranty will revert immediately to the state, climatic conditions not to be considered as a case of force majeure.

Article IX. As a guaranty for the execution of its engagements OADS deposits in the branch of the Banca Commerciale d'Italia at Constantinople, recognized by the Turkish Government, the sum of 50,000 paper Turkish pounds.

ARrticle X GANT has the right to attach at its own expense its technical agents to those of the company, not, however, to interfere with the work, but merely to follow it.

Articles XI, XII and XIII provide that disagreements shall be settled by the Turkish council of state, and include minor clauses making the concession of mine rights an integral part of the general preliminary convention.

ROBBERS RAID DISTILLERY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 28.—Armed whisky robbers with three trucks descended on Greenbaum's distillery and warehouse 12 miles west of here early this morning and robbed it of 30 barrels of eight-year-old red whisky. Three guards at the plant were taken by surprise, bound and gagged while the robbers loaded the whisky on trucks and escaped. Later one guard freed himself and gave the alarm.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—At the congress of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, to be held in Nashville, Tenn., May 20-22, a concerted effort is to be made to erect a building in Washington for use as national headquarters for the society. An imposing fireproof structure is contemplated in which historic records and Revolutionary relics can be safely preserved and made accessible to the nation.

Food Prices and Food Protection

TRADE MARK
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

Housewives scan the food price lists with the same eagle eye that husbands reserve for the stock market.

The grocer whose prices are lowest is never overlooked.

But price is not all that the Housewife watches. She gives intelligent preference to the store that is neat and spotless, where she knows the foodstuffs are always kept fresh and clean.

She expects, too, that her food purchases will be delivered clean—clean from counter to kitchen.

The thoughtful Grocer recognizes this. He pays special attention to deliveries. He entrusts them to Victory Food Containers, the newer and better form of food protection.

He knows, just as well as the Housewife does, that Victory Food Containers give the best possible protection—that they are strong and absolutely clean and sanitary—that they come to him packed in sealed cartons—yet cost no more than ordinary paper bags.

Madam, your Grocer wants to please you. His idea of service is to protect your interests in every way he can. He will thank you for reminding him that

You are entitled to have ALL your groceries protected in clean, sanitary Victory Food Containers.

Victory Food Containers come in three popular brands. All three reach the dealer in sanitary, sealed cartons, as pictured below.

CLASSIC
FOOD CONTAINERS

"Classic" Square

Best of the square containers on the market today. Like the Kant-Tear and the Pedigree, it comes to the dealer in sanitary, sealed cartons.

KANT-TEAR
FOOD CONTAINERS

"Kant-Tear"

Universal Standing Automatic. This popular Victory Food Container is strongly built to stand wear and tear on the counter.

PEDIGREE

"Pedigree"

Universal Standing Automatic. Known to the trade as "The Food Container De Luxe." * * * *

Each of these three popular Victory Food Containers is recognized as the best of its kind on the market today.

TEST OF EXCLUSIVE TAXI STANDS PLANNED

Five Companies Unite in War Against Yellow Concern—40 Arrests Made.

Five taxicab companies—the Red Top, Diamond, Brown, Checker and Black and White—yesterday began a fight to oust the Yellow Cab Co. from an exclusive right it enjoys to stand at the St. Charles street entrance of Hotel Statler, under a permit granted by the Department of Streets and Sewers.

Cabs of the five companies took places usually occupied by Yellow Cabs in St. Charles street and when the Yellow Cabs arrived at 7 a. m., there were no spaces for them. An altercation between chauffeurs of the Yellow Cabs and others resulted in a riot call and 10 traffic patrolmen were dispatched to the scene.

The invading cabs were not moved but 40 arrests were made before an agreement was reached whereby the invading companies will test the ordinance under which the permit was granted in a court proceeding growing out of the arrests. At 10:30 a. m. the invading cabs were removed and the Yellow Cabs permitted to take their stand.

Officials of the five companies believe the ordinance invalid that gives an exclusive right to the Yellow Cab Co. to any part of any street all the time and will contest the Statler permit on this ground. Director of Streets and Sewers Fisk, who issued the permit, said he could do nothing except comply with the ordinance, which provides that he shall issue a permit for a taxicab stand when approved by the adjacent property owner. He said he would rush the cases through so the court could rule promptly on the validity of the ordinance and thus settle the controversy.

Moonshine Seized, Two Men Held.

Sixteen gallons of liquid, declared by police to be moonshine whisky, was confiscated in a raid at 2:30 p. m. yesterday at a private express office at Fifteenth and Chestnut streets, conducted by Al. J. Lohr, 64 years old, of the Pullman Hotel. Lohr and William Fogarty, 40, of 3006 St. Vincent avenue, found in the office, were arrested. Both denied any knowledge of the liquid. Police raided the place after receiving complaints from a woman that her husband had repeatedly become intoxicated upon liquor purchased there.

The Shame of the Blemished Skin

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it, healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowle's Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

PRICES IRREGULAR IN RELATIVELY QUIET MARKET

Weakness in Oil Market Reflected in Trend of Certain Shares on Exchange — Conditions in Trade Generally Discussed.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review says:

"With production holding at a high rate, irregular markets call attention afresh to the several uncertainties in the business outlook. Stocks have been relatively quiet, with alternating priods of reaction and recovery. Clearly the weakness of the oil market, which has been upset by the unexpected expansion of Californian production and the late spring, has had a disturbing effect. Cotton has rallied well at times on short covering, and wheat prices have touched new highs on a moderate amount of export buying, coupled with delayed planting in the Northwest and unfavorable weather in the Southwest. It has been abundantly clear, however, that speculative sentiment has been unsettled and that a number of factors recently have entered the situation which make prophecies of the future rather less sanguine.

"Particularly at this season of the year, a slackening in the buying movements which have been going on during the last several months is not of itself surprising or disturbing. In numerous cases consumers have covered their demands for substantial periods in advance. In these cases a falling off in demand does not necessarily imply a falling off in production; it is a natural manifestation of caution. Considering how strong recent buying movements have been a certain easing in prices, such as is evident in the steel and non-ferrous metals markets, is a wholly normal development.

Tone of Foreign News.

"News from abroad is of a somewhat more cheerful character. London has been enjoying an active bull market in securities on the excellent character of the Government's official finances, as revealed by the new budget, and on the easy character of the local money market. French francs and French securities also have risen, partly in response to hopes that Germany may be approaching the point of making a firm offer in the matter of reparations. Sterling exchange, however, has sagged off to the low point of the year, a circumstance which probably is due to payments for imports, buying of securities in this market and remittance on account of the American debt. It is also possible that European funds which recently flowed to London for safety have been seeking employment in other centers. Norway is having a session of banking troubles, but these seem to be an aftermath of the 1920 boom and to be well under control.

"Trading in the stock market dragged through another dull session. The oils were again under pressure in the early trading and the general list was irregularly lower with a tendency towards recovery later in the morning. Some of the specialties were bid up vigorously. The bond market was firm although dull. Such interest as was apparent appeared to center largely in the foreign Government issues which were fractionally higher.

Exchange Market Quiet.

"Trading in foreign exchange was almost at a standstill and the range for the leading currencies was narrow in the extreme. Sterling's range was from ⅛ to 1-16 and the final quotation of $4.62⅛ was unchanged from the previous close. French francs were also lethargic and held to their previous quotation of 6.77¾ cents. Further recovery in Norwegian currency and loss of 1-16 in Canadian dollars were the only movements of importance.

"Trading in the commodity markets was quiet with rather general profit-taking in both cotton and wheat. Cotton opened steady with the late months leading in response to continued unfavorable weather news, with the local trade, Liverpool and commission house buying. This buying, however, was offset by sales from the South and spot houses, and as trading wore on weakness developed on realization sales. The market for raw sugar was somewhat irregular with the tone somewhat easier.

"The weekly statement of the Clearing House shows an increase in loans and discounts of $36,275,000 and a decrease of $43,035,000 in demand deposits. Accompanying these changes was a decline of $6,179,000 in surplus reserve which totaled $510,644,000. A small increase in cash in vaults and a slight decrease in circulation are shown by the statement."

Wall Street News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Oil shares and sugars bore the brunt of the selling on the stock exchange today. There seems to be, however, rather better support for the oils as they reached their low levels.

Large blocks of Cosden were taken at 59 after which the stock rallied. The same was true of Marland after it touched 48 and of Phillips Petroleum, which went down a point and a half and subsequently retraced the greater part of the loss.

Weakness of Virginia-Carolina Chemical preferred and a new low for the American Cotton Oils were other features.

The sugar group also rallied in the second and last hour. Cuba Cane preferred under 60, was off more than a point at one time. Punta Alegre and Cuban American had a maximum decline of a point. But these losses were substantially reduced in the final trading.

Steel common at 105⅛ was off a point, but it, too, recovered. Baldwin Locomotive and American Locomotive both acted well. One of the features was the strength of General Motors at 17¾, which followed the upbidding of Dupont to a new high.

The market closed with the tendency rather mixed, steel common ended at its low of 105, Crucible Steel was weak and Studebaker came down sharply. The better support in the oil shares continued and in the majority of other stocks the final tone was steady.

The Bond Market.

The bond market during the two hours of trading today presented no feature of general interest except the continued inquiry for foreign bonds, especially those of high yield. Czecho-Slovak 8s and the City of Greater Prague 7½s both again made new high records for the year and the French 7½s did the same, while the French 8s held well up to their previous high on this move.

Bond dealers and traders are still at a loss to account for the sudden outbreak of interest in foreign securities and are inventing all sort of explanations, the latest of which is that a "pool" is operating in foreign bonds. One explanation offered is that an improving outlook abroad and the very high return these bonds offer have proved an irresistible combination.

The Mexican issues were in demand also today increasing their recent gains.

HOGS REACT IN LATE WEEK AFTER A SLUMP

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Week Last.	Week Prev.	Year Ago.
Cattle & calves	18,011	17,959	14,385
Hogs	79,246	104,355	70,575
Sheep	4,485	4,535	5,259
Horses & mules	1,186	1,202	1,217
Totals	102,928	128,051	91,436

After dropping to the lowest point in five months the hog market, influenced by smaller receipts, reacted upward toward the close of the week at the St. Louis National Stockyards and regained practically all of the decline suffered earlier in the period. Sheep and lambs, in light supply, averaged about steady, while cattle closed on an uneven basis. Receipts of cattle and calves for the six days at approximately 18,011 head were about of the same volume as the previous week, but several hundred head larger than for the corresponding period in 1922. Beef steers showed very little fluctuation and closed steady. The majority of sales were from $7.50 to $8.50 per cwt., with $7 constituting the practical low end and $9.40 the [illegible]. The better price was paid for three cars that averaged 1406 pounds. Twenty-one cars of South Texas steers offered in native and quarantine alleys, varied in price from $5.40 for cutters to $7.45. Light yearlings were punished to the extent of 25c to 50c. Movement was slow and especially so on the late market. Sales varied largely from $7.50 to $8.25, the top $9.50, going for 851-pound steers. Butcher cows moved up 25c on an average, the bulk selling from $5.50 to $6.50. Canners and cutters, on the other hand, declined 25c and more. Cutters late in the week had dropped to $3.25 to $3.75, followed by canners at $2.75 to $3, a few common down to $2.50. Bulls were the most active of any cattle and gains of 25c ... were recorded on both beef and bologna grades. The two grades sold mostly from $5 to $5.50, with tops bringing $5.75. Stocker and feeder cattle again recorded very little change. Light receipts selling to a small representation of buyers at steady values. Veal calves sold on a very uneven basis each day, good lights often selling as much as $1 or more apart. The practical low end each day was $8.50 and tops varied from $9 to $10.75. The smaller figure was the high point Friday.

Hog Receipts Moderate.

Hog receipts at the St. Louis National Stockyards for the week just ended show a moderate total of 79,246 head. This total, when compared with the previous week's run of 104,355 head, shows a decrease of 25,109, and compared with last year's run of 70,575 for the corresponding time, an increase of 8671 head is shown. The daily supplies have decreased somewhat during the latter part of the week enabling buyers to force prices upward. Earlier in the week prices were the lowest they have been since November of 1922. Market compared with a week ago is unevenly lower and in some cases higher. Heavy hogs at the close are about steady, swine of 250 pounds weight or more selling from 77.85 to 78. The medium weights, from 230 to 250 pounds, are higher. This class selling from $8 to $8.15 at the week's close, looks about 5c above the close a week ago. Lighter kinds, from 150 to 220 pounds, do not show any material increase over last week, although some sales Saturday were strong to 5c higher. Pig prices are unevenly higher, advances ranging from 25c to 50c. The better weight kinds from 130 to 140 pounds are selling from $7.50 to $8 and the medium weights from 120 to 130 pounds at $7 to $7.50, not more than 25c above last week. The lighter kinds from 120 pounds and down are from 25c to 50c higher, selling from $5.50 to $7, according to weight and quality. Packing sows are 40c to 50c lower and stags about 25c lower. The week's close finds the different classes of hogs selling at the following prices: Heavy hogs from 250 pounds up, $7.80 to $8; medium weights, 230 to 250, from $8 to $8.15; and lighter weights, 150 to 220, from $8.20 to $8.35. Pigs of strong weight, from 130 to 140 pounds, $7.50 to $8; medium weights, 120 to 130 pounds, $7 to $7.50, and lighter pigs, from 120 pounds and down, from $5.50 to $7. Packing sows $6 to $6.25 and stags $5.25 to $5.75.

Sheep Run Is Small.

The receipts were very small each day this week, as the total amounts to but around 4500 head, which is slightly under the number received on this market last week and also this week last year. The trade was active each day and prices are now on much the same basis as they were at the close of last week on all grades. Heavy offerings, both sheep and lambs are poor sellers.

A fair sprinkling of spring lambs arrived and the best of them sold at $15@17, most of them at or under $16. Those not fat were not wanted at any price and moved very slowly. Good to choice wool lambs sold at $14@14.50; fair grades, $12@13.50; clipped lambs that were good, $11.50@12; plain ones, $10@10.75. Lambs above 83 pounds were considered too heavy.

What few sheep arrived found ready sale at firm prices, best wool offerings going at $8.25@8.50; plain ones lower; wethers, $9@9.50; clipped mutton sheep, $7.25@7.50; choppers and bucks, $4@6, and canners, $2@3.

Horses and Mules.

A light run of horses and mules at St. Louis the past week stimulated a reasonably active trade, horses ruling steady to strong and mules about steady. Commission receipts of horses were not in excess of 200 head. Rugged work stock and big stuff received good attention and on Southern horses and medium consignments there was considerable improvement in some quarters. Most of the run sold at auction. In the mule alleys the extra good kinds and rugged work stock from 1100 pounds and up received the principal attention. Some little and cheap stuff sold reasonable well, but demand is somewhat uncertain on these kind.

FURTHER REDUCTION IN PRICE OF WHEAT ON CHICAGO MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Wheat prices suffered a further reduction today. The market is feeling the effects of the liquidation of the past few days and a subnormal short interest. At the start there was further liquidation because of the fair weather over the Northwest, helping seeding, and the good rains reported over the southwest. Some of the local bulls tried to face the pressure and supported the market on the dips, but commission house pressure on the hard spots finally told on the market. There was some belated May liquidation and that May was weaker. Receipts in the Southwest were a little larger. Seaboard reported a fair export business worked. Press advices telling of the crops in Russia and no need of relief work any longer and this had a bearish effect. Sales of 10,000 bushels of wheat were made to go to store. Market closed 1⅛c to 1¼c lower, May $1.23⅝@1.23¾, July $1.21⅞@1.22, September $1.19⅛@1.19¼.

Corn was easy in tone. Country sold no corn to arrive overnight. The newly planted crop in the extreme Southwest is said to be making favorable progress under ideal weather conditions. Domestic shipping demand is light. Some export business was worked at the seaboard. Vessel agents say it was reported that the grain fleet will sail from Chicago Monday and this will reduce local stocks of corn. Market closed ¾@1⅛c lower, May 79c, July 81c, September 80¾@81c.

Oats prices were easier. There was pressure in sympathy with other grain. Cash houses bought July. Shipping demand was good. Market closed ⅛@⅜c lower, May 44⅝c, July 45⅜c and September 44⅜c.

Provisions were higher early with hogs, but Eastern selling caused lard to weaken in the later trading. Lard closed unchagned and ribs 5@10c higher.

PRICES RANGE LOWER ON GRAIN EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 28.—Grain futures ranged lower in the week-end trade. Report of fair weather for seeding in Northwest and of good rains in Southwest along with lower Liverpool market, were bearish influences. Fair export business was reported. Report of near ending of Russian relief also was factor.

In the local cash grain market Saturday wheat was weak and lower in price. Declines of 2c to 3c were recorded by No. 3 red and No. 4s were 2c cheaper. Demand for No. 2 red was rather limited. Car good 58½-lb. soft sold at $1.37, but several cars were carried over, some of it being offered down to $1.35. There was a little demand for No. 3 red and sound low grades from shippers and local mills. Hard wheat was 2c lower. There was fair demand for No. 2 hard and No. 2 yellow hard at $1.24. Dark wheats were dull and lower. No. 2 dark hard, 11.89 per cent gluten, was offered at $1.29 and No. 2 hard, 70 per cent dark, at $1.27. Cash corn prices were down 1c to 3c, which was the sharpest decline in some time. Liberal week-end receipts and sagging futures contributed most toward forcing values down. Good demand was met at the decline, however, local industries taking about 30 cars. Elevator interests were in the market. Oats encountered only fair demand and prices were ⅝c to 1¼c lower. Elevator interests and local trade were the main buyers.

Lower cable was a factor in the opening trend of values both wheat and corn selling under the previous close. Liverpool wheat opened ¼d to 1d lower and closed ¼d to ⅛d net off. Corn reacted before end of first hour and sold above previous day's close.

May wheat opened at $1.23¼, July wheat $1.20¼@⅜, Sept. wheat, $1.18⅝, May corn 81⅜c, July corn 82⅛c and Sept. corn 81⅛c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 521 cars of wheat, compared with 546 a week ago and 371 last year. Minneapolis today receiving 155 cars, Duluth 57 and Winnipeg 309.

Local wheat receipts, which were 69,600 bushels, compared with 102,000 a week ago and 63,600 last year, included 40 cars local and 18 through. Corn receipts, which were 81,385 bushels, compared with 94,900 a week ago and 39,000 last year, included 57 cars local and 5 through. Oats receipts, which were 76,000 bushels, compared with 92,000 a week ago and 54,000 last year, included 23 cars local and 18 through. Hay receipts were 240 tons local and 196 through.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators were 468,095 bushels of wheat, 391,836 bushels of corn, 503,497 bushels of oats. Argentine Corn Crop Estimate.

BUENOS AIRES, April 28.—A decrease in the Argentine corn crop of 1922-1923 was predicted today in a report by the Ministry of Agriculture. The decreased yield was attributed to drouth and locusts. The exportable surplus was estimated at 1,790,000 tons, as against 2,802,000 tons for last year, when there was a 427,000-ton holdover from the previous year.

Dry Goods Market Review.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The Worth street market was quiet today. Following a slight return to trading in small lots Friday, buyers have again assumed an attitude of waiting which some think will be held until there is more stability to cotton. Another reason for this attitude is that jobbers are not yet quite ready to look ahead for additional fall supplies in staples. Print cloths were unchanged at 10⅝c for 64x60s and 12¼c for 68x72s.

The raw silk market was strong and prices higher again today excepting for cantons, which were down 5c each for 14-16 and 20-22. The Yokohama market was strong and active, 1200 to 1400 bales changing hands. Quotations were: xxa, 13-15 denier, $9.85; xB, $9.75; extra, $9.60; best No. 1 x, $9.50; Kansai, No. 1, $9.40; xxa, 20x22 denier, $9.85.

Weekly Butter Review.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Although this week's butter market was more steady than in the preceding seven days, the net results were declines.

Throughout the week buyers were cautious. Some demanded and received protection against future declines even to the extent of the entire time the butter remained in the buyers' hands. That policy became less popular, however, as the week wore on.

As a whole, the week's market was weak and unsettled. Ample stocks and steady increases in the make were given as two of the causes of that condition.

Foreign butter again influenced the market. On April 24, 1050 casks of Danish butter, including 500 casks in bond for Canada, arrived in New York. The shipment acted as a club over the market, increasing the sentiment for lower prices.

Reports from all markets agreed that the average quality of receipts had shown some deterioration. Many of the unusually fine marks came in with early spring defects.

The quotation on 92 score at the four leading butter markets at yesterday's close was: Chicago, 40c, 1 point loss; New York, 42c, 1½ points loss; Boston, 42c, 1 point loss, and Philadelphia, 41½c, 1 point loss.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 28.—Flax: No. 1, $3.21@3.23.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Threats of a buyers' strike, accompanied by a sharp decline in the futures market, had an unsettling effect in the sugar trade today. In raws no sales were reported, but offerings were more liberal from operators, with Cubas available at 6⅝c, cost and freight, equal to 8.16c for centrifugal, without being taken.

Raw sugar futures were weak under liquidation, and final prices showed declines of 14 to 30 points. Closing: May, 6.26c; July, 6.38c; September, 6.48c; December, 5.98c.

There were no changes in refined sugar, but trading was light. List prices are quoted at 10.05c to 10.25c for fine granulated. Refined futures closed 5 to 15 points lower with sales of May and June delivery at 10c.

INCREASE IN BRITISH IMPORTS CREDITED LARGELY TO PRICES

March Figures Show Increase in Raw Material Value as Factor.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

LONDON, April 28.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of the eBankrs' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post, in financial review says:

"The Times deescribs the good tendency in investment securities as the inevitable outcome of a financial policy which has already lessened the burden of debt, abolished excess profits duties, halved the corporation profits taxes, lowered the income tax from 6 shillings to 4 shillings 6 pence, reduced indirect taxation, cheapened postal and telephone charges and brought about a substantial reduction in the general level of prices besides restoring the good value of paper pound. Nevertheless the market is becoming top heavy, and trade undoubtedly is improving but moderately.

"A small rise in imports during March is of comparatively little significance; foodstuffs imports are down £4,500,000 and those of raw matrials are up by £5,500,000, but the latter increase is due mainly to sugar and cotton where high prices are the chief explanation. The total quantity of raw cotton imported is only up moderately, but the value has nearly doubled, largely on account of Egyptian takings. The value taken from you, however, also is greater by £1,500,00).

"Re-election of Montague Norman as Governor of the Bank of England for another year commands approval in the financial district. Norman has now been directly connected with the Bank of England management since 1916 and consequently has a unique experience in war and post-war financial problems."

When a barrel of liquid consigned to Swedish American Hall, 1159 South King's highway, was delivered at 10:30 a. m. yesterday in a truck labeled "Sugar Loaf Farm Products," two detectives, acting on advance information, were waiting to receive it.

They arrested John J. Collinger, 31, 3170 Ohio avenue, and Joseph P. Heinzer, 34, 3242 Ohio avenue, who were in charge of the truck. The truck, with the barrel, was ordered driven to police headquarters. Police say the barrel contains real beer. It was sent to the City Chemist for analysis.

TWO SEEK $22,000 FROM ESTATE OF DE WITT C. TAYLOR

J. W. Johnson, in Suit, Asserts Neighborhood Banker and Lawyer of Manchester Held Land Sale Proceeds.

ANOTHER FILES CLAIM ON NOTES FOR $2000

Widow, Aided by Lawyer and Appraisers, Endeavoring to Complete Inventory to Determine Value of Property.

The complicated estate of De Witt Clinton Taylor, neighborhood banker and lawyer of Manchester, St. Louis County, which has been under investigation since his sudden death from a fall downstairs March 14, became further involved yesterday by the filing of a suit and two claims against the estate for amounts aggregating nearly $22,000.

Mrs. Lillie B. Taylor, the widow, aided by a lawyer and three appraisers, is still trying to complete an inventory of the estate. The time for filing the inventory expired April 13, but Mrs. Taylor was granted an extension of two weeks. She expects to have the exact value of the estate determined before Wednesday when the extended period terminates.

The character of Taylor's business transactions as private banker, covering a period of nearly 40 years, was such that a vast amount of detail work has been required of the appraisers in tracing real estate deeds and other papers which passed through his hands.

"Mr. Taylor seems to have preserved every document he ever handled," Henry Higginbotham, lawyer for Mrs. Taylor, told a Post-Dispatch reporter three weeks ago when the investigation of the estate was just getting under way. "He has left a mass of paper for us to wade through and investigate. I haven't the slightest idea as to the value of the estate at the present time."

Seeks to Recover $19,760.

The plaintiff in the suit filed yesterday, which was directed against Mrs. Taylor, as administratrix, was Justus W. Johnson of Barrett Station and Quintette road, St. Louis County, who alleges the estate is indebted to him for approximately $19,760.

Johnson charges that Taylor, as his guardian, failed to turn over to him $14,630 which Taylor had received as Johnson's share of proceeds from the sale of property in which Johnson was interested, and that Taylor also failed to render any accounting of the money.

Johnson was declared of unsound mind in the Probate Court at Clayton, Sept. 28, 1921, at a hearing at which he was not present, and was incarcerated in a sanitarium until a few months ago, when the St. Louis Court of Appeals set aside the Probate Court's decree.

By the decree of the Probate Court Taylor was appointed guardian for Johnson, and looked after Johnson's financial interests during the period of Johnson's incarceration.

Johnson's petition alleges he had a one-seventh interest in a 93-acre tract of land which was sold at public auction for $13,838, and that his share of the proceeds, amounting to $1977, was not turned over to him by Taylor. It is further charged that Taylor withheld $3687, the proceeds of a sale of Johnson's personal property, including grain, stock and farm implements.

Proceeds Withheld, Charged.

Another count in the petition alleges that Johnson owned a one-fourth interest in 400 acres of land in Phelps County, Missouri, which land was sold for $28,000, and that Taylor withheld Johnson's share of the proceeds, amounting to $7000. It is also charged that Taylor withheld $630, Johnson's share of proceeds from the sale of land, also in Phelps County, in which Johnson owned one-fourth interest.

A claim for $5160, plus 6 per cent interest since Aug. 5, 1909, is included in the suit, Johnson alleging the money is due him as a fee for having represented Taylor in the settlement of the estate of Taylor's father. Johnson claims he rendered the service to Taylor between March 15, 1907, and Aug. 15, 1909, when the estate was settled, and that Taylor promised to pay him $5160 for the work, but failed to live up to the promise.

Shortly after Johnson's suit was filed in the Circuit Court two claims against the De Witt Clinton Taylor estate were filed in the Probate Court by Henry Vespy of Manchester, who alleges he turned over $2000 to Taylor for investment and that he holds Taylor's notes for $1500 and $500.

Carried $15,000 Insurance.

Taylor, who was 66 years old, fell down the steps to the cellar of his home at 7 a. m. while descending to the cellar to look after some plants. He died an hour later of a fractured skull. No estimate of the value of his estate has been made public, but friends of the family have stated that he carried $15,000 accident insurance.

He was president of the Manchester Bank, vice president of the St. Louis County Bank at Clayton and a director in the St. Louis County Title Co. He maintained law offices in Manchester and Clayton, and was active in Democratic politics, having been an ardent supporter of the Clean Election League movement that overthrew the Essen political machine in St. Louis County last November.

FIRE AROUSES HOTEL GUESTS

Commotion Caused by Blaze in Shed near Buckingham Annex.

Fire in a small shed at the rear of the Buckingham Annex, southeast corner of King's highway and West Pine boulevard, which filled with smoke the hotel and a three-story building adjoining it to the east used by guests, caused some commotion in the hotel district around King's highway and Lindell boulevards at 4:30 a. m. yesterday.

The blaze was confined to the shed, used for storage of boxes and rubbish. Guests at the Buckingham were awakened by the smoke and commotion. Many guests at Hotel Chase and Buckingham, and residents in St. Regis Apartments, a block away, dressed and went to see the extent of the fire.

GIRL TYPIST TO EXHIBIT SPEED

Miss Reeve Said to Have Record of 800 Words a Minute.

Miss Birdie Reeve, 16 years old, for whom is claimed a record of 800 words a minute on a typewriter and a 64,000-word vocabulary, is in St. Louis, her home city, for a series of exhibitions before business men's clubs and in department stores this week.

Miss Reeve is said to be the product of a patent educational course devised by her father, Thomas L. Reeve, who accompanied her here. Her speed on the typewriter is timed at each exhibition. She is then given a number of letter combinations from which she instantly makes words, thus demonstrating her familiarity with the dictionary. A typewriter concern is sponsoring her

Garden Club Show This Year to Be an All-Amateur Affair

Free Exhibit to Be Held May 19 and 20 at Shaw's Garden—Prizes Offered to Children and Adults.

ST. LOUIS' garden enthusiasts, and residents of the county who have spacious grounds surrounding their homes, are making preparations for the annual flower show, to be held this year at Shaw's Garden, May 19 and 20. It will be the fourth annual free exhibit under the auspices of the Garden Club of St. Louis, to promote city-wide interest in flowers and trees.

City and county have been canvassed in an effort to induce additional exhibits, and an interesting innovation in this year's show is the announcement of prizes for children and adults for miniature gardens set on small trays and complete in detail. No charge is being made for admission to the show, or for entries. The Garden Club has barred all commercial exhibits this year, and plans an "all-amateur" affair.

A reception is to be held both afternoons and evenings, with Mrs. Samuel C. Davis as chairman of the committee, assisted by other members of the Garden Club, of which Eugene H. Angert is president; Mrs. James T. Drummond, vice-president and Mrs. W. N. Matthews, secretary and treasurer.

The next social event of general interest in St. Louis is the second annual military and civilian horse show at Jefferson Barracks May 11, 12 and 13. A number of young women will participate in the various riding and driving events, including Misses Dorothy Simmons, Alice Scott, Dorothea Nagel, Katherine Steedman, Peggy Parle, Mrs. August A. Busch Jr. and Mrs. Adolphus Busch III. The St. Louis Country Club grounds are being used as practice grounds.

In addition to the show itself, a dance is being planned for patronesses and participants Saturday evening, May 12, at the Barracks, with a buffet supper preceding it.

The tea pavilion has been placed in charge of the Army Relief Society this year and the proceeds have been donated by the Horse Show Committee to the cause which they sponsor.

The following young women will assist the society at the pavilion:

Friday, May 11—Miss Mary Virginia Collins, team captain; Misses Julia Lee, Marie Clarkson, Mary Scudder Bond, Marian Franciscus, Elizabeth Mauran, Dorothy Pillot, Frances Clover, Ruth Lionberger, Doris Drummond, Frances Carter, Hannah Jane Foley, Eleanor Knapp, Jane Rule and Mary Scott.

Saturday, May 12—Miss Elizabeth Boeckeler, team captain; Misses Marceline Reyburn, Alice Scott, Alice Busch, Claire Garneau, Elizabeth Robert, Margaret Chandler, Helen Mills, Christine Vieths, Elizabeth Carter, Jane Nugent, Mary Lemon Sipple and Mary Ryan.

Sunday, May 13—Miss Audrey Faust, team captain; Misses Eleanor Simmons, Elizabeth Cook, Frances West, Mary Etta Randolph, Mary Denman Clark, Elizabeth Terry, Catherine Louise Crunden, Helen Gratz, Carolyn Bailey, Dorothy McBride, Katherine Perkins, Dorothy Simmons and Zoe Jane Desloge.

THE Shakspeare Association of Washington University will give its annual al fresco performance on Tuesday evening, May 8, when "The Winter's Tale" will be presented in the open air theater on Liggett Terrace, where the festivals have been held for the last two years.

Miss Florence Walters, whose Juliet made such a deep impression in last year's production of "Romeo and Juliet," will be seen as Hermione, a part last played here in 1909 by Miss Edith Wynne Matthison; and the other principal parts will be taken by Miss Laura Hinchman, Miss Helen Bechtell, Arthur Krause, Morgan Beatty, Gilbert Hyatt, Adolph Pessel, Robert Kissack and Robert Emmet Kane.

A feature of the performance will be the dances directed by Miss Agnes Cady, who spent 18 months in Italy making a particular study of the local folk dances. The costumes this year have been made by Miss Margaret Ewing and a committee composed of wives of members of the faculty, largely from materials donated to the association by St. Louis society women who have been interested in the festival.

The patronesses of the performance include the following: Mmes. Nathaniel Allison, W. K. Bixby, Gouverneur Calhoun, Leslie Dana, Gaston Douay, Charles Duncker, Samuel Goddard, F. A. Hall, Henry Hopkins, James P. Jamieson, Robert McK. Jones, Richard F. Jones, Clay E. Jordan, P. C. Lane, Walter McCourt, Edward Mallinckrodt, George Markham, Elias Michael, George Moore, I. W. Morton, Harvey Mudd, Charles Nagel, Gaius Paddock, Edmund Sears, William Schevill, A. L. Shapleigh, F. W. Shipley, W. A. Schroeter, Andrew Sproule, George Throop, Tyrrell Williams, Newton R. Wilson and E. H. Wuerpel, and the Misses Edith Fenton and Sarah Tower.

Miss Mary Willie Woodward, whose engagement to Frank C. Merker is announced today.

The St. Louis Riding Club will give a dinner dance Friday night at Hotel Chase. Among the hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Wright of the Kingsbury apartments. They will entertain a group of friends in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Harold Baer of 31 Dartford avenue, University City, who will leave St. Louis the second week in May for New York, to sail later from Boston to spend the summer in Europe.

Miss Frances Hamill of Chicago, who is the guest of Miss Alice Scott, daughter of Mrs. Henry Clarkson Scott, 31 Westmoreland place, will remain until Thursday. Miss Scott will give a small dinner party for her guest tomorrow night.

Miss Helen Gratz Is Betrothed to G. S. Rockefeller

She Makes Formal Anouncement of Engagement to New Yorker at Luncheon in Her Home.

THE engagement of Miss Helen Gratz, daughter of Benjamin Gratz, 5155 Lindell boulevard, and Godfrey Stillman Rockefeller, son of Mrs. William Goodsell Rockefeller, 292 Madison avenue, New York, was announced yesterday. Although there had been rumors of the betrothal among her friends for several weeks, formal announcement was made by Miss Gratz at a 1 o'clock luncheon given at her home. The wedding plans have not been made.

The prospective bride and her fiance met two years ago while she and her father were on their way to Japan to visit her sister, Mrs. Edward Watson, wife of Captain Watson, U. S. A., who was stationed there at the time, and who is now in California.

She was one of the three special maids of honor to the queen at the Veiled Prophet ball two years ago, and is a member of the Imperial and the Junior League. On Nov. 10 last, at a Chauve-Souris ball, Miss Gratz was formally presented to society. The affair was given by Mr. Gratz and Mr. and Mrs. Neill A. McMillan at their home in Portland place.

Recently she accompanied Mrs. Henry Clarkson Scott on a trip to Hot Springs, Va., and New York, where she visited another sister, Mrs. Russell Carr. Later she spent some time with Mrs. Rockefeller at Overhills, N. C. Mrs. Carr and Miss Gratz returned to St. Louis a few days ago and Mr. Rockefeller is at present their guest.

The prospective bridegroom is the grandnephew of John D. Rockefeller. His father and his grandfather, William Rockefeller, have died within the last year. His mother was Miss Elsie Stillman. Mr. Rockefeller is a graduate of Yale, class of 1921, and is a member of several of the prominent clubs in New York.

Guests at the luncheon yesterday were Misses Catherine Louise Crunden, Mary Etta Randolph, Mary Denman Clark, Ruth Lionberger, Helen Mills, Alice Scott, and her guest, Miss Frances Hamill of Chicago; Carolyn Bailey, Elizabeth Boeckeler and Virginia Gordon.

WEDDINGS OF THE WEEK AND ENGAGEMENTS

An unusually gay week, socially, closed last night with the wedding of Miss Beulah Rodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Rodes of 198 Rock Hill road, Webster Groves, and Humphrey Price, son of T. Coleman Price of Louisville, Ky., formerly of St. Louis. Dozens of cathedral tapers lighted the First Congregational Church of Webster Groves, where the ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. Bradley.

Tall candelabra, each holding three candles, were placed at intervals along the aisles, and these, with a large fan-shaped holder at the altar, containing many tall candles, were the only illumination. Eight friends of the bride, Misses Ruth Barnett, Elizabeth Newsome, Mildred Jesse, Celestine Reichard, Esther Schelp, Florence Walters, Anna May Cook and Mrs. Alice Connant, sang the chorus from "Lohengrin," followed by the wedding march played by Miss Jane Rogers of Columbia, Mo.

Miss Dorothy Kitchings of New York was maid of honor and Miss Ruth Jesse of Webster Groves bridesmaid. They wore filmy chiffon frocks over crepe de chine in the same tone, Miss Kitchings in orchid and Miss Jesse in green. The frocks were made in the bouffant fashion, with short trains. Flesh-colored horsehair braid hats, with drooping lilacs and ribbon streamers, completed the costumes. They carried spring flowers.

The bride's gown was white satin made on long draped lines and embroidered in crystal and pearls. The court train was satin lined in silver cloth and pink chiffon. A pearl-embroidered tulle coronet held the tulle veil, which rippled in cascades down the front of her gown and fell to the end of the train in back. She carried a shower bouquet of lilacs, pink roses and white sweet peas.

Woodson [illegible] was best man, and the groomsmen were Weston Blalock, Lee Harrison and Clifton Rodes.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. Price from Louisville; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Evert, Joplin, Mo.; J. Hill, Little Rock, and Messrs. and Mmes. J. V. Williams, W. C. Williams, J. J. Jesse, W. B. Sappington, Mrs. L. H. Walker and W. Rodes Jesse, all of Mexico, Mo. After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Price will make their home in Webster Groves.

The bride attended Hosmer Hall, Miss Capen's school in Northampton, Mass., and Washington University. She has traveled abroad extensively. Mr. Price was educated at Smith Academy and Washington University. He received a D. S. C. for gallantry in action during the World War.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock Miss Ruth Bradfield, formerly of Abilene, Tex., and Dr. Lee Petit Gay were married in the home of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. John W. Day, 313 North Newstead avenue. Mr. and Mrs. George J. Breaker were the only guests. The bride is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Milton C. Marshall of Westminster place. She wore a tan cloth tailored suit, with hat and shoes to match.

Dr. Gay, whose parents reside at Arcadia, Mo., is a cousin of Lieutenant-Commander Lee Petit Warren, U. S. N., formerly stationed at Washington, who recently has been ordered to Egypt. Upon their return from their honeymoon trip, Dr. and Mrs. Gay will make their home in St. Louis.

Miss Fanita Griesedieck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Griesedieck, 3243 Hawthorne boulevard, and Herbert Lawrence Parker Jr. were married Wednesday evening in the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Dr. Timmons of the First Congregational Church officiating.

A large home wedding of Friday evening was that of Miss Mary Jane Bolin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Bolin, 5319 Bartmer avenue, and Nelson Renaugh Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Thomas of Windermere place. There were several hundred guests. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will make their home in St. Louis after a honeymoon trip.

Yesterday at noon, Miss Frances Barbour York, daughter of Mrs. Francis B. York, 5314 Washington boulevard, and Martin Linn Clardy, son of Mrs. Martin Linn Clardy of Farmington, Mo., were married by Msgr. J. J. Tannrath at the Old Cathedral. Guests were limited to members of the families.

Mrs. Meta Lester and Emanuel Cicardi were quietly married April 21 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto G. Sehrt, 4934 Northland place.

A wedding of Thursday was that of Miss Florence Marie Tate, daughter of Mrs. J. L. Tate, 1836 Blackstone avenue, and Victor Hugo Boeger, 2148 Linton avenue. Miss Virginia Tate was maid of honor for her sister and William Boeger was his brother's best man. After a honeymoon in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Boeger will be at home at 4167 Clay avenue.

Miss Ann Peggy O'Connor and Louis M. Sleater were married April 16 in Chicago by the Rev. Father Coholon of St. Mary's Church. They will be at home at 4500 Alice avenue, St. Louis.

The wedding of Miss Helen Bargmann, 1722 Cora avenue, and Edgar P. Shutz will take place at 8 o'clock the morning of June 27 in the Immaculate Conception Church, and will be followed by a breakfast at Mission Inn. Mrs. W. B. Morris will attend the bride as matron of honor, and Misses Pauline Shutz and Charlotte Bokel will be bridesmaids. A. G. Mungenast is to be best man, and George Schoening and A. P. Grimm groomsmen. The couple will spend their honeymoon in the North and will reside in St. Louis.

The engagement of Miss [illegible] Herron, daughter of Mrs. [illegible], 4873 Natural Bridge road, and [illegible] Bergeon of Kansas City, Mo., is announced today. No date has been set for the wedding.

BUDGET AND $2.43 TAX BILLS PASS ALDERMEN

$22,759,045 in Appropriations Approved, an Increase of $1,195,666 Since Last Year.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday passed the budget bill, carrying $22,759,045 in appropriations for the city government for the fiscal year, a bill fixing the tax rate for this year at $2.43 on the $100 assessed valuation, and the standardization measure, regulating the pay of city employes.

Appropriations in the budget show an increase of $1,195,666 over the budget of $21,563,379 for the previous fiscal year, ending April 9, last. The tax rate of $2.43 is 7 cents less than the rate in effect in 1922.

The standardization bill authorizes no changes in the pay of city employes who are paid on a monthly basis, but increases are granted to employes in about 45 classifications who are paid on an hourly basis. This is in compliance with a charter provision that pay of such employes in the city service shall conform to the prevailing rate in such crafts outside the city service. Increases for other employes, totaling about $500,000 a year, were refused by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

One amendment was made from the form in which the bill was drafted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the amendment granting bakers a $2 increase a week, giving them $38 a week on the basis of nine hours a day.

School Tax Cut 6 Cents.

Reduction of the tax rate was through a 3-cent cut in the State rate to 10 cents, authorized by the last Legislature, and a 6-cent reduction in the tax for school purposes. The Board of Education reduced the levy for school maintenance from 85 to 82 cents, and waived for this year a 3-cent levy for interest and retirement of bonded debt. The city rate for interest and bonded debt retirement advanced to 24 cents, an increase of 2 cents, making a net reduction of 7 cents on the total rate.

Items in the $2.43 rate on the $100 assessed valuation include: State purposes, 10 cents; school maintenance, 82 cents; municipal purposes, exclusive of water division, $1.19; for interest and retirement of bonded debt, 24 cents; library, 4 cents; Art Museum, 2 cents; Zoo, 2 cents. This rate will apply on taxes payable in October, November and December of this year.

Items in Budget.

The budget contains items totaling $2,289,380 for the waterworks, to be paid from revenues of the water division. Other budget divisions are: $2,587,815 for sinking fund, payment of interest and retirement of the bonded debt; $17,531,850 for municipal purposes and operations of the various departments, except the water division, and $350,000 for a street sprinkling fund.

Objection to an item of $16,000 in the bill for maintenance of the Meramec Hills farm, where a home for delinquent girls is to be established, was raised in the Committee on Ways and Means, before the bill was reported out for passage. This objection was based on the fact that no girls are being kept there now, but the appropriation was approved.

Members of the Board of Children's Guardians explained the board expected to send several girls there by October, if a dormitory, for which an $80,000 appropriation has been passed, is completed by that time. The money will revert to the treasury if it is not needed for maintenance, it was said. The bond issue includes $100,000 for buildings on the farm.

Last year an appropriation of $28,000 was made for Meramec Hills, of which $11,000 was spent and $17,000 reverted to the treasury. The $11,000 was expended for maintenance and stock, it was said. The superintendent and three other employes, including a cook, are at the farm. It was purchased for $35,000.

BISHOP TUTTLE MEMORIAL SERVICE TO BE HELD MAY 13

Bishop William Lawrence of Massachusetts Will Be Preacher at Ceremonies.

He was a close friend of Bishop Tuttle for many years.

250 SCHOOL TEACHERS ON TRIP

Chicago Party Takes Boat Here to Go to Shiloh.

Two hundred and fifty Chicago school teachers passed through St. Louis early yesterday en route to the Shiloh battle field in Hardin County, Tennessee. They arrived on the Wabash from Chicago, transferring here to the new river steamer "Harry G. Drees," of the Mississippi and Ohio Steamboat Co. The boat will return the teachers to St. Louis, the return to Chicago being by rail.

The "Harry G. Drees" will be put in passenger service between St. Louis and St. Paul on May 28. It will make the round trip in eight days. The owners plan receptions on the boat for St. Louis and Missouri public officials before the first regular trip.

90 DAYS FOR GANGSTER WHO HAD A REVOLVER

Harry Londo, of Egan Gang, Receives Workhouse Sentence After Pleading Guilty.

Another step in the co-operative movement by the police, prosecuting officials and courts to rid the city of gun-toting gangsters was taken yesterday when Harry Londo, a member of the Egan gang, was sentenced to three months in the Workhouse on his plea of guilty of a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Punishment where pleas of guilty were offered in such cases, prior to the recent agitation against gun-toting, was a fine of $100 or a sentence of 30 days in jail.

Londo was arrested Dec. 26, 1922, in a restaurant at 822 North Theresa avenue by detectives when he drew a revolver from his pocket as the officers were about to search him. In a scuffle with the officers Londo was struck on the head, suffering fracture of the skull which kept him in city hospital three weeks.

"I believe Londo would be sufficiently punished if a three months' Workhouse term is added to the physical punishment he received when arrested," said Assistant Circuit Attorney Garstang, in recommending the sentence to Judge Falkenhainer.

Elmer Runge and Edward A. (Bunny) McGrath, two other Egan gangsters, were arrested Friday night in a bathroom on the third floor of a house at 1424 Cass avenue, where they were hiding after a chase from the corner of Blair and Cass avenues.

Detectives of the homicide squad saw Runge and McGrath on the corner. They ran when the detectives approached and went into the Cass avenue house. On the stairway within the house the detectives found a loaded revolver, but neither Runge nor McGrath would admit ownership.

Recently Ray Renard, also an Egan gangster, was sentenced by a jury to nine months in jail for carrying a concealed revolver. He filed a motion for a new trial and is at liberty under bond.

LEGISLATIVE BODY IS DICKERING FOR CAHOKIA MOUNDS

Illinois House and Senate Subcommittees Confer With Owners Without Reaching Agreement.

LAND SOUGHT AT LOW PRICE FOR STATE PARK

At Luncheon, W. K. Moorehead Tells of Demand of Science for Preservation of "Stone-Age Village."

Subcommittees of the Illinois Senate and House visited Monk's and surrounding mounds in St. Clair and Madison counties Friday in an effort to drive a bargain for purchase of 235 acres, upon which 15 of the 80 or more mounds in the Cahokia group stand, for conversion into a State park.

A bill appropriating $250,000 for such a park now is before the committees, who indicated that, in their opinion, chance for passage was better than at any other time in the long endeavor to preserve these prehistoric monuments.

However, they indicated further that the price must be low. The committees conferred during the afternoon with owners in the Ramey home adjoining Monk's, the great mound of the group. No agreement was reached. The committees wanted the land valued at farm prices and the owners argued that the advance of industry in the East Side district and other considerations gave the property higher value than mere tillable soil. The committees departed with the understanding that they would consult the owners further before making report to the general appropriations committees.

The legislative party was headed by Dr. Harry G. Wright, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee. Members of the Senate subcommittee were T. G. Essington, chairman; J. E. McMurray and A. S. Cuthbertson. The House committee was G. J. Johnson, chairman; J. Placek and C. J. McMackin. Senator H. C. Giberson of Alton and Representative Thomas J. Fekete Jr. of East St. Louis accompanied the committees.

Demand for Preservation.

During a lunch given to the committees by the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and the Collinsville Commercial Club, Warren K. Moorehead, curator of the museum of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., who has been exploring the mounds in spring and autumn during the last two years, explained the scientific demand for their preservation.

Moorehead stated his belief that somewhere among the mounds which stretch along the American Bottom for a distance of five miles there is a great cache of the art objects and agricultural implements of the people who inhabited the vicinity of the mounds in what he termed "the largest stone-age village in the United States."

In this connection, Moorehead announced his purpose to seek sufficient funds to permit his undertaking to tunnel the larger mounds of the group, including the giant Monk's, which covers more than 19 acres, the largest artificial earthwork in the world.

In response to questions of the committee members as to the age of the mounds, Moorehead said the closest estimate he would venture was that they were erected several hundred years prior to 1668. He computed, he said, that the construction of Monk's required at least a century's labor.

Results of Search of Mounds.

Moorehead told the committee that his work so far had unearthed 125 skeletons and more than 6000 art objects, few of which, however, are whole. They have been deposited with the University of Illinois. Fragments of obsidian, which could have come only from the Yellowstone, have been found, he said, together with copper from the Great Lakes region, shark's teeth and mica from North Carolina, shells from the Gulf and other minerals, indicating that the Cahokia Indians had a wide commerce and likely were the master artisans of their day. He pointed out that their culture resembled that of the southern prehistoric dwellers in America and differed from that of other works in Illinois, which were of the northern culture.

He could not conceive, Moorehead said, that the Cahokia Indians raised the great Monk's simply as a residence mound, for the bluffs not far distant offered more natural advantages for residences, but was inclined to believe that some chieftain began it as a great memorial, and that it was completed, as in the case of the Egyptian pyramids, by his successors. Consequently, he said, he could not help but feel that Monk's either was a treasure house or contained other things of scientific value and general interest.

The Gold Digger.

However, he said, he did not want the term "treasure house" interpreted as it recently had been by a Collinsville real estate dealer. That dealer chanced to own the ground on which stood a mound which Moorehead desired to explore. Before he would consent to the digging he compelled Moorehead to sign an agreement that "all jewels and gold and silver found were to become the property of the land owner."

"Happily," Moorehead said, "gold and silver and precious stones were not coveted in the stone age as they are now."

MRS. SARAH GORDON, WHO WAS CIVIL WAR PRISONER, DIES

Both She and Husband Were Made Captives Because of Activities for Confederacy.

Mrs. Sarah Gordon, 96 years old, who died Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Dale, 4723 Newberry terrace, from senility, frequently regaled her friends with stories of how she was a prisoner of the Union Army in the Civil War period.

She and her husband, the late A. C. Gordon, had resided on their cotton plantation near New Orleans for many years when the war between the North and South broke out, and both were stanch supporters of the Confederacy. Their efforts in behalf of the Confederate army so displeased the Union forces that their property was confiscated and they were sent to a Union prison at Cairo, Ill.

Mrs. Gordon is survived by her daughter, two grandchildren in Denver and a great-granddaughter in Texas. Her husband, who, after the war became a steamboat captain on the Mississippi, died 37 years ago.

NEW WEEKLY BARGE SERVICE TO MEMPHIS

Regular Package Freight Sailings Will Begin Next Friday.

In fulfillment of a recent announcement, the Mississippi-Warrior Service, which operates the barge line upon the Mississippi River between St. Louis and New Orleans, will institute next Friday a weekly package freight service between St. Louis and Memphis, giving delivery on the third morning in Memphis. The rate will be 20 per cent under the rail rate.

To carry on the service, the barge line has brought the self-propelled barge, Gulfport, which it has been using in coal trade on the Warrior River, over to the Mississippi. The Gulfport will sail regularly from St. Louis each Friday, leaving Memphis on the return trip the following Monday and arriving in St. Louis Thursday. Scheduled time for the down trip is 40 hours; for the up trip, 72 hours, with ample time for discharge of cargo in each port.

By reason of joint rates with railroads, the new service offers St. Louis wholesalers and jobbers opportunity to reach customers in Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana at the cheap river rate. Delivery to rail connections will be on each Monday following the Friday on which goods are shipped.

There is a capacity cargo of 1200 tons booked for the first sailing. It includes drugs and chemicals, shoes, dry goods, extracts, electrical appliances, envelopes and paper, furniture, cash registers, musical instruments, adding machines, stationery, talking machines, candy and candy boxes, tents and awnings, paints, automobile tires, pianos, garden seed, automobiles, stoves and small hardware.

The new service is acclaimed as a milestone in the revival of traffic on the Mississippi.

at narcotic agents consider an al case has come to light re g David Gordon, a cigar jobber cy, Ill., who two months ago entenced by Federal Judge to serve 18 months in Leaven penitentiary on a charge of morphine in his possession. pleaded guilty, and confessed a drug addict.

were made yesterday to ask Faris to recommend a parole, ground that Gordon accepted e rather than betray the fact is young wife, Mrs. Jean Gor was a victim of narcotics. The is to be presented by Mrs. 's father, Sheriff William of Belleville, Wis., who le that Gordon never used drugs, had tried to cure his wife of bit and that the morphine was d for Mrs. Gordon at her en Narcotic Inspector Charles son said his investigations had satisfied him Gordon was not a user of drugs.

At Husband's Trial.

Mrs. Gordon came to St. Louis for her husband's trial, and on the night he was taken to prison rode with him and the marshal on the train to St. Charles. He was heard to urge her to return home to her father.

Instead, she remained in this city, and two weeks later was arrested at the Stratford Hotel with a quantity of morphine in her possession. She has since been in the care of the matron at the City Jail, but was released yesterday on her own recognizance, after her father promised to take her to his home and keep drugs out of her reach.

She told the authorities she permitted her husband to sacrifice himself rather than run the risk of going to prison herself, where she might be unable to obtain morphine. She revealed a number of letters written to her by Gordon from the penitentiary, in which he said he had urged her for years to give up the habit, and that after all her arrest might result in her cure.

Tells of Acquiring Habit.

Mrs. Gordon said that on account of depression following drinking parties in Wisconsin, she appealed to a young physician, who administered cocaine and morphine, with the result that she acquired the habit. She asserted that her husband had never taken drugs. Gordon is about 35 and his wife is about 27.

SCHOOL CHILDREN URGED TO AID NEAR EAST THIS WEEK

Each Requested to Contribute Can of Condensed Milk for Relief of Orphans.

Every school child in St. Louis will be asked to take one can of condensed milk to school this week, to be sent to the Near East Relief for the orphans and refugees, threatened with starvation. The same request will be made of children in suburban schools. This appeal is being made both in public and parochial schools. Placards will be displayed on automobiles as well as on street cars.

The largest contributions made here last week were 600 cases (48 cans to a case) by the Carnation Milk Products Co., and pledges of 300 cases by the Associated Retail Grocers. Parochial schools gave 830 cans. The cash received for purchase of milk was $700.

The milk contributed last week will suffice to keep 60,000 children from starving for one week.

The largest individual check so far received in the campaign is that of A. E. Forbes for $1000, as a part of the contribution of the Delmar Baptist Church. Responses to the Near East appeal by the Second Presbyterian Church have resulted in gifts and pledges amounting to $2718. Delmar Baptist Church has subscribed more than $2000.

GANGSTER DOERING A $30,000 FAILURE AS BUSINESS MAN

Hardware Firm, One of 50 Creditors, Has Bill for $1398 for Items Including 5 Guns and Shotgun Shells

DODGED BANKRUPTCY SERVICE TILL JAILED

Judge Faris Ordered Mail Robbery Suspect to Appear Last January to Explain Assets of Motor Sales Co.

William F. (Whitey) Doering, Egan gangster and paroled burglar, in whose bungalow securities taken in the downtown holdup of an armored mail truck were found, has been ordered to appear before Referee in Bankruptcy Coles next Wednesday to tell what became of assets of the Federal Motor Sales Co., against which an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed a year ago.

Doering, who was head of the bankrupt company, was served with a summons in jail last Tuesday, prior to his release on bond in connection with the mail truck robbery. Clem F. Storckman, trustee for the creditors of the motor sales company, had been seeking him since Dec. 23.

Among the more than 50 creditors of the company, whose claims aggregate about $30,000, is the Shapleigh Hardware Co., which has presented a bill for $1398, for various items purchased by Doering between Dec. 6, 1921, and Jan. 6, 1922, including three automatic shotguns, two rifles and 1000 shotgun shells.

Firearms Found in Raid.

It will be recalled that when Doering's home in Richmond Heights was raided April 19 by postoffice inspectors, three rifles and two shotguns, loaded, were found behind the front and back doors, and at the front windows, and three loaded revolvers and an automatic pistol were on shelves and tables in various parts of the house.

The Federal Motor Sales Co. formerly was conducted at 2229 Locust street by Doering and Clarence (Little Red) Powers, another member of the Egan gang, who was shot and killed Feb. 25 at the St. Louis County resort of "Belvedere Joe" Gonnella, in the war between the Egan and Hogan gangs. Powers, however, withdrew his partnership in the motor sales company several months before the bankruptcy petition was filed in the Federal Court against Doering March 11, 1922.

Following the filing of the petition, the creditors elected Storckman as trustee and directed him to find what assets he could. Up to date Storckman has found very little except about $1000, proceeds from a Sheriff's sale of fixtures and stock of the motor sales company.

Efforts to Find Doering Futile.

An order was issued by Federal Judge Faris in January directing Doering to appear before Referee Coles for examination concerning what he had done with assets of the bankrupt company, but all efforts to locate Doering were futile until after his arrest last week. The subpena was served about an hour before Doering was released on a $25,000 bond ot answer five charges growing out of the robbery of the mail truck.

NEW CONTEMPT CITATION AGAINST "BELVEDERE JOE"

Hearing on Charge of Violating Order Closing County Resort Set for Next Saturday.

Another order directing "Belvedere Joe" Gonnella, owner of a resort at Olive Street and North Groby roads, St. Louis County, to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court was issued by Federal Judge Faris yesterday, when it was discovered that a former contempt proceeding against Gonnella had been brought under the wrong law. Gonnella's arrest has been ordered under the new proceedings.

Special Assistant Attorney-General Dyott, in applying for the original order last week, based his action on the general law applying to contempt of court. Judge Faris pointed out to him that the proceeding should have been brought under the Volstead prohibition act, and yesterday the error was corrected.

As has been told, Gonnella is charged with being in contempt of court for violating an injunction order issued April 9 by Judge Faris closing Gonnella's resort for a year. The Volstead law provides for the arrest of a person charged with violating an injunction issued under that law.

The arrest of Joseph M. Sisk, proprietor of Riverview Inn on Riverview drive, north of the city limits, also was ordered yesterday on a charge similar to that preferred against Gonnella. Both men are to appear in the Federal Court next Saturday for a hearing. Their bonds have been fixed at $1500.

Slot Machine Confiscated.

George Klaich, 30 years old, proprietor of a cigar store at 1000 Mississippi avenue, was arrested yesterday by detectives who confiscated a 25-cent slot machine found in the store. A warrant charging possession of a gambling device will be sought.

$720 PAYROLL HOLDUP AT NEW MASONIC TEMPLE

Two Men Enter Basement of Scottish Rite Structure on Lindell and Rob Subcontractor.

Two robbers who entered the construction office of the B. F. Edwards Heating Co. in the basement of the new Scottish Rite temple on Lindell boulevard, near Grand boulevard, at 9:40 a. m., yesterday, took a payroll of $720.

The money belonged to Herman Hirsch, 44 years old, of 5853 Cote Brilliante avenue, a subcontractor, who was counting the money on a table preparatory to paying off his 20 employes when the robbers entered. An employe was with him and another was standing just outside the office.

All three were ordered at the point of revolvers to put up their hands. The man outside was told to come in. Then one of the robbers raked the money from the table.

The pair left, walking up the steps from the basement to the ground and passing into an alley between Lindell boulevard and Olive street. Men at work on the building who saw them go into the cellar and come out did not suspect that a robbery was taking place.

Hirsch said one of the men held a handkerchief to his face. He noticed scars on the unmasked face of the other.

Hirsch had brought the money from a Wellston bank to pay the 20 employes of the company working in the building.

Maplewood Opens a "White Way."

Mayor Kiel and Lieutenant-Governor Lloyd will speak from an outdoor stand at a merchants' festival in Maplewood at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening, opening a "white way" in the business section. About 200 lights have been installed along Manchester and Sutton avenues. The festival will continue through the week with band concerts every evening and a dance Wednesday night.

They were married in Germany and Block came to this country in 1881 to establish a home for his family. Returning to Germany three years later, Block brought his family to America and settled in Racine, Wis., where they lived until their removal to St. Louis in 1895. Several members of the family arrived in St. Louis yesterday from Chicago to attend the celebration.

DRY LEADER TO SPEAK THREE TIMES TODAY

William E. Johnson, Here, Says U. S. Will Just Keep on Getting Dryer and Dryer.

William E. Johnson, known the world over as "Pussyfoot," will give three public addresses here today, the first at 11 a. m. in the Methodist Church in Clayton, the second at 3 p. m. in the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards, and the third at 8 p. m. in the Second Baptist Church, King's highway and Washington boulevard.

The prohibition leader, who has circled the globe and now is directing the effort to render Great Britain dry from a London office, arrived here yesterday. He said his mission was to dispel some of the "hot air" in discussions of how potent prohibition is in the United States. He referred to the fact that the persons who are saying that there is more liquor than ever being consumed are the same persons who are crying that the use of drugs is increasing because whisky drinkers cannot get whisky.

An Auto-Suggestion Story.

He told a story in this connection which has its setting in Australia, where autosuggestion took a firmer hold than in the United States. A bow-legged man was assured that the only reason he was bow-legged was that he let his mind rest upon the fact that he might be bow-legged until he became bow-legged. He was told to repeat 80 times "I am not bow-legged," but lost count, went over 100 and woke next morning knock-kneed.

Johnson has no fears for prohibition in the United States. He believes the country will get dryer and dryer until the prohibition law is as effective as other laws. "We have always had a law against stealing, but we haven't quite got rid of the thieves," he said.

He was complacent to the extent of joviality and insisted on being photographed with his hat on—a soft black hat, with quite a broad brim.

Has a New Hat.

"A friend in Oswego, N. Y., assured me that I was wearing the most disreputable hat outside an ash can," he said. "He told me to buy a new one when I reached a well-known hatter's in Philadelphia and gave me $12 wherewith to pay. The hat cost $10. The best theological opinion in Philadelphia was that it would never do for me to keep the extra $2 and be subject to suggestions of grafting, so I mailed back the $2."

Johnson had no comment to make upon the fact that St. Louis goes wet like a hurricane whenever opportunity to vote is given. "I am not familiar with conditions here now," he said. "There was a time, however, when no saloon in St. Louis had a key. I venture that the license laws before prohibition were violated fully as much as the prohibition law is now."

2000 EXPECTED AT DINNER IN INTEREST OF AIR MEET

Arrangements for the dinner to be given by the St. Louis Air Board at the Chase Hotel May 9, in the interest of the 1923 meet of the National Aeronautic Association and Pulitzer Trophy airplane speed race to be held here in October, contemplate an attendance of about 2000 men. Martin J. Collins, in charge of arrangements, hopes to make it the largest affair of its kind ever held in St. Louis.

The St. Louis Flying Club next Sunday will give a reception to members of the Air Board at St. Louis Field, near Bridgeton, St. Louis County, where the national aeronautic meet will be held. There will be airplane exhibition flights and Maj. John A. Paegelow, commandant at Scott Field, will have two huge airships at the field, weather permitting.

Lecture on Interracial Relations.

Dr. W. W. Alexander, director of the Interracial Committee of the International Y. M. C. A., Atlanta, Ga., will speak on "Interracial Cooperation" at the Chamber of Commerce members' conference luncheon Wednesday. Col. C. S. Thornton will talk on "Our National Guard." Miss Birdie Reeve, 16 years old, who has established speed records in typewriting, will give a demonstration.

PROGRAM FOR BETTER RAIL FREIGHT SERVICE

Plans Being Distributed Broadcast to Shippers by American Railway Association.

The American Railway Association is distributing broadcast to shippers a program for 1923 designed to reduce the number of cars required; to reduce empty mileage in the return of equipment to producing districts, and generally to relieve congested transporation facilities and for general improvement of the service without additional costs.

Commercial and business organizations in the St. Louis district are co-operating with the American Railway Association in distribution of the program, to the end that this industrial district may have improved transportation facilities, and under this arrangement every person, firm and corporation using the freight facilities will receive a copy of the program in the next few days.

It is pointed out in the program that if all the cars that were loaded during September, October and November, 1922, had been loaded to an average of 30 tons per car, instead of the actual 27.7 tons, it would, in effect, have added 188,157 cars to the ownership.

The salient points in the program are:

Load equipment to capacity or 10 per cent above capacity.

Restrict the number of cars shipped under "to order bills of lading."

Limit reconsignment of traffic to the greatest possible extent.

Unload cars promptly.

Increase storage facilities and provide adequate siding capacity to facilitate unloading.

Do not order cars beyond ability to load daily.

Begin early in the season with road building and construction, and storage and movement of lake coal and ore.

The foregoing plan has been indorsed and shippers and receivers of freight are urged to comply with the program.

FOUNTAIN PEN, LOST IN 1898, IS FOUND IN A RADISH BED

Carrollton (Ill.) Editor's Warrior of the Press, at Age of 35, Is Again in Service.

Once upon a time there was a gallant fountain pen, which wore armor of rubber jet and tripped upon toes of gold. Valiantly, in the hands of Clement L. Clapp, editor of the Patriot of Carrollton, Ill., it pointed with pride and viewed with alarm. And 15 years ago, when Clapp sold the Patriot to Charles Bradshaw, the fountain pen was presented to the new editor. It would be cruel, said Clapp, to cut off the career of so bold a warrior of the press.

For 10 years the pen served its new master, and many a public wrong fell before its prowess. And then, one day, perhaps it grew weary. At any rate, while Bradshaw was feeding his horse, the pen slipped from his vest pocket and concealed itself so well that a long search proved in vain.

A quarter of a century passed. Summers elapsed, and winters with their snows. The old family horse was gathered to the green pastures of its ancestors. The barn was torn down and its site turned into a vegetable patch. In the newspaper office, pens and pencils gave way to typewriters.

And then, a few days ago, Mrs. Bradshaw was inspecting her bed of young radishes. She saw a black object and picked it up. It was the lost fountain pen. The ink had evaporated to dust, the cap was missing, and rats had gnawed the barrel. But the gold point and mechanism were unimpaired. Resplendent in a new case, this fairy prince among pens once more adorns its master's breast.

Former Editor to Lecture.

Sam Small, former editor of the Atlanta Constitution, and now chief lecturer for the National Reform Association of Washington, D. C., will speak on "Scrapping the Ten Commandments" at Union Methodist Church, 3410 Delmar boulevard, at 3 p. m. today.

CHARGES AGAINST PRINCIPAL DENIED

Teachers of Buder School Declare Miss Gertrude O'Connell Acted Fairly With Pupils.

Charges recently preferred against Miss Gertrude O'Connell, principal of the Susan R. Buder grade school in Southampton, in which "just little things" are said to have been causing friction for the last three or four years between the principal and the school's patrons, were refuted yesterday by a statement from members of the school's teaching staff and another by a resident of Southampton.

A delegation of the teachers presented a statement to the Post-Dispatch, in which they uphold the principal as having "acted fairly and squarely with every child in the school. * * * Furthermore, she has the co-operation of every one of the teachers in everything she has done."

Reference is made to the charge of other patrons, published in Friday's Post-Dispatch, in which Miss O'Connell was said to have refused to allow children to take books out of the branch library in the school. "As to the charge made against her," the teachers say, "first of all, the library books were never forbidden to the children except when they interfered with school work by taking the attention of the children from their studying."

W. Z. Van Pelt of 5207 Devonshire avenue, who says he has lived in Southampton for more than 20 years and was among the petitioners to start the school out there in 1909, said: "Miss O'Connell is a hard-working woman and most of us want her to stay. She will not fight back, asking us merely to allow the Board of Education to act as it sees fit."

Benjamin Wolf yesterday said the petitions were gaining names daily and that the whole matter will be presented to Superintendent Maddox within a few days.

GAME STORAGE CASE DISMISSED

The failure of Deputy State Game and Fish Wardens to appear as witnesses in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday resulted in the dismissal of a charge of storing game in a commercial establishment against Joseph Arnold, 5912 Ridge avenue, manager of the Winter Garden Cold Storage Co.

Arnold was arrested Jan. 5, last, by Deputy Game Warden Wiemeyer when nine quail and six squirrels were found in the storage plant. Decisions in similar cases against the St. Louis and University clubs will be handed down by Judge Calvin Miller of the Court of Criminal Correction next month.

General Electric Head to Speak.

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., will speak at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon tomorrow on "What Your Policy Should be Under Present Business Conditions." E. M. Heer, president of the Westinghouse Electric Co., will be a guest at the luncheon.

CHILD KILLED BY TRUCK; DRIVER IS ARRESTED

Huckster Says He Did Not See Adolph Becker, 7, but Felt Machine Jarred.

Adolph Becker, 7 years old, 2242A Michigan avenue, died yesterday on the way to city hospital of fracture of the skull and a crushed chest. He was found lying in the street in front of his home at 1 p. m. yesterday, just after an automobile truck had passed.

Felix Siebert, 30, 4939 Seibert avenue, a huckster, driving the truck, was arrested. He said he did not see the child, but that he felt a jar and stopped after looking around and seeing the boy lying in the street. Siebert would not admit his truck struck the child.

Neighbors informed police the boy was playing in the street just before the accident. No one was found who actually saw the occurrence.

FALSE AD CHARGE DISMISSED

Furniture Firm and Manager Freed for Lack of Evidence.

A charge of resorting to misleading advertising against the Welch Furniture Co., 1109 Olive street, and Arthur Flhn, manager, was dismissed yesterday in the Court of Criminal Correction by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney [illegible] of lack of evidence.

The charge grew out of an advertisement in the Post-Dispatch [illegible] 1, 1922, offering Simmons [illegible] for sale at $17.85 each. It [illegible] alleged the Welch company [illegible] to sell a Simmons bed at the [illegible] tised price to Mrs. Ernest I. [illegible] nan of 5760 Etzel avenue, and [illegible] the substitution of an inferior [illegible] of furniture was attempted. [illegible] case had been continued [illegible] times.

A Player-Piano Value—Without Equal in Player History

This price includes a complete library of the world's best music (24 selected music rolls) and a combination player bench to match. Delivered to your home on terms of $3 weekly.

These are, indeed, high-quality Players—as fine Players as ever bore a $600 price. Made by one of the largest and most successful houses in the piano industry. A Player that will equal in quality of tone, in sturdiness of construction, in beauty of finish, anything that this maker ordinarily produces to sell for $600. We are right, don't you think, in styling this the greatest value in a distinctly high-class Player-Piano that has ever been given?

Who the maker of these Players is, is no secret, yet anyone will readily understand why a fine highly rated old house does not want it broadcasted through the newspapers, that one of its splendid instruments is to be sold in Saint Louis for $387, when Pianos of like quality are everywhere commanding approximately $600. So it had to be a condition of our purchase that the only place where the name should be divulged must be in our display rooms. A secret until you get here—a surprise and a great one that we hold in waiting.

Tomorrow, these beautiful instruments go on sale at $387—the finest value in Player-Pianos of real quality that we have known. But the number is limited. No orders beyond the extent of this special purchase can be taken for fulfillment at this low price.

Scholarships Planned to Train Choristers for Principal Roles

All St. Louis Casts Eventual Purpose of Municipal Theater Association, Which Will Arrange Free Instruction for Talented Aspirants.

PLANS for awarding free scholarship in the study of voice and dancing are being worked out by the Executive Productions Committee of the Municipal Theater Association, with the purpose of enabling talented members of the summer opera chorus eventually to advance to positions as principals. The details are not ready for announcement, but it is stated that the management hopes in time to give productions not only with St. Louis choristers but with St. Louis soloists.

The association regards with pride its service in organizing and training a chorus composed exclusively of local singers. The Municipal Opera Chorus Training School was established last year, and the 1922 chorus was generally considered to be the feature of the season. About half of the 1923 chorus, it is predicted, will consist of singers who were members of last year's organization.

Stage and Music Directors Frank Rainger and Charles Previn arrived last week and began the task of selecting 90 choristers from the 250 candidates who have been under training. There will be 66 female and 24 male voices in the chorus. The management believes that training received in the chorus will be of high value to persons wishing to prepare for careers in light opera.

Fred Palmer Succeeds Nicholls.

AFTER all, Ralph Nicholls, who has served as stage manager of the enterprise since its inception, will not be on the staff this year. He will be succeeded by Fred Palmer, who was formerly a member of the stock company which flourished at Uhrig's Cave. He has had extensive experience in stage management, and is said to have appeared in 135 different musical productions.

Radical improvements are promised in the stage settings to be used this summer. Joseph Ademak will continue as designer, but the sets will no longer be constructed in the studios of the Municipal Theater Association. The designs will be executed in the atelier of Toomey and Volland, a St. Louis firm. The models for the first four productions have been approved, and their construction has already begun. This means, it is announced, that at least four weeks will be devoted to building each production, instead of one week, as in former seasons.

With the opening performance, on May 28, still a month away, the advance season subscriptions are said to have passed $65,000. Tickets for season subscribers will be ready for delivery tomorrow at the ticket office in the lobby of the Arcade Building. Season tickets will also be available for those who have not made reservations.

Gogol Comedy Has First Showing in English

NEW YORK, April 28.

THE first performance in English of Gogol's comedy, "The Inspector-General," will take place Monday night at the Forty-eighth Street Theater, with a cast including Maurice Schwartz, William Norton, Walker Dennett, Anna Vroom, Eda von Buelow and W. A. Whitecar. On the same evening the Russian Grand Opera Company, which sang here a year ago, will present a Russian operetta, "One Night of Love," at Jolson's Fifty-ninth Street Theater. The score is a potpourri from familiar operas, arranged by Velentin Valentinov.

"My Aunt From Ypsilanti," Henry Baron's new farce, will be placed on view at the Earl Carroll Theater Tuesday evening, with a cast including Florence Shirley, Alice Fischer, Richard Sterling, Paul Gordon, Jane Richardson, Zeffie Tillbury, Gypsy O'Brien and Colin Campbell. "Pride," by Thompson Buchanan, will be offered Wednesday evening at the Morosco Theater, with Juliette Day, Hilda Spong, Fred L. Tiden, Robert Fisher and Camille Dalberg in the company. The action takes place in and around New York.

The play by Mrs. August Belmont (Eleanor Robson), which Winthrop Ames is to produce next season, is called "In the Next Room," and Mary Kennedy is to have the leading role. . . . Sidney Blackmer is to be starred in the stage version of Rafael Sabatini's "Scaramouche." . . . John Emerson and Anita Loos, motion picture authors, have written their first play for the legitimate stage. It is called "The Whole Town's Talking."

Rogers Omits Japes at President.

THAT section of the Broadway population to whom the "Follies" is a fetish noticed at the performances the latter part of this week that Will Rogers' cracks at President Harding's golf were omitted from his monologue. On Tuesday night, it is related, a box was reserved for the President, but at the last moment he shifted to "The Music Box Revue," owing, perhaps, to a previous experience in Washington, when Rogers enjoyed himself intensely at the expense of the administration. The New Amsterdam officials seemed impressed; hence the omission of the golf japes.

A notable cast has been assembled for the Equity's revival of "The Rivals," eight performances of which will be given, beginning a week from Monday night, at the Equity Forty-eighth Street Theater. The parts are assigned as follows: Bob Acres, Francis Wilson; Mrs. Malaprop, Mary Shaw; Lydia Languish, Violet Heming; David, James T. Powers; Anthony Absolute, Sidney Blackmer; Lucy, Vivian Tobin; Sir Lucius O'Trigger, J. M. Kerrigan; and Julia, Eva Le Gallienne. McKay Morris will also have a small part. The Equity will follow this, at the same theater, with "Sweet Nell of Old Drury," featuring Laurette Taylor, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine. It is said that Equity carnival of plays from Sophocles to Samuel Shipman has been abandoned.

"Goodness Knows," by David Gray, closed tonight in Cleveland, after a tryout of two weeks. The third act will be rewritten and the play recast before its New York appearance in the fall.

Ethel Barrymore will play Lady Teasle and Robert B. Mantell will play Snake in the Players' Club production of "The School for Scandal," in which John Drew will star. The production will be given sometime in May, for one week only.

Chicago's Adieu to Moscow Players.

THE Theater Guild of Philadelphia, which begins operations May 7 at the Lyric Theater, will use the system of a resident stock company with visiting stars. William Gillette will open the season in "A Successful Calamity;" later will appear Francine Larrimore in "Nice People" and "Scandal," and Grace George in "Captain Brassbound's Conversion." . . . At the close of the Moscow Art Theaters engagement in Chicago, Director Stanislavsky was carried to his hotel on the shoulders of admirers. The audience remained in the theater until 11:30, demanding curtain calls. When the curtain was rung down for good, they remained 15 minutes longer, and finally went to the stage door to cheer the actors.

It is announced that Mrs. Fiske will appear next season under the Belasco management in St. John Ervine's comedy, "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary;" and that Fay Bainter, too, has joined the forces of David. . . . Mr. Ziegfeld announces definitely that "Sally" will close its Chicago run on May 12. Except for a brief respite last summer in Boston, the musical comedy will have been running for 122 weeks. . . . "The Cenci," by Shelley, will be tried out this spring by the Players' League, at the Triangle Theater in Eleventh street, with a view to presenting it regularly here in the fall.

Another Two Weeks in New York.

A RETURN engagement of two weeks in New York, beginning May 21 at a theater not yet chosen, is announced for the Moscow Art Theater. In addition to the four plays already given, it will present "The Brothers Karamazoff," and possibly one or two other new productions. . . . "Better Times" closed at the Hippodrome tonight, and so did "Anathema," at the Forty-eighth Street Theater. . . . The "Chauve-Souris" begins its final week at the Century Monday night.

"Roger Bloomer" will be published in book form, with illustrations by Roland Young and an introduction by John Dos Passos. . . . Eddie Cantor ends his tour in two weeks, and almost immediately will gallop into vaudeville. This is taken to mean that he has come to the parting of the ways with the Shuberts.

After the Moscow Players, the Ethiopian Art Theater, which is to make its bow in Boston. It was organized by Raymond O'Neil, a Caucasian who worked under Max Rheinhardt in Berlin, and has a cast of 25 negro players, headed by Evelyn Preer and Sidney Kirkpatrick. The repertory includes Oscar Wilde's "Salome;" "The Chip Woman's Fortune," a negro folklore comedy; "George," an expressionist play from the German, in 22 scenes; "The Follies of Scapin," to be played with slapsticks "as written by this noted French author;" "The Taming of the Shrew" and "The Comedy of Errors," the latter to be given "a la jazz with a jazz band." St. Louis is named among the towns which the Ethiopians plan to uplift during a tour next season.

Kahn Aids "Dollar Theater."

OTTO H. KAHN has written to Channing Pollock volunteering to be one of the underwriters of his proposed "Dollar Theater." It is estimated that, for a season of 40 weeks, the maximum deficits would be $40,000. . . . For the first time since its organization last autumn the Equity Players will send a production on the road. It is "Why Not?" a comedy by Jesse Lynch Williams, and it is to open in Chicago Monday night. The new principals are Estelle Winwood and Ernest Glendenning.

Lowell Sherman and Katharyn Cornell will have the leading roles in "Casanova," a play from the Spanish based on certain amorous incidents in the career of the famous author of the "Memoirs." . . . The next Potash and Perlmutter play, it is reported, will deal with

First Time Here—Chesterton's "Magic"

A PLAY never before given in this city—Gilbert Chesterton's "Magic"—will be presented Wednesday and Friday evenings at the Artists' Guild by Clifford Devereux and his earnest company of actors. "The Vagabond," a romantic drama of the times of Francois Villon, will be offered Tuesday night and Wednesday afternoon. Ibsen's "Ghosts" is listed for tomorrow and Thursday evenings. "Much Ado About Nothing" will be repeated Saturday afternoon, and the two weeks' engagement will end Saturday night with Shaw's "Arms and the Man."

W. C. Fields, for seven years associated with the Ziegfeld "Follies," will have headline position this week at the Orpheum, with his golf travesty called "An Episode of the Links." Harry Carroll, composer of popular music, will appear in an offering of his songs, with Grace Fisher, his new assistant. Dances and songs will be presented by Williams and Vanessi, aided by Arthur Freed and Jack Clifford, at two pianos. Johnny Burke, in "Drafted," records the trials of a rookie doughboy. Others on the bill, beginning this afternoon are the Ten Seattle Harmony Kings, with Gene Collins and Jack Neill; Billy Dale, with Dorothy Aubrey and Walter Kane, in a Parisian incident; Valand Gamble, lightning calculator and comedian and Josephine Amores and Edna Nally, trapeze performers.

"Welcome Stranger" at Empress.

A COMEDY of tolerance, Aaron Hoffman's "Welcome Stranger," will be given this week at the Empress by the Woodward Players, beginning with today's matinee. It was played here at the American in December, 1921. It tells of one Isadore Solomon, an unwelcome stranger, in a hostile New Hampshire town, who in a year attains the loving-cup stage of popularity. It is a preachment against racial prejudice. J. Raymond Brown will play Isadore, a part created by George Sidney, and others in the cast will be George Doan Borup, Edward Schilling, Bobby Reed, John Warner, Hazel Whitmore, Laura Lovett, Virginia Springer and Caroline Morrison.

A revue, "Dance Fooleries," with Charles Hickey and Dollie Hart, leads the Rialto's bill beginning with this afternoon's performance. Other items are "Brazilian Desert," an act of eccentric comedy and song, with Harry Tyler and Gladys Crolius, and a travesty on professional wrestling, by the Wilson Aubrey Trio. A new bill, starting Thursday, will be headed by J. Frank Holiday and Willette, in "Detailed," a comedy.

The Columbia's schedule for the first half of the week will include Miss Bobby Brewster, Jack Pomeroy and George Wehur, in a dance narrative, "From the Altar to the Bowery"; Valentine Fox, ventriloquist, in "The Clubman"; Gaffney and Walton, comedian, in "The Laugh Cure"; Ernie Leavere and Maude Collins, athletes, and James White, eccentric comedian. The picture is "A Friendly Husband," with Lupino Lane. The bill beginning Thursday will feature a comedy called "Hollywood Frolics," with Yule and Richards, Barbette Benta, Irene Richards and the Wallace twins.

German Stock Company Closes.

THE bill at the Grand Opera House gives first place to a musical comedy, "Annabelle," with Dave Lloyd, Harry Sharpe, Viola Ward, the Moore sisters and Leona Pitts, and will include Ned Nesier, Alice Sessions and Olive Green, in "So This Is Ireland;" Phil Coscia and Al Verdi, with violin and 'cello selections; Allen's "Cheyenne Minstrels," in "A Cowboy's Life at Twilight;" Hager and Goodwin, composers of popular songs; Peggy Bremen in an incident set in the infernal regions; Alberto, a magician; Miller, Packer and Seltz, and Moore and Fields.

The German Theater Stock Company closes its season tonight at Eagle Auditorium with a performance of "Robert and Bertram; or The Jolly Vagabonds." The proceeds will be for the benefit of the business management.

Fashions may change when Barbara La Marr begins her role in the all-star cast of Fred Niblo's "Captain Applejack." A spectacular evening gown is being made for her. Her first appearance in it at an informal studio try-on, gathered quite a crowd. Her role is that of a Russian dancer. She shares honors in the exceptional cast with Matt Moore, Enid Bennett, Thomas Ricketts, Robert McKim, Otto Hoffman, Mrs. Mathilde Brundage and Emily Fitzroy.

"Can't Fool Your Wife," "Poor Men's Wives," "Backbone" on View

"Night Life in Hollywood" Also Featured, "Safety Last" and "Hunting Big Game in Africa" on Local Bills.

"You Can't Fool Your Wife," a Paramount-Melford production, is featured at the Missouri this week. The cast includes Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi, Lewis Stone, Pauline Garon, Paul McAlister and John Daly Murphy.

A husband is constantly rebuked by his wife for his attentions to other women. When she is unable to stand it any longer she leaves him. They are brought together at the home of a noted physician where the husband is taken for treatment after having been attacked by thugs. His wife accidentally becomes the nurse in attendance. Nita Naldi is seen in "vamp" role, and Pauline Garon as an ultra-modern flapper.

"The Barnyard," a new Larry Semon comedy, is also on the program. The musical features include a new orchestral arrangement of "3 O'Clock"; "Carolina in the Morning" played by Stuart Barrie at the organ, and a group of selections by the Imperial Quartette, a stage novelty. "Delft Blue," is a study in steps and colors.

"Poor Men's Wives" is the current attraction at the Grand Central and West End Lyric Theaters. Barbara LaMarr, heretofore seen in vampire parts, has the principal role. David Butler, Zasu Pitts, Richard Tucker and Betty Francisco are also in the cast.

Exclusive stage attractions at the Grand Central will be the presentation of Dave Silverman and his orchestra on the stage, and the return of the Dennis Sisters, harmony singers.

Silverman's program includes popular songs and an original piano solo, "Step On It," written and played by Silverman.

"In "Poor Men's Wives" a rich girl invites the poor man's wife to attend a ball and shows her how she can secure the proper clothing, having it sent "on approval" for that night only with the intention of returning it the following day. This is done and the ball is a gay affair, but the next morning, while the poor man's wife is sleeping, her children cut up the $500 gown and there the story begins. The picture will play only four days at the West End Lyric, where Viola Dana in "Crinoline and Romance" will be shown for three days, starting Wednesday.

The Capitol Theater this week is presenting a return engagement of Harold Lloyd in "Safety Last."

"Night Life in Hollywood" and "Chain Lightning" make up the double bill for the week at the Liberty Theater. The Hollywood film purports to show true conditions in the much-discussed film capital. In this case the story deals with the experiences of a young man who goes there, not like Merton, to achieve fame, but rather in quest of those hectic pleasures of which he has read. The film shows how he is disillusioned and instead of a trail of scandal he finds a path that leads to honest romance. Incidental to the action there are glimpses of Theodore Roberts, William Desmond, Sessue Hayakawa, Bryant Washburn, J. Warren Kerrigan and other stars. "Chain Lightning," the other feature on the bill, is a southern story in which a racehorse lifts the mortgage on the old plantation.

The week's film attraction at the Delmonte is "Backbone," a film version of a Clarence Budington Kelland story. It deals with the twentieth century fulfillment of a romance which was shattered many generations before. Alfred Lunt, well known as a stage actor, has the leading role. In the cast also are Edith Roberts, William Mack, Frank Evand, Marion Abbott, George McQuarrie, James Doyle and Charles Fang.

That remarkable modern screen epic of the chase, H. A. Snow's "Hunting Big Game in Africa," goes into its second week at the Rivoli. These are the best hunting pictures that have come out of the Dark Continent.

Don't Squeeze Black-Heads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin, and there is only one safe and sure way, and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of calonite powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition.

Voice of Union Labor and the Radical Press

The Post-Dispatch prints herewith extracts from editorial or other articles in organs of the labor unions and of the Communist and Socialist Parties, showing the tendency of thought on public questions among those bodies of citizens and indicating causes of social unrest.

JUDICIAL USURPATION.
From the Oklahoma Leader, Farmer-Labor.

Another monument to the debasement of the spirit of democracy in America is contained in the latest decision of the Supreme Court declaring unconstitutional the minimum wage law for women, enacted by the Congress of America to protect the underpaid girls of the District of Columbia. The vote was five to three with Justice Brandeis absent. One man by his decision has made it necessary for years of work and toil to be spent by friends of this measure before the Constitution can be changed to meet the dictum of this autocrat whose word can nullify a nation's wish.

Repeatedly the deciding vote of one Justice out of the nine on the Supreme Court has reversed popular will notwithstanding that a long line of earlier decisions expressly held that a law may not be declared unconstitutional unless its repugnance to the fundamental law is clear and unmistakable.

When Will America take thought of her heritage? How long will the courts of America continue to usurp the liberties of the people? The power of the courts to declare unconstitutional the laws passed by the people's representatives is the greatest menace to the tradition of liberty in these United States.

DESPOTS OF DARKNESS.
(From the West Virginia Federationist.)

It seems that it has fallen to the lot of West Virginia to harbor within its borders more than its share of that brand of slave-driving despots that flourished in the dark ages of a feudal past, whose sole aim in life is to return the wealth producers of the state back to that prehistoric age of master and slave.

Up at Davis recently the tools of the anti-union coal masters became so enraged because the miners who refused to be reduced to a state of wage slavery were continuing to exist without wearing their chains, that they silently and secretly communicated with them, threatening them with vengeance unless they immediately moved out of that community.

Things have surely come to a pretty pass in these United States when, if a man or set of men lawfully take advantage of their constitutional rights to become members of an organization for their mutual benefit and protection, they are pounced upon by the jackalse of the industrial overlords and ordered either to move from a community or take the consequences of their wrath. And that prompts us to ask the chief of our State why such outrages are allowed to continue without interference from the law enforcing powers of the trade, or will this be another case of curtly informing those who may intercede for those citizens of Thomas who were subjected to this procedure that "peace and contentment" exists in Tucker County?

A SOP TO STEEL SLAVES.
(From the New York Call, Socialist.)

Judge Elbert H. Gary, feudal chief of the American steel hells, issues an imperial decree increasing wages 11 per cent. His serfs are expected to render homage to the feudal despot. Th imperial ruler announced his unshakable will while returning from a cruise in the Mediterranean.

What is called "common labor" will receive 40 cents an hour for working in intense heat at labor that is exhausting and that makes a man old at 40. The steel oligarchs have been complaining of not receiving enough human merchandise from foreign immigration to work into steel. It is likely that this is a sop to the slaves in the hope of keeping them contented in their slavery.

At the same time we may look forward to the announcement of some handsome dividends for the loafing parasites, whose workless incomes ar drawn from the useful labor of the steel slaves.

We are not among those who rejoice at an extra crust of bread thrown to thousands of workers who endure a slavery as galling as negroes formerly endured in the South. When Gary and his associated slavers are forced to recognize organization of the workers in the industry they will have to surrender more than this pittance. Eventually their slave pens will have to be transferred from them to a labor democracy, where despotism will be a hated memory of the past.

THE FUTURE OF TRUSTS.
(From the Seattle Union Record, Union Labor.)

The future of big industry belongs to the trust. Members of the West Coast Lumbermen evidently realize this, and have acted with due foresight in organizing the Douglas Fir Exploitation and Export Co. to control prices in foreign markets, ostensibly, but really to control prices in all markets.

One of the worst contradictions of the social organization is that which results from the unification of industries—amalgamation, as it were—into huge trusts, and then automatically make these trusts act in contravention of public rights. In this lies one of the most difficult problems of the whole industrial tangle.

Organization in Europe and America proceeds apace toward the gigantic trust combinations and no argument can be advanced against them from the point of efficiency. But being controlled by selfish, short-sighted men, they are made into instruments of price-gouging and labor-crushing.

The remedy of Government regulation, such as the United States is trying in many industries, is a weak compromise without bone or form. The remedy of Government ownership is equally feared if the reins of Government are to be handled from Wall street. That would mean that the Government must lose whatever few shreds of independence it now possesses and give them over to the financial overlords of the street.

The only true solution lies in intermediate changes by which the public, the workers in the lumber industry and the managers can form the administration of that industry in one huge trust, run economically and efficiently in the interests of those who use lumber and those who produce it, and not as now, in the interests of those who happen to own it.

THE ADVANCING COST OF LIVING.
(From the Minneapolis Daily Star.)

The cost of living continues to go up, according to the latest admissions from the Labor Department at Washington.

The particularly alarming thing about this advancing cost of living is that there is no reason to hope for immediate relief. Fate seems to have put it squarely up to the classes hardest hit to find the remedy. There are so many reasons for climbing prices in comparison with relatively fixed that we, in all probability, are in for a long period of high living costs.

Among these reasons are the war debt and the increased cost of government, raising taxes until in some instances they have been known to absorb two-thirds of a farmer's income; the new excessively high tariff;; excessive transportation costs arising from the inefficiency of private ownership; excessive production costs arising mainly from the fact that production is now equipped and manned to produce far more than the present lowered purchasing power of the people can absorb; the tremendous wastes and costs of market monopoly and retail distribution; manipulation of the currency; the wasteful squandering of natural resources, and other causes, growing out of the serious defects of the present industrial system.

High living costs are likely to continue until we have an organized system of production and distribution that serves the people.

IDLE RICH AND JOBLESS POOR.
(From the Reading Labor Advocate, Socialist.)

As America is a land of freedom of opportunity, it is up to all of us to decide whether we will join the army of jobless poor or the ranks of the idle rich.

Since the war made the United States the creditor nation of the world, many millions of dollars' worth of European securities have found their way into the treasure chests of American financiers. As the foreign debt increases so do the holdings of foreign securities increase until, as is now the case, American financiers are more interested in the welfare of Europe than they are in the prosperity of America.

Bringing half of the world's gold supply has therefore helped nobody but that portion of the capitalist class which specializes in investments abroad. On the other hand, it has set in motion forces which threaten to shift the scene of industrial activity to other parts of the world and leave the American worker to face the alternative of either competing with cheap foreign labor or starving to death without a job.

We desire to point out that this development is the fault of nobody in particular. It is the natural consequence of the capitalist system and will continue to menace the security of the working class as long as capitalism remains as it is. The chief thing for the masses to know and everlastingly remember is that the evils which they suffer are natural evils and not the result of malicious plots of individuals. A tree is known by its fruits and social and industrial systems are distinguished in the same manner. As we would destroy a poison weed in our garden, so must we uproot and destroy the present social system which is constantly plunging the masses of humanity into deeper poverty, bloodier wars and greater insecurity.

SNOWDEN'S MOTION.
(From Industrial Solidarity, I. W. W. Organ.)

According to a London dispatch, "Socialism threw down the gauntlet to capitalism in the House of Commons when Philip Snowden, one of the leaders of the Independent Labor party, put a motion denouncing 'the capitalist system' as a failure and proposing that legislation be directed towards its suppression 'by an industrial and social order based upon public ownership and democratic control of the instruments of production and distribution.'"

Every intelligent workingman will approve of the essence of the Snowden motion. The need of superseding the present private system by a more social one cannot be denied and every discussion of the advisability of so doing is to be welcomed accordingly. The only danger is that the method proposed to effect the change may be worse than the disease which it is proposed to remedy.

Marx once said: "Majorities do not make revolutions; economic conditions do." It is accordingly doubtful if a legislative majority can effect a revolution amid conditions that are not ripe for it. For instance, how can there be "public ownership and democratic control of the instruments of production and distribution" where the working class is without training for such control? The result will be another bureaucracy; one of a political nature and probably, because of that fact, more incompetent and tyrannical than the economic plutocracy now in power, which at least is more directly and intimately concerned with production and distribution and therefore apt to act more wisely and well.

Then there is also the danger, in the legislative method, of "public ownership" degenerating into private bondholding ownership in a public guise. That is, public ownership will be a means of enriching th private holders of state and municipal bonds at the expense of public employes. It will, in other words, most likely result in state capitalism, between which and private capitalism there is little chance for the wage workers, as both are degrading and exploitative.

What is needed, then, to effect the revolution from capitalism, whether private or state, to real socialism, is the application of the economic method. We need first to organize the workers in industrial unions in order to train them in the consideration of industrial problems and relations and thereby make democratic control and social ownership realities instead of tragic farces. Let us have no more repetitions of Russia and Germany.

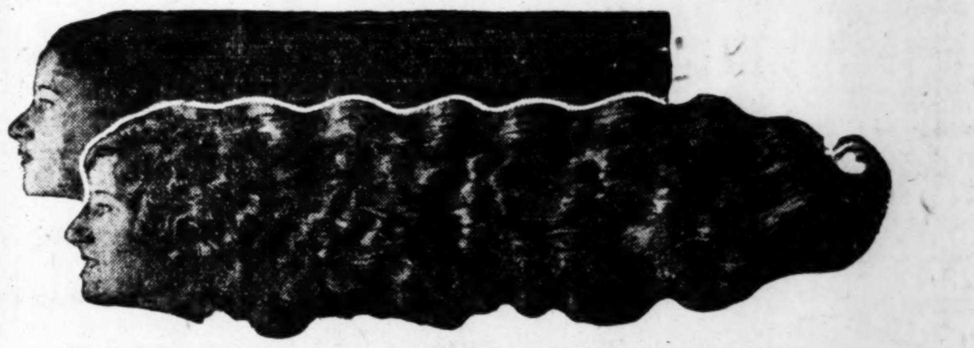
New Liquid Puts 7-Day Curl in Straight Hair



You Have Always Longed for Soft, Fluffy, Curly Hair. And Now—At Last—You Can Have It!

NO longer need you envy the girl with beautiful wavy hair! For Science has perfected a wonderful new liquid, which when applied to the most stubborn hair, gives it a beautiful permanent wave effect, making it wonderfully curly, delightfully soft, gloriously wavy.

Just one application will keep your hair beautifully curly for a whole week—often longer!

No matter how straight your hair may be, a single application of this new discovery—called Domino Curlette—will make it fall in soft, glistening waves and naturally silky curls. Even the most lifeless hair suddenly assumes a new entrancing lustre.

It's Entirely New

Domino Curlette is entirely new! Nothing just like it has ever been known before. No occasion to do away with your tried and tested method of kids or silk curlers. But Domino Curlette is something more, something different, something entirely unique. Use the same old kids or silk curlers, but before doing so moisten your hair with just a few drops of Domino Curlette—and, behold! A miracle of beauty will have been performed. Not only you, but your friends, will be astonished at the sudden, beautiful transformation in your hair.

Watch the Results

A so-called "permanent wave" costs about $25 and sometimes lasts four months, often less. But now you can have what we consider a far more beautiful wave—full of life and fluff—and you can have it now for only $1.00! Morever, a single $1.00 bottle contains enough Curlette to last you for a long time.

Just think what this means! No more costly fees to hairdressers. No more sitting for hours and hours undergoing the tortures of permanent wave methods. For in just a short time, in your own home, you can now acquire charming wavy hair that your friends will always envy. Domino Curlette is just what you have been waiting for. On all sides beauty experts proclaim it one of the greatest beauty discoveries in years.

Natural—Not Artificial—Curls

If you have experimented with newfangled "permanent wave" methods, you undoubtedly know how injurious they are to the hair. Not only do they often kill the natural lustre and life of the hair, but they produce curls and waves too artificial looking to be beautiful.

But how different is Domino Curlette! This remarkable preparation contains the very elements needed to make your hair naturally wavy and naturally curly. That is why it always adds a new charm, youthfulness and beauty to one's appearance.

Permanent Wave Effect Now Quick, Cheap and Easy

Watch the Amazing Transformation

No matter how straight or dull your hair may be you will be simply astonished at how Domino Curlette gives it a beautiful permanent wave effect, making it wonderfully soft, wavy and charming. Just think —one application of this wonderful new liquid keeps your hair wavy and curly for a whole week or more.

Money Back Guarantee

Domino Curlette is sold at good toilet goods counters everywhere, on a positive guarantee of satisfactory results or your money refunded. If, after you have tried it, you are not more than delighted with the results it has brought, your money will be returned to you—instantly. A special deposit of $10,000 in the Producers and Consumers Bank of Philadelphia backs up this guarantee—so you don't risk a penny.

Don't let your beauty be spoiled by straight, lifeless hair. No matter how you wear your hair, Domino Curlette will beautify it immeasurably. No more straight wispy strands, no more straggly ends. What They Are Doing in the Movie Studios

Craig Biddle, one of the younger members of the famous Philadelphia family, whose ambition to become a film actor has been recorded recently in the newspapers, appears as a collegian in one of the college dance scenes filmed by William de Mille for his Paramount production, "Only 38."

Eileen Percy has been signed by Paramount to appear in a featured role in "Children of Jazz." Miss Percy has been prominent in pictures several years, and for some time was starred by Fox. "Children of Jazz" also features Theodore Kosloff, Ricardo Cortez and Robert Cain. Beulah Marie Dix adapted the screen story from the play by Harold Brighouse.

Four of the leading authors of America are supplying the stories for Thomas Meighan's pictures this year. They are Rex Beach, George Ade, Peter B. Kyne and Booth Tarkington.

Charles Ruggles, a former motion picture actor, who in recent years has been confining himself to stage work, has returned to the screen and will play the light comedy role of Gaspard in "The Heart Raider," which his brother, Wesley Ruggles, is directing with Agnes Ayres in the star role. Ruggles' latest stage work has been in "The Girl in the Limousine," "Ladies' Night" and "The Demi Virgin."

Vola Dale has been added to the cast of "Daughters of the Rich," from Edgar Saltus' novel, which is nearing completion. The other featured players are Gaston Glass, Miriam Cooper, Ruth Clifford, Ethel Shannon, Josef Swickard, Stuart Holmes and J. Gunnis Davis.

Hope Hampton has been engaged to play the leading role in the screen version of the David Belasco play, "The Gold Diggers."

Irene Rich will be the featured player in the picturization of Kathleen Norris' novel, "Lucretia Lombard."

Marie Prevost will in all probability be starred in "Broadway After Dark."

"The Girl Who Came Back," from the play by Charles E. Blaney and Samuel Ruskin Golding, will be the next release on the program of Preferred Pictures. Evelyn Campbell adapted the story in which Miriam Cooper, Gaston Glass, Kenneth Harlan, Joseph Dowling and Zasu Pitts are featured.

Three screen players who were featured in Rex Ingram's film, "The Four Horsemen," are reunited again in the cast of "Daughters of the Rich." They are Stuart Holmes, Josef Swickard and "Smoke" Turner.

Practically every beard used by the men in the cast of "The Covered Wagon," James Cruze's Paramount production, was genuine. Barbers were an unknown quantity in the camp. Even those who were not in the scenes let their beards and hair grow, because it protected their faces from the alkali in the atmosphere during the early part of the encampment and from the biting winds after it grew colder.

Looking over the great "mobs" to be seen in the average big feature picture one wonders where such distinctive types are found, where directors find exactly the sort of players to make up a crowd, regardless of the character of the crowd. The answer is to be found in the "Service Bureau," an efficiently functioning machine for the culling out and classifying of every potential screen player on the west coast. When Tom Forman set about filming a prison scene from "The Girl Who Came Back," the other day, he announced that he wanted the nearest approach to genuine convicts, ex-convicts, or criminals, as the film colony could provide. A call at once was made to the Service Bureau. The result was an army of several hundred "extras" of such a hardened character that Kenneth Harlan and Gaston Glass, who were called upon to appear in scenes with them, questioned the wisdom of appearing without the sawed-off shotgun now so fashionable among prison guards.

Zasu Pitts, who has been starred in many of her own pictures and who recently played with T. Roy Barnes, in "Is Matrimony a Failure?" is a featured player in Gasniers' next production "Poor Men's Wives."

"Six Days" has been purchased by Goldwyn from Elinor Glyn, and part of it will be filmed in Paris under Mrs. Glyn's personal supervision.

A screen version of Maravene Thompson's stage play, "The Net," is now in course of construction at the Eastern studio of Fox Film Corporation. The film drama was made by Olga Linek Scholl. J. Gordon Edwards, who recently returned from the Fox studios in Rome, Italy, after the completion of "Nero" and "The Shepherd King," is directing the picture.

Eva Novak is 24 years old and was born in St. Louis.

Cats are said to be the hardest animals to make behave in the movies.

Norman Kerry has returned to work at the Goldwyn studios in "Brothers Under Their Skins," after a brief absence due to "klieg" eyes.

Buddy Messenger, that chubby youngster who adds the comedy touch as "Mista Bad Boy" in "Shadows," is soon to be starred. His first feature has been named "When Boyhood Was in Flower."

Frank Borzage, producer of Humoresque, is at work on the screen version of "Terwilliger" for First National release.

United Studios, Hollywood, is reported to be enjoying its busiest season in several years. Among the companies at work there are those of Allen Holubar, Edwin Carewe, Maurice Tourneur, Richard Walton Tully, Frank Borzage, to which are now added the Norma and Constance Talmadge companies.

Dorothy Phillips will shortly be seen in the screen version of "The White Frontier," renamed "Slander the Woman."

Anna Q. Nilsson has the leading feminine role in "The Isle of Lost Ships," which Maurice Tourneur is producing for First National release.

Frank Lloyd is directing Norma Talmadge in "Within the Law."

Wrote Opera on Warship.

AN opera mostly composed on a warship is now being played at the Opera Comique. The composer is Jean Cras, captain of a torpedo boat destroyer which cruised in the Mediterranean during the late unpleasantness. Cras was privileged to have a piano on board, and there, in his leisure moments, he wrote music for Albert Samain's book called "Polypheme," which is also the title of the opera. The work has proved a big success.

The benefit of a great reclame has come to Victor Margueritte through the recent decision of the Chancellery of the Legion of Honor to open an inquiry as to where he found the material for his book, "La Garconne." The novel already claims a circulation of 350,000, and is next to be adapted for the stage, where it promises to become a big drawing card. The author, an officer of the Legion of Honor, has refused its request that he appear before a special board.

FRENCH PRINCESS CHOOSES SUITOR OUT OF NOBILITY

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, April 17.—Princess Genevieve d'Orleans, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Vendome, and niece of the King of the Belgians, whose engagement to the Comte de Chaponay has just been announced, has, like Princess Mary of England and Princess Yolanda of Italy, followed the dictates of her heart in accepting a suitor not of royal rank.

But the Comte de Chaponay is royal in everything but name. The shield of Chaponay is conspicuous in the Crusaders' Gallery in the Chateau of Versailles and throughout the centuries the name has been honorably inscribed in the annals of royal France.

Pierre-Elisabeth de Chaponay died on the scaffold during the revolution, and his son, the Marquis de Chaponay, emigrated and his castle at Beaulieu was burned. The present Comte was born in 1893 and his mother, the Marquise, belonged to the family of Schneider, founders of the Creusot Iron and Steel Works.

He is a widower, his first wife having been Mlle. Diane de Cosse-Brissac, daughter of the eleventh Duke of Brissac.

The Princess is a beautiful blonde with blue eyes and lovely complexion, and her grace and simple charm have made her a great favorite in French society. She is 21 years old.

The Duke of Orleans, the head of the House of France, has given his full approbation to the marriage, and by letters patent has commanded that Princess Genevieve retain her title of Her Royal Highness Princess of Orleans, with all the rights and prerogatives attached thereto.

The Comte first met the Princess on the golf course of St. Cloud and it was there that their love romance began. Both served France nobly during the war, he as a Lieutenant of Dragoons and she tending the wounded.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Child's Hair With

If you want to keep your child's hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

Bakule Choristers Sing Tomorrow Evening

A CONCERT will be given tomorrow night at the Pershing Theater by the Bakule School Unit, consisting of 40 singers from 8 to 18 years of age, who were sent to this country by President Marsaryk of Czecho-Slovakia and the Red Cross of that republic, to express in music their appreciation of American aid. The concert will be under the auspices of the St. Louis Chapter of the American Red Cross. The chorus will be directed by Prof. Frantisek Bakule, whose school in Prague, for training crippled children in handicrafts, has won him wide reputation as an educator.

The program will consist of folksongs and dances of the Czech, Slovak and Moravian peoples—love songs, ballads and humorous songs, given in the native tongue, measures and costumes. In the opening group will be the Czech national hymn, "Where Is My Home?" and the national anthem of Slovakia, "Lightning Flashes Above Tatra." In compliment to America, the chorus has been trained to sing in English "The Star-Spangled Banner," "Eventide," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "Dixie." Another number will be "The Red Cross Marching Song," which was written by the Czech composer, Kricka, and has become recognized as the international song of the Junior Red Cross. Miss Marie Mikova, Bohemian pianist, will play several numbers by Smetana. The party includes Col. Svarcer and Miss Janackova, officials of the Czecho-Slovak Red Cross.

Song Cycle Tuesday Night.

A CYCLE of song, entitled "The Garden of Kama," and directed by Mrs. Carl Kimmel, will be given Tuesday evening in the ballroom of Hotel Statler. St. Louis artists will offer a program—Mrs. Kimmel, soprano; Mrs. Maud Covington, contralto; Raymond Koch, baritone; Albert Koeppe, tenor; and Arthur Lieber, accompanist. A dance interlude will be presented by Iola Woods, Wirt Hicks, Lucile Guehne and Martha Critchfield.

The St. Louis University Glee Club and Orchestra will give their annual concert Tuesday evening at the university auditorium, Lindell boulevard near Grand, under the direction of George T. Devereux. Among the orchestral pieces will be Grieg's "Sigurd" suites, No. 1 and 2; the overture to Thomas' "Raymond;" three of Moszkowski's Spanish dances, and two selections by Tschaikowsky, one of them "The Waltz of the Flowers." The Glee Club will sing numbers of Cadman, Bullard, Coleridge-Taylor, Grady and Protheroe. The orchestra and chorus together will present Ketelley's "In a Monastery Garden," Nevin's "When I Am Dead, My Dearest," and Devereux's "Alma Mater." There will be vocal solos by James Clark.

The Fisk Jubilee Singers of Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn., will appear Wednesday at the North Side Department of the Young Men's Christian Association, Grand and Sullivan avenues. A Myers, tenor, will give character and dialect readings. The Fisk Jubilee quintet, with Myers, will also be heard this morning at the exercises of the Ethical Society.

The Ladies' Friday Musicale will supply other piano numbers. Mrs. Alice Widney Conant will sing, and Mrs. Frank Neal will play an organ program. Final plans for the Music Federation concert, to be given in May, will be arranged at this meeting.

The annual concert of the Bollinger Club will be given Friday evening in Parlor A. Hotel Statler. Chester Morton, tenor, will assist. J. H. Maunder's cantata, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace," will be sung at a special musical service tonight at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

The St. Louis Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Frank Gecks, will complete its thirty-first season with a concert on the evening of May 11. Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, coloratura soprano, will return after two years' absence for a concert on May 16, at the Odeon. She will be assisted by Manuel Beranger, flutist, and Homer Samuels, accompanist.

Debussy's "Box of Toys."

WHAT is said to be the first American production of Debussy's ballet for children in five tableaux, "The Box of Toys," will be presented at the Shubert-Jefferson on the evening of May 18, under the direction of Alice Martin.

The music was written in 1919, and was presented during December of that year at the Theatre Lyrique in Paris by a cast of adults. Here none of the dancers will be more than 10 years old. H. Max Steindel will direct an orchestra and the sets and costumes will be designed by Dawson Dawson-Watson.

Miss Marlowe to Play Imogen.

AFTER 239 performances, "The Lady in Ermine" closed Saturday night at the Century. The players, headed by Wilda Bennett and Walter Woolf, are enjoying a vacation of two weeks, before undertaking a spring and summer run in Boston. . . . "The Dancing Girl" has only two weeks longer to remain at the Winter Garden; it will then be sent to Chicago to make room for a return engagement of Al Jolson in "Bombo." When Max Rheinhardt, the famous German producer, arrived some days ago in New York the first show he chose to see was Ziegfeld's "Follies."

The work of actors as sculptors and portraitists is being exhibited at the Artists' Galleries, under the auspices of the Actors' Equity Association. Among those invited to participate are John and Lionel Barrymore, Violet Kemble, Bruce McRae and Roland Young. A. Garfield Learned is exhibiting a portrait of Miss Cooper, and Violet Dale a head of Harry Beresford as "The Old Soak."

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe announce that to their present Shakspearean repertory they will next season add "Cymbeline," which has not been seen on the American stage for many years. Miss Marlowe regards Imogen as "the loveliest character in all Shakspeare." . . . Helen Menken, according to her press department, is the daughter of deaf-mute parents. She began her stage career at five, as a dancer, and is now the star in "Seventh Heaven," although she has strangely refused to let her name appear in the electric lights.

Diary of Life as Soldier Published by Mussolini

Italian Premier, Though Wounded by Shell, Declares Rain and Vermin Were the Real Enemies of the Troops.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

ROME, April 15.—It has been reserved for Signor Mussolini to publish as Premier, the diary of his life as a soldier during the World War. Nitti, Gielitti, Lloyd George, who have all been pilots of the ship of state, with facile pen, have given the world their experiences and opinions. But here is a unique instance in literature—Mussolini, alone of modern Premiers, was on the firing line only a short time before his assumption of office.

Signor Mussolini, whom the war converted from advance Socialism to advanced patriotism, from editor of the Avanti! to editor of the People d' Italia, served in the war as a Corporal in the Eleventh Regiment of the famous fighting Bersaglieri. His experiences in the war, in which he was badly wounded, were not different from those of thousands of other soldiers. Btu he possesses the gift of trenchant and precise expression, which is by no means common to Italians. Besides, the meteoric rise of the Fascisti leader to the dictatorship lends intense interest to his earlier life.

Cannon Not Worst Enemy.

From Sept. 2, 1915, to February, 1917, the present Premier shared the lot—a hard one at times—of his fellow soldiers at the front—the shrapnel, the cold and heat, the "rain and the lice," which he declares to have been the true enemies of the Italian soldier; the cannon," he adds, "comes after them."

He narrowly escaped death from the bursting of a shell close to him—an escape which has had a marked effect upon Italian history. This ex-Socialist, whom, like so many others, the war had made religious, went to church; this Republican (as he then was) receive a visit while lying wounded in a hospital from the King, and told his sovereign, who condoled with him on his forced inactivity, that he had only, like the rest, done his duty.

Writing on Christmas day, he said: "Five and twenty years ago I was a punctilious and violent child. Several of my companions still bear on their heads the scars made by the stones which I threw at them. A nomad by instinct, I used to walk from morning to evening along the river and stole nests and fruit."

Neither Prig Nor Prodigy.

Obviously the young Mussolini was neither a prig nor a prodigy, but a healthy animal with a strong will.

Hence his success, the usual success of character; his fallen opponents were merely intelligent. Yet this workman's son from Predappio could give the average British Premier or American Secretary of State a good lesson in French and German, while he has shown his compatriots that it is possible to deliver pungent speeches without rhetorical dressings. In this he resembles that great master of simple languages, and anything but simple designs, Signor Giolitti.

As Premier, Signor Mussolini has dictated the following Latin inscription, embodying his political program, for the bronze bust of himself which has just been presented to him: "Pro Italico Imperio virtute justitia ierarchia unguibus et rostris." To fight for the "Italian Empire with valor, justice and orderliness," and, if need be, "with claws and beak," is a pregnant motto.

There is talk of "empire" in the Roman air at the moment. But Mussolini has shown himself prudent and judicious since he became Foreign Minister. And not the least toward America and Great Britain, about both of which he knows more than in his journalistic days.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM!

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 50 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change." You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatment supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. It took Mr. Ashelman fifty years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of the Post-Dispatch wishes "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism," containing facts overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a postcard or letter to H. P. Clearwater, No. 20-T Street, Hallowell, Maine. Send now, lest you forget! If not a sufferer, cut out this notice and hand this good news and opportunity to some afflicted friend. All who send will receive it by return mail without any charge whatever.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to comb or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you may have. This simple remedy never fails.

YOU CAN'T COMB IT OUT

Dear Doctor: I take great pleasure to report to you that I am entirely cured of my Piles of 20 years' standing. I cannot thank you enough for advising me to take your wonderful treatment, which I did in preference to that of those who use the knife and chloroform.

MISSIONARY TELLS OF WORK AMONG ESKIMOS

Beyond Arctic Circle He Patrols 500 Miles of Alaskan Territory With Dog Team.

The stage conception of the clergyman as of a rather tabby-like, sit-by-the-fire temperament meets a distinct shock in the Rev. W. A. Thomas, a tall, spare, intense young man of 35, whose business it is, as an Episcopalian missionary, to patrol 500 miles of Alaskan territory with a dog team, far up beyond the Arctic Circle.

The Rev. Mr. Thomas spoke at last week's luncheon of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Communion and at a mass meeting in Schuyler Memorial, where he showed lantern slides, made from his own photographs, of the Eskimos and their country.

He and his wife have been visiting in their home town, Columbus, O., and, with their 8-months-old boy, are driivng through to Seattle on the way back to their post at Point Hope, just below Point Barrow, "the top of the continent." They have spent several years in Alaska and are going back for at least five more. Mrs. Thomas is a registered nurse, formerly in service overseas, and goes on all trips to give the natives medical attention and advice.

They live in a frame house, "which is fairly comfortable in the month of August." It, the church and the school, also frame, must be heated on a yearly allowance of 20 tons of coal.

The only white neighbor is an old whaling captain, who married an Eskimo woman years ago and settled down 12 miles from the Point. He visits the post every three months or so. They grow enthusiastic over year-old news in newspapers left by the Government steamer on its one visit in the two months when the port is not ice-bound, and the missionary takes care to keep his visitor's pockets stuffed with cigars, because the old captain smokes a native tobacco which "simply won't let you live without it."

Mail is delivered three other times yearly by dog team, en route to Point Barrow. The mail is landed at Seward, on the north coast of the Gulf of Alaska, goes 400 miles north by Government railway, is taken by dog team north to the Yukon, hundreds of miles down the frozen river to the coast, and then northward along the coast to the "top of the continent."

Six weeks of the year Point Hope is in utter darkness, and there are three months of night. In those months the Point is frequently in the grip of bitter storms, with a 50 or 60-mile gale blowing and a temperature of 50 degrees below zero for as long as three weeks.

But the missionary doesn't mind. "Save your sympathy for those who work among the unappreciative Alaskan Indians," he said.

And the natives thrive on the climate.

"No Eskimo particularly desires to change his habitat," declared the Rev. Mr. Thomas. "They are a happy-go-lucky, brave, cheerful lot, with whom one finds it easy to associate. They are not so good-looking, but there's something about them you like.

"And they are a tilled field, all ready to receive the seed of the gospel of mercy. Having survived all hardships, they have come to feel that the ultimate Power, however vague their idea of that Power, is friendly. They do not count the losses, but, led by a wise if selfish instinct, think only of their own survival.

"They are prepared for the doctrine of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Jesus. The hard country has brought them together. No man dare to hunt or travel alone, and when one man in a village has food, all may share it."

He told of an occasion when he and an Eskimo, meeting on a trail, were stormbound for five days, and on the last night, when the storm looked as though it might last forever, the native gave all the scant remaining dog food (frozen fish) to the missionary's team, letting his own go hungry—an act of unselfishness which he did not disclose to the missionary for weeks.

It is doubtful whether any white man ever has mastered pure Eskimo, the missionary said. The language used by white men is a sort of pidgin dialect. It is impossible to devise a written language into which to translate the Bible for the natives, because the language never has been recorded, and a different dialect has developed in every locality.

The Scriptures are read to the Eskimos by an interpreter, and every student must learn English in the mission school. The boys pick up the language quickly, but the girls, never expected by the native men to know anything, do not know how to go about knowing anything. The Christianity accepted by the natives is of a primitive order.

Sometimes a native, hunting on the ice sheath which extends miles beyond the coast, is lost. The ice is always moving and sometimes drifts far out to sea. The hunter, after walking for hours, may strike back along the home trail only to be faced with open water and a fog which precludes any chance to find a "neck" over which he may cross to land.

One warm day four years ago Okwiouk, the best young hunter of the village, set out wearing only a light squirrel-skin coat and not the usual parkee of caribou hide. A blizzard set in, and that night he did not return. The blizzard lasted three days. The village prayed that Okwiouk had gone ashore to stay with a friend who lived some miles below, but they knew that a large section of the ice field had broken off.

The mother, Paushunna, saying she knew he was dead, asked them to pray not that he lived, but that his body be found, which was even less probable. Weeks passed and the incident fell into the background. Then, seven weeks after the blizzard, which had been followed by storms from every direction, Chugunparouk, the headman, found the body on a floe which probably had been blown miles out to sea, within a half mile of where the hunter had last been seen.

Was a Good Judge of Liquor

"Since a young man I had a liking for liquor and was considered a pretty good judge of it at one time, but constant drinking gave me stomach trouble, which became chronic. My stomach would have been a valuable addition to a gas factory. Doctors did not seem to relieve me. One day my druggist got me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I am now as good as new." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph (3 stores), Enderle Drug Co. (5 drug stores), Brown-Clougbly, Johnson Bros. Drug Co., and druggists everywhere.

A Baby Carriage and Stroller Combined

The New Lloydalet

Only a mother, who has the daily handling of a baby carriage, can fully appreciate this unusual new baby conveyance. It combines Baby's first and second carriage in one; is smaller and lighter than any other baby carriage; yet almost as roomy as a large carriage.

Naturally, it is easily handled; and it serves perfectly as a stroller when Baby has outgrown a baby carriage. Because of the small space it occupies, apartment dwellers find it invaluable.

Like all Lloyd Baby Conveyances, it is woven on the wonderful Lloyd Loom—of one fine, endless wicker strand—around and around, in a graceful bowl shape, flawless, smooth and strong. Because of this remarkable loom—the invention of Marshall B. Lloyd—weaving far more perfectly and thirty times faster than human hands, Lloydalets can be bought for a lower price than has ever before been asked for a baby carriage of similar quality.

Ask your dealer to show you Lloydalets.

The only carriage woven in desired shape from one endless wicker strand. Don't accept a substitute. Find the Lloyd name-plate on the seat.

a longer wearing hair net

—without sacrifice of daintiness or invisibility

For many years, MMR, creator of women's fashion accessories, has made a special study of the hair net.

To Milady it is perhaps but a little detail of the toilette, but not so to MMR. To him it is a matter to be taken seriously—a challenge to his craftsmanship.

He refuses to accept the idea that the hair net must of necessity be a thing of cheapness, a perishable trifle, hastily made.

Delicate it should be, but certainly not flimsy. And by all means, perfectly invisible, yet sturdy and substantial.

The result is MMR's Red Seal Hair Net—a longer wearing hair net that is at once as dainty as it is durable.

And how does MMR achieve this finer, stronger net? His method is simply one of superlative workmanship.

In every detail he demands the most exact care and precision.

Only the longest hairs are used. These must pass a rigid test of fine texture and natural sheen of color—to match perfectly your own hair.

The mesh—and here is where MMR's care especially counts—must be spaced so many measures this way, so many that. Every knot is firmly tied at regular intervals—carefully, firmly tied. Thus there are no pulled strands to weaken, no puffy places to stick up.

The size must be amply large for any coiffure, the shape faultlessly designed. MMR insists on this, because it means so much to the life of the net.

Because it gives you longer wear, MMR's Hair Net means a saving of no small total sum.

Because of its perfect design and handiwork, it assures a finishing touch to the coiffure not possible with a net of less perfection.

LIVING 'RAFFLES' IS CAPTURED IN LONDON

Prototype of Fiction Crook, After Baffling Police, Finally Goes to Prison.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 21.—The sentencing here of Albert Edwin Young to five years in the penitentiary removes from the practice of his profession the burglar who, according to Scotland Yard, is the nearest living prototype of "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," of fiction fame.

Like Raffles, he never worked with a gang. He was an expert in the art of rope climbing and is said to have carried it wound around his waist as did the crook hero of romance. Although he always carried an automatic revolver, he never used it; another hint culled from the experience of Raffles.

Altogether, he was the champion solo thief of the fashionable West End. His criminal record is crowded with adventure, with hairbredth escapes, both from detectives and from death itself, during his perilous journeys over London housetops. He even dared fate on an express train, when he slipped the handcuffs of his escort and jumped from the car to liberty.

Climbing Baffled Detectives.

Another time he was arrested and put in a taxi to be taken to The Yard. During a traffic jam he jumped through the window and disappeared in the crowd so quickly that there was not even a chance of making a serious search for him.

His remarkable climbing feats, made possible only because he was a wonderful athlete, baffled the detectives time after time. Once the police actually had him surrounded in a house he was robbing. Young knew he was trapped. As the detectives burst into the room where he was cornered he swiftly stepped through the French window and climbed over the balcony. Jumping sideways into space he caught a rain pipe on the side of the house and slid 40 feet to the ground. A fall would have meant almost certain death on the spiked railings below.

Applied "Brains" to Jobs.

Young is described as one of the most intellectual crooks known to The Yard and he applied his knowledge fully to his various jobs. He would keep a house under observation for several weeks before raiding it, until he was familiar with every detail of its construction and the habits of the occupants.

He once watched a Park Lane mansion for six weeks and then one night, while a dinner party was in progress, scaled the walls with his rope. He got through a dressing-room window and in two minutes had collected $25,000 worth of jewels. Then he let himself down again by his rope and disappeared undetected.

ONLY FOCH AND JOFFRE WEAR 'TOPPERS' AT ACADEMY SESSION

High Hat Is Doomed, Is Verdict of Spectators as Famous Men of France Pass.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 28.—"The Marshal is wearing a top hat! Just look at Marshal Foch with a topper on," was irreverent, surprised but subdued murmur that ran through a large crowd standing in front of the French Academy the other day awaiting the appearance of the academicians on their way to elect successors to the seats of three of their fellow "immortals" who had died.

Premier Poincare had just sauntered by, his little darby hat set at a jaunty angle.

"It was a great relief to him to discard his top hat when he relinquished the presidency of the Republic," said a well-informed spectator.

Then came Anatole France with a wide-brimmed sombrero that the late Buffalo Bill might have envied, followed by Maurice Barres in a pea-green fedora; Paul Bourget, wearing a cowboy's headgear, and Henri Bergson, the philisopher, with a gray felt.

"The top hat is doomed," was the verdict of the spectators after watching a score more of the members of the academy, all wearing soft felt hats of various sizes, shapes and colors. Then, as the clock was about to strike, another top hat was seen approaching over the railing of the Pont des Artes. Briskly crossing the Institute Square a stout gentleman with a military bearing entered with military punctuality just as the meeting was about to be called to order. As he passed in the crowd cheered. It was Marshal Joffre.

The top hats worn by the two Marshals were as dissimilar in character as were the two men. Marshall Foch's was low-crowned and narrow-brimmed, while that of the hero of the Marne was high and wide. Both were decidedly out of style.

Twenty years ago it would have been heresy for any academician to attend a plenary session of the academy without wearing a top hat.

Vogue of American Plays Rampant in London

LONDON, April 28.

THIS bids fair to be a great season in London for American plays. The amazing success of "Anna Christie" has made the name of Pauline Lord a household word throughout England. It has been welcomed by all critics as the strongest and most gripping play that has come out of the United States. in more than a decade.

"Anna Christie" has been followed by another American hit, "So This Is London." This comedy is crowding the Prince of Wales' Theater nightly and making staid Londoners laugh until their sides ache.

Like "Anna Christie," it came unheralded by any blare of trumpets. It is hailed by the English as an exceedingly clever satire on the foibles of the two English-speaking peoples.

"Shrieks of English Laughter."

THOUGH the author lays it on rather thickly in exposing the prejudices obtaining on both sides of the Atlantic, there is so much real truth disguised as humor that a long run is looming ahead of the new comedy. Shrieks of English laughter greeted the characterization of the British race as "marmalade hounds," and Americans roared good-humoredly when an American family, in a rather biting travesty, entered with the father, mother and son all chewing gum, and the mother, in an outing skirt, wearing a huge necklace of diamonds.

"Merton of the Movies" had a mixed reception, largely because the general English public is not familiar with the mysteries of film production.

"The Two Bobs"—Adams and Alden, the latter once a soda dispenser at Perry's fountain in the World Building, New York—have been for a long time London favorites. They have added to their fame by launching "Carte Blanche," a bright review at the Court Theater. Adams' wife, Odette Myrtle, former Ziegfeld star, has been chosen by Charles Cochran to play the lead in a new revue, "Dover Street to Dixie," at the Pavilion.

The music halls are full of American vaudeville stars, all enthusiastic over the receptions accorded them. London is eagerly awaiting "Little Nelly Kelly," which George M. Cohan will supervise.

The Keynote of a Charming Living Room

It is amazing how completely Kimlark Rugs meet the requirements of a living-room rug. They offer something more than mere prettiness of design; it is rather an elusive charm that you associate with only the highest-priced rugs. Warmth you find in the rich, subdued tones; dignity in the unbroken expanse of their plain centers; friendliness in the light accent of their border designs. Yet, withal, there is a quiet restraint that brings these qualities together in a delightfully harmonious whole.

A Pretty and Practical Dining Room Rug

Kimlark Rugs, with their happy combination of soft colored ground and discreetly gay designs are equally appropriate for sunny breakfasts and candle-lit dinners. Moreover, they withstand wonderfully the day-after-day scrape of chairs, the scuff-scuff of restless childish feet, the unavoidable disasters of spilled food. As for spots—a quick rub with art gum removes them. And an occasional cleaning with soap and water keeps the rug bright and fresh as new.

Thick, Soft and Pliant—Ideal for the Bedroom

Soft and pleasant underfoot—smooth and grateful to toddling baby feet—Kimlark Rugs are just the floor covering for bedroom and nursery. They are wholesome and cleanly, charmingly decorative, long-wearing. And their colorings, light and gay, or discreetly subdued, form the basis of rooms of endless variety and charm.

Delightful Patterns for Sun or Breakfast Room

For these informal rooms, where a gayer note is wanted, Kimlark Rugs offer a wealth of charming designs and happy colorings. They have other pleasing qualities which you do not expect to find in as inexpensive a rug as this. They are soft and noiseless; lie flat without curling up at the edges; do not bend or break when bent, crushed or folded; withstand the action of sunlight; and wear remarkably well.

Until you have seen them, you cannot realize how wonderfully pretty Kimlark Rugs are. Their fascinating patterns, their lovely, soft colorings, their smooth, fine weave, are a genuine delight to every woman who appreciates beautiful floor coverings.

Not alone are the designs unusually attractive; the quality of the rug itself is exceptional. A remarkable, new method of production has given to Kimlark Rugs certain features that you do not expect to find combined in any one rug—features that give them great durability as well as lasting beauty.

The smooth, soft surface of the rug, the firmness and pliability of the fabric, the thick, three-ply weave, make the rug noiseless, soft and pleasant underfoot, and give it a sturdy resistance to hard wear that is really amazing.

You can afford Kimlark Rugs for every room in the house

Though Kimlark Rugs have the charm of a high-priced rug, they are priced unbelievably low. You can, in fact, get two Kimlark Rugs for about what you expected to pay for one. And every rug gives double wear, because it can be used on both sides.

If you have only $20 or $30 to spend for a 9 x 12 rug, or if you must make $30 or $35 cover the cost of one large and several smaller rugs, Kimlark Rugs will meet your needs perfectly.

Soft

Made of a smooth, soft, pliable material. Free from harsh surfaces, wiry barbs or broken strands. Noiseless, thick, and soft underfoot.

PLIABLE

Pliable

Can be bent, crushed, folded or twisted without cracking or breaking. Lies flat without curling. Does not slip or creep.

DURABLE

Durable

Withstands remarkably the wearing action of feet and chairs, of dirt and grit, of sun and rain.

WASHABLE

Washable

Easily cleaned by washing with soap and water. Spots can be removed by rubbing with art gum. Closely woven, so that dirt does not sift through.

REVERSIBLE

Reversible

Finished on both sides, with a design on one side and the other side plain, with solid or variegated colors—giving double wear.

FIRE RESISTING

Fire-Resisting

Tests have proved that Kimlark Rugs will not ignite. The carelessly dropped cigarette or lighted match does not harm or burn holes through them.

In Halls Where Hard Wear Comes

Here it is that Kimlark Rugs demonstrate their remarkable sturdiness. The soft, pliant surface of the rug little suggests the tough, hard-finished fabric which composes it. Only time can show how firmly Kimlark Rugs resist the steady wear of passing feet, the ground-in dust and grime of all outdoors. Kimlark Rugs are unusually closely woven; dirt does not readily sift through. Yet they are easily kept clean. For halls Kimlark patterns include some very attractive neutral toned designs and plain bordered rugs that do not show soil.

You Can Afford Kimlark Rugs for the Porch

Because they are such good floor coverings, some women think that they are too expensive for the porch. Not at all. They are surprisingly low in price. And, because of their sturdier quality, they stand up better under the severe outside conditions than cheaper rugs do. They are waterproof and washable; their colors are specially treated to last indefinitely. Moreover, they offer two wearing surfaces. Both sides are finished—one in an attractive design, the other plain, in solid or variegated colors.

Not Too Costly for the Summer Cottage

You can even afford Kimlark Rugs for the simplest summer home; equip the cottage throughout at an amazingly small expense. There are gay, colorful designs that seem just made for the holiday spirit of the summer home; or, if you prefer, quiet, neutral patterns or plain bordered rugs. Sand and water have little effect upon them; moths do not attack them; they can be rolled up and put away for months at a time without harm.

What Is Romance for Novelist Locke's Characters Proves Tragedy for Himself

POIGNANT STORY OF HIS ADOPTED DAUGHTER AND HER FATHER WHO KILLED HIMSELF BECAUSE OF HER DESERTION

WILLIAM J. LOCKE,
The Foster Father.

ALFRED SANDELLS BAINES,
The Deserted Father.

Full Report of Correspondence That Passed Between the Parties to This Extraordinary Case—"It Is Not That I Do Not Care for You as Much as I Did Before, but I Do Feel That My Real Home Has Been With Them and That I Will Not Leave Them Now," Wrote the Young Woman to Her Parents—"I Am a Coward and Am Taking a Coward's Way Out," Her Parent's Farewell Note.

From the London Bureau of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

LONDON, April 28.

WILLIAM J. Locke, novelist, incorrigible dreamer of dreams, adventurer by proxy, vicar of Bohemians and eccentrics, has run his head full tilt against realism. William J. Locke is a man who has an adoptive complex. In at least four of his books there is an adoption or a "protectorate." Happiness teems from these fictional relationships.

In the novel which Life has written for William J. Locke there is also an adoption. The adoption of a girl, 16, a debutante in living, perhaps the dream counterpart of many a Lockian heroine. At the end of the novel the Greatest Author has put in suicide. The book is one of the six "non-best-sellers," to quote William Sidney Porter.

Ironically enough, Life has paralleled the years of William J. Locke—little books on one side, stark reality on the other. Locke, with delicacy, charm, quaint tracery and wit, had drawn his fantastical people—his Aristide Pujol, his Gaston de Nerac, his Carlotta, his Marcus, his Dr. Quixote, his Septimus—all quaint, debonair people, moving in a world of silver linings and sweet April showers. And as those gay people moved, so Life, at William J. Locke's elbow, reached over and took the pen when Locke wrote "The End" and scrawled another phrase beneath it, scrawled in that queer writing known to Nebuchadnezzar: "To be continued."

In "Joyous Adventures of Aristide Pujol" William J. Locke placed a baby in the middle of a road for his hero to discover and halfway adopt.

In "The Life of William J. Locke" the Greatest Author placed a baby named Sheila Rosemary Baines in the middle of a road for his hero to discover and fully to adopt. Locke adopted that baby when she became 16 and that baby's father prosaically stuck his head into a gas oven and allowed himself to smother to death. The Greatest Author is sometimes inartistic and Russian minded.

Living a Romance

While Locke was writing glittering romances that were the most popular books of their day he was living a romance that concerns only such gloomy persons as Theodore Dreiser. The British writer had fallen in love with another man's wife, he had been named co-respondent, the wife had been divorced and Locke and she were married. They have never had children except those children known to old Charles Lamb—dream children such as Aristide Pujol picked up in the road; such as Gaston de Nerac, the beloved vagabond, found in a London slum reading a tattered copy of "Paradise Lost," such as the girl Sir Marcus Ordeyne picked up in the desert.

Then Locke met Alfred Sandells Baines, civil engineer, of indifferent success, and his [illegible] Sheila Baines was 4 years old, a chubby, toddling kid, a little girl that took hold of William Locke's heart and set him off on those vain imaginings which men with paternal feelings have and women with maternal feelings wot not of.

Locke could imagine golden hours with a child—renew his own youth through one—and in the baby, Sheila Baines, he felt the particular pain of attraction which makes two individuals sense at once that they are in accord. It was early in this period that the little girl became desperately ill.

Locke and his wife took a house at Brighton for the express purpose of nursing the child back to health. It is admitted, even by the mother of Sheila, that Locke saved the girl's life, and Locke in that time went through all the suffering of a man who watches a sick baby, helpless to aid, even to talk words of comfort, watching it suffer the pain of disease and the agonies of medical treatment. It was this illness probably which gave birth to the deep love he now bears Sheila Baines—or rather Sheila Locke—for the girl has renounced her parents and accepted the novelist's name and his fatherhood.

Her own father, after 10 years of accepting Locke's bounty to his daughter—of watching her absorb the beauties of Italy and France, of seeing the softening effect upon her of the Cote d'Azure, of Monte Carlo, those luxurious spots where leisure lends luster and one acquires the art of polished idling—suddenly became seized by the jealousy of a man whose property instinct is awakened.

He saw his own daughter, a girl blossoming into a cultured, refined woman, carefully dressed, easy of speech, being drawn out of the lower middle class into the impenetrable, artistic world. For 10 years he and his wife had accepted this state of affairs, had been relieved of the care, the cost and responsibility of a child.

Locke Educates Sheila

But they left Sheila's love there, and when Locke, wandering through the lands of the chateaus, through the concert halls of Germany, into the museums of Italy, under the brassy blue skies of the Orient, taught Sheila to see the charm and beauty of the world, turned her into a cultured girl, Alfred Baines awoke to her value. Undoubtedly this man, hitherto freed of the child, saw something he had allowed to slip away prized by another. It was a case of the parental fallacy that blood is thicker than water. At the same time Baines was finding himself in financial trouble. As in America, there was a polite phrase adopted by boarding house keepers to the effect that "they didn't take paying guests before the war," so here in England it is polite to say of people in difficulty, they were "hit by the war."

Alfred Baines then was hit by the war. He began turning to pawnbrokers for money and looked more and more toward his daughter Sheila—with what hopes in his mind only spiritists may know.

At any rate, May 8, 1921, he received a letter from Locke dated at Villa Simone, Cannes. It explained that Locke had arranged a complete system of education for Sheila, and went on:

"Now comes the other side of the matter—the most important—the human side. Nearly a year ago the question arose of Sheila's tutelage (to give it a general sort of name), which caused us all a great amount of pain; and it still exists. If we look back over the months that have elapsed since then don't you think that all the difficulties are removed by the one human solution—that you should definitely confide Sheila to our care? Sheila is no longer a child. She is developing her womanhood every day. As you know, she says little, but she has a great capacity for feeling, which the strain to which she has inevitably been subjected for the past months has intensified. It is not you nor we that have brought these things to pass.

"It is just circumstances or Fate, for which Sheila is not responsible. You must think of her, and her upbringing with us. You must think too of her future, which, as far as one can see in these troublous times, is more or less assured. Nothing is further from my thoughts than to alienate your child from you; and it is in the certainty that such a thing could never come to pass if you gave her into my care that I write to you in all franknuess. I need not say that, as I have done all her life, I shall scrupulously give her opportunity for her religious observance."

Baines' Reply to Locke

Baines in reply wrote:

"My dear Will: I cannot trust myself to say more about your letter than that it is extraordinary. It shows so little consideration for the feelings of Sheila's father and mother that we reluctantly have come to the conclusion that we cannot longer spare your feelings. We have sacrificed our happiness for the sake of your feelings too long. We will never give Sheila up, and resent intensely the suggestion that we should do so. Furthermore, we intend to put an end to the present unhappy position by having Sheila restored to us permanently and finally. She may remain with you until the middle of July if you wish it so; after that we have made arrangements for her.

"If what you suggest is true, it seems that her affections have been alienated already. We do not understand your allusion to the 'strain' on her unless you believe that she cares for you more than for us. We regret if it be so, but realize that we must accept some punishment for having allowed our child to be kept from us during her most impressionable years. But we hope and believe it is not yet too late to regain what we have lost. We are sorry to think of all, in so many ways, you have expended on the child, but you know it was never by our wish that you had Sheila. This is really meant to be final."

SHEILA BAINES,
Who learned to love the Lockes better than her own parents.

Locke, in a further letter, on May 19, wrote:

"My dear Alfred: I have received your letter of the 13th and I think it better not to comment on it for the present, as you do not take into account the feelings and point of view of the party most interested, namely Sheila herself. This is the factor which I have always tried to make you understand."

A Letter From Sheila

And then came this portentous note from Sheila:

"Dear Mummie and Daddy: Thank you very much for the £2 and for your birthday wishes. I had a lovely birthday. * * * I read your last letter to uncle, and I think it would be very wrong of me not to tell you at once that I have definitely made up my mind to stay with auntie and uncle. I have always known that I should have to decide for myself when the time came, and I made up my mind long ago that if you insisted on my leaving them I should have to tell you myself that I would not do so for anything in the world. It is not that I do not care for you as much as I did before, but I do feel that my real home has always been with them and I will not leave them now. Do, please, understand that I do not want this to hurt you, but I do really mean everything I have said. With love—Sheila."

Then when the futile correspondence assumed the bitter tones of enmity an end to matters came suddenly. It began by these lines of type which Sheila inserted in the advertising column of the London Times:

"SPECIAL NOTICE—I, Sheila Rosemary Locke, at present residing at the Villa des Iles, Cannes, France, spinster, formerly called and known as Sheila Rosemary Baines, youngest daughter of Alfred Sandells Baines and Alice Baines, hereby give notice that I have renounced and abandoned the use of my said surname of Baines, and further that such change of name is evidenced by a deed-poll dated Jan. 12, 1923, duly executed by me, and attested, and intended to be entered in the Enrollment Department of the Central Office of the High Court of Justice."

A few days afterwards the following advertisement appeared:

"SPECIAL NOTICE—We, Alfred Sandells Baines and Alice Baines, the parents of Sheila Rosemary Baines, on Jan. 19, 1923, lodged at the Enrollment Department of the Central Office of the High Court of Justice, an objection to the enrollment of a deed-poll executed by our said daughter and dated Jan. 12, 1923, by which she purported to change her surname of Baines to that of Locke, the ground of our said objection being that the said Sheila R. Baines was an infant and such change of name was without our consent and contrary to our wishes."

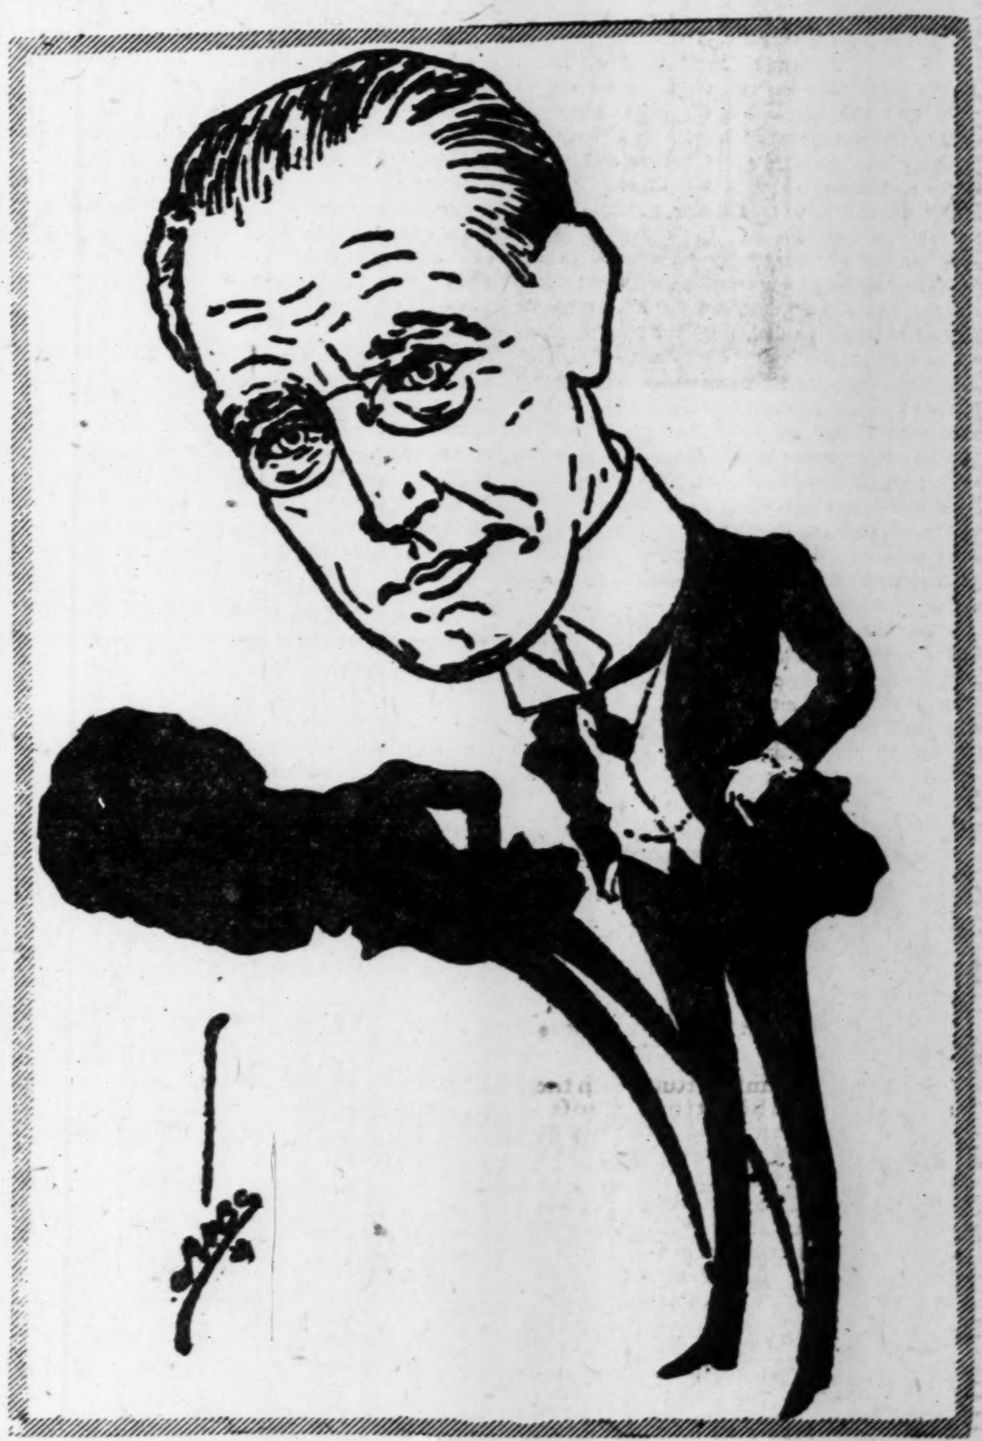
Found Himself Cornered

Baines found himself cornered. Recourse to legal help brought nothing. She was beyond the age when his authority could be asserted through a court. More property fell into the hands of his pawnbrokers. Life began tightening its hold.

Then came this letter from his lost daughter:

"VILLA DES ILES, Cannes, Jan. 11, 1923.—I read the letter you wrote to my dear uncle on Dec. 29, and today I see the notice you put in the Times of Jan. 10, and I am writing to tell you how utterly disgusted I am with all this and with your persecution of those I love so dearly. Surely you must realize by now that my mind is made up and that nothing you say or do can make the slightest difference. I am signing the necessary papers formally stating that I am taking the name of Locke—which I have used for the past two years, and a notice will be inserted in the Times.

"Perhaps when you see that you will realize that you have forced me into this action and how utterly useless it is to try and do anything more. Please understand that I am acting entirely and absolutely of my own free will. If you do not believe this give me a chance to prove to the world what every one knows to be the truth, none better than you. It seems incredible to me that you should behave in this manner. I have the right to live my own life in the way I wish and fully intend to do so. I have not been living here under false pretenses, as all our friends know the exact facts of the case, which only makes your efforts ridiculous. Can't you see that what you have done has only alienated me further? And yet you continue to make me care less and less for you.—SHEILA LOCKE."



A CARICATURE OF LOCKE

By courtesy of Dodd, Mead & Co.

That signature probably settled matters for Alfred Baines. The sordid, unromantic last chapter in the story was written in the office of a London Coroner when an inquest into Baines' suicide was held. In the dingy, crowded little room, with London traffic beating its dull monotone without, Mrs. Baines recounted the history of her daughter. In the court the letters were read again, duly ticketed according to formula, and after one witness said this and another said that it was wisely decided that Alfred Sandells Baines "killed himself while of unsound mind."

Of the documents, none was more poignant than this last letter left by Baines, addressed to his wife:

"Dearest: I am a coward, and am taking a coward's way out. You have been the best pal and the dearest of wives that a man ever had. My brain has gone with all my worries. Try and forgive me. I was always true to you. Your unhappy ALONZO."

Mrs. Baines testified that she and her husband first began writing to the solicitors because they were continually picking up illustrated newspapers and seeing photographs described as those of "Miss Sheila Locke." Her husband never became used to the position, and they were always hoping that Sheila would come back to them.

Answering the attorney who appeared for Locke, Mrs. Baines said there was no question that the Lockes lavished their hospitality upon Sheila. Once or twice Mrs. Baines quarreled with Mrs. Locke about it, but Mr. Locke always pleaded with them, and they again became the greatest of friends.

Mrs. Baines told the Coroner that her husband was greatly upset at the daughter's letter declaring her intention to remain with the Locke family. Baines was deeply devoted to his daughter, and felt it keenly that she should wish to remain away from her parents. There had been numerous previous proposals that the girl should return home, but Locke had always gone to Baines and begged that Sheila might be allowed to remain with him and his wife. Baines was very warm-hearted, and was moved by Mr. Locke's tears to allow the girl to remain a little longer. Locke had protested that it would break his heart if Sheila were taken away.

Between 1912 and 1913 the Lockes were sending Sheila to a good local school, and in 1914 they took Sheila to Egypt and Venice. She fell ill with fever at Venice, and Locke told

HOW "LONE STAR'S" "CROSS-ARM DRAW" AND "HAMMER FANNING" MADE HIM A TERROR TO REDSKINS AND OUTLAWS

After a Life Filled With Remarkable Exploits and Miraculous Escapes, It Was the Fate of Fred M. Hans to Die in a Simple Elevator Accident in Omaha Office Building Where He Worked as Night Watchman—In the 14 Years He Rode the Plains as a Government Scout, He Killed No Fewer Than 20 Indians and Eight Bandits—"Got" 11 Indians Out of 12 Shots at the Battle of Wounded Knee.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, NEB., April 28.

IN the days between the Custer massacre of 1876 and the battle of Wounded Knee in 1890, when tepees of hostile Indians were still numerous on the great plains and when bandits and cattle rustlers were harassing the frontier ranchers, it frequently became necessary for the Government to delegate some plainsman of extraordinary hardihood to act as advance agent in negotiations with unfriendly redskins or to go "gunning" for outlaw bands that had become too desperate for local authorities to deal with.

During this period there was one young scout who was drawing these hazardous assignments with conspicuous regularity. In casting about for the proper man for such a mission, it was natural that the army post commander should select the one with the quickest "cross-arm draw" and the faculty of giving the most deadly account of himself in a pistol encounter. And that was why the job so often fell to "Lone Star" Fred M. Hans.

History, and "Lone Star" himself, for that matter, never recorded all the occasions upon which he came face to face with death, for facing death and then giving it the slip was simply part of his daily work. When he wasn't tracking Sitting Bull or some other tribal chieftain who had clashed with the Government, he was venturing into robber dens to clean out, single handed, the most dangerous gangs of "bad men" in the West, and between errands he was riding the plains as a Government guide.

His accuracy of fire with his two big white-handled revolvers was notorious. In fact, his reputation as a marksman was so celebrated that a jury once scored him severely because he didn't simply shoot the trigger finger off a desperado who had covered him with a shotgun, instead of numbering that desperate among the score of men he had slain. Once a bullet from a bad man's rifle plowed through his scalp, on another occasion he was tied to a tree to be burned at the stake by Indians; many times he thought his time had come and gave up all hope of life.

A Victim of Civilization

And now, after reaching the age of 62 and defying every form of violent death that a frontiersman might be called upon to face, "Lone Star" Fred M. Hans is dead—the victim of a simple elevator accident.

In spite of the irony of fate in the method of his taking off, however, there is still something in such an end that might be a drop of consolation to an offended spirit, for "Lone Star" Hans died with his "boots on." That phase of his death, at least, was fitting. It was the way he had wished to die—in action.

In the old frontier days when mistakes were pretty likely to mean death, "Lone Star" made them but seldom, and when he did he was able to "cover up" quickly enough to escape their fatal consequences, but at 62 the muscles and joints have not the spring they had at 25 or 30, so when the old Indian fighter, going about his duties as night watchman in an office building here, realized his mistake in releasing an elevator control from outside the car, the agility that used to meet such emergencies was found wanting. When the car shot upward he tried to throw himself into it, but the best that ageing limbs could do was to get him half way through the door. He was jerked up and the next instant his life was crushed out against the ceiling.

Thus passed the last of the great Indian scouts and one of the most spectacular figures that the spectacular "Old West" ever knew. It wasn't a fight of man against man that "Lone Star" lost, for he never lost one. And it wasn't a mistake that could be "covered" by a speedy draw and deadly aim. It was a case of a man of the old school pitted against mechanical appliances of the new and "Lone Star" didn't have a fighting chance.

"Lone Star's" career was as full of stirring adventures as were those of the most daring of America's scouts, and his efficiency suffered none in comparison with them. It is doubtful if Jim Bridger could cross an uncharted prairie with a greater degree of accuracy than could Hans, and it is unlikely that either "Buffalo Bill" Cody or "Wild Bill" Hickok ever gave a better account of himself with a revolver—or two of them, as the occasion demanded—than could Hans.

Historic Pursuit of Sitting Bull

As for ability to endure hardship, his ride of 600 miles across uninhabited plains alone in the dead of a Northwestern winter in pursuit of Sitting Bull was only one of his numerous feats. Congress once recognized his service with an award of a medal for bravery and Gen. Phil Sheridan wrote of him: "For faithfulness, daring, endurance and good judgment, he is the superior of any scout I have ever known."

CHIEF RED CLOUD.

CHIEF AMERICAN HORSE.

Both these Indian leaders were good friends of Hans even in the days when there was constantly recurring warfare between the Indians and whites.

"Lone Star" was a mild-mannered man, polite, soft-voiced and almost diffident. In later life his appearance was anything but that of a frontiersman, although until a short time before his death he wore a long scalplock tucked under his hat as a standing invitation to the redskin who should be "man enough" to come and take it. His fringed buckskin garments that he wore on the plains were long ago put aside.

In all his exciting career in which firearms figured daily it is a matter of record that he never once used a rifle, except in shooting at game. His only weapons of defense against desperate men were those two white-handled revolvers which hung at either side, butts forward, but they were quite enough when coupled with his skill at "cross-arm drawing," and in many a combat against great odds they brought him through the victor.

When using both pistols at once, it was "Lone Star's" practice to keep the trigger pressed back while he pulled back the hammer and released it with his thumb, and he did that with such rapidity after a "draw" that a bullet was on its way by the time the weapon could be brought up to a level with the target. When handling his weapons separately he could turn a single-action pistol into a veritable machine gun through his expertness at "hammer fanning." This method of firing consisted of holding the pistol in position with one hand while he flipped, or "fanned," the hammer with the other. In a test not long ago he fired his old single-action revolver by this method faster than a late model automatic could be fired.

"Lone Star" always fought alone. That was how he got his name. It was a mark of respect paid to him by the Indians early in his career. He never picked a fight, and, knowing his ability to defend himself, he would actually "take" more from the other fellow than most men of less hardihood—so long as that other fellow didn't move for a gun. If he did it usually turned out to be the most unfortunate move that individual ever made, and incidentally the last, for when "Lone Star" was forced to "draw" he was what his associates were pleased to call "Hell on Wheels."

FRED M. HANS ("LONE STAR")

This photograph was made 20 years ago, when Hans was still in his physical prime.

In the 14 years that he rode the plains as a Government scout and guide no fewer than 20 Indians and eight white outlaws fell before those deadly pistols.

Some of His Famous Exploits

Once he rode 300 miles into the Black Hills country in South Dakota and cleaned out a desperate gang of bandits single-handed. Another time he trailed Sitting Bull into Canada and talked the old Sioux chief into returning to the Government reservation. Once, when captured and "staked out" by the Cheyennes, awaiting torture and burning at the stake, "Lone Star" got loose, killed his guard with the Indian's own scalping knife, recovered his two big pistols and got away to bring back a detachment of soldiers who wiped out his erstwhile captors. In the battle of Wounded Knee he "got" 11 Indians out of 12 shots. On still another occasion, when he was attacked by five bandits with repeating rifles, all shooting at once, "Lone Star" killed two, wounded one, captured the others, tied them on horses and took them 100 miles to Deadwood.

That fight with the five outlaws won "Lone Star" an enviable reputation, although previous to that time he had gained about as much frontier experience as usually fell to the average pioneer settler in his whole life.

Hans was just 20 years old at that time. But he had been out scouting and fighting for six years, then. He started out before he was 15.

When he rode into Deadwood, at the age of 20, he carried, in a secret pocket, instructions from Gen. George Crook, the frontier army commander, to go to Deadwood and clean up a band of outlaws that infested the southern end of the Black Hills. Deadwood was 300 miles from a railroad in those days, but was mighty close to hell—so everybody said.

In a couple of weeks Hans had located the den of the bandits in a cave. He led a party of volunteers to the place and nine bandits were killed. Five of the outlaws were not at home and thus escaped.

His Own Story of Thrilling Fight

Two weeks later these five outlaws, seeking vengeance on "Lone Star," ambushed the scout. They rode over a sand hill, with rifles spouting fire, and there followed one of the really remarkable fights of the frontier. Here are the words in which the scout described that fight—his report to his superior officer in the army:

"I was as much surprised as I ever will be when five horsemen suddenly rode over a sand hill and every one of them begun firing at me with a rifle.

"'Now we will get even with you,' one of them called.

"At the first shot my horse was killed and dropped like a stone. This saved my life, as in falling I managed to tumble behind the horse and for a moment I was out of sight of the ruffians. In that moment my two Colts were drawn and I was prepared to fight to the last, never doubting, however, but that I should be killed.

"Continuing to fire at the horse behind which I lay, the five bandits approached to within 75 yards of me. Then they separated and began to surround me. I knew that would never do. Resting my two pistols on the back of the dead horse, I started shooting.

"My first shot killed an outlaw's horse and his rider fell as if dead. Again I fired and one of the outlaws on my left fell with a bullet in his hip. He fainted and was out of the fight.

"A Winchester bullet at that moment clipped through my hair, cutting a long gash in the scalp from which the blood flowed in a stream down my face. But I did not lose consciousness. That would have meant death.

"Disheartening" His Foes

"Another shot to the left and the only man approaching from that side went down with a bullet through his heart. Turning to the right I found three men approaching, two on horses and the third, whose horse I had killed with my first shot, was on foot. This third man had me covered with a Winchester and was just about to fire when I took snap shot and put a bullet through his brain.

"This disheartened the remaining two and they started to ride away. With blood streaming down my face and a pistol in either hand, I rose from behind my dead horse and, covering them, demanded their surrender.

"They attempted to argue, but I told them to surrender or continue to fight. They dropped their guns, dismounted and surrendered.

"There I was, 150 miles from a white man's camp, in the heart of the Indian country, with three desperate criminals as prisoners, one of them badly injured, and I with a wound in my head. But I forced the bandits to tie each other on their horses and with the warning that on the least effort to escape I would shoot them, we started. On the third day we rode into the fort and I turned the three men over to Gen. Crook.

"'You ought to have killed all five,' Gen. Crook said bluntly."

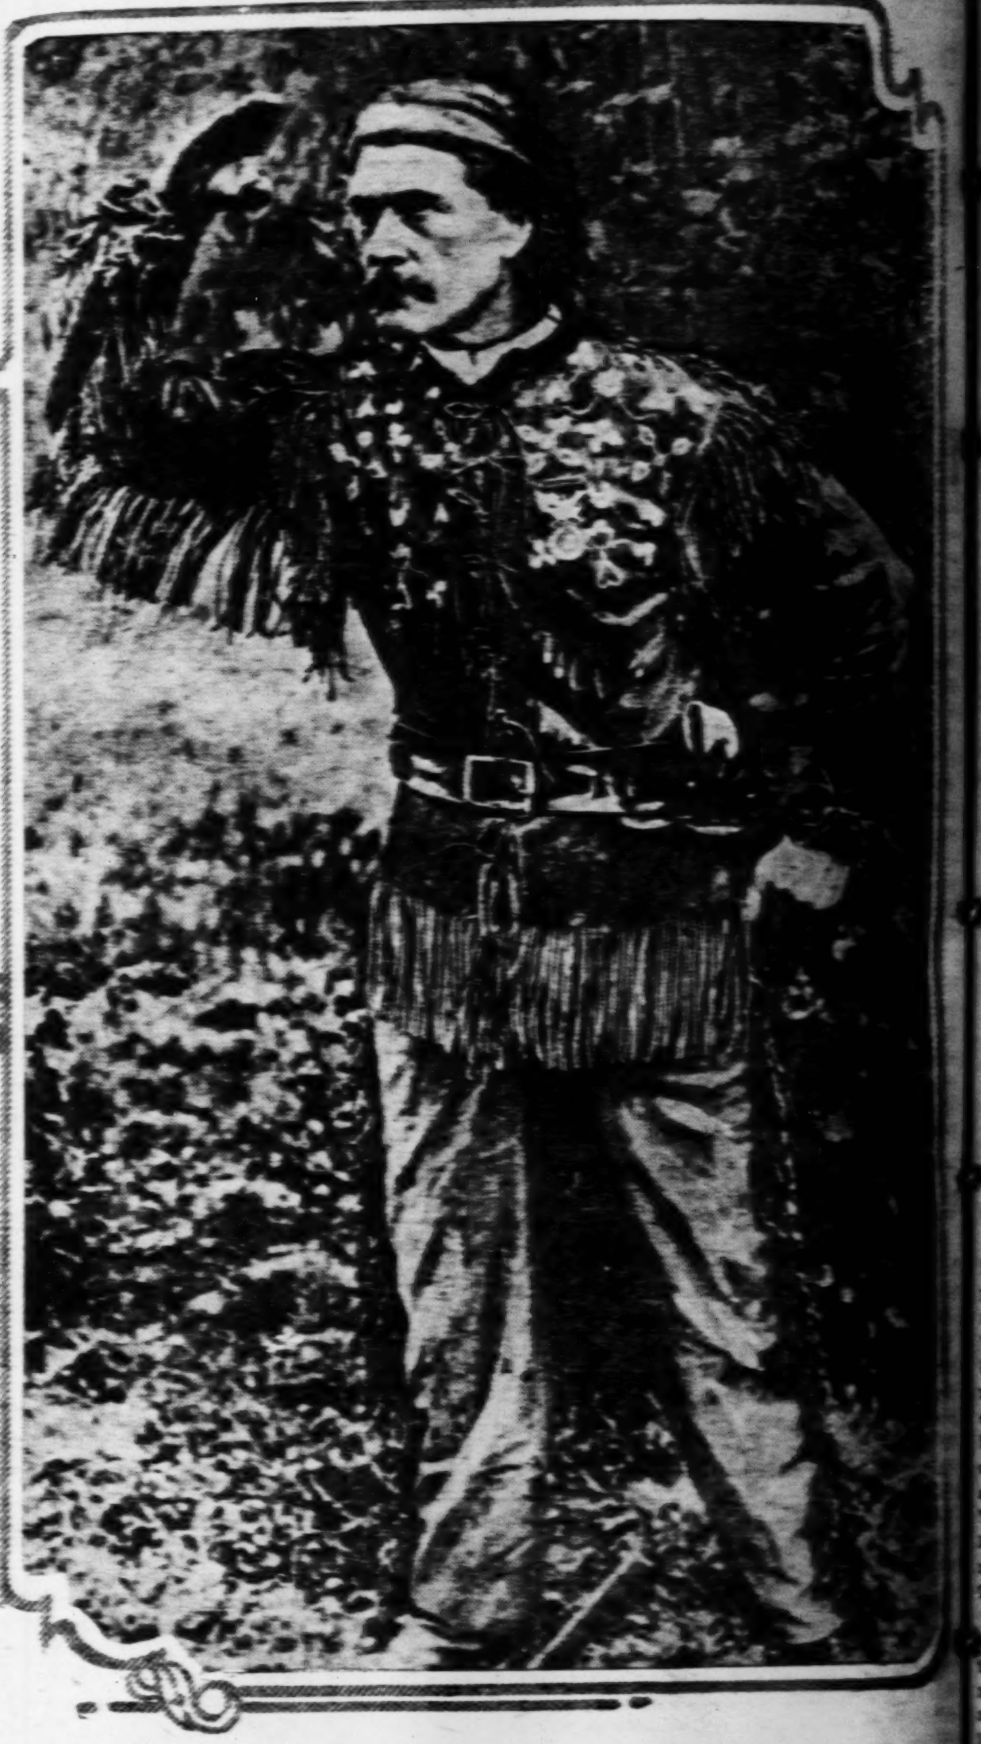
"Lone Star" was born in Iowa and his family came to Nebraska when he was a small boy and settled near Herman. When young Hans was 15 years old his 2-year-old brother was kidnaped and it was believed that he had been given to Indians. Fifteen-year-old Fred started out to hunt that brother. Incidentally, he found him 27 years afterwards. He had been given to the Indians but the Indians, in turn, had given the baby to a white family and the young fellow had been reared a white man, after all.

Rare Knowledge of Indians

While searching for his brother, Hans visited tribe after tribe. He got to know more Indians and more about Indians than most of his fellow plainsmen. And whenever he reached an army post, he would tell the commander what he had discovered. In time, he was made a regular scout and was given a roving commission.

A year or so after "Lone Star's" famous fight with the five outlaws, Gen. Crook called him into his headquarters at Fort Meade, S. D., and instructed him to go to a bandit stronghold called the "Hole-in-the-Wall" and "clean out" an outlaw band headed by a Mexican desperado known as "Shacknasty Jim."

The "Hole-in-the-Wall" was 300 miles away in Wyoming. The gang was the worst in all the West, yet Gen. Crook sent 21-year-old "Lone Star," all by himself, to wipe it out.



Hans was one of the few noted Indian scouts that never became a showman. But he [illegible] to don this handsome buckskin suit and Indian war bonnet at times for the amusement of his [illegible] This is a comparatively recent photograph.

"Shacknasty Jim" was nearly seven feet tall and noted for his brutality. His band would raid frontier settlements, rob trains down in Southern Wyoming, rustle cattle, and escape to their den for safety.

"Lone Star" got to the "Hole" one day about noon. The entrance was a narrow cleft in the mountain and it had been left unguarded, because the outlaws thought themselves safe. No officer had ever been there.

Lone Star rode boldly through the cleft and into the valley. Half a mile within, he saw two men approaching. From the size of the leader, he knew him to be the redoubtable "Shacknasty Jim." The other was Bill Cole, his lieutenant.

When within 20 yards of "Lone Star" they called out: "What the hell you want?"

For answer "Lone Star" covered them and demanded their surrender.

Destroying a Gang of Outlaws

Both men slid from their horses, on the off side, and pulled their weapons. Hans started shooting. The first shot killed Jim's horse and the next two shots went through Jim's body. Cole ran to cover behind Jim's dead horse, but a bullet from "Lone Star's" gun broke Cole's arm before he reached cover, and the bandit surrendered.

When "Lone Star" went to offer assistance to Jim, the bandit fired point blank at the scout's face. But the wounds had made the Mexican nervous and the bullet missed.

"Lone Star" handcuffed the two men together, took them outside the narrow entrance and tied them to a tree. Then he went back into the secluded valley.

Five miles down the valley three men on horses approached. When they got within talking distance, "Lone Star" ordered them to surrender. They attempted to flee, but the scout, with three shots, killed their horses. The three men dropped behind their dead horses and opened fire. They offered to let "Lone Star" go if he would let them go.

"No, I'm going to capture you all three," the scout told them from behind the tree where he had taken refuge.

Then Hans heard the three arranging details of a "rush." One of them would be shot, but the other two would "get" "Lone Star," they argued.

Suddenly, with a whoop and a hail of lead, all three men jumped out and started for "Lone Star's" tree.

Jack Hawkins' second leap was his last. He dropped with a bullet through his body. The other two surrendered.

"Lone Star" tied the two men to trees, [illegible] down the valley and burned all the cabins and corrals, and then, returning, got his two prisoners and went back to where he had tied "Shacknasty Jim" and Bill Cole. Shacknasty had died in the meantime and "Lone Star" forced the others to dig a grave and bury the leader. Then with the three handcuffed together, he started overland for Fort Meade, 300 miles away. At night he tied them up. By day they walked. In a week they reached Meade. A little later all three were hanged.

His Most Desperate Situation

"Lone Star" used to say he had his most dangerous experience when he was made captive by Dull Knife, the Cheyenne chief, and was about to be burned at the stake.

Dull Knife and his tribe were running away from the reservation and "Lone Star" was trying to head them off. The scout got in the lead by a ruse and boldly rode into the Indian camp, thinking to persuade them to return. Instead of returning, the old chief and his braves seized the scout, made him prisoner and announced that when the Indians reached their hunting grounds they would burn him. In the meantime they continued their flight, burning, killing and [illegible]ing.

"Lone Star" was tied to his horse and the horse tied to four Indians in the form of a square. In this way they made their way northward [illegible] a week.

One evening Dull Knife announced the party would reach their old homes the next day and that on the day following "Lone Star" would be burned as a part of the celebration.

That night Hans was tied to a tree, as usual. The party was so far beyond the frontier that no guards were set. And that night it rained and rained. Hans was wearing his big army hat. His hands were tied with deerskin thongs. He held his head in such a position that the rain, falling on his hatbrim, ran down onto the [illegible] thongs which bound his hands. As the thongs got wet, they stretched a little. In time he managed to loose his hands. Then he [illegible] his feet.

To enter the wilds without food or weapons meant death. So Hans crawled into a [illegible]

Neighbors Stand by Wife Whose Affections Husband Accuses Preacher of Alienating

MINISTER, FACING $10,000 DAMAGE SUIT, BACK BEHIND PLOW AS RESULT OF HIS SOCIAL GRACES

Though Successor of Pastor, Pending Inquiry Into His Conduct Asserts That Woman Church Leader Made Damaging Admissions to Him, Expressed Repentance and Asked for the Congregation's Prayers to Aid Her in Her Reformatory Efforts, She Now Declares She Was So Upset, She Didn't Know What She Was Saying and Denies Any Misconduct—Tennessee Community Stirred by Scandalous Charges.

Close-up and full-length photograph of Mrs. Annie Willoughby, for which she posed especially for the Post-Dispatch.

GROVER C. WILLOUGHBY.
The husband, whose charges against his wife and the minister have shocked the little town of Puryear, Tenn., and rallied the friends of Mrs. Willoughby to her defense.

By F. A. BEHYMER,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch
PURYEAR, Tenn., April 28.

FROM the pulpit to the plow has been the demotion of the Rev. W. F. Harris, former pastor of the Puryear Mehodist Church, Beau Brummel of the West Tennessee clergy, on account of alleged undue attentiveness to one of the lambs of his flock. He has laid aside his clerical garb and donned the habiliments of husbandry, and was busy breaking the soil for a potato patch on the farm of his father, the Rev. Abel Harris, near Murray, Ky., just across the border from here, when the Post-Dispatch correspondent called to see him.

He has surrendered his credentials and as he follows the plow, submitting his ministerial vocabulary to the strain which a recalcitrant plow horse imposes, he awaits the trial of the $10,000 damage suit which has been brought against him at Huntingdon, Tenn., by Grover C. Willoughby, village undertaker of Puryear, for the alleged alienation of the affections of Mrs. Annie Willoughby.

Mrs. Willoughby, awaiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ardell Salmon, near Buchanan, this county, trial of the divorce suit which Willoughby has filed at Paris, naming the preacher, is sustained by the confidence of the people of Puryear, who cannot bring themselves to believe that the charges her husband makes against her are true.

Town Stands by the Wife

Puryear, whose contact with the outside world is limited to a leisurely train, a precarious telephone and three radio sets, does not feel called upon to vindicate the impugned integrity of "Brother" Harris, because he does not belong to Puryear and it is the judgment of Puryear's mentors that he was more frivolous than Puryear expects its preachers to be, but Annie Willoughby belongs to Puryear and Puryear stands by its own. The town has known her "from a child" and has never until now heard aught against her. There never was any "talk" about her until Willoughby filed his suit against the preacher and it needs more than purported admissions to shake the town's belief in her.

It cannot be denied that there is considerable weight of testimony, to be produced at the two trials, bearing upon admissions said to have been made by Mrs. Willoughby. Her husband says she made admissions to him, in the presence of his business associate, Brisendine, and Brisendine says so too, and the Rev. H. L. Lax, successor of Harris, felt called upon to put pointed questions to Mrs. Willoughby, and he declares her answers left no room for doubt in his mind.

Taking this testimony at its full value, it is difficult to understand the frankness which it attributes to the woman. And a clear issue of veracity is raised by her flat denial that she made such admissions. Anything that she may have said that was susceptible of such construction, she now says, was due to her "torn up" condition and is not to be weighed as against her present denials.

War Veteran With Social Graces

When Harris came back from World War service in France, he made known that he would follow in the footsteps of his father, veteran pastor along the Tennessee-Kentucky border. He "applied" and was assigned to the Puryear circuit. If the idea was to keep him out of the mischief which Satan finds for idle hands to do, Puryear circuit might have been considered just the place for him, for there are six churches on the circuit, the one at Puryear and five scattered through northern Henry County. But looking after the spiritual interests of six congregations seems not to have left "Brother" Harris without some leisure for the exercise of the social graces possessed by him in rather unusual degree.

He was young, about 24 years old then, unmarried, athletic and good looking, with prematurely gray hair that gave him a certain air of distinction, a plausible manner and a flow of language which if he had not been a preacher, might have been denominated a "gift of gab."

He mingled freely with the young people of his various congregations. It grieved his older members somewhat that he did not "act more like a preacher," but allowance was made for his youth. There was an impression among his brethren of the cloth that his usefulness would be greater if he took unto himself a helpmeet. One of them, one day, took occasion to say as much to him. "Brother Harris," he said, "what you ought to do is get married."

Harris did not commit himself.

Husband Belonged to Another Faith

He served the six congregations two years, pursuing his studies meantime to qualify for the or- [illegible] which would take him out of the circuit rider class and entitle him to a stationary charge." He made his headquarters at Puryear and was always a welcome guest at the home of the Willoughbys. Mrs. Willoughby was an earnest member of the Methodist Church and an active worker in the church and Epworth League. Willoughby was a member of the Christian Church, but he and Harris became good friends and Harris practically made his home with the Willoughbys whenever he was in Puryear.

Such hospitality is the usual thing around here and the preacher's frequenting of the Willoughby home seems to have caused no comment either at the time or afterward, while Harris was pastor for a time at Dyersburg and later at Atwood, making occasional visits to Puryear and staying at the Willoughby home. After leaving Dyersburg he spent a few months in Colorado. He returned in August, last year. He stayed around Puryear and Murray until the conference met in November and then was assigned to the Atwood circuit, in the western part of Carroll County.

While he was away he kept up a correspondence with the Willoughbys. Usually the letters were addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Willoughby," and Willoughby did not know, or suspect, that he sometimes wrote to Mrs. Willoughby letters which she did not choose to show to her husband.

Pastor Banished Loneliness From Her

Grover Willoughby was 23 and Annie Salmon was 20 when they were married in 1915. They had lived happily. If the young wife had any complaint to make it was that, with no children to engage her attention, she found the evenings lonely, with her husband helping out at the village drug store.

THE REV. W. F. HARRIS.
Pastor of the Puryear Methodist Church, who has given up his credentials and returned to the plow on his father's farm following the filing of a $10,000 alienation suit against him. The preacher-plowman left the furrow to pose for this photograph for the Post-Dispatch.

If the young preacher, when he was the Puryear pastor and afterward, when he came to visit, devoted himself to the alleviation of this loneliness, Willoughby thought it not amiss and the village seems not to have disapproved.

But there came a time when the husband's suspicions were aroused. They were strengthened when he found seven letters from the preacher addressed to Mrs. Willoughby. They were friendly letters, written in a playful style, but were not ardent and of themselves were not confirmatory of Willoughby's suspicions, but he thought it was significant that they were sent to her personally and, coupled with other circumstances, he construed them as damaging.

In this section of the country there is a custom, when a gentleman thinks his home has been invaded by another gentleman, to hunt up the other gentleman and shoot him, and it is usual for juries to view such an episode with a certain forbearance. The custom has drawbacks because a husband, under such circumstances, may err in his appraisal of the evidence, so it may be considered fortunate that Willoughby is not that kind of a husband. He bided his time, wanting to be certain, and not contemplating, even with such certainty as satisfied his own mind, taking the law into his own hands.

One of the times Harris came to Puryear to visit was last Christmas eve. Hubert Hooper and Lucille Morris had driven to Paris that afternoon and by prearrangement Harris had met them there and had married them and then had driven with them to Puryear. They went to the Willoughby home and Mrs. Willoughby went with the couple to the drug store, from where they telephoned to their folks that they had been married.

Husband's Suspicions Finally Aroused

It was a busy night at the drug store and Willoughby was there helping out. Mrs. Willoughby said she would have to hurry back home, as she had company. Willoughby asked her who was there and she said "Brother Harris." She went back home and after a while telephoned her husband that she and "Brother Harris" were going to Mrs. Will Cole's to play rook, a form of frivolity which was something of a craze in Puryear circles then.

Willoughby slipped away from the store and went to his home. The parlor curtains were lowered, but in places they were frayed and it seemed to Willoughby that his wife and the preacher were sitting pretty close together. He went back to the store and returned a little later to the house. Harris was putting on his overcoat then. The three went to Mrs. Cole's. When they arrived there the lights were out, so Willoughby thinks the rook party was a fiction.

Harris stayed at the Willoughby home that night and next morning the three had breakfast and the two men went to the drug store. Harris stayed around Puryear that Christmas day, being in and out of the Willoughby home, and then went to his father's home near Murray, Ky.

Willoughby's explanation of continuing to live with his wife until Feb. 4 is that he was not certain until then, when he declares his wife made admissions to him and pleaded with him not to harm the minister. They separated then and in March he filed suit at Huntington against Harris for $10,000 damages, citing the Christmas eve incident as culmination of the alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

The separation of the Willoughbys seems to have been, to most of the people of Puryear, the first intimation that unhappiness had come to them and the filing of the suit for damages was the first disclosure of the alleged cause of the unhappiness. If you ask how this could be, in a town of 300 with no diversions except the party line, the radio and the arrival of the train, no satisfactory explanation can be given. This historian can only record the fact. The villagers themselves seem a little dazed that such things should have been going on, all unsuspected, in their midst. Mostly it was because nobody in Puryear had a mean enough mind to think evil of Mrs. Willoughby. If the preacher had been seen as much with some other woman as he was with Mrs. Willoughby the village tongues might have wagged more.

Then the Gossips Got Busy

When the suit was filed the talkers of Puryear made up for lost time. They remembered then things that, at the time, had not seemed strange, but which, in the light of Willoughby's charges, took on significance, but through all the comment ran a current of confidence in Mrs. Willoughby. If it had been the preacher and another woman Puryear might have given to accusation all the validity of fact and been quite ready to imprint the scarlet letter, but somehow it was not quite possible to think of Mrs. Willoughby as that sort of woman.

Harris filed an answer, declaring his innocence, but he could not continue preaching with such a charge hanging over him. He surrendered his credentials to his presiding elder, the Rev. H. A. Butts of Paris, pending trial, and went back to his father's farm.

Charges of such a grave nature, affecting Mrs. Willoughby, could not be ignored by Pastor Lax, successor of Harris on the Puryear circuit. The discipline of the Southern Methodist Church calls for the appointment of a committee of three discreet persons to deal with that kind of a situation, but Lax thought best to constitute himself the committee. He went to her and he says she confessed her fault and expressed sorrow and repentance and told him to publicly ask the forgiveness of the church for her. Later she called up his wife and requested that the appeal for forgiveness be not made to the church.

Later, when Lax and Butts saw her she evaded admissions, but Lax says she finally admitted that what she had confessed to him was true. Still, later, however, she denied that she had made admissions to her husband or Lax or anybody else and declared her innocence, as she did to me the other day at her mother's home.

"Did Not Know What I Was Saying"

When Lax saw her again she said to him: "If I made those statements to you they were not true. I was so torn up and worried that I did not know what I was saying."

When Lax goes on the witness stand to testify it is probable the opposing lawyers will want to know why Mrs. Willoughby was not disciplined in keeping with the gravity of her alleged admissions. She is still a member in good standing of the Puryear Methodist Church. Lax cites in support of his leniency the clause in the church discipline referring to "improper temper, words or actions, or disobedience to the order and discipline of the church." This provides that private reproof may be administered and if there is acknowledgment of the fault and promise of amendment the offender may be borne with. He construes this as covering the graver offense which he says Mrs. Willoughby admitted, but says that in view of the woman's repudiation of her admission church action may be taken against her after the litigation is ended.

Not only is Mrs. Willoughby to be pilloried in her husband's suit for damages, but she is called upon to defend herself at Paris in the divorce suit which Willoughby has filed, in which he makes the same charges as in the alienation suit.

Both cases, it is understood, will turn largely upon the admissions Mrs. Willoughby is said to have made, with certain corroborative details as to her friendship with the preacher. She has filed an answer in which she challenges her husband's right to claim that he is injured and innocent. Under the Tennessee law Willoughby must not only prove his allegations against his wife, but must show himself to have been without fault. This issue is specifically raised in Mrs. Willoughby's answer, in which she says she has learned since her separation from her husband that his claim to having been true to his vows is false.

Preacher Will Aid the Woman

The best legal talent in West Tennessee is enlisted in the three-cornered court fight. Lewis & Rhodes of Paris and Maddox & Maddox of Huntington represent Willoughby. Weeks & Phillips of Murray, J. T. Peeler of Huntington and Edward Smith of Milan will defend the preacher. Mrs. Willoughby's counsel are A. B. Lamb and Fisher Neal of Paris.

Willoughby says it is not money that he wants from the preacher. "Money," he said, "can't pay for a broken home. What I want is vindication of my honor. I could have taken the law into my own hands, but I would not do violence to anybody. This man was a minister of the gospel and I had respect for him and counted him my friend.

"When I confronted my wife she had no thought of the humiliation she had caused me. Her concern was all for the other man. She begged me to do nothing that would injure him. She said she did not want any harm to come to him unless he failed to do what he had promised to do. She did not say what this was. I asked her if she thought I ought to let him keep on preaching and breaking up homes. She said to leave him to his conscience. I said I didn't believe he had a conscience. It is not true that I have been faithless to my vows."

Mrs. Willoughby, a slender, pretty woman, with a friendly smile and a gentle voice, looking very girlish in a white middy and a dark skirt, said it was not true that she had confessed to undue affection for the preacher. She could not have made such a confession because they had only been good friends. She could not account for her husband bringing such charges against her unless he wanted to get rid of her.

Harris, in army shirt and trousers, stopped his plowing for potatoes long enough to declare his innocence and his purpose to fight the alienation suit to the end and give Mrs. Willoughby all the help he could in defending the divorce suit. "I have surrendered my credentials," he said, as he walked to the well for a drink, "but if I am vindicated I will receive them back and go on with my preaching. If not I will have to start again at the bottom. Willoughby's charges against me are false. His wife and I have been good friends, nothing more."

Then he went back to his plowing, which is to be his vocation until the way is cleared for him to return to his preaching.

LAST OF THE GREAT INDIAN SCOUTS PASSES—TALES OF HIS CAREER

he knew the man who had his two pistols was sleping. He found the Indian's knife, drove it through his heart without causing an outcry, recovered his two pistols, and escaped on Dull Knife's crack pony.

In 24 hours he rode that pony 100 miles to Fort Robinson and two hours after his arrival at the fort was en route back to Dull Knife's camp with a detachment of cavalry —but a different horse. In the fight which followed many Indians were killed and the others captured. Dull Knife was among the captives.

How He Followed Sitting Bull.

After the Custer massacre, Sitting Bull and his band got across the international boundary into Canada and were safe from the American army. From this point the Sioux made many raids across into Montana. Gen. Sheridan finally sent "Lone Star" to the Sioux camp to see what arrangements could be made to induce the Indians to come back and be "good."

The Sioux camp was about 600 miles away and winter was raging in full blast on the plains.

Hans reached Sitting Bull's camp. He was personally acquainted with the old chief as well as with many of the subchiefs. Terms were finally arranged and the Indians signed, but the agreement had to be referred to Gen. Sheridan. So "Lone Star" started back, but he had not gone far until he was ambushed by the Red River "Breeds." In that encounter he killed three and wounded two, but lost his packhorse and supplies. The next day he met a band of hostile Sioux and had another fight in which he wounded several. Then, for three days during a blizzard, he lay in a little cave in the banks of a ravine. When the wolves came there for shelter he shot wolf after wolf from his cave and ate wolf-meat until the blizzard subsided and he could continue his journey.

Gen. Sheridan, in thanking him, told him he had saved the army from a winter campaign against the Sioux —which would have cost many lives on both sides.

Too Late to Save Sitting Bull.

Ten years later, during the Ghost Dance trouble, "Lone Star" was again sent to pacify Sitting Bull, but arrived 15 minutes after the Indian police had killed the old chief.

That Ghost Dancing culminated in the battle of Wounded Knee, the last battle of importance between the whites and the Indians. Hans was in the very midst of a group of Indians when old Chief Big Foot threw a handful of dust up in the air and started the shooting. Hans fired 12 shots and is credited with bringing down 11 Indians. He ran for his life that day and every time an Indian got between him and safety, he fired. Four hundred Indians were killed at Wounded Knee.

Hans' experience with Chief Joseph of the Nez Perces is enough to fill a large book all by itself. Joseph had taken his entire tribe and started a 1000-mile flight to Canada. He fought and ran and then stopped and fought again. Four American armies went against him. He either out-fought or out-ran all four. Chief Joseph's flight and fight is famous in frontier history. "Lone Star" got in front of them and was chased for two days during which he kept up a running fight with the Indians. Hans was uninjured, but a number of Nez Perces were killed. Finally Joseph thought he had crossed the border and was safe in Canada. But it happened that he was three miles short and was still in Montana. Hans got to Gen. Nelson A. Miles with information as to the exact location of the Indians. Miles then got between Joseph and the boundary and after a three-day fight, the Indians surrendered and were sent back to Idaho.

It has been said that Lone Star had visited every Indian tribe between the Canadian boundary and the Rio Grande and between Lake Michigan and the Pacific. He is credited with knowing more influential Indians than any other man in America.

After the passing of the "Indian days" of the Old West, Lone Star had to seek other means of livelihood and he found employment as a guard for Northwestern railway trains from Omaha to the Black Hills region. Several months ago he became a night watchman here.

Now, after his long life of adventure and hairbreadth escapes, he is dead as the result of an ordinary elevator accident.

Dr. W. O. Coffee, the noted specialist, says that catarrh is a constitutional condition, must be treated through the system as well as the nose, head and throat. He says 90% of the cases of deafness, head noises and ulcers of the ears are caused from catarrh. If the hearing is getting better and worse with each cold, or noises gradually getting worse, or one ear is getting real bad and the other just getting started with crackling or other noises, most cases can be helped or completely relieved by his new nonsurgical treatment. He treats diseased tonsils, diseased turbinated bones. He treats 50 patients a day here and is making many wonderful cures. If you suffer with deafness, head noises or catarrh of the ear, head, throat or system, he wants to examine and explain his new method of treatment to you free of charge. If you cannot come to St. Louis write him for his book on catarrh, deafness, head noises, [illegible] diseases, cross-eyes. He will send it free. WHAT IS ROMANCE FOR W. J. LOCKE'S CHARACTERS IS TRAGEDY FOR HIM

Baines that it cost $500 a week to have the wing of the hotel isolated. He said that Baines ought to allow Sheila to remain with them a little longer, so that they could take her in the country. Baines consented to this, and she was taken to the Lockes' house in the country, which Mrs. Baines and her husband visited nearly every week-end.

The mother and father objected to Sheila going to Egypt, but the Lockes had told her of the delights of the country, and she was always craving to go out with them until eventually they consented to her joining the Lockes and going to Egypt. One of the main reasons why they allowed Sheila to remain so long was because of the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Locke.

From 1918 to 1920 the girl was at the Court School of Leatherhead. Locke at that time had always been wanting to take Sheila out of London on account of the air raids. The witness said they (the parents) had been hard hit by the war, and they only consented to the daughter going to Leatherhead on the understanding that they would be allowed to repay Locke. From 1911 to 1920, with the exception of 1917, the Lockes had been paying for the whole of her education, but it was very much against their wishes.

The curious persons who had come to hear the romance of the romancer filed out into the noisy street. Mrs. Baines left the room, hidden behind her veils. A clerk in the court slammed his books to and closed the shutters.

At Cannes the blue Mediterranean looked up to the Villa Simone and smiled back at Sheila Rosemary Baines-Locke. A short way off voices echoed as people batted a little ball about the links of the exclusive country club.

And Gaston de Nerac-Aristide Pujol-Simple Septimus—Sir Marcus Ordeyne—W. J. Locke sat thinking—of the plot for a new novel? Surely that is the writer's life. One with a happy ending.

U. S. FILMS POPULAR IN FRANCE

Nine-Tenths of Those Shown There in March Made in America.

(Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.)

PARIS.—American moving picture films formed nearly nine-tenths of the total mileage thrown upon French screens during the month of March. Statistics just published show that out of close to seven miles of films—102,880 metres—only 11,750 metres were French. The other 88,-830 metres—excepting a few thousand metresNwere American.

French habitues appear still to have much liking for the Wild West, broncho-busting, gun-play films, many of which were taken years ago and for whic hthe European market remains very good.

Old Feudal Ceremony.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 28.—Feudal days are recalled by a little ceremony which has just occurred at Perpignan, where a delegation of mountaineers solemnly gave over 960 francs as their annual feudal tribute to the head of the French Government. The letter saares with thh Spanish Bishop of Urgel a sort of suzerainty over the little republic of Andorra in the Pyrenees, which had a population of 5000 mountaineers have lived since 1278 in an independent state comprising less than 200 square miles, between the French and Spanish borders. The Bishop gets 460 pesetas annually, which at the present rate of exchange exceeds the French ruler's share, originally intended to be twice as much as the Bishop's.

SIR A. CONAN DOYLE TO GIVE SPIRIT TALK HERE

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous in past years as the author of the Sherlock Holmes detective stories, now noted as a lecturer on spirit communication, will deliver his first St. Louis discourse Thursday night, at the American Theater.

Photographic exhibits will be a feature of dominant interest in his lecture. One of the pictures which will be shown was made at the tomb of the unknown British soldier in London. In this picture it is said to be possible to see spirit faces in a haze above the heads of corporeal forms around the cenotaph. When this picture was displayed in New York recently there were affecting scenes, and one woman said she was able to see the face of her son, a soldier, who died overseas.

Sir Arthur will tell in his lecture of spirit communication with his mother, his son, who was killed in the war, and friends who have "passed on."

He has been a member of the Society of Psychical Research for 30 years, but his more active interest in this subject came after the death of his son. He has visited noted mediums, has undertaken spirit photography with his own camera and plates, and has investigated communications received by automatic writing and through the ouija board.

Because of his belief in spirit communication, Sir Arthur left the Roman Catholic church, in which he was brought up. He was for years a practicing physician, and holds the degree of doctor of laws from Edinburgh University. He is 65 years old, tall and heavily built.

"All my life I have been an open-air man," he says. "I have boxed, played football and driven by own car in an international automobile race. I have even learned to play baseball, and whenever possible, while in America, I will endeavor to see an important game. I spent my youth on a whaler in the Arctic Sea, and while I have never been a soldier, I have often been under fire on the battlefield. Would you pick me out as the kind of man to lose my critical faculties in a medium's dark room?"

BRITISH CLERGYMEN PLEDGE SUPPORT TO LABOR PARTY

Great Change in Attitude of Church of England Toward Working Classes Forecast.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 12.—More than 500 clergymen of the Church of England have formally pledged their support to the Labor party. Among them are many canons. For a long time many in the church have felt keenly the reproach that the working classes are being alienated from the church, that the church showed plainly that it had no sympathy with them and their aims and aspirations, and never did anything for them. The leaders of this movement within the church are determined, it is said, that hereafter labor shall have no cause to complain that it lacks friends among the clergy.

The 500 clergymen signed a congratulatory memorial address to Ramsay MacDonald and other labor members of Parliament in which they say: "We shall support actively in whatever ways are open to us the efforts you will assuredly make for the spiritual and economic emancipation of the people."

Canon Donaldson, in presenting the memorial, said: "It is quite clear that a great change of outlook has taken place, not to say landslide of the clergy in regard to their opinion and attitude toward the labor movement."

German Horse Market in Slump.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

BERLIN, April 10.—High cost of upkeep and the general economic depression have put the German market for blooded horses in the doldrums. Eighty animals were registered for sale recently at the close of the annual fashionable horse show in Berlin, but only seven of them found buyers. A stallion offered through the Rhenish-Westphalian Association for Breeding of Cold-Blooded Stock went for 19,500,000 marks (or nearly $1000), the highest sale o fthe auction.

CUTICURA HEALS ITCHY RINGWORM

Eruptions Formed. Pained Badly. Could Not Sleep.

"My trouble began with a ringworm on my limb. As time went on the matter grew worse and itched badly. When I scratched sore eruptions formed, which at times pained so badly that I could not sleep. My stocking used to irritate the breaking out.

"I tried many remedies but none of them helped me. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and finding that it helped me I bought more and in less than two weeks I was healed." (Signed) Miss Mary Geisman, 416 Garfield St., Chelsea, Mich., July 17, 1922.

JOCKEY, 72, WINS BET FOR IRISH FREE STATE GOVERNOR

Tim Healy Cashes Ticket When Harry Beasley Outmaneuvers Younger Riders.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 15.—Tim Healy, Governor-General of the Irish Free State, made the first bet of his life recently—and on a horse ridden by a 72-year-old jockey.

It all happened at the Punchestown races, near Dublin. Harry Beasley, who rode the horse and is also the owner, won the race after he had cleverly outmaneuvered his rivals at the end of the course.

The veteran rider has been prominent on the Irish tracks for more than 50 years. He was presented to the Governor-General immediately after the race.

"I congratulate you," said Healy. "I won the first bet I ever made in my life on you today."

The jockey thanked the Governor-General and said he would rather have all the jockeys in Ireland against him than the Governor at a finish in another place. The reference was, of course, to Healy's abilities as a lawyer, and the Governor-General was highly amused.

Beasley has been hailed in Ireland as the "greatest sport going," and congratulations have come from all parts of the British Isles, since he rode against some of the best young jockeys in Ireland.

KIDNAPED BOY FOUND IN FISHING CAMP

Mother Tells of Long Pursuit, on Foot and by Boat, Down Wabash River.

There's joy in the little home upstairs at 1816 Wash street. Harry, the "big brother" who was kidnaped, is home again.

His mother is Margaret Meyer, who formerly was Mrs. Harry Depping, wife of an Edwardsville coal miner. She married Depping in 1908. In 1915 he deserted her, she says, and in 1919 she obtained a divorce.

"Then he came back and got Harry," she told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday. "That was about three months after our divorce. I had not seen him for months. But he promised to get little Harry some new clothes, and the next morning he took him away while I was at work."

That was the last Harry's mother saw of the boy, she says, until 10 days ago. She had heard that the boy was living in Clinton, Ind., with a man named John W. Wineland, a fisherman plying his trade along the Wabash River. But numerous letters brought no reply. Three years passed.

Then, on April 2, she wrote a registered letter to Harry. "He had to sign it," she explained. "Then, I knew he was living and I went to get him."

But here new troubles began. A story of a pursuit of nearly a week down the Wabash River, often with her boy in sight, was related by the mother. Warrant charging kidnaping was sworn out and a writ of habeas corpus for the lad was obtained. At last, with the Sheriff, Harry's mother descended upon a tent along the Wabash River at midnight a week ago last Tuesday and rescued her boy.

At Terre Haute he was turned over to his mother, and she brought him to St. Louis.

"Harry has had no schooling," she said. "But that's going to be all changed. His hair hadn't been cut in months. His clothes were ragged and torn. He had to fish and dig mussels day in and day out."

It seems Harry's father turned the boy over to Wineland, the fisherman. The father has not been seen by the rest of his family since, his former wife says.

"That was a terrible chase," she sighed. "But it was worth it. I hired motor boats, sometimes automobiles. And often, in those few days, I walked along the river bank and through woods and underbrush."

Harry's mother is a waitress. Harry is going to work this summer. He is 13 years old. Next fall he will go to school.

RADIO FOR THE AMATUER AND EXPERT

NEW TUBE OPERATES ON FLASHLIGHT CELL

UV-199 Detector Amplifier Consumes 70 Pct. Less Current Than Any Other Type.

A radio tube which consumes 70 per cent less current than any of the small or so-called peanut variety now being sold and the first to operate with the filament current supplied from the ordinary flashlight battery, has been perfected by the General Electric Co. It will be known as the UV-199.

This new type radiotron has the X-L Tungsten filament, which, according to radio engineers, is considered as great an advance over the old Tungsten filament for vacuum tubes in radio work as the Tungsten incandescent lamp is over the carbon lamp in the field of electrical illumination.

The filament wire in the new tube is extremely small, being but one-fourth the diameter of an ordinary hair. However, this is not an indication of any weakness, for this tungsten wire has the strength of the best steel piano wire. By radio engineers, this new filament is considered practically ideal.

The disadvantageous features of both the coated and old Tungsten filament are eliminated and practically all the advantages of each are combined. In other words, this new Tungsten filament has the high efficiency of electron production of the coated filament, and the uniformity of operation and ruggedness of the Tungsten filament. It has the quietness of operation of the coated filament and a lower operating temperature than the old Tungsten filament. It has the long length of the coated filament and the long life of the Tungsten filament.

The outstanding features of this new tube in comparison with previous tubes are shown in the attached summary.

The watts consumed by the filament of this tube is .18, or approximately but 1-27 of the energy used in the UV-201 tube. Yet the characteristics when used in a radio set are slightly better.

The filament of this tube runs at a temperature about 400 degrees cooler than the old type of radiotron tube.

This radiotron might also be termed "the tube with nine lives," because, if the filament is operated at too high a temperature, the electron emission falls off and the tube becomes inoperative. However, by operation at rated voltage with the plate voltage off for a period of time, normal electron emission can be regained. The length of time required to perfect this recovery is proportional to the length of time at which the tube was operated at an abnormally high filament voltage. This does not mean that for uniformly satisfactory results careful adjustment of filament voltage is not essential, but it does mean that improper filament operation does not spoil the tube beyond recovery.

This new radiotron tube is an excellent radio-frequency amplifier, because the capacity between elements is lower than that of the UV-201-A tube.

Although the base of this tube is of the same general design as the standard four-prong base, it is of smaller diameter and the arrangement of the leads to the contact pins is different, the grid and plate contact pins being opposite rather than adjacent. This has been done to facilitate wiring and simplify connections in a multitube set.

This tube operates satisfactorily in all circuits which were used with the old UV-201 tube, and should give slightly superior results, especially in radio-frequency amplification. Constant voltage operation does not entail the serious loss of life which followed constant current operation in the old tungsten filaments.

Work on this new tungsten filament in the new tube has been going on in the research laboratory of the General Electric Co. for more than eight years.

The UV-199 tube requires so little filament energy that the ordinary No. 6 dry cells give remarkably long service. For instance, three No. 6 dry cells in series will operate one of the UV-199 tubes one hour a day for a whole year; or will operate two hours a day over the entire radio season."

This is a very advantageous feature, because it allows dealers to equip sets in the beginning of the season with batteries which with ordinary and intelligent use will last the entire active part of the season.

On a three-tube set three No. 6 dry cells will operate the tubes one hour per day for a period of over four months.

In the case of portable sets using three-cell flashlight batteries, it is recommended that one set of three flashlight cells be used for each tube in the set. It is immaterial whether each tube is wired separately to one of the batteries or whether they are all placed in parallel, provided separate rheostat control is made for each tube. If separate rheostat control is not employed for each tube and only a common rheostat provided the batteries should be connected in parallel.

In common with all receiving tubes, there are certain precautions which should be observed in order to obtain satisfactory results.

The proper grid bias must be used, depending in amount upon the plate voltage employed. Under certain conditions of small interference, slight static and weak signals, a grid leak resistance as high as six to ten megohms can be employed with success. With strong signals and heavy interference or static a lower grid leak resistance down to possibly two megohms should be used.

It should be understood that this UV-199 tube will not deliver the energy as an amplifier that the UV-201-A will. The UV-201-A is a remarkably powerful tube and has electron emission, mutual conductance and amplification far above any other receiving tube. It must not be expected that with a filament expenditure of only .18 watt that as powerful results can be obtained as an amplifier as with the expenditure of 1.25 watts.

On account of the low filament current required by this tube it is essential to have the filament rheostat of sufficient resistance. For operation from the dry cells, the filament rheostat resistance should be at least 30 ohms per tube. If a six-volt storage battery is used, the resistance should be at least 60 ohms. In multitube sets the sockets for the tubes should be cushion mounted so as to minimize the effect of vibration.

With any vacuum tube, and particularly with the UV-199 tube, the changing of connections or adjustments of the wiring of the set is dangerous unless the tubes are removed from the sockets or the "B" batteries entirely disconnected. Inasmuch as many adjustments can most advantageously be made while the set is in operation, it is strongly recommended that a protective resistance be placed in one lead of the plate battery, preferably immediately next to one battery terminal. An almost ideal resistance for this purpose is a 10-watt 110-volt tungsten lamp. This is a good resistance because, cold, the resistance is very low, whereas in the case of short circuit the filament becomes incandescent and the resistance goes up enormously, which is a valuable protective feature.

The UV-199 has just been placed on the market by the Radio Corporation of America.

Sixty volts plate, 1.0 to 3.0 grid bias.

MISSOURI FARMERS INSTALL RADIO TRANSMITTING SETS

Vacuum Tube Equipment Makes It Possible to Cover Exceptional Distances.

Radio transmitting sets have been installed recently on a number of farms in Western Missouri.

This is contrary to the belief that the farmer's only interest in radio is the ability to receive market reports. Indications here are that the farmer has developed a hankering for long-distance transmission.

Formerly a spark transmitter of the usual type was impractical unless a commercial electrical supply was at hand. The advent of the undamped wave set, using improved vacuum tubes to produce the high frequency energy necessary, has placed the farmer on a basis with the city dweller.

One station near Tarkio is operated by a member of the American Radio Relay League. Using one amplifier tube and a homemade spark coil in the now famous "spark coil-C. W." circuit, his signals have been heard regularly in Kansas City and Omaha in daylight.

Another farmer, near Warrenburg, has succeeded in covering 700 air miles between that place and El Paso, Tex., using a spark coil and the 32-volt battery of his farm lighting plant to supply the energy for the coil. He operates his set on a schedule with other stations in Sedalia and Kansas City.

This would indicate that even with the older type of transmitter, one no longer need think of the farm as "no place for a sending set."

Amateurs Break Traffic Records.

Radio amateurs of North America during March handled the greatest amount of traffic in any single month on record, a total of 100,000 messages, it was announced today by F. H. Schnell, traffic manager of the American Radio Relay League. This is a gain of 38,505 messages over the preceding month.

CITY REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE ERECTION OF AERIALS

Wires Must Not Cross Street or Alley Nor Over or Under Electric Light Wires.

Inquiries have been received about attaching radio antennae to telephone and electric light poles. For the information of everyone interested, the regulations are given here.

Only wires belonging to a franchised public utility company may cross any street or alley, and the Department of Public Utilities of St. Louis has made a ruling that no aerial is to be attached to any telephone, telegraph or electric light pole, under any condition whatsoever, because of the hazard to life. Neither may antenna wires cross over light wires or under them, regardless of the voltage carried.

The average radio enthusiast is not familiar with high tension practice and, in attaching an aerial to a pole, might come in contact with wires which would cause instant death. There is also the possibility that the breaking of either the aerial or light wire might cause the same result, where one crosses the other.

SHORT-WAVE TRANSMISSION RECORD MADE BY AMATEUR

California Station Heard in Every State in the Union During A. R. R. L. Test.

In recent weeks there has been a great deal of comment on the possibility of long-distance communication below 150 meters and it is only natural that the amateur should again demonstrate that he is the pioneer when it comes to this particular phase of radio development.

During recent short wave tests under the auspices of the American Radio Relay League, an amateur station in California, transmitting on a wave length of 120 meters, was heard in every state in the Union. This made a record for short-wave transmission, the power being only five watts.

Other long-distance records on short waves have been reported by amateurs who participated in the A. R. R. L. short-wave tests. It would appear from this information that much better results can be obtained on 150 meters than is ordinarily the case on 200 meters, the band commonly used by amateurs.

As the more powerful commercial stations operate on wave lengths between 1000 and 25,000 meters, the short-wave tests are just another indication that the most successful radio transmission will be at the two extremes, also that the region below 150 meters is well worth further investigation.

For the Notebook.

Voltage is the pressure behind electrical current.

A storage battery will sulphate if allowed to stand idle in a discharged state.

A receiving set may act very differently on different days or under different conditions.

Spider web inductances show themselves superior to other forms of tuning apparatus.

An alarm clock has been invented which responds to vibrations of a certain radio wave length when sent out by a station in the vicinity.

Satisfaction From Loop Aerials.

Because of its small size and its ease of erection, the loop aerial is rapidly gaining in favor over the outdoor antenna. Directional loop aerials have been known to have tuned in stations over 1000 miles distant. A good thing to remember, however, is that a loop in a wooden building will function better than one in a steel structure.

Radio Development in Brazil.

Communication by means of radio telephony has been established between Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro, following earlier unsuccessful attempts which were said to have failed on account of atmospheric difficulties, Assistant Trade Commissioner M. A. Cramer reports to the Department of Commerce.

To Be Remembered.

Adding an audio-frequency amplifier to a receiving set will increase the volume of sounds, but will not increase its receiving range.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

All queries must be accompanied by the name and address of the sender.

Q. Please publish a panel layout for the Kopprasch circuit. (2) Could I use the primary of my vario-coupler which is wound on a round coffee box and tapped every 10 turns with a total of nine taps in making a Kopprasch set? C. C. D.

A. (1) This was intentionally omitted when the circuit was published because of the many different sizes of variometers which are in use. It would not be practical to give any specific dimensions as no two instruments are alike, and every enthusiast has ideas of his own which he likes to incorporate in his set. (2) We would advise winding a coil according to the instructions accompanying the diagram.

Q. Which is correct—is tight or loose coupling between the primary and secondary of a loose-coupler or vario-coupler used when it is desired to eliminate interference? J. M.

A. Loose coupling enables finer tuning and eliminates the more interference than when the coupling is tight. When coils are closely coupled the set tunes very broadly.

Q. I have a two-slide tuner and crystal detector. Could I add a "peanut" tube to it? C. U.

A. Yes.

Q. Why can I not hear out of town stations in the daytime the same as at night? M. G.

A. The range of a radio set is always less in the spring, summer and fall, than in winter. Daytime reception in summer is almost impossible with the usual apparatus.

Q. What effect will K S D's changing to 546 meters have on the average set? H. H. S.

A. Many radio fans will have to connect a loading coil in series with their antenna, while others will need to lengthen their aerials—if less than 50 feet—and in some cases, both additions will be necessary.

Q. Is an aerial 150 feet long and 35 feet high, too long for broadcast reception? R. W. L.

A. It is all right for the wavelengths now in use, but after May 15, when the new allocations become effective, it will probably have to be shortened 50 feet, for satisfactory reception from class A and B stations.

Q. With my single circuit set I always hear a gritting noise which stops when the aerial is disconnected. What is the matter? T. J.

A. What you hear in all probability, is static and there is little remedy for it during the summer months.

Q. I would like to know what I can add to my set so I can tune K S D out? We don't like classical music and could hear jazz from out-of-town stations by tuning out K S D. W. F. C.

A. Three stages of radio-frequency, detector and two stages of audio-frequency connected to a loop aerial should give you the desired results. After May 15 this may not be necessary if you have a very sensitive set.

Q. In last Sunday's Question and Answer column, "P. U." mentioned having five grounds. We should like to know where he got them, and how. T. C.

A. The more perfect the connection with the earth, the better will be the results obtained with any radio set, and the more connections made, the more perfect should be the earth connection, therefore, try the cold water pipe, the steam heater pipe, and a six-foot rod driven into the earth, and connect the ground lead of your set to all three.

Q. (1) How many and what kind of batteries does a single-circuit regenerative set require? (2) Is any special kind of tube required? G. K.

A. (1) The batteries used will depend entirely by the type of vacuum tube employed. (2) No, any three-element tube will function in a single-circuit set.

Q. Is there any device whereby a deaf person can hear by radio? R. R.

A. We know of nothing of the kind. Several stages of amplification, both audio and radio, should make it possible for even a deaf person to hear at least local signals.

Q. Does the W D-11 tube work satisfactorily in the Armstrong regenerative circuit, using two tubes? (2) Will a loop aerial work with a Reinartz set without radio frequency amplification? M. R.

A. (1) Yes. (2) Not over any great distance.

Q. Would one stranded wire be as good as two or more of the same size suspended parallel? C. B. L.

A. For receiving—yes.

Q. (1) I have an aerial extending east and west, could I pick up other stations by running one north and south or in another direction? (2) Would an aerial in my attic give satisfaction for distant reception? E. G.

A. (1) Erecting the second aerial would not enable you to hear any more stations than you do with the present one, unless the second one be more efficient than the first. (2) Not likely, unless you use several steps of radio frequency.

Q. Where is the best place to connect a 3-plate vernier variable condenser in a single-circuit set for finer tuning? D. D. P.

A. The capacity of a condenser that size is too small to be of any particular value in any single-circuit set.

Q. The gravity readings of the three cells in my storage battery are as follows: 1160, 1110, 1120 respectively. The one which registers 1110 will not hold a charge. Does it need new acid, or will it have to be repaired? C. W.

A. Adding electrolyte will not remedy the trouble. Take it to a reliable storage battery shop and have it repaired. They are the only ones prepared to work on batteries.

Q. (1) What kind of audio-frequency transformers do you advise for use with W D-11 tubes? (2) Why is it that the grid-leak has such a great effect on the operation of a W D-11 tube? E. W. L.

A. (1) Communicate with the manufacturers of the tube you mention. They have perfected a transformer which they recommend especially for the W D-11 tubes. (2) The grid-leak permits all excess voltage on the grid to pass over to the filament therefore preventing the grid voltage from rising above a certain potential.

Q. Is stranded wire better than solid wire for an aerial, and if so, would 14 strands be better than seven strands? L. F.

A. Yes, to both questions.

Q. Will shellac or wax harm a variocoupler? H. J.

A. Wax will have no effect, but shellac will reduce the efficiency of any coil used for tuning a radio set.

Q. Please tell me how two aerials can be erected on the same roof? My neighbor's aerial is 60 feet long and 12 feet above the roof. My aerial is 5 feet below his, and attached to the same poles. When he begins to use his set, mine will not operate at all. Please advise me. V. B.

A. The only solution will be to change them so that they will be as nearly as possible at right angles to each other.

Allocations for Class "A" "B" and "C" Stations Announced

Three of Four Wave Lengths in Each Distcict to Be Reserved for Best of Local Stations in This Class.

Six class A stations, the first of the newly classified broadcasters, were licensed during the past week by the Radio Section of the Department of Commerce. Texas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Louisiana and Indiana each received one station with a wave-length exclusive for its respective district.

From the schedule of wave lengths for class A stations, printed below, it will be seen that at least 20 distinct wave lengths in each of the nine radio districts are available for distribution by the local inspectors. Three or four wave lengths in each district will be reserved for the best of the local stations of this class, these waves not being assigned to stations in the immediately adjoining districts. This gives the better of the A broadcasters a partially exclusive transmitting wave. For example, the wave length 222 meters may be assigned to stations only in the Fourth, Fifth and Eighth districts; similarly, the wave of 233 meters will be authorized for use only in the Second, Fifth and Seventh districts, while waves 224, 226, 229, etc., in column one will be allocated in every district. This plan, it is believed, will tend to prevent considerable local interference and create virtually an "A-1" class of stations within the general A class.

District radio supervisors, as they are now called, are assigning class A waves now, but the transfer of B stations from 400 meters will not be made until noon on May 15.

Distribution of Broadcasters by Districts.

In the distribution of 583 broadcasters by districts on April 1, the Ninth, the largest, including the states of Indiana, Kentucky, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and upper part of Michigan, is seen to be in the lead with 190 stations, followed by the Eighth, which includes the lower part of Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia and largest parts of New York and Pennsylvania.

The distribution of broadcasting stations in the nine radio districts as of April 1, 1923, is as follows:

Districts	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Class A	27	19	37	31	63	63	54	71	183	—553
Class B	1	5	4	2	3	4	1	3	7	—30
Total	28	24	41	33	66	67	57	74	190	—583

Most of the stations designated here as A are now operating on the wave length of 360 meters, but will be placed in Class C on May 15 if they desire to continue on 360 meters.

POWERFUL RADIO SET ON CRUISER OMAHA

300-Watt Tube Set Covers Distance of 2300 Nautical Miles With Spoken Voice.

Naval radio experts are delighted with the performance of the radio equipment on the new Scout cruiser Omaha, which recently broke all long distance records in transmitting during her "shake-down" cruise in the Pacific.

While maneuvering at sea off the coast of Washington, the newly installed radio transmitting sets were given a thorough test. Code messages transmitted with the 20 KW arc set, such as the larger naval craft are now equipped with, were copied by all naval radio stations along the west coast from lower California to St. Paul, Alaska, and on the east coast at Bar Harbor, Me.; Washington, D. C., and Key West Fla. One of the stations reached was San Diego, 1800 miles away from the Omaha. This new cruiser's arc was copied by the battleship California, which was 1500 miles distant, but it is reported that she could not pick up the California's replies.

Not only in code dispatches did the Omaha radio experts excell, but with her 300-watt tube set, spoken messages were transmitted to Pearl Harbor, Honolulu, 2300 nautical miles distant. They were also heard at Key West, Fla., approximately 2100 miles over land and sea.

Part of the credit for the long-distant work is attributed to the 180-foot wooden masts, which carry the Omaha's aerials, almost 50 feet higher than the steel masts on battleships. The mean effective height on the Omaha is better than 100 feet, it is stated by naval experts. Her radio equipment is also installed on the "top side," and not below, eliminating long cable and wire leads.

Detune Idle Sets.

For the benefit of receivers far distant from a broadcasting station, operators from around the point of reception, especially those who use crystal sets, should detune their instruments when not in use. Each receiver consumes a certain amount of energy of radio waves and the waves become weakened by the time they reach a listener miles and miles away.

Radio Entertains Passengers.

The Atlanta & West Point Railroad operates a broadcasting station at College Park, Ga., for entertaining passengers on board the New York Limited while running from West Point, Ga., to Atlanta.

Tools for Building Set.

The number of tools necessary for constructing a radio set depends a great deal on the worker, and it also depends on whether the outfit is to be made from raw parts or to be merely assembled from parts that are already made. If assembling a set not more than a screwdriver, a small hand drill, a soldering iron, a compass and possibly a ruler and dividers for making measurements are needed.

SQUIER INVENTS NEW ALPHABET FOR RADIO

May Also Be Applied to Telegraph and Cable Lines—Will Increase Transmitting Speed

A new telegraph alphabet for use in radio, telegraph and cable in all languages has just been given to the world by Major-General George O. Squier, Chief Signal Officer of the Army and one of America's most prolific electrical communication inventors. With his new code system a speed 2.65 times the present transmitting rate can be achieved, and it is easier to "tune to."

The first presentation of this new "universal" code was made recently by the General in a speech before the National Academy of Sciences in Washington. It now appears that the code used for almost 80 years will be superseded throughout the world, with a gain of over 150 per cent in speed.

Briefly, Gen. Squier proposes to vary the amplification or intensity of each half cycle of alternating current to send a dot, space or dash, each of which requires the same time of transmission. The signals are distinguished in receiving by the three different amplitudes, one each for the dot, dash and space. Six permutations are possible with the three intensities; one arrangement being to represent the dot with a certain intensity, the dash with a larger one and the space with a smaller amplification. The method tried successfully by Gen. Squier in the Signal Corps laboratories was with the dash the largest, the dot intermediate and the space the smallest. Other methods will be tried, however, and a better arrangement may be found.

The system has been studied by radio experts of the army and navy, who, it is reported, find no "bugs" in it; on the contrary, they see added efficiency, and decreased interference. It is the plan of the inventor to submit the system to the next International Technical Conference on Telegraphy with a suggestion for unification of all codes, radio, wire and cable, using the same system of modulation for the signals.

The present telegraph alphabet was invented by Prof. Morse in 1844, before the telephone, alternating arc or radio transmission, and yet, with advances in nearly every other phase of communication, we have continued to use the same alphabet, which, it was pointed out by Gen. Squier, does not fit. It was for this reason that Gen. Squier "redesigned" the 80-year-old alphabet for 1923 use. In the old alphabet the dots, dashes and spaces required different time for transmission, whereas the new plan provides for sending each in the same space of time. In his system in alternating current, no consecutive signals are of the same sign, but different amplitudes. In Morse such letters as S and H required three or four signals of the same sign and were not as legible as the signs for the letters A and N, where no two signs were alike, they being composed of dots and dashes. The several letters of the old alphabet did not have the same legibility and the whole alphabet was slowed down by the "slow" letters to their speed. This defect has cost the world hundreds of thousands of dollars in transmitting costs, it is estimated.

In forming the new alphabet, the letters used most frequently, like the vowels, were assigned short signals. In the old alphabet, O, the second important letter in English, next to E, in use, was one of the worst and longest to send, being composed of three dashes, requiring 11 units of time, counting dashes and spaces. Gen. Squier sends this important letter in four units, nearly three times as fast. We should have designed our alphabet before we designed the transmitting apparatus, it is now thought, whereas we worked backwards.

The new alphabet is easier to learn, it is said, and will be of international value, being applicable to all languages. The increased use of the printing telegraph makes it even more valuable.

Gen. Squier's alphabet is the result of nearly eight years of research and experimentation, begun in 1915 in connection with devising a new cable alphabet. Its present application today to all three kinds of code work will make it no longer necessary for operators to learn three code systems.

Radiograms.

More than 4000 complete radio receiving sets have been made by the pupils in various schools in New Jersey.

Between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 is spent every year for radio equipment and supplies in the United States.

Prospective jurors on murder cases in California are not permitted to listen into radio broadcasted accounts of the crimes.

King George of England is considering installing a radio transmitting set in his private apartment at Buckingham Palace so he can address public meetings.

The United States Navy maintains nine radio stations in Alaska, all situated along the coast, to serve the navy and vessels of the merchant marine in Alaskan waters, as well as to maintain contact with the Pacific coast of the United States.

Only eight radio broadcasting stations have been provided to serve the entire British Isles. These stations are being paid for and maintained by a broadcasting company, which collects from the listener a small fee in the form of a license tax.

WARNING ISSUED TO BEWARE OF FAKE RADIO INSPECTORS

No Charge Is Made by Department of Commerce for Issuing Licenses to Stations and Operators.

A "fake" radio inspector has been issuing "licenses" to amateur and broadcasting stations in Minnesota the Department of Commerce has been advised. Using the return stub of an amateur application blank secured from the department. An individual giving his name as Cecil Osborne is said to have supervised the installation of a radio station in Minnesota and issued what he called a license.

This imposter claimed that he was a former radio operator of the Navy Department and a member of the Naval Reserve. The only record of a man of that name in the files of the Navy Department is that of a deserter, who served for a time as an apprentice and seaman. He deserted in San Francisco in July, 1922, the official records state.

All radio inspectors of the department, the officials in Washington point out, are supplied with means of identification, including official badges and identification cards bearing their photographs. Amateurs and broadcasters are advised to ask for identification cards and to pay no fees for licenses. Although the White radio bill contemplated the payment of fees for licenses, it failed to pass; the present law provides for the licensing without charge.

RADIO COMMUNICATION TEST WITH TROLLEY CAR

Passengers on Moving Street Car Talk to Operators at Power House by Means of Wired Wireless.

Successful tests of carrier current as a means of communication between moving street cars and the power station on the Third Avenue Railway to New York City, were recently completed by the General Electric Co. This is the first time that a moving trolley car has been able to keep in constant communication with headquarters and marks a new advent in this new science.

At the suggestion of the Third Avenue Railway, this new use of carrier current was tried. A transmitting and receiving set, similar to that used in any radio broadcasting station, was installed in the Brook avenue substation in the Bronx and a similar set was installed in one of the street cars. The messages transmitted from either the car or the substation, instead of traveling in all directions through space, were confined to the trolley wire, thus insuring privacy and direction of signals. Other advantages of carrier current over ordinary radio were the absence of static and the fading of signals. Persons who listened in and talked, either from the moving car or the power station, were unanimous in declaring the voice was as clear and distinct as any conversation they had heard over an ordinary land telephone.

In addition to being a means for instantaneous communication between headquarters and a trolley car, the same apparatus can be installed on an emergency or repair wagon. Then when this wagon is sent out on some trouble, by merely connecting the lead from the carrier current set to the trolley whether there is power in the wire or not, the workmen can be kept in constant touch with the repair barn. So as not to be dependent on trolley current, power for the telephone set is supplied by storage batteries which in turn operate a motor generator set, thus furnishing the necessary energy for the vacuum tube transmitter and receiver.

On the street car, three 50-watt radiotrons were used for sending an ordinary receiving set with one detector tube and two amplifiers of the UV-201 type for receiving signals. The two transmitters operated on a different wave length and by this means it was possible to carry on a two-way conversation at the same time, just the same as a land telephone. Since these wave lengths were greater than 15,000 meters, there was no possibility of any interference from other broadcasting stations. Then, too, the signals were confined to the immediate vicinity of the trolley wire so closely that even though a person had a receiving set tuned to this high meter wave length installed in his home along the route of the car he would be unable to hear any of the conversations.

This is the third use carrier current has been put to thus far. About a year ago it was first used to operate a street lighting system at Little Nahant, Mass., six miles from the power station at Lynn. Last fall it was successfully used in transmitting a telephone conversation over a 70,000-volt transmission line for a distance of 40 miles out of Baltimore, Md.

Don't spend the day in your kitchen

WITH a coal range to fill and drafts to fuss over, it takes a long time just to get ready to cook a meal. When you repeat this three times a day, there is little time left for other household duties or a much-needed rest.

It is no longer necessary for you to spend the greater part of every day in the kitchen. Just say to your hardware or furniture dealer, "I want to see a wickless Florence Kerosene Range." A brief inspection will convince you that the Florence can add leisure hours to your day.

With a Florence in the kitchen, you just touch a lighted match to the asbestos starting kindler and have a hot blue flame.

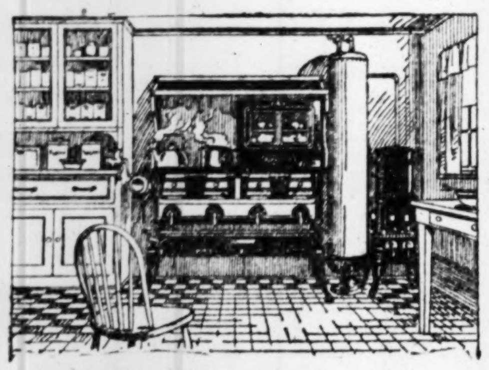
It lightens work and saves money

The Florence burns kerosene, a fuel that is cheap and always easy to get. The odorless, smokeless flame in the large, powerful burners is where the flame ought to be—close to the cooking. When your cooking is done, you simply turn off the heat. No heat is lost, no fuel is wasted. The Florence saves time, effort, and fuel bills.

The Florence Oil Range is beautifully finished in porcelain and baked-on enamel with nickel trim. Easy to clean and to keep clean. It helps you to realize your ideal of a spotless kitchen.

The Florence Leveler

Among other refinements, the Florence Oil Range has a unique feature in the Florence Leveler. By the turn of a screw you can adjust your stove so it will stand absolutely firm and level, no matter how uneven the kitchen floor may be. Make a mental note now to stop in at some furniture or hardware store the next time you go shopping and examine a Florence Oil Range.



The Florence Oil Range fits well in the modern kitchen. It is good to look at and easy to keep clean.

More Heat Less Care

The Florence Oil Stove is wickless. By turning a lever you can regulate the heat as you want it.

AMERICAN "ONE-MAN" CARS AT INDIANAPOLIS

Racers of Style of Which "Marmon Wasp" Was Pioneer to Meet Foreigners.

The eleventh annual international 500-mile race on the Indianapolis Speedway May 30, will be a battle between one-man American cars and two-seated foreign cars, according to latest reports. Of approximately 35 cars already entered, 25 are American-built cars, of the one-man type, while those from overseas retain the customary provisions for a mechanician.

Tommy Milton was the first to announce a one-man type of car, but he was rapidly followed by practically all other American drivers who aspire to add a few more miles to the present record of 94.48 miles per hour for the 500-mile grind.

While the one-man cars, around which the interest in the race next month will chiefly center, have been heralded as a new development, those who are familiar with speedway history recall that the one-man car made its original appearance 12 years ago when Ray Harroun drove the Marmon Wasp to victory on the Indianapolis Speedway at the then unheard-of clip of 74.61 miles per hour. The present-day speed models, like the Marmon Wasp, are built along airplane lines and follow almost in exact detail the streamline and fishtail design of which the Wasp was a sensational pioneer in 1911.

Due to the new interest which will surround the Wasp due to the present tendency toward one-man cars, the Nordyke and Marmon Company is planning a special exhibition of the famous car for the benefit of the throngs who will visit Indianapolis next month for the annual 500-mile event.

PACKARD SELECTS TEAM FOR INDIANAPOLIS RACE

The team which will drive the three Packard cars in the Indianapolis international 500-mile race, Memorial day, has been completed with the signing of a contract by Dario Resta. His selection, with Ralph de Palma and Joe Boyer, will give Packard three of the best-known race drivers in the world to pilot their diminutive racing machines.

The Packard team actually will consist of four men, besides the small army of mechanics, engineers and other experts, as Col. J. G. Vincent, vice president of engineering of the Packard company, will direct the race from the pits. The three cars have been designed and built by De Palma, working under the direction of Col. Vincent.

Resta and De Palma both have won the big Indianapolis speed classic once. Both are eager for the chance to be the first driver who has ever repeated as an Indianapolis winner. Boyer has participated several times in the long grind on the Hoosier track, and several times he has had victory snatched from him by tough breaks of luck.

NEW AUBURN MOTOR HAS EXCEPTONAL PICKUP

"Few motor car buyers ever use a speed of 60 to 70 miles an hour, but it is surprising how many men, in buying a car, feel that it should be able to attain such speeds, if they ever do want it," says Joseph Schlecht of the Mound City Motor Car Co., Auburn distributers.

"Our 6-63 models this year are equipped with a new Auburn motor, which is capable of such speeds—and the best part of it is that it is a motor of only moderate bore and piston displacement, which is fully as economical as any motor we have ever had.

"Its speed is wonderful. But it is not, of course, speed that we value most highly, but rather the liveliness and quick accelerating ability that it gives our car. That is a quality that every driver—and especially city drivers, who have to negotiate crowded traffic—appreciate."

Space for De Luxe Auto Co.

The eastern section of the steel and concrete pavilions occupied by the St. Louis County Market at Sarah and Laclede avenue, has been leased by the De Luxe Automobile Co., Oldsmobile distributors, according to an announcement of Philip H. Brockman, president of the company. There is room for 5 cars in the space. Used cars will be installed and sold from this location under the direction of William E. Murphy, manager of the used car department of the De Luxe company.

BUSINESS INCREASES 300 PCT. AT KISSEL PLANT

HARTFORD, Wis., April 28.—Production at the Kissel factories at this date shows a 300 per cent increase over three months ago, and every indication points to a still larger increase for the months of May and June. This increased production has made Hartford the center of unusual industrial activity.

Within the last three months the increase in labor at the Kissel factories has been over 100 per cent and these new men with their families have caused a scarcity of available homes and rooming houses, increasing local building activities and enlarging the business section by the addition of a new restaurant, theater, milk condensory, etc.

Since the first of the year the Kissel dealer organization has increased 50 per cent, and it is felt by officials of the factory that with the number of applications still to be closed this percentage will increase to at lease 80 to 100 per cent within two months.

Oldsmobile Meeting Tuesday.

More than 125 dealers are expected to attend the dinner and entertainment, arranged by P. H. Brockman, president of the De Luxe Automobile Co., for next Tuesday evening at 6:30 in the main dining room of the Marquette Hotel. All dealers attending handle Oldsmobiles in the De Luxe company's territory. Guy H. Peasley, sales manager of the Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Mich., is expected to speak.

BETTER TRUCKS WILL RESULT FROM NEW LAWS

Better motor trucks will result from the wave of legislative action now being discussed, according to W. L. Day, president and general manager of the General Motors Truck Co. of Pontiac, Mich.

"The motor trucks of today," Mr. Day says, "are so far superior to those of a decade ago that there can be no comparison, but, he believes, the progress is going to continue and within the next few years the people will see vastly different types.

"Many Legislatures are discussing laws to govern trucks. Some of these laws embody gasoline taxes, others weight taxes and others just plain, ordinary bills which seek to curb the motor truck's growth.

"Contrary to general belief, the truck manufacturer welcomes fair laws. They will have two effects. First, they will increase the State revenues which in turn will increase the good roads, while the roads will make the sale of motor trucks much easier.

"Secondly, they will stimulate engineers to reduce the weight of trucks and to so construct the motors that they will give greater mileage than they do now. This means better transportation, at least cost, and this, in turn, means more sales for the manufacturer.

"It is a proven fact that the sales of motor trucks will increase in exact proportion to the economy with which they can be operated for the average business man will only buy when it can be shown that the truck can save him money, over the older methods of transportation."

BUICK PLANS DO NOT INCLUDE ANY RACING

FLINT, Mich., April 28.—Telegraphic advices from the Pacific Coast that a Buick "modified stock model" driven by Joe Nikrent has established a new world record for cars under 250" piston displacement, by making a mile in 33.26 seconds, takes the mind of the enthusiastic motorist back to the years 1907 to 1911, when Bob Burman and Louis Chevrolet were establishing speed marks.

Upon receipt of the news of Nikrent's triumph, two queries come to the Buick plant: "Is Buick going back into the racing game?" and "What do they mean by 'modified' stock model?" Today E. T. Strong, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Co., made to these questions a timely reply.

"No," said Mr. Strong emphatically, "Buick has no idea of getting back into the speed game. As to the record made by Nikrent, our consent was given with reservations. The facts, we told those in charge, must be frankly stated—hence the use of the phrase 'modified stock car' in the dispatches describing this accomplishment.

"Everybody ought to know that no strictly stock car is used for making speed records. It is always readjusted. The gear ratio, for instance, is changed. As in the case of every car employed for such a purpose, these things were done with Nikrent's car. While the car was not a specially constructed racing car, neither was it, in the complete sense, a stock car. Therefore, it is quite properly called 'a modified stock car.'"

DOROTHY GISH FIRST TO RIDE IN NEW COLE

Simultaneous with the announcement that the Cole Motor Car Co. has created and built another exquisite closed model comes the announcement that the first person to enjoy a ride in this new model, other than factory officials, was Miss Dorothy Gish, who recently was making personal appearances at an Indianapolis theater.

Upon arriving in Indianapolis Miss Gish expressed a desire to ride in a Cole aero eight. When information of this reached J. J. Cole, president and general manager of the Cole Motor Car Co., he felt that it would be only fitting and proper that Miss Gish should inaugurate the new Cole Suburban.

In order to put the new model at Miss Gish's disposal it was necessary that a crew of workmen be kept at the Cole factory the entire night, but at the appointed time a wonderful new closed car was delivered for Miss Gish's approval.

STRENGTH AND SAFETY IN THE BODY OF STEEL

If you could see the main body structure of Dodge Brothers Business Coupe before the enamel is baked on, and before the interior is furnished, you would be profoundly impressed by its strength.

You would see that every panel, every pillar, and every rib is steel—that even the door sills and window mouldings are steel.

You would see that all of these parts and sections are electrically welded together into one staunch steel body, with no bolts or rivets to work loose, nothing to rattle or squeak or warp.

And you would realize that, like the all-steel Pullman coach, this unique construction—originated by Dodge Brothers for this car—represents the last word in protection to passengers—the ultimate achievement in closed car sturdiness.

The Standard of Comparison

Once A Buick Owner—Only Buick Satisfies

In every community there are a number of instances where once a Buick has been purchased by one member of a family, others of the same intimate group have become Buick owners.

Buick dependable performance, luxurious comfort and the fact that there is a type of Buick to fit every motoring need, leads to the selection of Buick as the family car.

Significant also is the fact that today a majority of new Buicks are purchased by motorists who have been Buick owners before, and for several years.

SUGGESTS GARAGE FOR OFFICE BUILDINGS

Why not a garage on the lower floors or basements of office buildings and apartment houses?

E. A. Hatfield, president of the Mississippi Valley Motor Car Co., who handle the Oakland car, believes that this is one of the many things that could be done to help remedy the motor car parking question, particularly in large cities.

He points to the fact that in Akron, O., a large building is being constructed for doctors and dentists with the lower floors designed as garage space for the tenants. This is one of the first steps taken in this direction.

MO. AUTOMOBILE CLUB CHECKS STATE ROADS

Find Highways in Greatly Improved Conditions on 1500 Mile Tour.

During the past week two road cars of the Automobile Club of Missouri have been checking and re-checking the various tourist routes over the State of Missouri and altogether have covered a mileage well in excess of 1500 miles.

The Capital highway between St. Louis and Kansas City, now known as State Route No. 12, is in exceptionally good condition, and already the maintenance work of the State Highway Department is being shown in the improved conditions of the roads. No longer do great ruts greet the motor car driver. The roads very generally are smooth with a fair percentage of new surfacing and a trip between the State's major cities can be made with a very high degree of comfort.

The National Old Trails, which has always been the leading highway between the two cities, suffers by comparison at this time, but this is due largely to a greater amount of new construction work being done on this road than on the Southern route. The major part of Old Trails is now known as State Highway No. 2, and from St. Charles into Wentzville the road via Harvester, Cottleville and Dardene, is of old macadam formation and in very bad condition. However, the new link between these two cities is under construction and there is hope that by the close of this year, the trip to Wentzville will be entirely on concrete roads.

During the summer and fall of 1922, considerable heavy grading was done on the Old Trails between Warrenton and Fulton, and just west of Warrenton there is a heavy fill, which, while it will make a beautiful grade for the new hard surfaced road, is a mighty bad stretch should the tourist encounter it in wet weather. Around Fulton the road is in very good shape, and it is hoped that the club will have that section running west from Fulton to Kansas City checked within the next week.

South out of Kansas City toward Joplin, the best route is still through Kansas via Fort Scott and Pittsburgh, as the major part of this road is now concrete, but work is going on on the Missouri road between these two cities and no doubt substantial improvement will be noted before summer.

From Kansas City to St. Joseph the best road is via Leavenworth and Atchison in Kansas, and from Atchison to St. Joseph in Missouri. The wonderful road between Atchison and St. Joseph is only a forecast of the future road conditions in Missouri, for it is full concrete, wide and clean.

From Hannibal westward, the Pike's Peak Ocean to Ocean Trail is in generally good shape with several detours noted, but though section after section shows the effect of the improvements in progress, the road is entirely of dirt, and is subject to the weather conditions.

East and north out of St. Louis the roads are in excellent condition, as they are primarily of concrete.

RICKENBACKER EXPECTS BUSINESS TO KEEP UP

DETROIT, Mich., April 28.—"Business will continue good as it is now until about August 1, and then—the real boom will start," says Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker.

As director of sales, as well as vice president of the automobile concern that bears his name, Rickenbacker is one of the most-traveled executives in the industry.

Capt. Rickenbacker has made no less than two transcontinental round trips since Dec. 1, and in addition, has covered the New England and Southeastern States and Texas, visiting not only the larger distributers but innumerable associate distributers of his product in the smaller towns.

"I find that a consensus of opinion of 500 small-town dealers is an accurate guide to conditions," says the Captain.

"In the Eastern States, and as far west as Chicago, business is excellent—no abnormal demand, but still greater than the average for this time of year. In fact, the demand kept up at a remarkable rate right through last fall and winter.

"Weather conditions guarantee bumper crops again, and the farmers will undoubtedly receive high prices for grain, livestock and other products. Cotton is at a figure that means affluence for the grower.

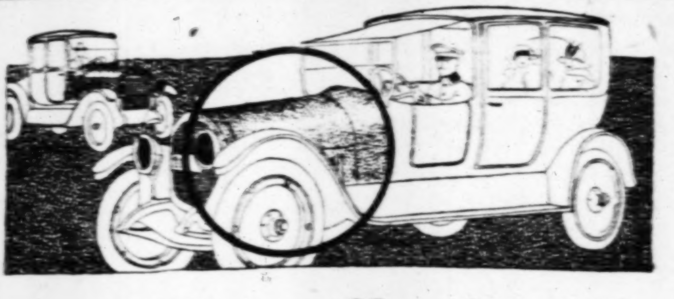
"On my last trip, I found a wonderful change west of the Mississippi, and more recently discovered the same symptoms south of the Ohio, and in all the cotton states. California is El Dorado again. A week there would make an optimist out of the most confirmed crab. Everybody west of the Rockies seems to want a new automobile.

"But, after all, the vast expanse of rich grain and stock growing country we call the Middle West is, economically as well as geographically, the backbone of America, and that empire is just coming into its own.

"That is why I predict that, with the reaping of the golden crops, from Aug. 1 on, we will see business begin to boom as we of this generation have never seen it before."

New Sign at Johnson Co.

The Johnson Automobile Co., Ford and Lincoln dealers, have a new attractive Lincoln sign on their service lot east of the salesroom of the company on Olive street near Grand. A new fence and handsome new lights also add to the good looks of the company's home.



The dull, gray film that kills the appearance of your car

--how to remove it!

As many dealers will tell you, Trade Value is 50 per cent APPEARANCE!

ASIDE from considerations of good grooming, or of pride, good appearance has a definite commercial value. Whether it be automobiles or big red apples, a higher value is placed on that which looks the part. Observe the apple merchant, rubbing up his wares. He knows. Furthermore, he "cashes" on his knowledge. An investment in appearance, does pay - and pays BIG!

Laboratory solves film removal!

Careful laboratory tests revealed the nature of the milky film that saps 50 per cent from the value of motor cars. And proved, that the ordinary furniture polish, or any "oily" paste or polish, was entirely inadequate for out-of-doors conditions. In fact, it was found that oil in combination with dust and atmospheric action largely contributed to the film's formation. Hence, COMMON SENSE AUTO POLISH, The Greaseless Cleanser was developed; and perfected through practical tests on thousands of motor cars throughout the country. Results obtained with COMMON SENSE AUTO POLISH prove it immeasureably superior for the purpose intended; and explain why it monopolizes the sale of polish in every district where introduced.

What Common Sense is

COMMON SENSE is a non-greasy, non-sticky liquid that quickly removes the film, and restores to the finish - if any of it remains - the brilliant sparkle of the original factory luster. This, plus an absolutely Bone-dry, dust proof surface - water and weather resistant - has created a Standard of Performance. And, established COMMON SENSE, as "The Standard Auto Polish of America".

How an Investment of $1.00 Will Add $150.00 to the Appearance of Your Car.

The first application of Common Sense Auto Polish will add at least $150.00 to the appearance of your car. But will cost you only $1.00! Your nearest Druggist or Accessory Dealer has it or can get it for you, promptly. You are urged to insist on Common Sense, even if you must send direct to the Laboratory. $1.00 will bring you a supply by return mail, postpaid. Testing Sample 12c postage. Address

No corroded terminals if your battery is Camel-ized

—A burned out generator is an expensive repair job. A corroded terminal is responsible in many instances for this generator trouble, due to the fact that corrosion insulates the current from the battery. A Camel-ized battery has no liquid to slop or spill—terminals cannot corrode.

A Safe and Delightful Car for the Woman Who Drives

The striking low hung bodies of the Columbia Specialized Sixes quickly catch the eye of any woman, but it is not until she actually drives the car and feels the silent power respond to her finger touch control that this fine car makes its full appeal.

So powerful and yet so completely under the driver's control; with brakes that are so positive in action, so easy to handle in traffic—the Columbia Six is an unusually safe and delightful car for a woman to drive.

For the Standard Touring Car the price is $985, the Special Six Touring comes at $1095, the Phaeton at $1135, the Two-Passenger Coupe at $1295, the Five-Passenger Sedan at $1465, and the Special Sport at $1395—each car an unmatched value at its price. Come in at your convenience.

EMAND FOR CARS IS NOW UNPRECEDENTED

That the unprecedented demand r motor cars all over the country, ulting in delayed deliveries de- te the breaking of production cords by many factories, will con- ue throughout 1923, is the predic- n of R. C. Frampton of the Hud- -Frampton Motor Car Co., Hud- n and Essex dealers.

Every effort will be made to keep liveries as prompt as possible, Mr. ampton said, and he added that e demand for moderately priced closed cars is overwhelming.

"The one big thing that has lped Hudson and Essex," he said, s been the manufacture of the ch models. We are particularly tunate in being able to handle se coach bodies in large volume, d therefore oblige our purchasers th prompt deliveries."

"BUY YOUR CAR NOW," ADVICE OF DEALER

"Every individual who contemplates the purchase of a new car should buy now," is the advice given by John Boe of the Saint Louis Motor Car Co., local Cleveland six distributor. "Fundamental business conditions and the rising raw material market point to higher automobile prices.

"Practically every manufacturer of motor cars is facing the same situation. Automobile prices cannot stay down if material prices continue to advance by leaps and bounds as they have been during the last few months.

"A brief resume of recent happenings in the raw material market will serve to substantiate the claim that prices of materials are on the upward trend. Cotton is practically double in price. Hides have advanced 3½ cents per pound in the last year. Tin has jumped from 29 cents to 42 cents per pound. Copper is 25 per cent higher. Lead is about double its last year price. Basic pig iron is quoted around $28 from $18, while Bessemer steel billets have risen from $28 to $40. Aluminum shows a rise of 28 per cent.

"These are facts that stare us all squarely in the face. They cannot be overlooked. In some way or another a part or all of the entire list just mentioned enter into the construction of every motor car. How, then, can automobile prices remain statoinary when the motor car manufacturer is obliged to pay more for raw materials? This is the question—a much mooted subject right now in automotive circles. Automobile buyers should be quick to see the handwriting on the wall. The advice of those qualified to judge is to buy now and realize a saving."

Packard Salesroom Open Evenings.

The salesroom of the Berry Motor Car Co., Packard distributors, is now open every evening until 9 o'clock. This announcement was made last week by G. M. Berry, president of the local company.

Mistakes Will Happen.

Never misjudge the gear shift of the car for the emergency brake, nor the foot accelerator for the clutch pedal.

ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR VICTOR MOTORS, INC.

St. Louis-made taxicabs at every railway station is the vision of a local manufacturer.

At a party given in his honor recentlyl, Guy Wilson, who with associates six years ago, founded the Traffic Motor Truck Corporation in St. Louis, made known his completed plans for the new $3,000,000 truck corporation recently organized here with Wilson at its head.

The company, which is known as the Victor Motors Inc., is making a departure of truck manufacture in that they will specialize in three distinct types of trucks—the heavy duty, the speed truck and the taxicab. The factory when completed will, according to Wilson, employ in the neighborhood of 2000 men. St. Louis was picked as the site according to officials of the companay, after an exhaustive survey of the entire country because of its splendid location. Labor conditions in St. Louis, Wilson advised, are the most favorable of any large city.

Sherman H. Dorsey, former chief engineer of the Traffic company and designer of the Kelly-Springfield and Armleader trucks is vice president of the company.

All three types of trucks have been fully designed and the first will appear within 30 days, it was stated. Buda and Hercules motors will be used in the various types. Bevel gear and double reduction type axles to be used on all trucks are already designed.

COLUMBIA MOTORS IS BREAKING ALL RECORDS

From D. J. Willoughby, sales manager of Columbia oMtors Co., Detroit, makers of the Columbia Specialized Six, comes a statement that this company has more than doubled sales every month this year, as compared with the same months in 1922.

"In March," says Willoughby in a letter to the Advance Motor Car Co., St. Louis distributers, "the Columbia Motor Co. shipped more cars than in any other single month since the institution started eight years ago. And April looks like a bigger month than March."

Franklin Trebles Sales.

Franklin dealers sold practically three times as many new Franklin cars during the first quarter of this year as they sold during the same quarter in 1922, according to a statement just issued by the Franklin factory.

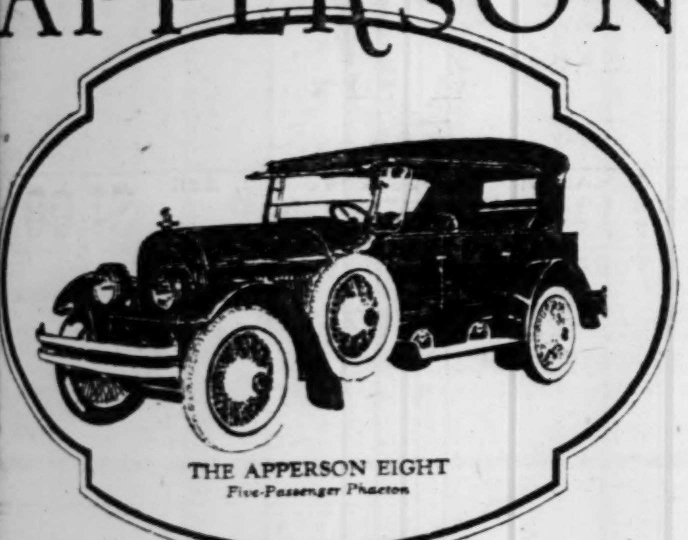
The New APPERSON



THE APPERSON EIGHT
Five-Passenger Phaeton

No Other Car Has These Features

—a mechanical gear-shift which makes it impossible to "clash" the gears;

—a driver's compartment that is free from all levers;

—an emergency brake that operates from the instrument board.

These advantages are exclusive with the new Apperson. Nothing introduced in motor car development within the last ten years is comparable to this new gear-shift. It is a safety, comfort and convenience factor of immeasurable importance.

This new Apperson is the finest of a fine line. Its driving feel, its effortless control, the feeling of confidence and dependability which it inspires are resultant of the thirty years of fine engineering behind it. It is just the kind of a car which invites the rider to drive on and on—oblivious to all things mechanical.

Apperson has eliminated the most objectionable feature of driving—shifting gears. In this new Apperson, even the most inexperienced driver feels confident and unafraid, whether on the busiest streets or the roughest country roads.

When you sit behind the wheel of this car you will know why old Apperson owners invariably buy another Apperson.

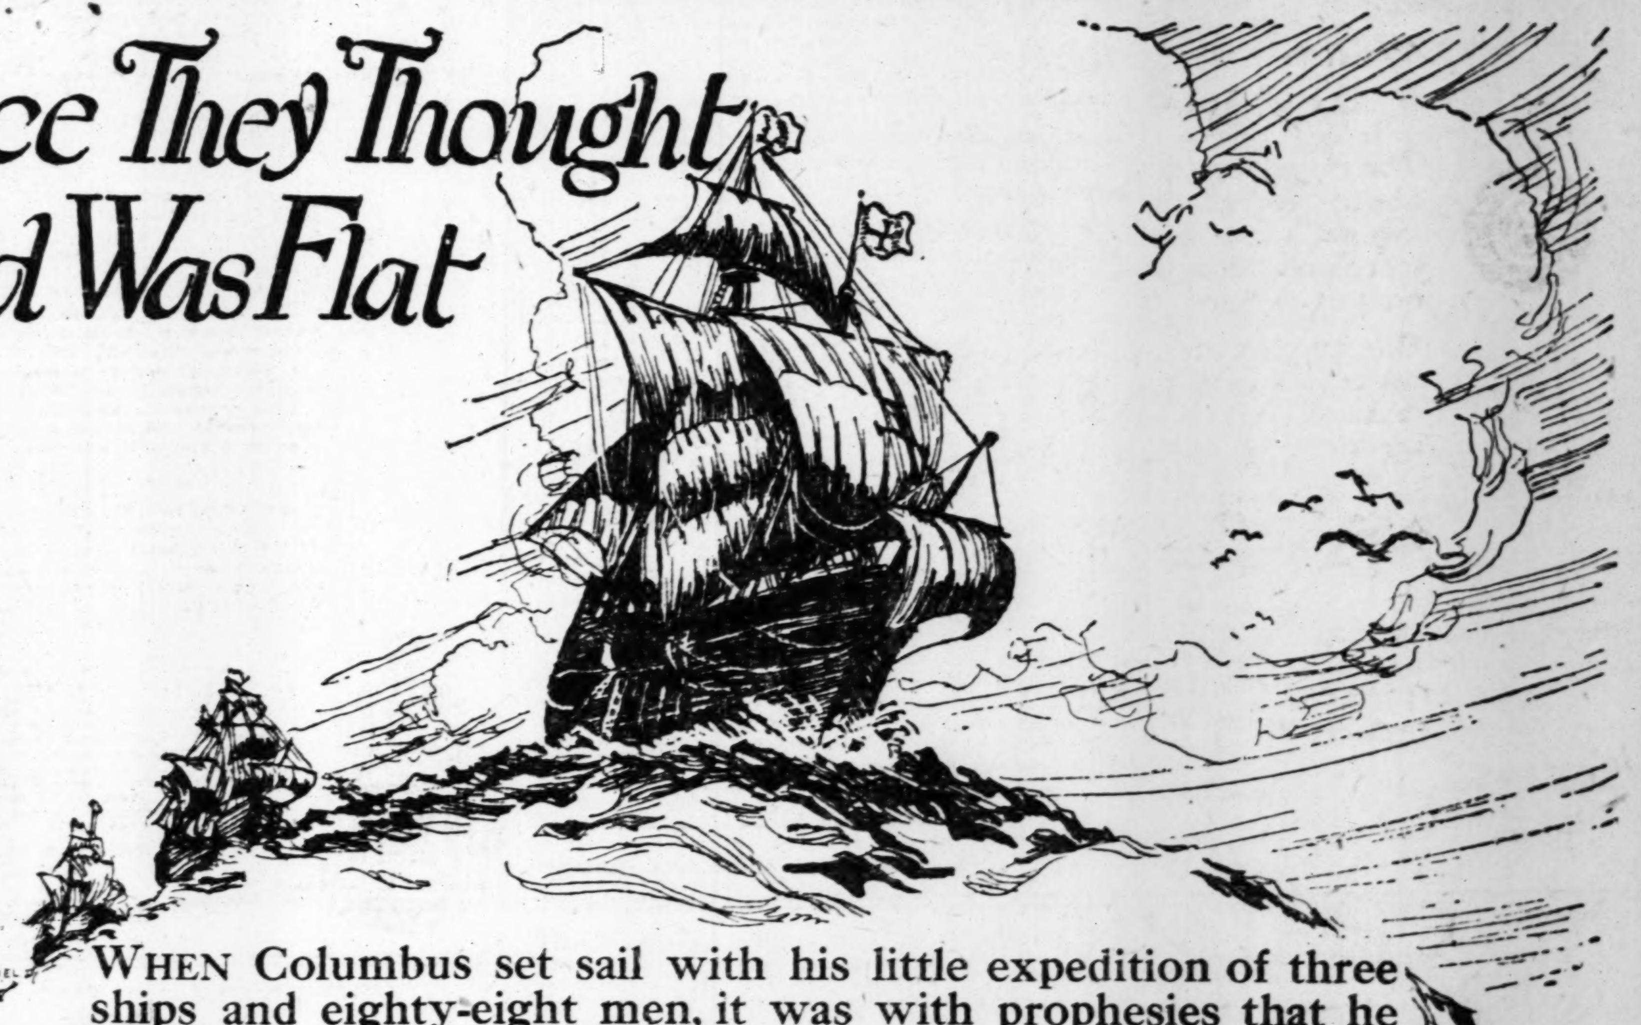
And Once They Thought The World Was Flat



The Incident of Columbus and the Egg

WHEN Columbus was before the geographical council endeavoring to secure support for his expedition; a skeptic scoffed, "You can no more sail around the world than you can stand an egg on end."

Then Columbus showed his originality of mind. Securing an egg, he brought it down sharply onto the council table and it remained vertical.

Simply further proof that success and progress have always been due to open minds. What seemed impossible yesterday is accomplished today.

And so today Cole, with an economic idea as sound as was Columbus' theory, has at one stroke removed the waste and extravagance in automotive merchandising by eliminating the "Trade-In" evil.

COLE Merchandising Plan

WHEN Columbus set sail with his little expedition of three ships and eighty-eight men, it was with prophesies that he would disappear over the edge of a flat world.

¶ Two months and nine days later he had discovered the New World, proved his conviction that the world is round, and established one of the most important facts in History.

Now Cole Proves That Automobile Prices Can Be Lowered Without Sacrificing Quality

When Cole conceived and announced the Plan to sell Cole Aero-Eights at a net price instead of a list price, it was as revolutionary an idea as was that of Columbus 531 years ago.

Accustomed to high distribution costs, which have dominated America's third largest industry by an economically unsound practice, many were slow to appreciate the fundamental soundness of the Cole Merchandising Plan.

But in less than 60 days, thanks to the speed of modern thought and news, the public, the press and financial world enthusiastically endorsed the plan.

The Cole Plan has proved that a quality car can be sold at a price never before deemed possible, simply by removing an extravagant waste.

Whether or not you have an old car, remember that Cole saves you from $800 to $1000 by his Merchandising Plan. Consult your local Cole Dealer and let him show you just how this is done.

MOTOR CAR BUNGALOWS MORE PREVALENT NOW

"The rapid strides that have been made within the last few years in the perfection of traveling homes, or 'auto bungalows,' as they are sometimes called, leads one to believe that Americans are at least one part gypsy," says H. F. Fahrenkrog, of the Kardell Motor Car Co.

Mr. Fahrenkrog has just received from Los Angeles a description of one of the latest types of speed wagon traveling homes. This description plainly indicates the advancement in construction of these so-called "auto bungalows." Fully equipped, the house weighs but little more than the average automobile body. It is built chiefly of wood, with metal bracings. Included in its equipment are two double spring beds; washing sink, gas stove, table (folding), storage cupbord and cooling cupboard. It is electrically lighted from the generator operated by the motor.

BERRY MOTOR CAR CO. DIRECTORATE CHANGED

William H. Bixby, of the brokerage firm of G. H. Walker Co., and Fred J. Berkeley, who has been selling Packards in St. Louis for more than seven years, have been elected directors of the Berry Motor Car Co., Packard distributers. Berkley has also been appointed assistant sales manager by G. M. Berry, president of the company.

E. S. Maddock, who has been vice president and treasurer of the firm, has resigned both offices and returned to New York City. He remains a director. Eugene Angert of St. Louis, who was temporarily filling the position of secretary, has also left the company and his place has been taken by S. C. McCluney of McCluney & Co.

VELIE OFFICIAL CAR OF N. J. STATE POLICE

An initial order for 10 Velie model 58 touring cars has been awarded the Stacy-Trent Motor Corporation, Velie dealers in Trenton, N. J., by the New Jersey State Commission. The State purchasing department recommended the Velie, based upon tests, tryouts and actual demonstrations. The Velies were purchased for the State police, or constabulary, and will be in constant travel over the roads and highways of New Jersey.

"A signal honor has come to the Velie in this selection," said H. L. Schnure, the local eVlie dealer. "Its worth is openly recognized. Twenty-one different makes of cars tried for the business. The Velie won decisively. Referring to the award the New York Herald said, 'The Velie was put to a severe test and its power plant particularly scored very heavily with the New Jersey officers.'"

When you are traveling at a chosen rate of speed, don't "speed up" because someone attempts to pass you.

America Wins Nine More World's Records

At McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, a little after nine-thirty, Monday morning, April 16th, Lieutenants John A. Macready and Oakley Kelly in a Fokker Monoplane, having a Liberty engine Delco-equipped, started a series of record-breaking performances, such as have never been known before in the history of aeronautics.

For 36 long, continuous hours, night and day, these men piloted their ship in a sustained flight of over 2500 miles, shattering six world's records for endurance, distance and speed—a terrific test of the durability of this plane's mechanical and electrical equipment.

At the same time, Lieutenant Harold R. Harris, in a stock DeHavilland plane, broke the world's speed record for 1500 and 2000 kilometers, averaging a speed of 49 miles per hour faster than the previous French record.

To complete the day's triumphs, Lieutenant Rutledge Irvine broke the world's altitude record for planes carrying a dead weight, flying over 11,000 feet with a weight of over 2400 pounds.

These nine great victories still further establish the position of unquestioned leadership held by the United States in airplane accomplishments.

These wonderful records bring splendid credit to America, to the Liberty engines which operated these planes and to the designers, mechanics and flyers, who had to do with these remarkable performances.

And, once more, world record breaking events have proved that Delco is the world's foremost electrical automotive equipment—for all of these planes were equipped with Delco Ignition.

SHOULD SOUND HORN FIVE SECONDS AWAY

Engineer Gives Suggestions on How to Judge Distance and Warn Pedestrians.

"Five seconds—that is the distance in terms of time that every automobile driver should remember—for the automobile horn should be sounded five seconds' distance from the person or persons to be warned in order to give them sufficient time to get out of the way," says H. W. Henry, chief engineer of the Klaxon company.

In case of a motorist driving in the congested business sections of a city, where trucks are often encountered, it is advisable to sound the horn 10 seconds before reaching any given point of traffic congestion. During night driving the horn should be sounded frequently to let the driver ahead know where you are.

The main point I wish to make is that the average motorist today does not sound his horn in time to warn pedestrians and automobile drivers, and that he is not a particularly good judge of distances.

The two most important elements in any discussion of the proper time to sound a horn are the rate of speed at which sound travels and the rate of speed at which the automobile is traveling when the horn is sounded. Sound travels at the rate of 1100 feet per second.

It is necessary, of course, to translate five seconds' time into terms of distance. It is apparent that when an automobile is traveling at the rate of 50 miles per hour, or 73 feet a second, that the automobile horn should be sounded earlier than when the automobile is traveling at the rate of 10 miles per hour, or 14 feet a second.

Take a speed of 15 miles an hour as the average for city driving. At 15 miles an hour a car travels 22 feet a second. The warning should be given at a distance of 110 feet.

The next important speed to remember is 30 miles an hour—as it is at this or slightly higher speed that intercity and cross-country traveling is done. At this speed the car travels 44 feet per second. Less than 220 feet notice is not enough.

There is no reason why the sounding of the horn five seconds' distance from any given dangerous point should not become a habit. The street car motorman sounds his bell before coming to an intersecting street considerably before he reaches that point. Why not the motorist, instead of continually slamming on his brakes when he is on top of the persons he wishes to warn?

Do not at any time follow a car traveling at a high rate of speed at less distance than 50 yards.

Remember that every time you take a chance you are gambling with the lives of other people as the stakes.

RECORD-MAKING PLANES ARE DELCO-EQUIPPED

America can be proud of the fact that its automotive engineers are recognized as the greatest in the world. For with the shattering of all world records at Dayton, O., recently, the Liberty engine produced exclusively by automobile engineers in this country, has been recognized as the greatest aviation motor of all time.

Six world speed records, continuous flying, distance flying and weight-altitude records, a total of nine records, all fell to American aviators, driving planes motored with Liberty engines, Delco equipped.

Tires With 500 Nail Holes Leak No Air

Mr. B. Milburn of Chicago has invented a new puncture-proof inner tube, which, in actual test, was punctured 500 times without the loss of any air. Increase your mileage from 10,000 to 12,000 miles without removing this wonderful tube from the wheel, and the beauty of it all is that this new puncture-proof tube costs no more than the ordinary tube, and makes riding a real pleasure. You can write Mr. B. Milburn at 333 West 47th st., Chicago, as he wants them introduced everywhere. Wonderful opportunity for agents. If interested, write him today.

Studebaker

THE well-built car and the poorly constructed car look very much alike on the salesroom floor. Paint and varnish can cover a multitude of weaknesses in closed car construction.

But you can't ride on the paint.

The superior product begins to prove itself on the first day of use and strengthens its proof every day thereafter. At the end of a year the one car is ready to be traded in at a big depreciation. The Studebaker may not even need a fresh coat of paint.

In a Studebaker Sedan the quality is built into the job. The body will not begin to rattle or squeak after thousands of miles of hard usage. It will continue to be comfortable and easy riding and will present a fine appearance month after month as when new.

The mohair velvet plush upholstery will not be worn "shiny," the windows will still fit tightly and operate smoothly and the fittings will still be firmly in place even after thousands of miles of use.

Studebaker's quantity production of cars of quality is responsible for the low price of this Sedan.

Four wide-opening doors. Eight-day clock. Quick-action cowl ventilator. Attractive coach lamps. Heater. Mohair velvet plush upholstery. Glare-proof visor and windshield cleaner. Thief-proof transmission lock. Dome light.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

467 Jewett Sixes
Sold in St. Louis
The First Year

THAT'S a record never before equaled in the history of the motor business. Think what a fine car Jewett must be to have "arrived" so decisively in just one year!

It's the same all over the country. Over 30,000 Jewett Sixes are now in the hands of satisfied owners—and the demand is greater now than ever. Sheer value—That's the answer.

Added to the Jewett Six value, St. Louis buyers have Newell Service—a very tangible advantage, as our customers know.

Ask any of the St. Louis Jewett owners—they're listed below—their opinion of Jewett. Ask several. We'll rest the Jewett case in their hands, gladly. And listen to what they have to say about Newell service.

Then—after you have received a first-hand, unbiased opinion as to both car and service—ask us for a demonstration. No obligation, of course.

BIBLE OF 'BREECHES' EDITION LEFT TO KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY

Published in 1611. It is One of the Treasures in Bequest of the Late Ex-President.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 26.—A rare old Bible of the famous "breeches" edition, published in 1611, is one of the most remarkable treasures in the collection of books left to the University of Kentucky by the late President Emiritus James K. Patterson.

This volume derives its name from the fact that in Genesis 3:7 the last word of the verse is translated from the Hebrew into "breeches," whereas in all later editions the Hebrew word is made to read "aprons." While this Bible was printed in England several years before the Pilgrims landed in Massachusetts, it remains in a remarkable state of preservation.

Although the collection has not yet been catalogued and counted, the number of volumes is estimated to be about 2500. Stacked in one corner of the library are seven massive volumes of the Holy Bible published in 1800, which are considered invaluable. In a nearby case is a five-volume polyglot Bible, with the text written in Hebrew, Latin, Greek and German.

ANOTHER CUSTER SURVIVOR

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—One more survivor of the Custer massacre has been unearthed by the Pension Bureau.

He is Shuh-shee-ahsh, a Crow Indian, now living on the Crow reservation in Montana, and is drawing a pension for services in the Indian campaigns of 1876 and 1877. Recent investigation of his case resulted in a pension certificate being issued. He escaped by mingling with the Sioux and Cheyennes.

Korean Christian Churches Recognized.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

SEOUL, Korea, April 2.—The Korean Governor-General has notified the consular body and foreign missionaries in Korea that Christian churches in Korea now are recognized as legal institutions under the domestic laws of Japan, and that this recognition dates from April 1, 1911.

Dancer Insured Against Spectators.

VIENNA, April 9.—A dancer at a local theater appeared in such scant attire recently that a group of students, in protest, threw a gas bomb at her. She has now compelled the theater to insure her person for 2,000,000,000 crowns, or $30,000.

CONSUL TO INDIA TELLS OF TRADE OPPORTUNITY

Alexander W. Weddell Says Rewards Are Offered to American Business Men.

Alexander W. Weddell, American Consul-General in Calcutta, conferred last week with local manufacturers in the Department of Commerce Offices at 1218 Liberty Central Trust Building, on trade opportunities in India. He spoke at Friday's luncheon of the City Club and at a special dinner of the World Trade Club Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce dining room.

"There is nothing dramatic about American business in India," Weddell said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "but it offers real rewards to the business man who wants to go into it. The Bemis Bag Co. and the American Manufacturing Co., St. Louis concerns, have found it profitable to buy jute and gunny-sacking on the market, and jute is eighth in value of the inbound shipping of the Federal barge line.

"A hindrance has been the type of representative chosen for that Oriental country. A tombstone in Calcutta is said to bear the epitaph: 'Here lies a fool who tried to hurry the East.' The hustler not only fails to impress the Orient, but simply consumes himself with impatience.

"When I first took the post at Calcutta I fired the whole office force because they found it out of the question to get down by 9:30 a. m. The next week I took them back. The others were worse.

"Business there is peculiarly a social thing. Contracts are largely with British and a few of the larger Indian firms. The representative must be thoroughly versed in the uses of a visiting card.

"The cities have large foreign colonies. Calcutta has modern apartments, electric lights and such conveniences, and all the amenities. There is a considerable club life, and every sport, including the oldest golf club in the world outside of Scotland—established in 1827. An extraordinary amount of time is spent in recreation, but that is necessary to Europeans in the Indian climate.

Cities Small Part of Life.

"The cities are a small part in the life of the country. The population is 330,000,000, of which at the very lowest 75 per cent get their living out of the soil. The country is tremendously rich in the aggregate, but desperately poor per capital population.

"Logically, the first demands are food and clothing at low prices. In exporting food to India the Americans at once runs up against the caste proposition. About 250,000,000 will not touch food except it be prepared by a Brahmin. The food that Americans can sell there, with the exception of that 'not touched by [illegible]an hands,' must go to the limited foreign population and the better class Mohammedans.

"St. Louis, as a shoe manufacturing center, is especially interested in the fact that shoes made from cowleather will not be worn because the cow is a sacred animal.

Market for Hardware.

"Now you want to know what the the market does offer for America and especially St. Louis. There is a large and growing market for hardware, of which this country sells $500,000 worth yearly to India, and a growing though not large market for electrical appliances of all kinds. All the smaller manufactured products also have a promising field."

Weddell said that American purchases from India grew from $71,000,000 in 1913 to $145,000,000 in 1920, and sales from $15,000,000 to $120,000,000. The country is turning very slowly from almost exclusively agricultural activity to industrialism, he said, citing the establishment in the interior of a steel plant, financed by Indians and directed by Americans, employing 50,000 natives. The country passed through a critical period in the last two years, but now is slowly improving—"and the slowness probably is one of the encouraging features of the improvement."

FEDERATION OF MUSICIANS TO MEET HERE NEXT MONTH

Concert by 150-Piece Band to Be Given, According to Tentative Program.

The American Federation of Musicians will hold its annual convention at Hotel Chase May 14—17.

Tuesday, May 17. It will be held at that hour to accommodate local musicians, many of whom play in theaters.

Frank Gecks is president of the local musicians' union, host to the convention. Henry J. Falkenhainer is chairman of the Committee on Arrangements.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Quickly Heals Sores and Conquers Piles

Also Stops Itching of Eczema Almost Immediately.

"Peterson's Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—I want to tell you how much I do love Peterson's Ointment for the good it has done me. My sore was on my left leg, was 4½ inches by 2¼ inches wide—is all healed up beautifully now and then, too, it was so soothing on such a raw sore. I can't say enough praise for the good it has done me and will say a good word in your salve's favor." Very truly yours, Miss Kate Kull, Sigel, Ill.

"I'd rather get a letter like that," says Peterson of Buffalo, "than have John D. Rockefeller give me a thousand dollars. It does me a lot of good to be able to be of use to my fellow man.

"For years I have been selling through druggists a large box of PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 35 cents. The healing power in this ointment is marvelous. Eczema goes in a few days. Old sores heal up like magic; piles that other remedies do not seem to relieve are speedily conquered."

It stops chafing in five minutes and for scalds and burns it is simply wonderful.

HOW TO GIVE YOURSELF A PERFECT MASSAGE AT HOME EASILY NOW

Beauty Expert Gives Simple Way to Keep the Face Lovely and Cheeks Rosy.

The impression you make at the party, dance or when you meet new acquaintances depends almost entirely on your complexion. Most any fault is overcome by a clear, rosy, pleasing and overwhelming complexion. Therefore follow this advice, and benefit by the experience of thousands of girls and women who are doing it.

First, clean your skin thoroughly by using Black and White Cleansing Cream. When all the powder and accumulated dirt has been rubbed out, wring out a towel in water as hot as your hands can stand. Put this over the face and let it steam for a few seconds. Repeat this several times. Then rub into the skin a little Cold Cream with a circular motion of the finger tips. Wipe off that which is not quickly absorbed by the pores, and rinse the face with cold water. This will close the pores, keep in all the oils which the Cold Cream supplies to the skin, and starts the circulation in your face which brings out the roses in your cheeks.

Now use a little Black and White Peroxide Cream as a protection for just what you have done and as a base for your powder. Get your looking glass and see what a lovely, youthful and charming complexion you have and you didn't have to go to an expensive Beauty Parlor, or take so near as much of your time as some women do who use expensive treatments, but don't get any better results than you will here.

TO SEEK $132,000 FOR TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT

Society Is Not Connected With Community Fund—Expansion of Work Planned.

The Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis expended $27,000 in the city and St. Louis County during the first three months of this year, according to a report recently made to the directors. This expenditure was for promotion of health and prevention of disease in the city and county.

The organization derives its revenue from contributions, sale of Christmas seals, and a benefit baseball game. The Tuberculosis Society does not share in the Community Fund. Its officers have stated, in this connection, that the society's work is large educational and that its program requires the moral and financial support of a large number of persons.

The society last year had 44,250 contributors and many of these received its educational bulletin. The officers doubted whether the educational program could be carried out so thoroughly if the society were enrolled in the Community Fund.

An increase in activities is planned for this year, and the financial objective is $132,000, instead of the $105,000 raised last year. Reports of the principal committees were made to the directors at the recent meeting.

The Night and Day Camp, for girls not actually suffering from tuberculosis, has been running full capacity, and more than 50 girls were restored to health there in the last three months. The Open Air School Committee plans an open air school for negro children, and at least one more such school for white children. In the last three months there were 225 children in the open air school and the society was paying for the meals of about half of them. The Board of Education furnishes all but the food.

The Educational Committee has been active in teaching personal hygiene in the schools. Health movies are being shown in the schools and before parents' organizations.

The St. Louis County committee is giving physical examinations to school children. The medical social service committee has done follow-up work for camp girls and school children. The Institutional Efficiency Committee has worked with public institutions and with city officials for the enlargement of those institutions.

The Legislative Committee strove, unsuccessfully, to establish a State hospital for consumptive negroes and another for white patients. The advisory medical staff is supporting a clinic in part and is directing nursing work and public health lectures.

LONDON PERAMBULATOR RACE HELD CRUELTY TO CHILDREN

Public Sentiment Opposes Use of Famous Sporting Course for Contest Among Mothers.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 28.—Public sentiment in England seems to be that the use of the London to Brighton highway as a sporting course has been overdone, the last straw being a race over the 50-mile route of a number of mothers wheeling their infants in parambulators.

One of England's sporting features for some years has been the annual walk of stock brokers over this route, but these are grown men trained for the event. Since the war several companies of infantry in heavy and light marching equipment have contested the stretch and those also were considered legitimate stunts. Then came a race of one-legged soldiers, which was regarded as a painful exhibition rather than good sport. The climax was the perambulator race which required more than 12 hours, with the infants meanwhile in imminent peril of passing motor cars, according to critics of the affair.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children brought proceedings in the Brighton Police Court against the participants and Mrs. Edwards of Manchester, one of the entries, and also the promoter of the race, was summoned to appear in court this week with her husband. They failed to present themselves, however.

The prosecuting attorney for the society said a strong view was taken of the matter. For a child to be subjected to "such suffering," he declared, could not be called sport. The Edwards baby, he pointed out, is only 4 months old, but was 14 hours on the road.

SPENDS 'PREMIER NIGHT' IN JAIL

French Drama Author Has Dreaded "First Night" Settled by Police.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 28.—Playwrights have many times nervously awaited the verdict of a first-night audience in the wings off stage, others sit in cafes across the street from the theater where the premiere is given, while some have been known to spend the hectic hours in nearby motion picture houses, but one French dramatic author recently had the unusual experience of passing the dreaded "first night" in jail, where he was informed that his play was a huge success.

Brutus Mercereau wrote and staged a play called "Claude Voinet," but when conducting the last dress rehearsal, policemen entered the theater, arrested him and lodged him in La Sante Prison. The cause was an article he had written for a newspaper, the Government considering it seditious.

Matters of Current Interest to St. Louis Lovers of Art

TWENTY-SEVEN examples of mosaic art, some of which are of German execution, are on exhibit in the delivery hall of the St. Louis Public Library. They are loaned by a local glass company.

Such an exhibition as this is highly educational, not only to co-workers in the craft and to designers, but also the great multitude that take mosaic work in public buildings somewhat for granted, without stopping to consider its significance.

Mosaic art is said to have originated in Egypt 7000 years ago. Authorities do not agree as to the exact date or the place. The word "mosaic" is a Greek word meaning a paved grotto. The existence of a large public building in Athens, generously ornamented with mosaic, which was built in the fifth century, B. C., strengthens the claim that the art was primarily Greek.

The earliest existing examples of the art of fitting together various small pieces of glass, colored stones and clays, marbles, etc., are cloisonne enamels. Ancient jewelry often contained intricately executed bits of enamel ornament. The process was broadened and was used to decorate chairs, tables, taborets and other objects in the homes of the wealthy, as well as in public buildings. Much gorgeous inlay work in carved ivory was done, the settings often being not only of colored glass and marble, but of lapis-lazuli, rare brilliants and often great jewels.

The materials used in mosaic varied in different countries. It is quite to be expected, therefore, that the finest of mosaics are found in Northern Africa, the country richest in fine marble and beautiful stones. Many of the stones used in present day mosaics are manufactured compounds made by secret formulas.

The modern method of working mosaic is exactly opposite to the ancient. Antique mosaics were made by first preparing a bed of soft mortar on which was traced, by means of a fine pointed tool, the design to be executed. Then the colored stones were pressed into the soft plaster and the whole allowed to dry. Afterwards, the rough surface was ground down to a smooth plane.

The modern process is the reverse. As is shown in the exhibit of a mosaic panel in construction, instead of beginning with the face of the panel, the work begins on the reverse side. The small pieces of colored glass are arranged, face downward, the backs of the stones being turned upward. The faces of the stones, therefore, all lie flat. Soft mortar is poured over the mass and allowed to dry. When it is set, the entire panel may be lifted up, turned over, and the front surface found completed.

Medieval mosaics dealt for the most part with the adaptation of the process of inlay to the decoration of walls, ceilings and pavements. It also became more highly pictorial, owing, no doubt, to the opportunity for symbolic and religious illustration.

With the erection of innumerable churches and cathedrals the field for the art broadened. The craft was so well adapted to colorful decoration on a large scale, that its effect was desired for ecclesiastical buildings.

Although mosiac still retains its potentialities in the field of brilliant ornamenation, its importance has dwindled because of its impracticability in relation to modern architecture. It is hardly appropriate for ornament in private homes, except for occasional garden ponds and swimming pools, where it is used as tiling. It is still used in the decoration of theater foyers, important public buildings and churches, but its general use has been replaced by more practical or adaptable forms of art.

However, the beauty of fine mosaic is everlasting, and appreciation of the skill of its execution and of the color-sense of its craftsmen, will probably never die.

BECAUSE of the Western Arts convention to be held at Hotel Chase, May 1-4, the City Art Museum has arranged for the exhibition of work by students of Washington University School of Fine Arts to be extended over that period. The St. Louis School of Fine Arts draws its pupils from surrounding communities, as well as from the city. Awards in this exhibition have been decided, although they will not be announced until the end of the school term in June.

THE City Arts Museum is rapidly increasing in popularity as a place for club lectures. Tomorrow the Book Club will meet there to hear a lecture by A. Blair Ridington. Other club meetings are scheduled for May.

AN exhibit of lithographs, wood cuts, photographs, etchings and linoleum cuts by members of "The Stowaways," a small print club in New York, will be the May display in the art department of the public library. This group of prints will remain on view until after the close of the convention of the American Federation of Art.

MONOGRAM SLIPPER POPULAR

Letters Made in Eyelets Latest Fad Among Parisian Women.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 28.—Styles in shoes are occupying the French feminine mind to a greater extent than in former years. The styles are becoming more intricate, not only in the matter of design, but in the blending of different kinds and grades of leather. Bronze afternoon and evening slippers are just now very popular in Paris. The evening slippers continue to be cut away at the side, leaving little of the foot covered, and the same cut is carried out in many of the shoes for day wear, but in a more conservative manner.

Brocade to match the gown, or brilliant stuff of some shade blending with the jewel ornamentation of the gown is used on many slippers for evening wear, and there is always an attempt to strike a harmonious note between costume and slippers.

One of the latest things the faddists are indulging in is a monogram slipper, with the letters made in eyelets on the vamp or outside. This is a new wrinkle, and rapidly becoming the vogue for the summer.

How to Wave Hair to Appear Naturally Curly

Apply a little liquid silmerine with a clean tooth brush just before doing up the hair. This will impart a bright luster suggestive of "hidden sunshine," and the hair will have a delightful wave, perfectly natural in appearance, that will last for days. It will prove beneficial to the hair, instead of making it brittle and dead looking as the hot iron does. Instead of your tresses being limp and contrary, you will find them quite easy to do up in any style, and there will be no odor, grease or stickiness about the hair. Ask your druggist for a few ounces of the liquid silmerine, which will [illegible]

What I Have Learned in 47 Years Practice

I HAVE been watching the results of constipation for 47 years, since I began the practice of medicine back in 1875. I am now 83 years old, and though from time to time the medical profession makes some wonderfully interesting experiments and tests, the fundamentals of causes and relief in this particular ailment are unchanged.

But the people take greater interest today in their health, in diet, exercise and the drinking of water. Constipation, however, will occur from time to time no matter how one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. I believe in getting as close to nature as possible, hence my remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It is made of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. Children will not willingly take bitter things. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written me to that effect.

Over 10 million bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are now sold every year, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world. I say family laxative because all in the family can use it with safety. It is mild enough for the infant in arms, effective in the most chronic constipation of an adult. The formula is on every package.

Recently there has been a new wave of drastic physics. Calomel, a mercurial that salivates and loosens teeth, has been revived; salt waters and powders that draw needed constituents from the blood; coal tar disguised in candy form that causes skin eruptions. In a practice of 47 years I have never seen any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping, and without shock to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It lowers your strength 28 per cent, hardens the arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope but go to a druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a generous-size bottle. Take a teaspoonful that night and by morning you will be well. The cost is only about a cent a dose. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, piles, indigestion, loss of appetite or sleep, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

I REPEAT MY FREE OFFER
$10,000 worth of trial bottles of Syrup Pepsin free

Last year I agreed to spend $10,000 cash for free samples of my Syrup Pepsin, and send them free and postage paid to all who asked. A tremendous mail was the result. But there must be many who did not write. I would like to get their address this time. So I now renew my offer, in remembrance of my approaching 84th birthday, and will again devote $10,000 to free samples. I am anxious to see one in every American home. Write for yours today. Simply give me your address. Send it to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Mine is truly a free gift; it costs the public nothing.

Woman Fasts Over 50 Days

Woman Relieves Appendicitis by Fasting, Loses 50 Pounds.

A middle-aged woman in Wisconsin has just finished a fast of 56 days. She underwent the trying ordeal to relieve appendicitis and believes she has succeeded. She lost 50 pounds in weight.

A Treacherous Disease.

Appendicitis attacks at any moment even persons seemingly in good health. Usually, however, it is preceded by so-called stomach trouble, constipation or similar disturbances. Often when there is a warning feeling of uneasiness in the abdomen, appendicitis can be guarded against in exactly the same manner in which one guards against the spread of throat infection, because that is just what appendicitis is—an infection in the intestines spreading to the appendix. When one has sore throat, one can often prevent further trouble and the development of influenza or grippe, by using an antiseptic wash or gargle to fight the germs and a laxative to carry off the poisons from the body. Just exactly the same procedure is necessary to fight the intestinal germs and guard against appendicitis. But instead of an antiseptic wash for the throat, an INTESTINAL antiseptic is necessary.

Intestinal Antiseptic

There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows:

It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It is the most complete system cleanser ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removing foul matter which poisoned the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the alimentary canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much more foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports From Physicians.

"I congratulate you on the good effect I had from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. Prettyman.

"After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

ST. LOUIS MUTUAL LIFE CO. CLAIMS HONORS AS TO AGE

The St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance Co. lays claim to being the oldest old line life insurance company in the West—organized in Missouri in 1857 under a perpetual charter—and, while not the largest, it is one of the strongest life insurance companies in the world. The company has never contested a claim. Its officers long ago recognized the growth and future importance of the Olive street, Grand boulevard and Washington boulevard district, acquiring valuable frontages when property in that section was a drug on the market.

Remodeling a large three-story 14-room residence, just west of Grand boulevard, on Washington, into one of the best-appointed insurance office buildings in the city, is another evidence of the conservative management of this old St. Louis institution.

The company's officers and trustees are: Fred Kreismann, president; James M. Rohan, Otto Wilhelmy E. Tocacz, vice presidents; E. J. Meyer, secretary; Dr. Eugene Hauck, chief medical director; Jno. C. Meyers, general agent; Louis E. Dennig, Louis Nolte, Dr. John Green Jr., Nicholaus Guerdan, William Koenemann, Hugo Muench, A. J. Nulsen, William C. Uhri and Judge Robert F. Walker.

EDITOR, 86, ON JOB DAILY

Sir John Lesage of London Was War Correspondent in 1870.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 28.—The oldest working journalist in England is Sir John Lesage, managing editor of the Daily Telegraph, who on Monday last celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday. He puts in a full working day at the office six days a week and commands the admiration of his juniors for his alert mental work.

Sir John was a member of the combined staff of war correspondents of the Daily Telegraph, and the New York Herald, who reported the Franco-Prussian war in 1870, and, so far as known, he is the only surviving correspondent of that war. Within a few months Sir John will celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of the commencement of his service with the Daily Telegraph.

Convention on Steamer.

The seventeenth annual convention of the Missouri Association of Public Utilities will be held on the steamboat Harry G. Drees, which, leaving St. Louis May 24, will cruise to Peoria, and return on May 26. Stops will be made where delegates may play golf. The boat will accommodate 200 persons.

Hotel Claridge

LOCUST STREET AT 18TH
Saint Louis Mo.
R. L. Meyer—Manager

Solving the Home Problem For the Business Man or Woman

FEW HOTELS ANYWHERE, however costly their accommodations, can match the inviting, well-furnished rooms, the good service, or congenial environment you will find at Hotel Claridge.

A CONSERVATIVE MANAGEMENT has won the patronage of an especially desirable class of guests—a matter of large importance in the consideration of a permanent residence.

EVERY ROOM has combination tub and shower bath, circulating ice water, large electric fan, a double, or twin beds, good sized clothes closet, together with many other up-to-date conveniences for your comfort. And the range of rates on a permanent basis is especially interesting, viz.: $17.50, $21.00 and $24.50 per week for one or two guests.

THE COST OF MEALS enters of course into all calculations; a popular price restaurant and self-service cafeteria help to solve this problem.

The Cafe service consists of club luncheon daily at 75c, from 12:00 to 2:00 P. M.; a satisfying table d'hote dinner at $1.35, served from 6:00 to 8:00 P. M.; and on Sunday $1.50, from 12:00 noon to 8:00 P. M. Service a la carte at all times.

The Self-Service Cafeteria maintains a high standard of food and service at very reasonable prices.

ANOTHER ITEM of importance is the convenient location, five minutes from the heart of the business district and from all centers of amusement; also convenient garage facilities.

CONVENTION OF WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET HERE

Missouri and St. Louis League Organizations to Gather May 15 to 17.

The Missouri and St. Louis organizations of the League of Women voters will hold their annual convention at the Hotel Claridge on May 15, 16 and 17.

Nominations for officers of the St. Louis league have been announced by the Nominating Committee, in advance of the city convention. The three nominees for the three associate presidencies are Mrs. D. O. Ives, Independent, incumbent; Miss Florence Weigle, Republican; Mrs. Roscoe Anderson, Democrat. Additional groups of three nominees may be placed on the ticket by petition of 15 members.

Sixteen nominees have been placed on the ticket for vice presidents, including Mrs. N. David Thompson, Mrs. C. W. Swingley, Mrs. Irvin Bettman, Mrs. A. S. Rauh, Mrs. A. J. Goodwin, Mrs. Corinne Jenkins, Mrs. Evarts Graham, Mrs. Walter Diehm, Mrs. Philip Hammer, Mrs. Ollie Ballman, Mrs. Laura S. Edwards, Mrs. J. T. Addis, Miss May Shannon, Mrs. M. J. Gill, Mrs. William V. Schevill and Mrs. C. E. Van Barneveld.

All St. Louis members are entitled to a vote in the city convention, but the St. Louis League will have only 50 votes in the State convention.

Miss Ruth Morgan of New York, chairman of the Committee on International Co-Operation to Prevent War, appointed by the National League of Women Voters, will give an address Tuesday evening at Sheldon Memorial on "International Co-Operation." At noon Tuesday she will conduct a round table discussion at the College Club, 5128 Delmar boulevard, on the part women can take in preventing war.

Celebrating Our Sixteenth Anniversary With Profit-Sharing Reductions

SIXTEEN years ago the firm of Prufrock-Litton was established to sell Dependable Furniture at a Fair Price—operate a store where homemakers could buy both safely and economically. Today, the greatest asset this firm has is the Faith of the Public—well merited by sixteen years of Truth and Service.

BECAUSE we have devoted our entire energies to one line of endeavor—we know furniture—how to make it—how to buy it—how to sell it at savings which have made for us many friends. And it seems fitting that our friends should participate in the celebration of our sixteen successful years in business. We know of no better way than by letting them share in our profits.

WE are therefore offering in this, our Sixteenth Annual Anniversary Sale, worthwhile reductions on Dining Room, Living Room and Sleeping Room Furniture. May and June brides should grasp this opportunity to furnish a home at substantial savings.

=Editorial=

A Priceless Combination!

"REPUTATION is what the world THINKS of us; CHARACTER what it KNOWS of us," and it is easily possible for individuals in any walk of life to build both at the same time.

Hurry not, however, to the goal of REPUTATION at the expense of CHARACTER.

Lasting achievements are never hurried to completion, so build with patience and earnestness and you will leave after you a REPUTATION and a CHARACTER combined, conscientiously built, which will be a perpetual inspiration for all mankind.

(Signed)

Harry Prufrock

ST. LOUIS SYNDICATE PURCHASES GARDEN COURT APARTMENTS

Deal Directed by Paul Jones Jr., Who, It Is Said, Will Head Company—Building Cost $450,000.

SHORTAGE REPORTED IN FLATS AND HOUSES

Northeast Corner of Market and 17th Streets Is Sold to A. Groner—Demand for Space Downtown.

By Berry Moore.

A St. Louis syndicate yesterday concluded negotiations for the Garden Court Apartments, recently constructed on the south side of Delmar boulevard, just west of Union boulevard and the Westminster Presbyterian Church. The deal was brought about by Paul Jones Jr., who promoted the building project and who, it is understood, will head the syndicate. The identity of the other members of the syndicate will be withheld until all the details in connection with its formation have been perfected.

The original cost of the building was estimated at $450,000, exclusive of the site, which has a high valuation. The sale has been made on a much higher valuation, according to real estate circles. The building contains 54 apartments, 48 being of four rooms each. All suites are equipped with radio sets, which is an innovation as an apartment house feature.

The building project was financed by Greenebaum Sons Investment Co. of Chicago and St. Louis, and the Oreon E. & R. G. Scott Realty Co. The building is characterized as a bonanza.

Record Operations Forecast.

From the extensive and definite character of the realty demand, which has suddenly awakened, precipitated, perhaps, from a realization of the fact that prices are destined to range higher, rather than lower, the indications are that the volume of operations in this field during the spring and summer will reach an unprecedented stage, according to James M. Franciscus, president of the Franciscus Realty Co. and exclusive loan correspondent for the Prudential Insurance Co. Transactions are on both a large and small scale and are comprehensive in scope.

Real estate agents are handicapped to no small extent for the want of listings, the supply of flats and houses available for buyers being well nigh depleted.

The Mercantile Trust Co., in connection with Martin & Breitt, closed the week with a sale of the northeast corner of Seventeenth and Market streets, for the Tevis-Reyburn estate, to A. Groner. The transaction is especially noteworthy as being the first on a large scale on Market street since the approval of the $87,000,000 bond issue, which provides for the widening of this thoroughfare.

The consideration was not announced. Annual rentals derived from the buildings occupying the site aggregate 4 per cent net on a valuation of $100,000.

This corner has been in the spotlight continuously for the last two years, through offers forthcoming for it. The presumption is that the value of this corner will be enhanced with the completion of the proposed Plaza in front of Union Station. The site has 90 feet 7 inches on Market street by a depth of 72 feet 10 inches on Seventeenth street.

Downtown Property in Demand.

The week started with the purchase by Edward G. Rolwing, vice president of the Standard Life Insurance Co., of the 14-story Times Building, northeast corner of Broadway and Chestnut street, through the Holbrook-Blackwelder Company, representing the seller, the Temple Realty Co., of which W. K. Bixby is president. The purchase was on the basis of $600,000, of which $400,000 was paid in cash and $200,000 in 3000 acres of land in Northeast Arkansas. A. S. Miller in East.

A. S. Miller, secretary of the Walter Scott Realty Co., is now in the East. It was said at the company's office yesterday that, on his return, announcement might be made as to some large investments to be made here by Eastern capitalists.

In a recent letter to the firm, Miller compares the type of real estate improvements now being made in New York with those in St. Louis. The comparison is greatly to the advantage of St. Louis, as Miller says that the buildings now being erected here are much superior in construction to some showy New York projects.

It is estimated that $330,000 worth of homes are now under construction in Moorlands Park. Silver maples are being planted between the curbs and sidewalks.

WESTMOOR PARK IMPROVEMENTS TO BE COMPLETED BY AUG. 1

The surface improvements, together with sewer and water mains under construction in Westmoor Park at Clayton road and Pennsylvania avenue, will be completed in their entirety by Aug. 1 neext, according to the Joseph Darst Realty Co., agents for the plat.

Due to the inclement weather during the winter months, it was impossible to make much headway with the improveemnts. Sewers already are laid in more than one-half of the subdivision, the gas and water pipes paid for and all other contracts are in the hands of the contractors. Hundreds of young trees have been planted around the streets which gives an inkling of what this subdivision will look like within a year or so.

"The largest month we have ever had," Darst said yesterday, "was in November of last year, but according to the amount of business turned in this month, April, will exceed our highest record."

The location of the Catholic church and parochial school, consisting of 13 lots, has stimulated the sale of the property off Clayton road. The most attractive part of the subdivision is now being sold, consisting of less than 200 lots. It is expected the entire subdivision will be sold out by the latter part of May.

There is every reason to believe that within two years the subdivision will be well built up, especially in view of the fact that that section from Skinker road to Pennsylvania avenue, on Clayton road, was built up last year. Westmoor cannot rightly be considered a suburban site as it is across the street from a solidly built up section of homes and is within such a short distance from Forest Park.

The demand for homes remains unabated and the scarcity is keenly felt by St. Louisans. The real estate men know this to be a fact as does the Darst Realty Co., which before the war could offer a wide range of different types of homes to the prospective buyer, as well as the prospective renter. Today the number of homes that are listed, as well as the flats, homes or apartments for rent, is practically nil.

PLANTERS BUILDING WILL BE READY FOR TENANTS MAY 15

Landmark of St. Louis Has Been Transformed Into Modern Office Structure, With Up-to-Date Advantages.

Alterations to the Planters Building, formerly the Planters Hotel, have progressed to a point where the building will be ready for tenants by May 15.

The progress has been remarkable, considering the fact the building practically has been revamped. All plumbing and electric wiring is new. All floors are concrete, except corridors, which are tile and marble. Electric fixtures will be of latest and most efficient type. Elevators are to be of the latest design, fashioned by Otis Elevator Co., and are known as high speed micro-levelling type, consisting of four in number. Woodwork is being finished in brown mahogany, with a flat varnish finish.

The main floor corridor, with entrances on Pine street and Fourth street, is to have paneled walls of brown mahogany finish, with an ornamental plaster ceiling, the mahogany panels being a new idea in office building construction which adds warmth to the first floor corridor as against the cold marble generally used.

Walls in the offices are being finished French gray, with a contrasting ceiling, which, together with the brown mahogany woodwork, lends a richness to the offices hardly to be found in any other combination.

Those who have had the opportunity of inspecting the finished space on upper floors have expressed surprise at the wonderful results obtained in the transformation of this historic landmark into a modern office building.

The day the hotel closed the rooms were dingy and dark, the furniture, carpets and lace curtains showed signs of many years' usage, but within a period of a little more than 90 days since the closing, the rooms have been converted into rooms filled with sunshine and cheer, an atmosphere absolutely necessary to those occupying office building space.

Those who knew the hotel in its days of popularity and prosperity, as well as in closing days, will be quick to see the advantages of putting new life in the building which could only be done by conversion into an office building.

The management, at the head of which is John M. Robertson, who handles seven other buildings, plans to maintain the service at the highest standard.

A number of tenants plan to move into the building shortly after May 1, and while the first floor will not be completed, a temporary entrance has been provided for them, being what was formerly known as the ladies' entrance at 115 North Fourth street.

The office of the operating company has been located in rooms 1052, 1053 and 1054, where inquiries may be made regarding space.

Which Shall It Be?

A Home of Your Own or a Bunch of Rent Receipts?

Do you ever expect to own a home, or will you pay rent all of your life? RENT RECEIPTS WILL BE OF LITTLE VALUE TO YOU IN OLD AGE, OR IN CASE OF SICKNESS.

If you own a lot, or can buy a lot, we have a plan that will IMMEDIATELY put you in the way of home-ownership.

We build what you want; where you want it; at the price you want to pay AND ON TERMS WITHIN YOUR REACH.

To investigate our plan will cost you nothing. To adopt it will reward you richly.

We Show You How to Start a Store

Our expert service men who cover all parts of the country are continually learning of locations that offer exceptional opportunities for the establishing of Variety Stores.

Variety Stores handle the kind of goods that sell at popular prices to the great, big mass of buyers.

They usually pay a bigger return on investment than any other kind of a store.

They are easy to operate—expert merchandise training or retail store experience are not essential.

We will show you how you can start a Variety Store with $2500 to $6000 capital.

We will show you how to pick the choicest location, help you select your fixtures, your stock, how to mark your goods to make a profit, how to trim your windows, how to advertise, how to get the people coming to your store.

Being originators of the Variety business, we have helped thousands of men and women to a successful start in selling Variety Goods at retail.

And helping others we have gained a vast fund of information which we are glad to pass on to those who wish to enter this great and fertile field. Let us outline our complete plan.

A visit to our nearest house or inquiry by letter, telling about yourself, will be treated in strictest confidence and will place you under no obligation whatever.

We are ably organized and soundly financed and our distributor must be the same. This is a big proposition that can be handled by a live wire with about $5000 and will make up to $25,000 the first year; there are also many opportunities for live ones with less money to obtain valuable county distributorships. SEEKS TO REVOKE RIGHTS OF ACCUSED AS TO TESTIMONY

Miles D. Campbell Would Remove Century-Old Privilege of Declining to Testify Against Self.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—An effort to take from defendants in criminal cases their century-old rights to decline to testify against themselves, will be threshed out in the Constitution convention next week, during continued consideration of proposed amendments to the bill of rights which is now upon final reading in this convention.

Up to the present time the convention has agreed upon only three proposed changes in the bill of rights. One would simplify the form on which indictments are brought against persons charged with crime, another would broaden the rights of churches and other religious organizations to hold real estate and the third would add a section providing that the right to hold office shall not be abridged because of race, color or sex, this last having been regarded as advisable through the accession of women as voters.

Proposed Amendments.

Before adjournment yesterday to Monday, however, several proposed amendments were offered, to be acted upon at the beginning of the week. The first, by Miles D. Campbell of Kirksville, vice president of the convention, would provide that the "law applicable to the examination and cross-examination of witnesses, and the law applicable to the application by a defendant for continuance and the granting or refusal of the same in criminal prosecutions shall be the same as the law in civil cases."

J. A. Collet of Salisbury, chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the convention, offered a substitute for the Campbell proposal, as follows: "When the defendant in a criminal prosecution offers himself as a witness he shall be subject to the same rules of examination and cross-examination applicable to the other witnesses in the case."

Present Statutes.

In criminal cases under the present constitutional statutes a defendant cannot be compelled to testify at all unless he desires. If he does go on the stand he cannot be required to testify to facts whose narration would "tend to incriminate" him; nor can he be compelled on cross-examination by attorneys for the prosecution to answer questions relating to ground which was not opened up by his own attorney in direct examination.

Should either the Campbell or Collet idea be written into the bill of rights another section of that document guaranteeing to defendants the right of immunity from testifying against themselves, which has been the law for hundreds of years, will have to be eliminated from the constitution of this State.

Other Proposals.

Numerous other proposals urging changes in the jury system and another effort by John P. Lucas of Kansas City to do away with the imposition of death penalties in this State, also will be up for consideration Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning.

At the same time will come up the proposal of L. M. Henson of Poplar Bluff that all secret societies in Missouri be compelled to file with the county clerk of each county affected by their organization, a list of its members residing in that county and prohibiting the wearing of robes and masks, or other like paraphernalia except for amusement or ceremonies indoors. These two proposals are directed at the Ku Klux Klan, Henson said.

GIRL, MISSOURI U. HONOR GRADUATE, WEDS FORMER COOK

Miss Norinne Dorgan Married to Man Who Recently Worked in Restaurant Owned by Her Father.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 28.—Miss Norinne Dorgan, a member of this year's graduating class at Missouri University, elected to Phi Beta Kappa, the highest student academic honor, and a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, was married yesterday in Kansas City to Charles Furlong, until recently a cook in a restaurant owned by her father in Columbia. Her father, the Rev. W. L. Dorgan, a Baptist minister, said today that neither he nor Mrs. Dorgan knew of the marriage until after it had taken place.

"Furlong quit his work here at the Broadmoor Inn about a week ago," Mr. Dorgan said, "and announced he was going to return to his home at Osage, Ok., where he said he had extensive business interests."

Furlong lived in Columbia about 15 months. No information of his whereabouts or occupation prior to his coming to Columbia has been obtained. He was employed at the Broadmoor Inn as a cook, although he represented his father to be a wealthy man and a leading citizen of Osage, Ok.

Miss Dorgan, who is 21 years old, has been popular in social activities. She received the degree of A. B. in the College of Arts and Science last Wednesday, and Tuesday was elected to membership in the Phi Betta Kappa. Furlong is 32.

REILY AND MADISON DISCUSS STATE POLITICS WITH BABLER

Former Governor of Porto Rico Declares He Will Not Be Prohibition Director.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—E. Mont Reily of Kansas City, former Governor of Porto Rico, accompanied by C. C. Madison, Federal District Attorney at Kansas City, arrived here today from New York and spent several hours in a discussion of Missouri politics with Jacob L. Babler, Republican national committeeman for Missouri.

Reily said that after a few days here he would go to Excelsior Springs and try to recover his health. Told of a Kansas City rumor that he would be appointed State Prohibition Director to succeed W. H. Allen, Reily said he would not have the job if it paid $25,000 a year. Reily professed not to know whether Allen intended to resign. He added that if Allen did resign, he would favor Charles D. Morris, St. Joseph publisher, for the place.

POLICE "TIP" FAILED, BOARD ASKS "WHY?"

The Police Board has asked for a report which will show why, after the Detective Bureau had advance information on an expected whisky robbery last Monday night, it failed to prevent the robbery, which took place Tuesday night. The robbery was at the Government storeroom in the flavoring extract plant of Garrett & Co., 4116 Union boulevard, and 50 barrels, about 2000 gallons, of bonded whisky, were taken.

As was told Wednesday, the detectives received a "tip" Monday that the Garrett plant was to be robbed that night, and Lieut. William Murphy of the night riders, with several detectives, stayed about the plant that night. No robbers appeared. The following night, when six or seven robbers did call and held up the night watchman, there was no detective in waiting.

Lieut. Murphy, in his report, said that the "tip," which he received from Chief Hoagland, was definitely for Monday night. That night, he said, while he and others were waiting near the Garrett plant, Police Sergt. Logan of the Mounted District, in uniform, knocked at the door of the plant, and set a dog to barking. So much noise was made at that time that Lieut. Murphy concluded any robbers hanging about must have seen the Sergeant. Having been kept away in this manner, he did not believe they would be back so soon as the next night.

Sergt. Logan, in his report on the matter, said a police telephone was working badly, and that he understood Lieut. Doherty of the Mounted, in a telephone conversation, to tell him to go to the Garrett place. What Lieut. Doherty was trying to tell him was to keep away from the place, as Chief Hoagland had ordered the uniformed police to stay away from the plant that night.

WOMAN ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF EMBEZZLING RAILWAY FUND

Testified that Funds Were Deposited in Her Name by Instructions of Superintendent.

Mrs. Leona Quest, 24 years old, of 2609 Hebert street, was acquitted Friday by a jury in the Circuit Court at Belleville of a charge of embezzling $2100 from the East St. Louis, Columbia & Waterloo Railway, for which she was ticket agent at Dupo, Ill., in May, 1921.

The charge against Mrs. Quest resulted from an audit of her accounts with the railroad shortly after she was discharged and had moved to St. Louis.

Mrs. Quest testified that she and her husband conducted a restaurant in the Dupo station and that the railroad company had requested her to give part of her time to the sale of tickets, paying her a nominal sum. She was instructed by the superintendent, she said, to keep the money received from the sale of tickets separate from other money, to deposit it in a Dupo bank to her own account, and at regular periods turn it over to the company by check.

With the knowledge of company officers, she testified, others besides herself had access to the funds of the company at times, her husband frequently taking her place as ticket agent, and her only check on her sales was through the serial numbers of the tickets.

She once noted a shortage of the price of 10 tickets, she said, and reported it.

Testimony in her behalf was given to show that no check other than in favor of the railroad company was ever drawn on the account in which she kept the funds.

GRAIN REGULATIONS CALL FOR FILING OF DAILY REPORTS

Proposed Rules Submitted to Exchanges and Members of Trade for Recommendation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Proposed regulations for carrying out provisions of the grain futures act, recently declared constitutional by the United States Supreme Court, have been submitted to exchanges and members of the grain trade for recommendation. The grain futures administration has asked that suggestions be sent to its Chicago office. No hearings are planned.

The regulations call for the filing of a daily report as soon as possible after the close of the market, showing details of all contracts of sale for future delivery. The reports would include a statement of the position of the market at the beginning of periods; quantity of grain purchased and sold; quantity delivered and received; quantity covered by contracts settled in some other manner, and position at end of period.

Each member of a contract market would be required to keep records of transactions for future delivery and cash transactions, both accessible to the grain futures administration. He also would be required to report any information relating to manipulation of prices.

NINE SEAPLANES END 7000-MILE CRUISE

Naval Officials Consider That It Demonstrates Reliability of Operations Far From Base.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Officials of the Navy Department today announced the safe arrival at Hampton Roads, Va., of nine seaplanes, the scouting force of the Atlantic fleet, at the end of a 7000-mile cruise in southern waters, which extended to the Panama Canal and ports of the Caribbean Sea.

During the maneuvers of the fleet off the Pacific entrance to the canal these planes, together with nine others of the same type, covered 15,000 miles in scouting work. Eighteen S. F. 5-L planes flew from Hampton Roads to Panama. Half of them were diverted to the naval air station in the Canal zone and to Pensacola, Fla., supplementing the air forces maintained at those stations.

Within 24 hours of their arrival at Panama, after having flown from the Hampton Roads base, the 18 planes began work on an extensive scouting problem, and continued active operations throughout the stay of the fleet. Officials of the Bureau of Aeronautics were elated over the safe return of the planes ordered to Hampton Roads. Their work is regarded as a demonstration of the reliability of naval aircraft in operations at distances far removed from base facilities.

"The cruise to the Panama Canal by the scouting planes," says a statement issued by the Navy Department, "blazes the way for commercial operation of aircraft over the sea routes of the Caribbean and illustrates the easy accessibility of the canal for aircraft operating at ports far removed from their objective."

The army air service is planning a flight to the Canal Zone for the purpose of establishing a route over which planes can be rushed in a sudden emergency. Plans are under consideration for strengthening the air forces of the canal.

To Complete 5000-Mile Air Trip.

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, O., April 28.—Fred Starek, director of the War Finance Corporation, will hop off tomorrow for Washington and bring to an end a jaunt of 5000 miles in an airplane in the interests of the corporation. He arrived here this evening from Kansas City after a stop at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., for gasoline. Starek expects to leave McCook Field at 10 a. m. tomorrow for Washington, and to arrive there four or five hours later.

Cross-Country Flyers to Pass Over St. Louis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The nonstop cross-country flight of Lieuts. Macready and Kelly in the T-2 plane, in which they made six world records at Dayton April 16-17, has been plotted to touch St. Louis.

Macready and Kelly indicated that they would give St. Louis an opportunity to witness their passage over the city by flying low into the glare of searchlights.

Planes Flying to Virginia Stop at Scott Field.

The four Martin bombing planes of the Marine Corps—the largest military planes in the United States—which stopped at Scott Field Friday on the cross-country flight from San Diego, Cal., to Quantico, Va., departed from Scott Field at 2 p. m. yesterday and was due to arrive at Indianapolis last evening. The flight is being made in easy stages, about a dozen stops having been made before reaching St. Louis. The planes, each in charge of two officers, left San Diego April 17.

The Marine Corps officers were guests at Scott Field of Maj. John A. Paegelow, commandant, who on Friday afternoon entertained members of the St. Louis Flying Club and their ladies at a dinner dance at the officers' club.

RYE DAMAGED BY FIRE

Committee Says Blaze Was Work of Russian Counter-Revolutionists.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 28.—A dispatch from Nikolaiev, on the Black Sea, says that a fire in a grain elevator, which an Investigating Committee pronounced to be the work of counter-revolutionary incendiaries, damaged 100,000 poods of rye received there for export. This is a considerable portion of the grain set aside from the 1922 crop for export.

A pood is slightly more than 36 pounds avoirdupois.

BAN ON BERNHARDT PICTURE

Court Orders Sequestration of Drawing Pending Suit by Son.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, April 28.—Copies of a drawing by a Parisian artist depicting Sarah Bernhardt as she lay on her death bed almost buried in the mass of floral offerings, has been ordered sequestrated by the courts pending trial of a suit filed today by Maurice Bernhardt against the publisher of the picture, Le Capiain.

Maurice contends that as the son of the tragedienne, he alone has the right to authorize publication of such a picture.

DR. LOEB SAYS CHINESE TRY TO PROPITIATE SMALLPOX GOD

Dean of Medical College Tells of Great School He Saw in Pekin.

One of the most striking institutions in the Orient is the $8,500,000 medical college established by the Rockefeller Institute to educate native doctors for China, which has a population of 400,000,000 and fewer physicians than has St. Louis, Dr. H. W. Loeb, dean of the St. Louis University medical school, told a reporter yesterday on his return from an 11 weeks' tour of China and Japan.

This school, the Pekin Union Medical College, compares well with American colleges and is superior to most in that its faculty is composed of men—chiefly Americans—who give all their time to the work, Dr. Loeb said. The 75 buildings are of the Chinese type of architecture and include adaptations of famous temples. There is apparatus for water supply, light, power and heat, since Pekin has no public utilities, and even nitrous oxide for anesthesia is manufactured at the school.

"The Chinese, lacking physicians, rely principally on religious traditions," said Dr. Loeb. "There is much tropical diseases, and a lot of smallpox—so much that there is a god of smallpox whom the Chinese try to propitiate in order to avoid the disease. I saw a procession of those who had promised to honor the smallpox god."

194 SURVIVORS OF WRECKED STEAMER MOSSAMEDES LANDED

French Gunboat Has 33 Others Aboard; 58 Not Accounted For; One Lifeboat Missing.

By the Associated Press.

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, April 28.—The Portuguese gunboat Salvador Correira arrived at Mossamedes, Portuguese West Africa, yesterday, with 110 survivors of the steamship Mossamedes, wrecked several days ago at Cape Frio. Eighty-four survivors have been landed at Port Alexander, and the French gunboat Cassiope is on its way to Mossamedes with 33 others.

The chief officer of the wrecked steamship says the vessel struck the rocks in a fog Tuesday morning and a rough sea swept the liner still farther toward shore. The passengers, aroused from sleep, rushed to the deck in a panic and were put into the lifeboats with difficulty.

The rescuers came across the lifeboats about 80 miles from the scene of the wreck. One boat still is missing. Passengers and crew numbered 285. It is understood that the disaster is attributed to the strong currents prevailing at the cape and to a faulty chart.

HUSBAND SLAIN IN HOLDUP, WIDOW GETS $2500

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., April 28.—Mrs. George K. Fanner will receive $2500 from Cuyahoga County in settlement of a suit for $5000 for the "lynching" of her husband in a payroll holdup more than two years ago.

Fanner and his business partner, W. C. Sly, were shot to death when resisting a payroll robbery.

An Ohio law makes the county in which a lynching takes place responsible to the relatives in the sum of $5000.

The settlement was made at the suggestion of County Attorney Hansen, who said that while the Legislature probably did not have slaying as the result of a holdup in mind when it passed the statute, the wording of the law is such that a jury would be likely to give judgment for the full sum if the case went to trial. Three of the men engaged in the holdup have been executed.

Collapse of a brick wall of a partly constructed garage in the rear of 4411 Evans avenue, at noon yesterday, resulted in injury of James Barber, 1611 Wash street, a negro, employed at the garage. He was caught beneath a shower of bricks, suffering injuries about the head and internally.

MORE LIGHT WANTED ON DE VALERA OFFER

Government Not Ready to Discuss Peace Proposals Without Fuller Details.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, April 28.—Eammon de Valera's proposals for peace stand no chance for acceptance until he explains his terms more clearly, according to opinion expressed today by Dublin's political circles.

No cabinet meeting was held today. Some of the Ministers left town and there is no intention to hold a week-end council to discuss the proclamation. Inquiry at the Government Office elicited the statement that the Cabinet has not yet dealt with the matter and that it was not thought any official pronouncement of the Government's attitude would be made.

Mgr. Luzio, the Papal delegate who has been investigating conditions in Ireland, is understood to take the view that the Republican offer requires consideration. The Irish newspapers are generally skeptical, but expectations are entertained that once the rebels lay down their arms for any reason they will not resume them.

The Free State supporters sum up the situation somewhat as follows: Beyond his offer for the immediate cessation of hostilities, De Valera's proposals ostensibly hold out no attraction. His basis for peace apparently does not differ from the contentions he has always maintained. His willingness to submit to a popular vote still depends upon the proviso that such vote be free, by which he is understood to mean that England should not interfere if the voters decide for a Republic.

The proposals also appear to contemplate a refusal to take the oath provided by the treaty, and the provision that the Republicans retain their arms while the negotiations are pending is said to be unacceptable. This last point, however, may possibly be met by an offer to hand them over to a neutral nominated by Monsignor Luzio.

DEMONSTRATION BY CHILDREN

Rehabilitated Cripples From Prague to Appear Here Tuesday.

More than 750 persons are expected to attend the fourth annual luncheon of the Missouri Association for Occupational Therapy at 12:15 p. m. tomorrow at Hotel Statler. Dr. Frantisek Bakule, a world-renowned authority on rehabilitation of crippled children and occupational therapy, will make a short address at the luncheon.

The association also has arranged a demonstration by Dr. Bakule and children accompanying him in the auditorium of the Washington University School of Medicine, Scott and Euclid avenues, at 11 a. m. Tuesday. The public is invited to this demonstration.

LECTURE ON GOLDFISH GIVEN OVER KSD

Speaker Says Plants Must Be in Aquariums If Fish Are to Be Healthy.

Goldfish require one gallon of water for each inch of fish, if the owners want them to thrive, according to J. E. Weber, secretary of the Aquarium Society of St. Louis. Weber made an address by radio from Station K S D last night.

The habits and peculiarities of the various kinds of fish that are kept in the usual home aquarium were briefly sketched and Weber deprecated the use of the type of small fish globe without plants which many people have. Plant life in the aquarium is necessary to the health of these fish, he said.

He told how to make a good aquarium and how to select and feed fish.

Mrs. Kossuth Weber of Farmington, Mo., and Mrs. Marion [illegible] of St. Louis, soprano and contralto respectively, gave the principal part of the K S D music program last night. They were assisted by Mrs. Paul Cayce of Farmington and Miss Mary Langefort of St. Louis, accompanists.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

C. F. R.—A half dollar dated 1858 is valued at from 50c to 55c.

NEMO.—We were unable to locate the author of the "Jolly Coppersmith."

J. H. L.—Creve Coeur Lake contains 440 acres, and Forest Park, St. Louis, has 1372 acres.

YOURS TRULY.—You can purchase a wig at any of the department stores or beauty parlors.

THOMAS.—Write to the Oklahoman, Oklahoma City, Okla., for information concerning employment in the oil fields in the State.

A. B. C.—At present the most popular materials being used for bridesmaid's dresses are crepe de chine, canton crepe, crepe romaine, and satin crepe.

I. O. U.—Jack Dempsey will be 28 years old on the 24th day of June, 1923. Any history of the Colonial days will tell of the clothing worn by the women during that time.

P. D. READER.—Definite information concerning the last cholera epidemic in St. Louis is available at the office of the Health Commissioner.

C.—To renovate varnished work, make a polish of 1 quart good vinegar, 2 ounces butter of antimony, 2 ounces alcohol, and 1 quart oil. Shake well before using.

M. E.—There are special traps which are made for catching moles. The trap is placed where the mole went underground, because it is known that he will return that same way.

C. L. H.—The rating of a dentist in the United States Navy is the same as the rating of a doctor. In the navy there is the Dental Corps, which corresponds to the Medical Corps, and rating of the two is just the same.

MECKEL.—In order to become a librarian a high school education is necessary, also the ability to pass the entrance examinations. For more detailed information concerning the requirement for a librarian apply at the circulation desk at the central branch of the Public Library.

R. F.—The improvement on Russell avenue is divided into three contracts. The special tax bills on the improvement of Russell avenue from Grand to Tower Grove avenue were issued on Nov. 18, 1922. The first payment by property owners in that district was due 30 days after. Payments can be made in full when the first payment is due or in six annual installments. If the payments are made in installments, 6 per cent annually is charged. On Russell avenue from Jefferson to Grand, tax bills were issued Jan. 18, 1923. The first payment was due Feb. 18, 1923, or 30 days after date of notice. On Russell avenue from Broadway to Jefferson, the tax bills have not been issued. Property owners will be notified 30 days in advance of the first payment falling due.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

WORRIED.—The tenants will have to pay you the rent up to the day they leave, just as they have been doing, even though you gave them notice to vacate.

M. M. M.—If your husband has been absent for seven successive years, without being known to you to be living, then you can marry again without being guilty of bigamy. However, if he turned up later, your second marriage would be void.

WIDOW.—In order to be safe in making the loan to your son, you should require him and his wife to sign the note, and to give you some security for it, such as a mortgage or deed of trust on the house.

M. M.—If the fence is entirely on the property of either owner, then it belongs to that owner, and he can not compel the other owner to help fix it. If it is a division fence and was erected jointly by both owners or their predecessors, then it should be maintained and repaired by both owners.

INVENTOR.—"To prosecute an invention," we presume that you mean to apply for a patent on an invention and to prosecute the application until the patent is obtained. We do not give the names of patent attorneys. We presume that "no patent, no pay," if used in the advertisement of a patent attorney, would mean that if he did not succeed in obtaining a patent on your application, he would not charge you any fee for his services.

A SUBSCRIBER.—Under the law the income of a minor child need only be reported as part of the father's income in cases where the minor is dependent on his father, who may appropriate his earnings. As this was not true in your case you cannot legally be compelled to pay the $175 additional, and we advise that you appeal to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, D. C.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

R. Y.—Do not take any more salversan treatments. Write again for more information, enclosing a stamped addressed envelope, and give full particulars of your case.

A. & M.—The condition which you describe is due to some organic or functional derangement which only an examination would disclose. The swelling indicates a possible heart or kidney trouble. The fluid mentioned is no doubt prostatic fluid.

SQUIB.—Blackheads is a disorder of the sebaceous glands of the skin, characterized by yellowish or whitish pin-sized elevations, containing in their centers blackish points. Very often the black points appear upon the unchanged skin. The disease is observed on the face, neck, chest and back chiefly. The affection, though comparatively trifling, is often extremely annoying to those affected. It is due in part to idiosyncrasy, in part to a general sluggish performance, not only of the functions of the skin, but also those of the whole body. Those affected are apt to suffer from dyspepsia and with constipation, and in young women anemia and irregularities often exist. It is pre-eminently a disease of puberty, patients being almost invariably young men and women. Local treatment in some cases suffices to relieve the condition. Frequent bathing with hot water will aid in the process of removal. Stimulating ointments, especially those containing sulphur, are useful, as the following: Precipitated sulphur, one drachm; rose water ointment, one ounce. Make into an ointment and rub into the affected surface at night. Another excellent preparation is as follows: Vinegar, two drachms; glycerin, three drachms; kalolini, four drachms. This forms a soft paste, to be spread on the surface at night and, if possible, in the morning. If applied on the face the eyes should be kept shut on account of the pungency of the vinegar. It dislodges the plugs satisfactorily and they should be gently expressed, care being taken not to use much force for fear of inflaming the skin. In very obstinate cases the X-ray carefully applied will cure. A tonic internal treatment is sometimes called for.

To take care of present housing shortage requires 40 subdivisions the size of Westmoor. There isn't that many close to the city limits. Many are in very undesirable localities; others are not improved with streets, curbs, sidewalks, gutters, sewers, water, gas, electricity, etc. Westmoor has every advantage any other subdivision possesses and many that no other tract can truthfully claim.

Westmoor is surrounded by higher price property; it is in the midst of millionaire homes and estates; it is near schools, churches, stores and car lines; it has a large proportion of improvements in NOW; it is selling for less than other subdivisions not so excellently located; it is the only high-class subdivision where homes, bungalows, flats, apartments and business sites are available.

Commissions are paid promptly and valuable assistance given in closing sales.

ARE YOU HUMAN?

If you are, you are susceptible to the good opinion of others, and you want to look your best at all times.

It is an established fact that OUR USED CARS are GOOD USED CARS. That is because all of our Used Cars are trade-ins. We don't buy junks from people who have to sell because they either can't afford to keep a motor car or because the car won't run any more.

Besides the excellence of the mechanism of Our Used Cars, the wonderful paint jobs we turn out are astonishing. You must see them.

Just imagine the wonderful sensation of owning a car that "Feels Good" to the driver and "Looks Good" to the world.

That's the secret of the popularity of our used cars.
WEBER MOTOR CO. USED CARS cost no more than ORDINARY USED CARS.

After comparing our prices with those of other dealers, compare the appearance. The following exceptional list represents a part of the cleanest—cheapest—most "value for the money" assortment of used cars that can be found in St. Louis today.

Mirrors of Society a La Leacoc

Humorist has his fling at the home life of the social climbers and presents some society chit-chat as he thinks it should be written :: ::

By STEPHEN LEACOCK

I NOTICE that it is customary for some papers to publish a column or so of society gossip. They generally head it "Chit-Chat," or "On Dit," or "Le Boudoir," or something of the sort, and they keep it pretty full of French terms to give it the proper sort of swing.

These columns may be very interesting in their way, but it always seems to me that they don't get hold of quite the right things to tell us about.

They are very fond, for instance, of giving an account of the delightful dance at Mrs. de Smythe's—at which Mrs. de Smythe looked charming in a gown of old tulle with a stomacher of passementerie—or of the dinner party at Mr. Alonzo Robinson's residence, of the smart pink tea given by Miss Carlotta Jones. Now, that's all right, but it's not the kind of thing we want to get at; those are not the events which happen in our neighbor's houses that we really want to hear about. It is the quiet little family scenes, the little traits of home life that—well, for example, take the case of that delightful party at the De Smythes.

I am certain that all those who were present would much prefer a little paragraph like the following, which would give them some idea of the home life of the De Smythes on the morning after the party.

Dejeuner de Luxe at the De Smythe Residence.

On Wednesday morning last at 7:15 a. m., a charming little breakfast was served at the home of Mr. de Smythe. The dejeuner was given in honor of Mr. de Smyth and his two sons, Master Adolphus and Master Blinks de Smythe, who were about to leave for their daily travail at their wholesale Bureau de Flour et de Feed. All the gentlemen were very quietly dressed in their habitis de work. Miss Melindo de Smythe poured out tea, the domestique having refused to get up so early after the partie of the night before.

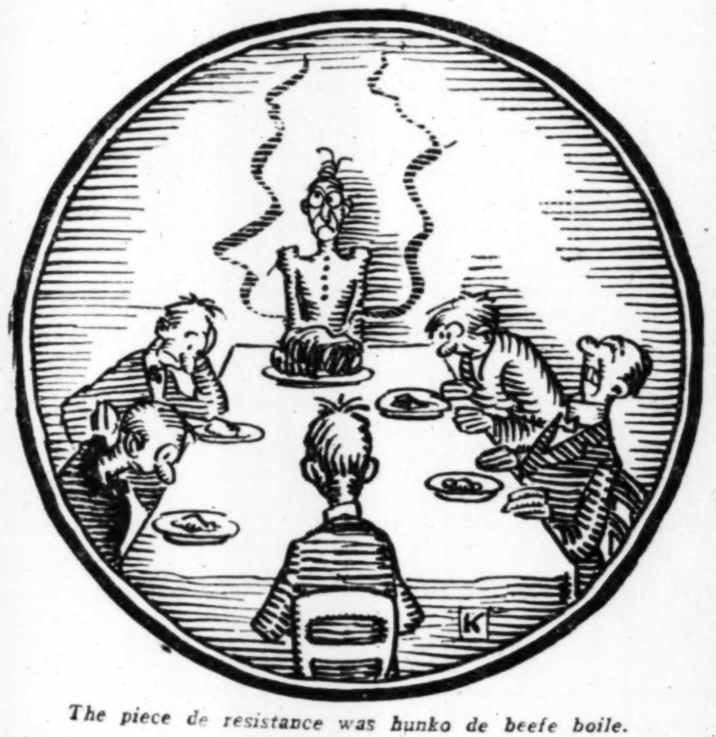
The menue was very handsome, consisting of eggs and bacon, demi-froid, and ice cream. The conversation was sustained and lively. Mr. de Smythe sustained it and made it lively for his daughter and his garcons. In the course of the talk Mr. de Smythe stated that the next time he allowed the young people to turn his maison topsy-turvy he would see them in enfer.

He wished to know if they were aware that some ass of the evening before had broken a pane of colored glass in the hall that would cost him $4. Did they think he was made of argent? If so, they never made a bigger mistake in their vie. The meal closed with a general expression of good feeling. A little bird has whispered to us that there will be no more parties at the De Smythes' pour long-temps.

Here is another little paragraph that would be of general interest to society.

Diner de Fameel at the Boarding House de McFiggin.

Yesterday evening at half after six a pleasant little diner was given by Madame McFiggin of Rock street, to her boarders. The salle a manger was very prettily decorated with texts, and the furniture upholstered with chev eux de horse, Louis Quinze.



The piece de resistance was hunko de beefe boile.

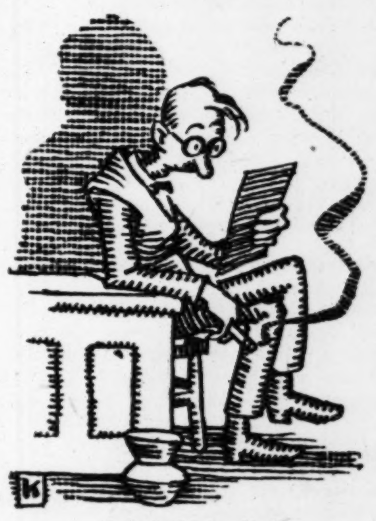
The boarders were all very quietly dressed. Mrs. McFiggin was daintily attired in some old, clinging stuff with a corsage de Whalebone underneath. The ample board groaned under the bill of fare. The boarders groaned also. Their groaning was very noticeable. The piece de resistance was a hunko de beefe boile, flanked with some old, clinging stuff. The entrees were pate de pumpkin, followed by fromage McFiggin, served under glass.

Towards the end of the first course, speeches became the order of the day. Mrs. McFiggin was the first speaker. In commencing, she expressed her surprise that so few gentlemen seemed to care for the hunko de beefe, her own mind, she said, had hesitated between hunko de beefe boile and a pair of roast chickens (sensation). She had finally decided in favor of the hunko de beefe (no sensation).

She referred at some length to the late Mr. McFiggin, who had always shown a marked preference for hunko de beefe. Several other speakers followed. All spoke forcibly and to the point. The last to speak was the Rev. Mr. Whiner. The reverend gentleman, in rising, said that he confided himself and his fellow boarders to the special interference of Providence. For what they had eaten, he said, he hoped that Providence would make them truly thankful. At the close of the Repas several of the boarders expressed their intention of going down the street to a restourong to get quelque chose a manger.

Here is another example. How interesting it would be to get a detailed account of that little affair at the Robinsons', of which the neighbors only heard indirectly! Thus:

Yesterday the family of Mr. Alonzo Robinson spent a very lively evening at their home on —th avenue. The occasion was the seventeenth birthday of Master Alonzo Robinson Jr. It was the original intention of Master Alonzo to celebrate the day at home and invite a few of les garcons. Mr. Robinson Sr., however, having declared that he would be damne first, Master Alonzo spent the evening in visiting the salons of the town, which he painted rouge.



Jaded Journalist.

Mr. Robinson Sr. spent the evening at home in quiet expectation of his son's return. He was becomingly dressed in a pantalon quatre vingt trieze, and had his whippe de dogge laid across his knee. Madame Robinson and the Mademoiselles Robinson wore black. The guest of the evening arrived at a late hour. He wore his habits de spree, and had about six ounces of eau de vie in him. He was evidently full to his cou. For some time after his arrival a very lively time was spent. Mr. Robinson having at length broken the whippe de dogge, the family parted for the night with expressions of cordial good will.

THE PERPLEXITY COLUMN.

(As done by the jaded journalist, according to Stephen Leacock.)

Instantaneous answers to all questions.

All questions written out legibly, with the name and address of the sender and accompanied by $1, answered immediately and without charge.

Harvard Student asks: "Can you tell me the date at which or on which, Oliver Cromwell's father died?

Answer: No.

Student of Mathematics asks: "Will you kindly settle a matter involving a wager between myself and a friend? A bet B that a pedestrian in walking downhill over a given space and alternately stepping with either foot, covers more ground than a man casting over the same ground on a bicycle. Which of us wins?"

Answer: I don't know which of you is A.

Chess Player asks: "Is the knight's gambla recognized now as a permissible opening in chess?"

Answer: I don't play chess.

Reuben Boob asks: "For some time past I have been calling upon a young lady friend at her house evenings and going out with her to friends nights. I should like to know if it would be all right to ask to take her alone with me to the theater?"

Answer: Certainly not. This column is very strict about these things. Not alone for a moment. It is better taste to bring your father with you.

Auction asks: "In playing bridge please tell me whether the third or the second player ought to discard from weakness on a long suit when trumps have been twice round and the lead is with dummy."

Answer: Certainly.

Lady of Society asks: "Can you tell me whether the widow of a Marquis is entitled to go in to dinner before the eldest daughter of an Earl?"

Answer: Ha, ha! This is a thing we know—something that we do know. You put your foot in it when you asked us that. We have lived this sort of thing too long ever to make any error. The widow of a Marquis, whom you should by all rights call a Marchioness Dowager (but we overlook it—you meant no harm) is entitled (in any hotel that we know or frequent) to go in to dinner whenever and as often as she likes. On a dining car the rule is the other way.

Vassar Girl asks: "What was the date of the birth of Caracalla?"

Answer: I couldn't say.

Lexicographer asks: "Can you tell me the proper way to spell 'dog'?"

Answer: Certainly. "Dog" should be spelt, properly and precisely, "dog." When it is used in the sense to mean "a dog" or "one dog" but two or more dogs—in other words, what we grammarians are accustomed to call the plural—it is proper to add to it the diphthong "s," pronounced with a hiss like Z in soup.

But for all these questions of spelling your best plan is to buy a copy of Our Standard Dictionary, published in 10 volumes, by us, at $40.

Ignoramus asks: "Can you tell me how to spell 'cat'?"

Answer: Didn't you hear what we just said about how to spell "dog"? Buy the dictionary.

Careworn Mother asks: "I am most anxious to find out the relation of the earth's diameter to its circumference. Can you, or any of your readers, assist me in it?"

Answer: The earth's circumference is estimated to be three decimal one four one five nine of its diameter, a fixed relation indicated by the Greek letter pi. If you like we will tell you what pi is. Shall we?

"Brink of Suicide" writes: Can you, will you, tell me what is the Sanjak of Novi Bazar?"

Answer: The Sanjak of Novi Bazar is bounded on the north by its northern frontier, cold and cheerless, and covered during the winter with deep snow. The east of the Sanjak occupies a more easterly position. Here the sun rises—at first slowly, but gathering speed as it goes. After having traversed the entire width of the whole Sanjak, the magnificent orb, slowly and regretfully, sinks into the west. On the south, where the soil is more fertile and where the land begins to be worth occupying, the Sanjak is, or will be, bounded by the British Empire.

en Specifications for the Ideal Wife

young men at a Greenwich Village party with five young women discuss fearlessly the qualities most to be desired in a partner for life—After deciding upon nine points of perfection by process of elimination, the men finally, as a sort of afterthought, hit upon the notion that "she must like children"—The girls present not invited to express their views :: :: :: ::

By MILTON RAISON.

IT WAS an extremely modern gathering. There were five couples in the dim-lighted room in Greenwich Village. The point had been reached where the party was simmering down to conversation. The effects of the ginger ale had evaporated, the victrola had been turned off. The hour was past midnight, and even Greenwich Village neighbors dislike noise.

As a result, the 10 persons talked soberly to one another. Not until there was a lull in conversation did the host throw out this bone:

"Here we are. Ten unmarried persons. We are all of marriageable age. Some of us may pose as hardened cynics and professional bachelors. But, nevertheless we think of marriage in our own minds. "We may never get an opportunity like this again. Every one of the men present represents a different profession. Their attitude is pretty much the attitude of the young unmarried generation. Here's what I want them to do. I want each man to give his qualifications for a wife."

Shouts of laughter greeted this. Facetious remarks were passed. One or two humorous qualifications were mentioned. But in a few minutes the men were talking seriously. The professions represented were as follows: Doctor, lawyer, journalist, broker and engineer. All were under 35. I was the journalist. I listened carefully.

The voice of the younger generation was talking. Here before me were the fathers of our next race of men. They had all more or less had their fling. Whatever ideas they had about free love, the platonic basis of love, the radical idea in marriage, had boiled down to a sane, 30-year-old viewpoint. And now they were going to tell the world what brand of wife they wanted. The Zulus have a mating dance every year, and when it is over pick a wife from a line of much-toiletted savages. These men wore good clothes, but as far as the dancing and picking went, the principle was the same. Of course, I didn't utter that thought out loud. The host had pleaded with us not to be funny.

While the men were talking, still saying nothing of importance, I thought of the time I had interviewed a prominent movie star. He was a gallant person, with black eyes, a coat of tan, and talked to me in a mandarin coat and slippers to match. His reputation was that of a bachelor, but willing. The editor had sent me to find out and reveal, to a breathless feminine public, what this demigod's version of a wife was. I threw out the question.

"A wife," he repeated, "a wife?" He got up, stalked around the room and then stood over me. I swear his eyes were beatific. He had a most noble expression, and when he talked his mouth gave way to soft, lulling syllables that caressed his soul, as it were.

"She must be," he said, "young, beautiful, intelligent. My wife," his eyes clouded, "must be a wonder woman."

Then he sat down, exhausted. I crept out to convey the message to a panting (pantless) world. The actor, in other words, had deified the mid-Victorian ideal. His wife existed only on canvas. He had no more idea about her than the man in the moon. From his tone I gathered the woman he wanted wasn't made yet; she was a sweet, succulent breath of moonlight, still reposing in the lap of God.

But these men before me now were blasphemous in comparison. They talked of women as though they granted the creatures human faculties. None of that awe in their tone, no reverence for physiological facts. Just hard-boiled statements, trotted out in clipped, straightforward words.

First of all, these very serious young men wanted young wives. Young wives? The doctor was talking:

"By young I mean young in spirit. Her material age doesn't matter. Age in years never matters. Parents could do no more beneficial step toward advancing the human race in health than forget their children's birthdays. By young in spirit, I mean her step must have a spring in it. There must be no tired lines about her eyes, no reluctance in her muscles. She must not have a faded-kimono soul. She must enjoy the elements, trudge in snow and rain, get fun out of it, or have a full-hearted, dogmatic hatred against cold and wet. No whining at the weather, no creaking bones, no hypochondriacs. No sick-spirited adolescent wailing for the moon. A young wife."

The doctor, you see, being a medical man, had emphatic ideas on the subject. The rest agreed. They wanted young wives.

"She must be," said the engineer, who concerns himself with topographical problems and therefore would be an authority, "pleasing to the eye. Now, mind you, I don't say beautiful, a dream in silver, a solidified moonbeam, a walking water lily, I merely say pleasing to the eye. I like, for instance, the upward, free twist of the head. I like bobbed hair, architecturally (if the word existed) clipped. I like the firm gaze, the intelligent forehead, the slim hand. I hate a woman with a high, shrill voice. I like careless gestures and a swinging step. I hate set features and a hard look. Pleasing to the eye, and beguiling at the same time. Intelligent looking, not, Ziegfeld forgive, the vacuous blue stare of a chorus girl."

The engineer, you see, was generous. His hates and likes were in the scope of human reason. He wanted no Greek statue come to life. Too many of us are Pygmalions.

It was the lawyer, I think, who had ideas on modernity. I know he reads the Dial. I've even seen some of his book reviews in which he pats on the back those writers who use the English language like a pair of dice. Also being the economic shark of the gathering, he advanced the notion that his wife must be capable of earning her own living.

"I don't mean," he apologized, obviously to the women present, "that she should earn her living, she should merely be capable of it in all emergencies. That, of course, I include in her modernity. She must read the latest books, see the highbrow plays, admire art, like music, smoke cigarettes and get drunk if she so desires. She must belong to me only as a separate person. She can keep her own name, practice her own trade, see her old beaux, and do what she wants about children. She must, of course, love me and be faithful; that is understood. When it comes to love, I don't like free interpretations. But a modern wife I must have."

The broker wanted her to dance and be healthy in mind and spirit. "I am merely repeating what you fellows said when I advance those qualifications. A person who dances well is usually shapely. She has no primness nor orthodoxy. She is a free, careless creature whose mind thinks straight and whose body is lithe and firm. I want no brooding woman on my hands. I want no one with neuroses or complexes. I want no palpitation of the heart nor cross-eyes. I want no mystery-loving, seance-haunting person. She must be vividly interested in everything, rabid on nothing. She must practice the Greek ideal of moderation in all things."

This was the first time Greek crept into the conversation. I was awaiting it with anxiety. Luckily, the journalist came next, and Greece for the moment went back to the Aegean Sea.

"I want a wife," he began, clearly and with emphasis not unknown to those who are afraid to orate, "who will have an appreciation of beautiful things, in books, art and life. As my friend, the lawyer, said, she must read and see new things. I want her to have that fine personality, that intangible individuality"—in his excitement he ran to big words—"that make those great audiences Whitman talked about. I don't want someone who will say, 'Ain't that cute?' at a sunset, a sailboat, a mountain or a 2-year-old boy destroying flowers. But, by gosh, she must feel the silence of dawn, the tragedy of twilight, the heaviness of stars on the waters, the magic of words and paint. Even after marriage, her individuality must stand out as prominently and sharply as a wart on the top of a bald-headed man, quoting a humorist, with apologies to our host. People must be interested in her not as Mrs. John Smith but as Betty Jones. She must be a woman, not the rib of Adam."

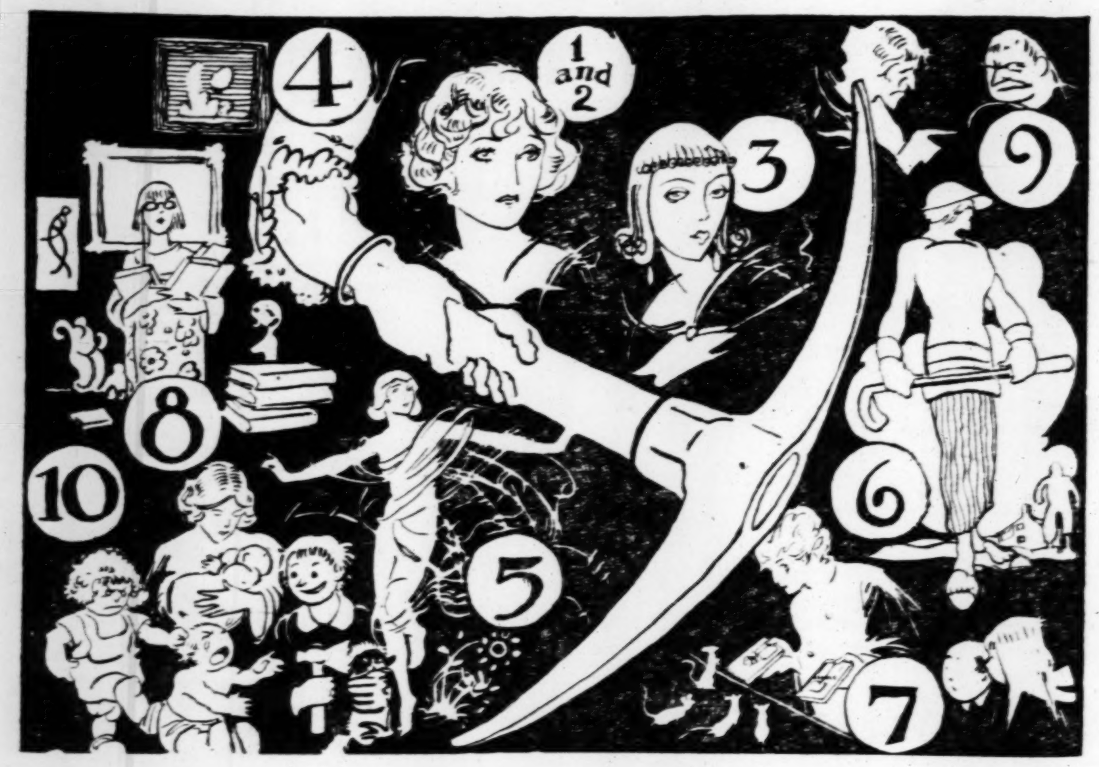
It was after this searching inquiry into the soul and morals of women, that someone, I blush to say who, suggested that his wife must like children. At first we looked at the individual as one would look at a man suddenly talking in a foreign tongue. Somehow the idea of progeny had lost its connection with marriage. The only children we ever discussed were illegitimate. But once reminded of the generation clamoring to be born, we were brave. We didn't shift the question. We went straight to it. Yes, we agreed, our wives must like children. Each one of us had visions of tight-collared spinsters taking away our baseballs because they happened to crash into their windows, teachers who were masters of ferrule, policemen who taught us how to do the hundred in 10 flat, and such like.

But our future wives were now thoroughly discussed. The ladies of the party sat in silence. It was difficult to tell whether they were impressed or angry. Perhaps they knew they didn't stand a chance.

Some slight editorial explanation of the foregoing article may be indicated here, lest some few of the marriageable maidens of the mighty Middle West who—quite possibly—are not in possession of all the 10 points of perfection take offense.

In the first place, the viewpoint is that of Greenwich Village, which is a semi-mythical part of New York City and may be described further and perhaps more accurately as a state of mind rather than a place on the map.

In the second place, Milton Raison is a very young man and also a poet. That he is both of these is not to be disputed after one has read the paragraph in which the journalist of the party outlines his ideal wife.



Here's the Perfect Wife:

1. She must be between the ages of 20 and 25 (in spirit).
2. She must be pleasing to the eye.
3. She must be "modern."
4. She must be capable of earning her own living.
5. She must dance.
6. She must be healthy in mind and body.
7. She must be intuitive and calm-spirited.
8. She must have an appreciation of beautiful things in books, art and life.
9. She must be capable of retaining her individuality after marriage.
10. She must like children.

Announcement from the U. S. Postoffice Department that in July or August airplanes will inaugurate "the fastest mail service known to man over extensive distances"—For more than a year the Government has been making preparations, which include regular and emergency landing fields and a pathway of powerful beacon lights for the night flying—Special airplane stamp is contemplated for new continuous air mail :: :: ::

CONTINUOUS air mail service from New York to San Francisco—2600 miles in 28 hours—will be established by the Postoffice Department in July or August. To accomplish this service air mail pilots, for the first time, will fly nearly 1000 miles, one-third of this transcontinental Marathon of the air, in the dead of night. These flights, with the exception of one transatlantic exploit, are the longest sustained journeys by air ever undertaken at night.

Air mail will leave New York City just before noon, to arrive in Chicago at sundown. From Chicago another pilot will take the mail and start out in pursuit of the setting sun. Even the speedy plane cannot win this race, but the pilot can hold to his route, because a line of beacons will light a path for him. At Cheyenne, Wyo., the mail plane will come in with the dawn, Aurora and her flying steeds having lapped man's swiftest messenger in the uneven race.

But the air mail is a game contestant and another plane and another pilot will take the mail at Cheyenne, and aiming toward the high heavens, wing over the rugged tops of the Rockies and over the Sierras down to the Golden Gate before the sun again drops below the horizon.

More than a year has been spent in careful preparation for this service. Those who have directed the work are confident of the success of the venture. Beyond a doubt, continuous regular transcontinental air mail service, if it fulfills hopes held for its possibilities, will be a milestone in the history of aviation and an epic in the progress of transportation.

Air mail service has been in operation in the United States since May 15, 1918, almost five years. The Washington-New York route was first established and then the Chicago-New York and one-half years ago the nental service was undertaken other services—New York to Washi ton, Chicago to St. Louis and to Minneapolis—were discontinued.

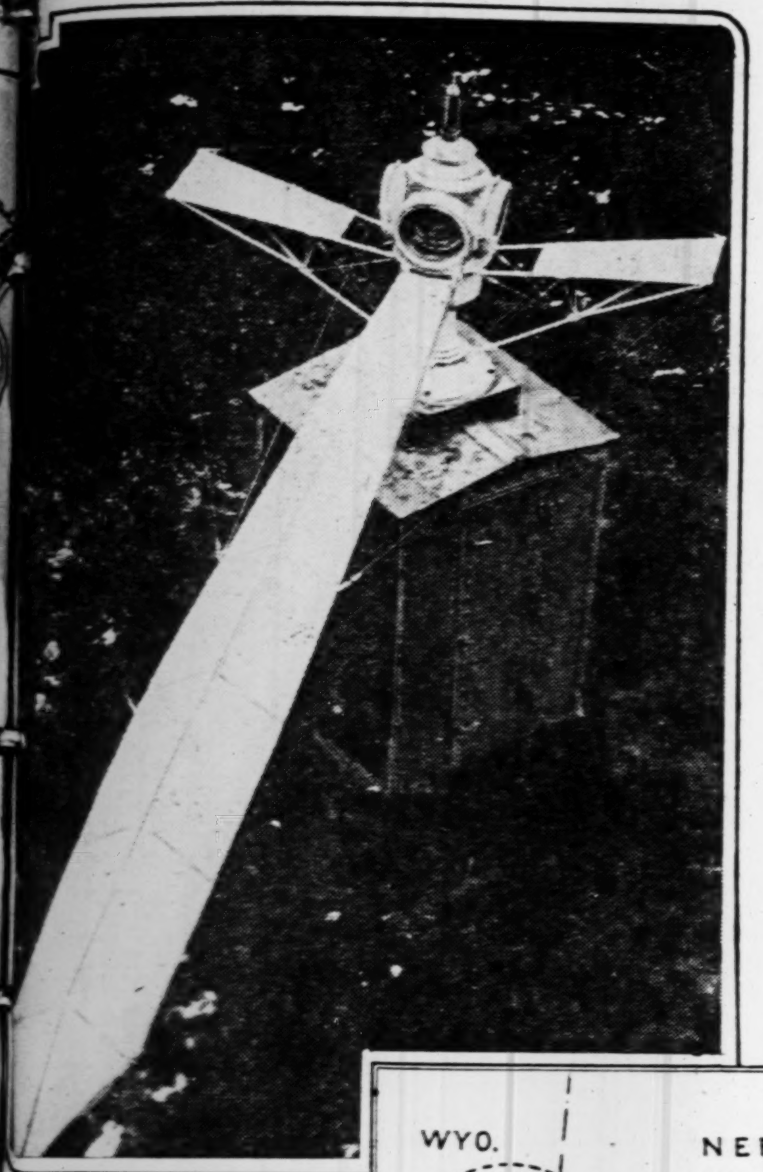
Two years have proved that day flying with the mails can be operated satisfactorily. Encountering all kinds of weather, "the air mail pilots complete 95 per cent of the trips scheduled, totaling 2,000,000 miles annually. Upon night service the future of air mail hinges. But night service presents many problems, and the Postoffice Department was unwilling to start night flying until it could assure a reasonable factor of safety to its pilots.

As a result of the preparations undertaken during the last 12 months by the Division of Air Mail, the night flights between Chicago and Cheyenne, Wyo., will be made under conditions which offer scarcely more hazards than day flying. The pilot will be guided by a pathway of powerful beacons capable of piercing through difficult atmospheric conditions pointing the way unerringly over the prairie to the terminal fields. Each plane will carry powerful searchlights available for forced landing in case of necessity. Emergency fields have been located and lighted every 25 miles on the route.



At the landing fields the pilot will be able to look down upon this illuminated T, which swings with the wind and thus indicates the exact direction of the wind. The beacon also throws an upward light.

In addition to these precautions and many others, the practicability of night flying is insured by the natural advantages of the terrain over which the pilots must guide their planes. The plains country is, of course, noted for its levelness, fortunately providing natural landing fields, while the lack of humidity in the air lends this route to the illumination plan.

Millions of people in the Middle West will nightly witness an artificial aurora borealis, visible fully 50 miles from its source under good atmospheric conditions when the night service of the air mail gets under way. This will be created by sweeping lights which will be established on the five regular fields, Chicago, Iowa City, Omaha, North Platte and Cheyenne. Each of these beacons will have 600,000,000 candlepower.

The air mail beacons will be quite different from the shore lighthouse beacons which guide the ships of the sea. To suit the needs of ships of the air, they will swing around on the top of their towers throwing a beam three degrees above the horizon, three complete revolutions being made every minute. Pilots can easily pick up these giant beacons and guide their planes to the field. The lights will only be operated at hours when a plane is expected.

Not depending alone on terminal lights, the Postoffice Department is locating less powerful beacons every 25 miles along the route. Like their larger brothers, they will also swing around the horizon, but their visibility is limited to about 30 miles. These smaller beacons will mark the emergency landing fields to which a pilot can descend in case of necessity.

But the pathway of light is not complete yet. When the "ceiling" is low; that is, to translate the language of the pilots, when the clouds hang low, it may be necessary for a pilot to bring his plane close to the land and there is a possibility that he might lose sight of the emergency field beacons. As a final safeguard, flashing traffic lights, like those which are placed on city streets, but whose light will be directed toward the skies instead of along the surface of the ground, will be located every three miles along the line of flight.

Thus, on a clear night, the air mail pilot, 7000 feet up in the blue-blackness of the heavens, will see a narrow line of light stretching for miles and miles over the level prairies.

Representatives of the Division of Air Mail of the Postoffice Department have investigated thoroughly the route over which the night service will be operated and have located the emergency fields in convenient places. Besides having a swinging beacon, these fields will be leveled and the buildings and other obstacles marked with red lights to make a plane landing easy. It is estimated that the pilots will ordinarily fly at an altitude which will make it possible for them to volplane to the nearest emergency field at any point on the route, should the engine go dead.

These fields are located at or near the following places: Batavia, Ill.; McGirr, Ill.; Franklin Grove, Ill.; Rock Falls, Ill.; Cordova, Ill.; Donahue (Dixon), Ia.; Moscow, Ia.; Williamsburg, Ia.; Montezuma, Ia.; Reasnor, Ia.; Carlisle, Ia.; Booneville, Ia.; Casey, Ia.; Atlantic, Ia.; Oakland, Ia.; Wahoo, Neb.; Garrison, Neb.; Stromberg, Neb.; Central, Neb.; Grand Central, Neb.; Shelton, Neb.; Lexington, Neb.; Gothenburg, Neb.; Paxton, Neb.; Brule, Neb.; Chappell, Neb.; Sidney, Neb.; Potter, Neb.; Kimball, Neb.; Pin Bluffs, Wyo.

The humming of the deep-toned Liberties putting power into mail planes, invisible in the night sky, will remind the men who were in France of the bombing expeditions over German cities. There was courage-demanding danger in every mile of those expeditions. No light guided the big Handley-Paige machines. Lights would have been an aid to the enemy. No emergency fields were prepared for them. If an engine faltered the crew and plane crashed to death and destruction. Even the lighting of landing fields in the days of the war was insufficient and unscientific.

Postoffice Department experts in cooperation with army experts have been steadily at work contriving and experimenting in all phases of the problem of night flying. The experimentation is not completed yet, but a code of lighting for plane and field to safeguard the pilots and facilitate night flying has been worked out.

In some ways the problem before the air mail flyers is more difficult than the duty of the heroic pilots of the war days. Bombing expeditions of the war seldom lasted more than four or five hours, but the postal pilots must fly steadily from sunset to dawn. Bombing expeditions waited for just the right kind of weather. The night flights of the postal planes cannot wait upon the will of the winds, but must take conditions as they find them. Almost one-third of the day flying is made through snow, rain, hail or fog, and it is probable that the night flyer will not find conditions different.

Let us take a look at the Maywood Field, Chicago, Ill., at night. The huge field itself will be outlined with lights spaced about 200 feet apart. A 50-foot windmill tower will support the great beacon steadily swinging around the

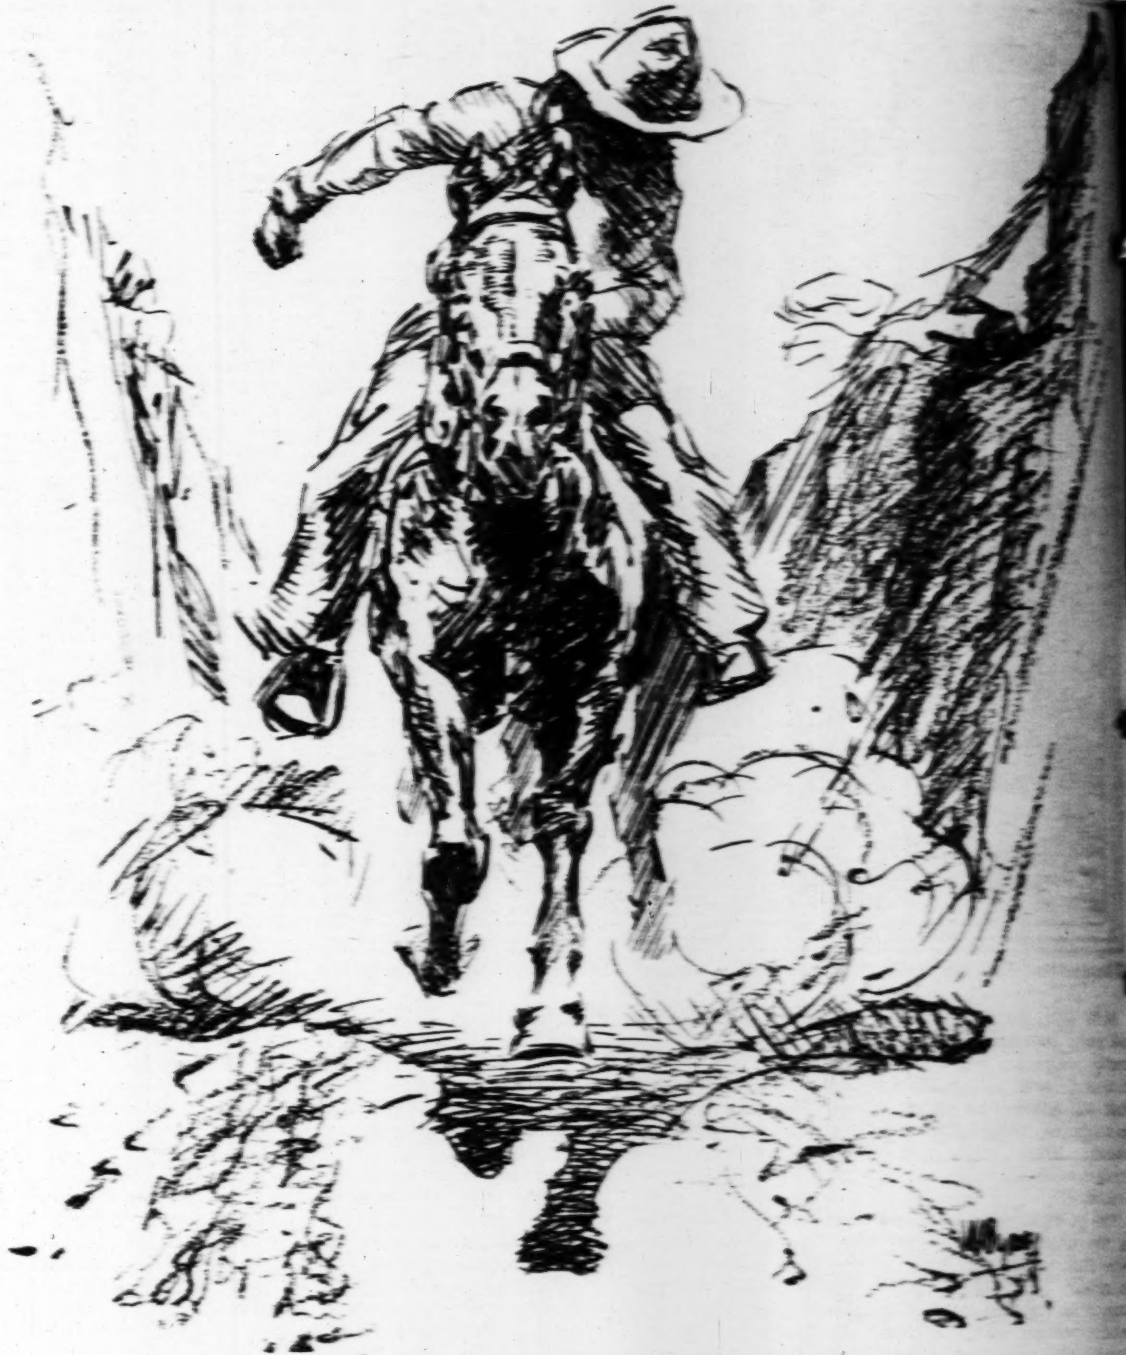
FAMOUS PONY EXPRESS AGAIN TO DASH ALO

Revival of picturesque service, abandoned in 1861, is planned in celebrating the 75th anniversary of gold discovery in California, and pioneer festivals in other Western States—To be arranged as a relay race, in hope that present-day riders and horses will be able to maintain the old schedule of eight days from St. Joseph, Mo. to Sacramento, Calif. :: :: ::



"Neither storms, fatigue, darkness, rugged mountains, burning deserts nor savage Indians were to hinder this pouch of letters."

IT IS late in the afternoon of a balmy spring day at St. Joseph, Mo. Evidently, something of more than usual interest is about to happen in the bustling frontier town. Flags are flying, a brass band is playing, people throng the streets.

A large crowd has gathered in front of the stables belonging to the famous Leavenworth firm of Russell, Majors & Waddell, who for years have operated stages and freight wagons across the plains.

Presently a murmur goes through the crowd: "Watch now, it's about time!" Then the stable doors swing open and a mettlesome black horse is led forth. A hostler stands at the animal's head while a wiry little man, scarcely 20 years old, walks around the horse, carefully inspecting bridle, saddle, blanket and girths.

The horse stamps impatiently as the admiring throng edge closer and closer, and when a few of the inevitable souvenir hunters pluck hairs from his tail he threatens to lash out in retaliation. But now the stable men are pushing the people back. Time to go! Everybody, out of the way! A pause of several seconds and then, somewhere in the distance, a cannon booms. It is the starting signal.

The wiry little man springs into his saddle just in time to connect with it as the hostler lets go the reins and the horse leaps forward. In much less than a minute the pair are at the company's St. Joseph office, where another jubilant assemblage of spectators is waiting. In the foreground stands W. H. Russell, president of the company, holding a square letter pouch with four padlocked pockets.

Johnnie Frey, for that is the name of the once famous rider, is out of the saddle before his splendid mount has come to a quick but protesting halt. Mr. Russell himself adjusts the letter pouch. In the middle there are openings which fit snugly over the horn and tree of the saddle. Two of the padlocked pockets are in front of the rider's legs, and two behind.

There is not a moment's delay. The pouch is scarcely adjusted when Frey is in the saddle again. Mr. Russell has slapped the horse's glossy flank and the pair are dashing towards the wharf on the Missouri River, where a ferryboat under a full head of steam awaits them.

As the horse, with scarcely checked speed, thunders aboard the steamer a bell jangles, a whistle screams, machinery rumbles and the boat swings clear and heads for the opposite shore. An immense crowd for a town the size of St. Joseph watches the departure. Some of them shout with excitement, some are silent, some even weep.

The boat makes her landing and the gangplank has hardly come to rest when horse and rider dash over and are off at a furious gallop. The date is April 3, 1860, and the event is the departure of the first westbound pony express.

Horse and man are quickly out of sight. Although proceeding at the utmost limit of their speed, they will not travel any great distance. Fresh horses are waiting for the rider, and he in turn will be displaced by an unwearied rider. But the letter pouch, passed from one horseman to the next, will go on and on, across two-thirds of the American continent, to Sacramento, in far-away California.

Across the plains of northeastern Kansas and into Nebraska, up the Valley of the Platte River, across the Great Plateau, into the foothills and over the summit of the Rocky Mountains, into the arid stretches of the Great Basin, over the Wasatch range, through the valley of the Great Salt Lake, and the terrible alkali deserts of Nevada, through the parched sink of the Carson River, over the snowy Sierras and into the Sacramento Valley—the letter pouch will go 1966 miles.

"Neither storms, fatigue, darkness, rugged mountains, burning deserts nor savage Indians were to hinder this pouch of letters. The mail must GO; and its schedule, incredible as it seemed, MUST be made. It was a sublime undertaking, than which few have ever put the fiber of Americans to a severer test."

Thus does Glenn D. Bradley make articulate the dauntless spirit which animated this great chapter in the history of the West, and of the nation, in his fascinating little book, "The Story of the Pony Express."

At the same hour that Johnnie Frey and his beautiful black were dashing away from St. Joseph, a rider named Harry Roff galloped out of Sacramento on a spirited half-breed white broncho. The event was made a much greater occasion than the St. Joseph departure, because California seemed very distant from the rest of the United States. The best possible time for mail, via the Isthmus of Panama and steamer up the coast, was 22 days. The telegraph line went no farther west than St. Joesph, Mo., and in California the wire went no farther east than Carson City, Nev., near the California border. Thereafter, if the pony express proved feasible, dispatches from New York and other Eastern cities could be telegraphed to St. Joseph, carried by pony express to Carson City and thence put on the wire to points in California.

Contrasted with the previous best mail service of 22 days, the new enterprise promised a service of 10 days for mail and eight days for dispatches. Under the old stage coach and steamer regime, the people of California had become accustomed to receive their news from four weeks to three months old. No wonder they rejoiced at the prospect.

The first trip of the pony express from St. Joseph to Sacramento was made in nine days and 23 hours, the second in 14 days, the third and many succeeding trips in nine days. The first trip from Sacramento to St. Joseph required 11 days and 12 hours. Yet to a degree which is almost incredible, considering the difficulties involved, the 10-day schedule was maintained. Furthermore, starting at first with a weekly service, the company afterwards started and successfully maintained a twice-a-week service.

It was a triumph of daring riders, magnificent horseflesh and enterprise which counted not the cost. And the pony express won its immortal fame in only 16 months of actual operation. Also, it proved the feasibility of transcontinental railroads to a reluctant Congress, and rendered a mighty service to the Union side in the Civil War.

Just recently interest in the stirring chronicles of the pony express has been whetted by a proposal to bring it back to life next September. It is planned actually to have riders on fine horses gallop along the same route which the old-time messengers followed, and to have them maintain the old schedule—if they can!

To lend a sporting interest, the event is planned as a relay race, the greatest in all history, covering practically 2000 miles. Carrying pouches of mail, the riders of rival teams will dash from station to station, just as the famous pony riders used to do. The team which delivers its pouch first at the destination will be the victors.

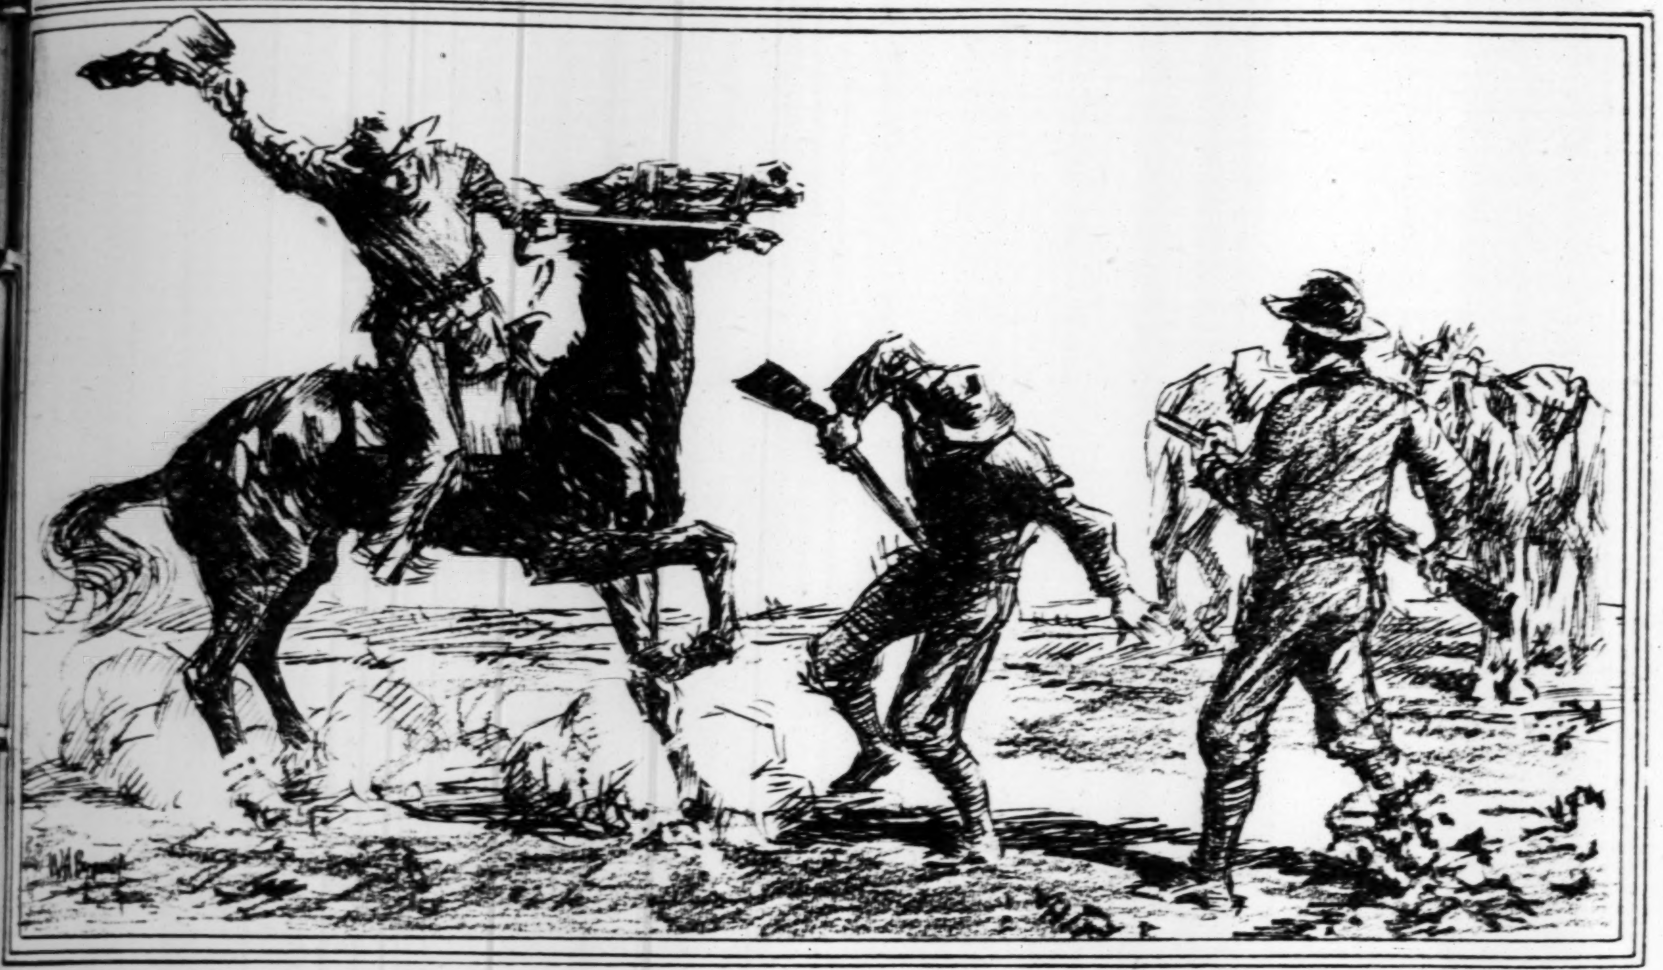
Former U. S. Senator James D. Phelan of California heads a committee which already has been organized to make arrangements in California and Nevada. Charles Field, publisher of the Sunset Magazine, is another member of the committee. The other states which, it is hoped, will participate, include Missouri, Kansas, Colorado and Utah. In those commonwealths the riders of the pony express won their fame and rendered a service which never will be forgotten. Says Mr. Field:

"The race will be officially known as 'pony express relay race from the Missouri River to the Golden Gate.' The idea originated in Nevada, where it was first intended to hold a Mark Twain festival commemorating the early Comstock days. Then somebody suggested reproducing the pony express as a relay race, and the plan has met with an enthusiastic response in all the six states through which the pony riders used to carry the mails in the old days. A meeting of representatives of these states will take place shortly to complete arrangements.

"Furthermore, it is planned to have the pony express race fit in with celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the discovery of gold in California, and to have a real pioneer festival. In this festival all the towns along the route of the old pony express will be invited to join. The names of Mark Twain and Bret Harte, the great recorders of life in the times of the pony express, will be honored at these festivals.

"As luck will have it, the roads to be traversed by the riders are in the best possible condition for ponies and in the worst condition for automobiles. They are not paved. Thus the ponies and their riders will have almost as clear a road over the 2000 miles between St. Joseph, Mo., and Sacramento as that enjoyed by the old-time riders."

AIN TO DASH ALONG ITS OLD 2,000-MILE ROUTE



Thereupon "Buffalo Bill" unfastened the dummy pouch and hurled it at the head of the nearest outlaw, who dodged, half amused at the young fellow's spirit.

It is true, as Mr. Field intimates, that men of the old pony express were not impeded by too much other traffic along the way. But they surmounted other difficulties, such as hostile Indians, trails so primitive that sometimes the riders became lost in darkness or in storm, no bridges, thieving and reckless desperadoes, usually called "road agents," and along most of the route an uninhabited country where help was seldom available.

The pony express riders set the records for endurance in the saddle. There was Jack Keetly, for example, who alternated with Frey and a man named Baughn in riding from St. Joseph to Seneca, Kan. Once the exigencies of the service compelled Keetly to go 340 miles without rest, traveling 31 hours continuously. During the last five miles he fell asleep and in this manner concluded his long trip.

Frey, already mentioned, was a native Missourian and although he weighed less than 125 pounds, was every inch a man. His division, from St. Joseph to Seneca, was 80 miles long and he covered it at an average rate of 12 1-2 miles an hour, including all stops. Afterwards Frey enlisted in the Union army and was killed in 1863 during a hand-to-hand fight with bushwhackers in Arkansas. He is said to have slain five of his assailants before being struck down.

Two of the most famous riders were Robert ("Pony Bob") Haslam and William F. Cody, then a youngster but afterwards known to fame as "Buffalo Bill." Haslam's greatest performance occurred while the Utes were on the warpath. Having ridden 75 miles, he reached Reed's Station, Nev., only to find there was no change of mounts available, since the white men of the vicinity had appropriated all the horses to go against the Indians.

So Haslam pushed on 15 miles to the next station, Buckland's. There he should have been relieved, but the other man refused to start out—the only instance in the history of the pony express that a messenger failed to respond to the call of duty. Within 10 minutes, having acquired a carbine, "Pony Bob" was on his way to the Sink of the Carson, 35 miles distant. There he changed horses and went another 37 miles to Cold Springs, changed horses again and rode another 30 miles to Smith's Creek, where the westbound mail pouch was taken by rider J. G. Kelley.

After nine hours of sleep at Smith's Creek, Haslam started back with the eastbound mail. On reaching Cold Springs once more, he found that a tragedy had happened. Everything was in ruins. The horses were gone. Nearby lay the corpse of the faithful station keeper. The Indians had been there!

"Pony Bob" watered his steed and pounded on without rest or food. Through the darkness, with clumps of sage brush on either side and amid the weird howling of wolves, he made his way safely to Sand Springs. There he got a fresh horse and persuaded the station man to accompany him on to the Sink of the Carson, a fact which doubtless saved the man's life. There, in the adobe station, they found gathered 15 white men who had beaten off an Indian attack just a few hours previously. The whites had plenty of supplies and a cool spring of water, and tried to dissuade Haslam from trying to continue his trip.

But the schedule of the pony express had to be maintained and, after getting an hour's rest and choosing a good horse, away he went. And back into Buckland's he came unharmed. For this he received a bonus of $100. But it wasn't the end of his exploit. The westbound mail would soon arrive, and there was nobody to take his regular run. So after resting an hour and a half, he got into the saddle again and went back along his old trail over the Sierras to Friday's Station.

There "Pony Bob" rested, after having ridden 380 miles with scarcely 11 hours of layoff and within a very few hours of schedule time all the way. Haslam admitted afterwards that he was "rather tired," but said that "the excitement of the trip braced him up to stand the journey."

Cody had an unusually dangerous route between Red Buttes and Three Crossings, Wyo. One day when he reached Three Crossings, he found that the man who was to have taken the mail onward from that point had been killed, and there was no extra rider. Cody gladly accepted the extra task. Within a moment he was off on a fresh horse for Rocky Ridge, 85 miles away. There he exchanged mail pouches and started right back with the eastbound mail, reaching Red Buttes without mishap or delay—an aggregate run of 322 miles.

This was probably the longest continuous performance without a rest period in the history of this or any other courier service.

Among the exciting adventures which "Buffalo Bill" had while riding for the pony express was one occasion when a large sum of currency was being shipped. News of the shipment had been rumored about, and Cody provided himself with an extra mail pouch stuffed with waste papers. The regular pouch, with the currency, he hid beneath a special saddle blanket. In a lonely spot two highwaymen stepped into the road with leveled rifles and compelled the boy to halt, at the same time demanding the letter pouch. Cody protested, but the men told him to hand it over or they would shoot him full of holes.

Thereupon "Buffalo Bill" unfastened the dummy pouch and hurled it at the head of the nearest outlaw, who dodged, half amused at the young fellow's spirit. Both robbers were now somewhat off their guard, and Cody acted like a flash. Whipping out his revolver, he wounded the farther outlaw, then dug the spurs into his horse and rode over the other man as he stooped for the mail sack. Before the half-stunned "road agent" could recover himself to shoot, horse and rider were out of range and running like mad for the next station, which they reached ahead of the schedule.

It is a remarkable fact that only two riders lost their lives in the performance of duty, although many of the station keepers were killed by Indians. One messenger was surrounded by a large number of Indians on the Platte River, in Nebraska. The savages shot him. The man's body was not found for several days, but the pony, bridled and saddled, escaped with the mail, which was afterwards recovered and duly forwarded.

Another rider, a Mexican, was shot from ambush as he passed through a dense thicket, and although he managed to reach the next station, he died a few hours later. When the horses were drowned in fords or died from other causes, the riders would remove the mail pouch and walk to the next station, no matter how many miles distant.

That so many more station keepers, hostlers, etc., were killed than riders was in large measure due to the wisdom of the company in buying only high-grade horses. The mounts were not all "ponies," by any means, although the service had been advertised beforehand as a pony express and the name stuck to it. The horses were purchased throughout the West, and were the best that money could buy. They ranged from tough California cayuses, or mustangs, to thoroughbred stock from Iowa. They were bought at an average price of $200 each, a high figure in those days.

These magnificent animals invariably outclassed the Indian ponies in speed and endurance. And it took the best of horseflesh to make the regular schedule. At first it was planned to run each horse 25 miles, with an average of three horses to the rider, whose divisions were to be about 75 or 80 miles long. But experience soon showed that a horse could rarely continue at a maximum speed for such a distance.

Then it became the practice to change mounts every 10 or 12 miles, or as nearly that as possible. More transfers of the letter pouch thus became necessary, but the schedule was greatly facilitated, nevertheless. The average horse could be crowded to the limit of its speed over the reduced distance.

The total weight of all the mail in the four pockets was strictly limited to 20 pounds. Because of the carrying charges, letters were written on the thinnest of tissue paper and New York newspapers printed special copies on very thin paper to be sent to the Pacific Coast. Furthermore, every piece of mail was wrapped in a waterproof covering and sealed, to protect it from the sweat of the horse, the water in fording streams, rain and other moisture.

The riders were carefully chosen, not only for their horsemanship and courage, but for lightness of weight. The dominant idea was to insure the greatest possible speed and maintain a service of which an incredulous California newspaper, with the Indians in mind, said it was "simply inviting slaughter upon all the foolhardy young men who had been engaged as riders."

It is interesting that Congress never gave any direct financial aid to the pony express, although it carried mail. Thus there would often be 25 $1 "pony" stamps on a single letter, and 25 10-cent U. S. postage stamps, making a total of $27.50 charges. The War Department did, however, issue army revolvers and cartridges to the riders.

The men were the pick of the frontier, and received salaries of from $50 to $150 a month, the riders getting the highest pay of anybody below executive rank. It has been said that no private organization ever re-

THE finishing touches are being [illegible] the ZR-1, the giant dirigible being [illegible] for the United States Navy at [illegible] N. J. This is the first airship of its [illegible] ever constructed for the navy and [illegible] larger than any craft of its kind [illegible] ever took the air in the United [illegible] It is 700 feet long and has a maximum diameter [illegible] feet.

An effort has been made to have the ZR-1 [illegible] to St. Louis for the air races next fall and [illegible] still a chance that this will be done. At any [illegible] remarkable development of the rigid type [illegible] probably will be seen in this section of the [illegible] as a cross-continent flight is planned.

A sister ship, to be known as the ZR-3 is now [illegible] built for the United States in Germany, to be [illegible] over to this country as a reparations payment. [illegible] expected that the ZR-3 will be stationed at Scott [illegible] near St. Louis.

The remarkable power and capacity of the ZR-1 [illegible] indicated by the announcement of experts [illegible] will be able to cruise one-third the distance [illegible] the world without having to descend. It will [illegible] a lifting power of 85 tons and an average speed of [illegible] miles an hour, with a maximum of 75 miles. It [illegible] the original intention to equip the big ship with [illegible] Liberty engines, capable of developing 250 [illegible] power, but naval experts have been experimenting [illegible] a new type of motor, the specifications of which [illegible] not been made public, and it is probable this new [illegible] of engine will be used.

Every effort has been made in the building of [illegible] ZR-1 to take advantage of knowledge gained [illegible] study of previous dirigible disasters, notably the [illegible] lapse of the ZR-2, which was built for the United [illegible] Navy in England and was wrecked on its first [illegible] cruise.

One big difference between the dirigible now [illegible] ing completion and the ZR-2 is that the new [illegible] is strengthened at every second duraluminum [illegible] the framework instead of at every third, as was [illegible] ZR-2. This strengthening is accomplished by [illegible] each section of the 25-sided rings of the frame[illegible] with the strongest possible strands of bronze [illegible]

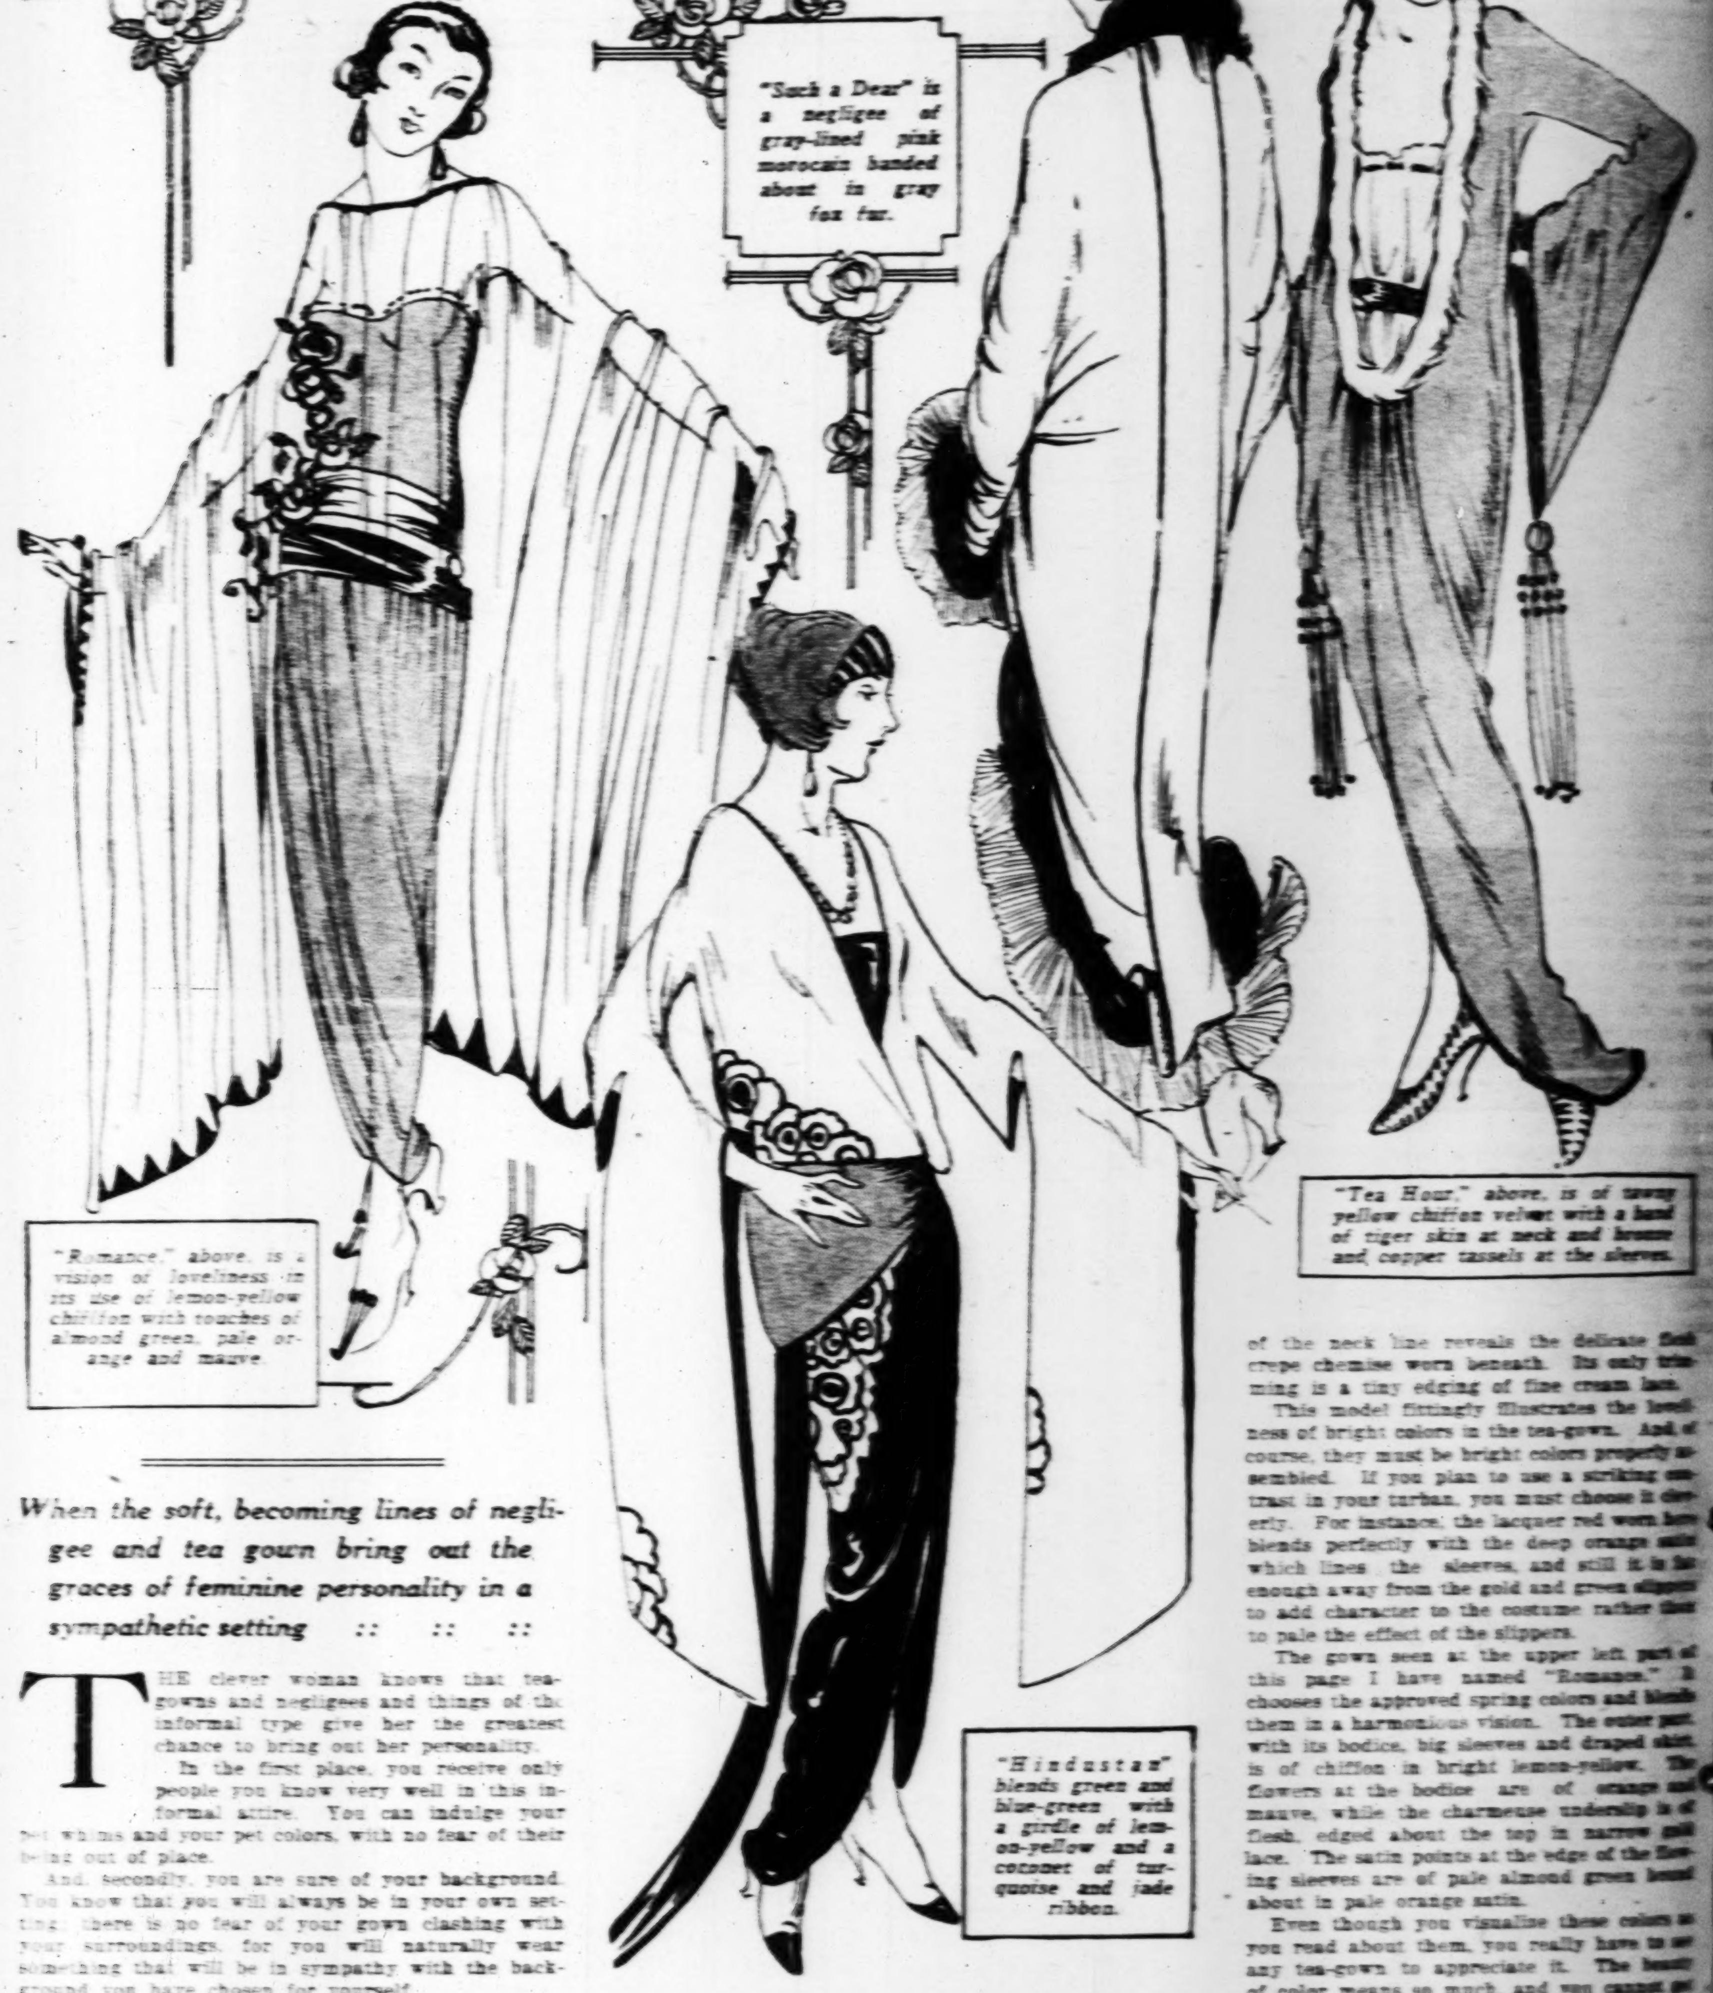
For the Informal Hour



"Such a Dear" is a negligee of gray-lined pink morocain banded about in gray fox fur.

"Romance," above, is a vision of loveliness in its use of lemon-yellow chiffon with touches of almond green, pale orange and mauve.

"Tea Hour," above, is of tawny yellow chiffon velvet with a band of tiger skin at neck and bronze and copper tassels at the sleeves.

"Hindustan" blends green and blue-green with a girdle of lemon-yellow and a coronet of turquoise and jade ribbon.

When the soft, becoming lines of negligee and tea gown bring out the graces of feminine personality in a sympathetic setting :: :: ::

THE clever woman knows that tea-gowns and negligees and things of the informal type give her the greatest chance to bring out her personality.

In the first place, you receive only people you know very well in this informal attire. You can indulge your pet whims and your pet colors, with no fear of their being out of place.

And, secondly, you are sure of your background. You know that you will always be in your own setting; there is no fear of your gown clashing with your surroundings, for you will naturally wear something that will be in sympathy with the background you have chosen for yourself.

The variety of inspirations which the tea-gown may follow is remarkable. Although it is always of soft becoming lines suited to a woman in her hour of ease, there are myriad ways in which this soft becomingness may be arranged.

It may sweep in a straight, smooth line from shoulder to heels, it may drop in winglike sleeves which float out as the wearer moves about, or it may be caught into a group of soft folds which drape into the girdle.

An example of the tea-frock which relies on simple lines and gorgeous material for its interpretation is seen in the model up at the right, which I have named "Hindustan." The upper part is of bright jade crepe, embroidered in shades of green and blue-green, while the lower part is of blue-green charmeuse, embroidered in jade.

The long, sweeping sleeves are lovely on the woman who has sufficient height to wear them. The length of this model is accented by the slim panels which drop upon the floor, while the snugly tied girdle of bright lemon-yellow is most flattering to slim hips. She wears a coronet of ribbon in turquoise and jade.

"Tea Hour," shown at the right, above, is a thing of loveliness in its draping of tawny yellow chiffon velvet. The interesting deep-cut neck is outlined in a narrow band of tiger skin.

And now I'll tell a secret to those of you who design your own kimonos and negligees. A band of soft fur about the neckline never fails to be alluring. There's an indefinable charm about fur when it bands filmy chiffon or smooth satin.

The velvet used in this model is of the sheer light summer weight, so fine in texture that it could be drawn through the proverbial wedding ring. Richness is added by heavy bronze and copper tassels that hang from the graceful sleeves. They in turn are faced back with orange satin. Added color interest is given by the lacquer red satin turban and the slippers striped in pale green and gold. The cut of the neck line reveals the delicate flesh crepe chemise worn beneath. Its only trimming is a tiny edging of fine cream lace.

This model fittingly illustrates the loveliness of bright colors in the tea-gown. And of course, they must be bright colors properly assembled. If you plan to use a striking contrast in your turban, you must choose it cleverly. For instance, the lacquer red worn here blends perfectly with the deep orange satin which lines the sleeves, and still it is far enough away from the gold and green slippers to add character to the costume rather than to pale the effect of the slippers.

The gown seen at the upper left part of this page I have named "Romance." It chooses the approved spring colors and blends them in a harmonious vision. The outer part, with its bodice, big sleeves and draped skirt, is of chiffon in bright lemon-yellow. The flowers at the bodice are of orange and mauve, while the charmeuse underslip is of flesh, edged about the top in narrow gold lace. The satin points at the edge of the flowing sleeves are of pale almond green bound about in pale orange satin.

Even though you visualize these colors as you read about them, you really have to see any tea-gown to appreciate it. The beauty of color means so much, and you cannot get the effects of contrasts and soft blends without actually seeing them.

The fourth model, "Such a Dear," is a young girl's negligee, which is at once smart and youthful in its combination of pink and gray. Pink crepe morocain makes a long coat which wraps gracefully about the figure. The charm of fur is expressed in its banding of gray fox, while a pleated ruffle of gray tulle and lining of pale gray crepe completes the color scheme.

If you have an eye for color you may discover that you have lovely bits of brocaded fabric and chiffon that you can combine into a gown for informal hours.

Cape treatments, with the bloused backs, are very smart. You might use a colorful length of chiffon, brocaded in silver and gold, for the bloused top, and a blending tint of plain chiffon for the skirt.

Some tea-gowns, as you will see here, are worn

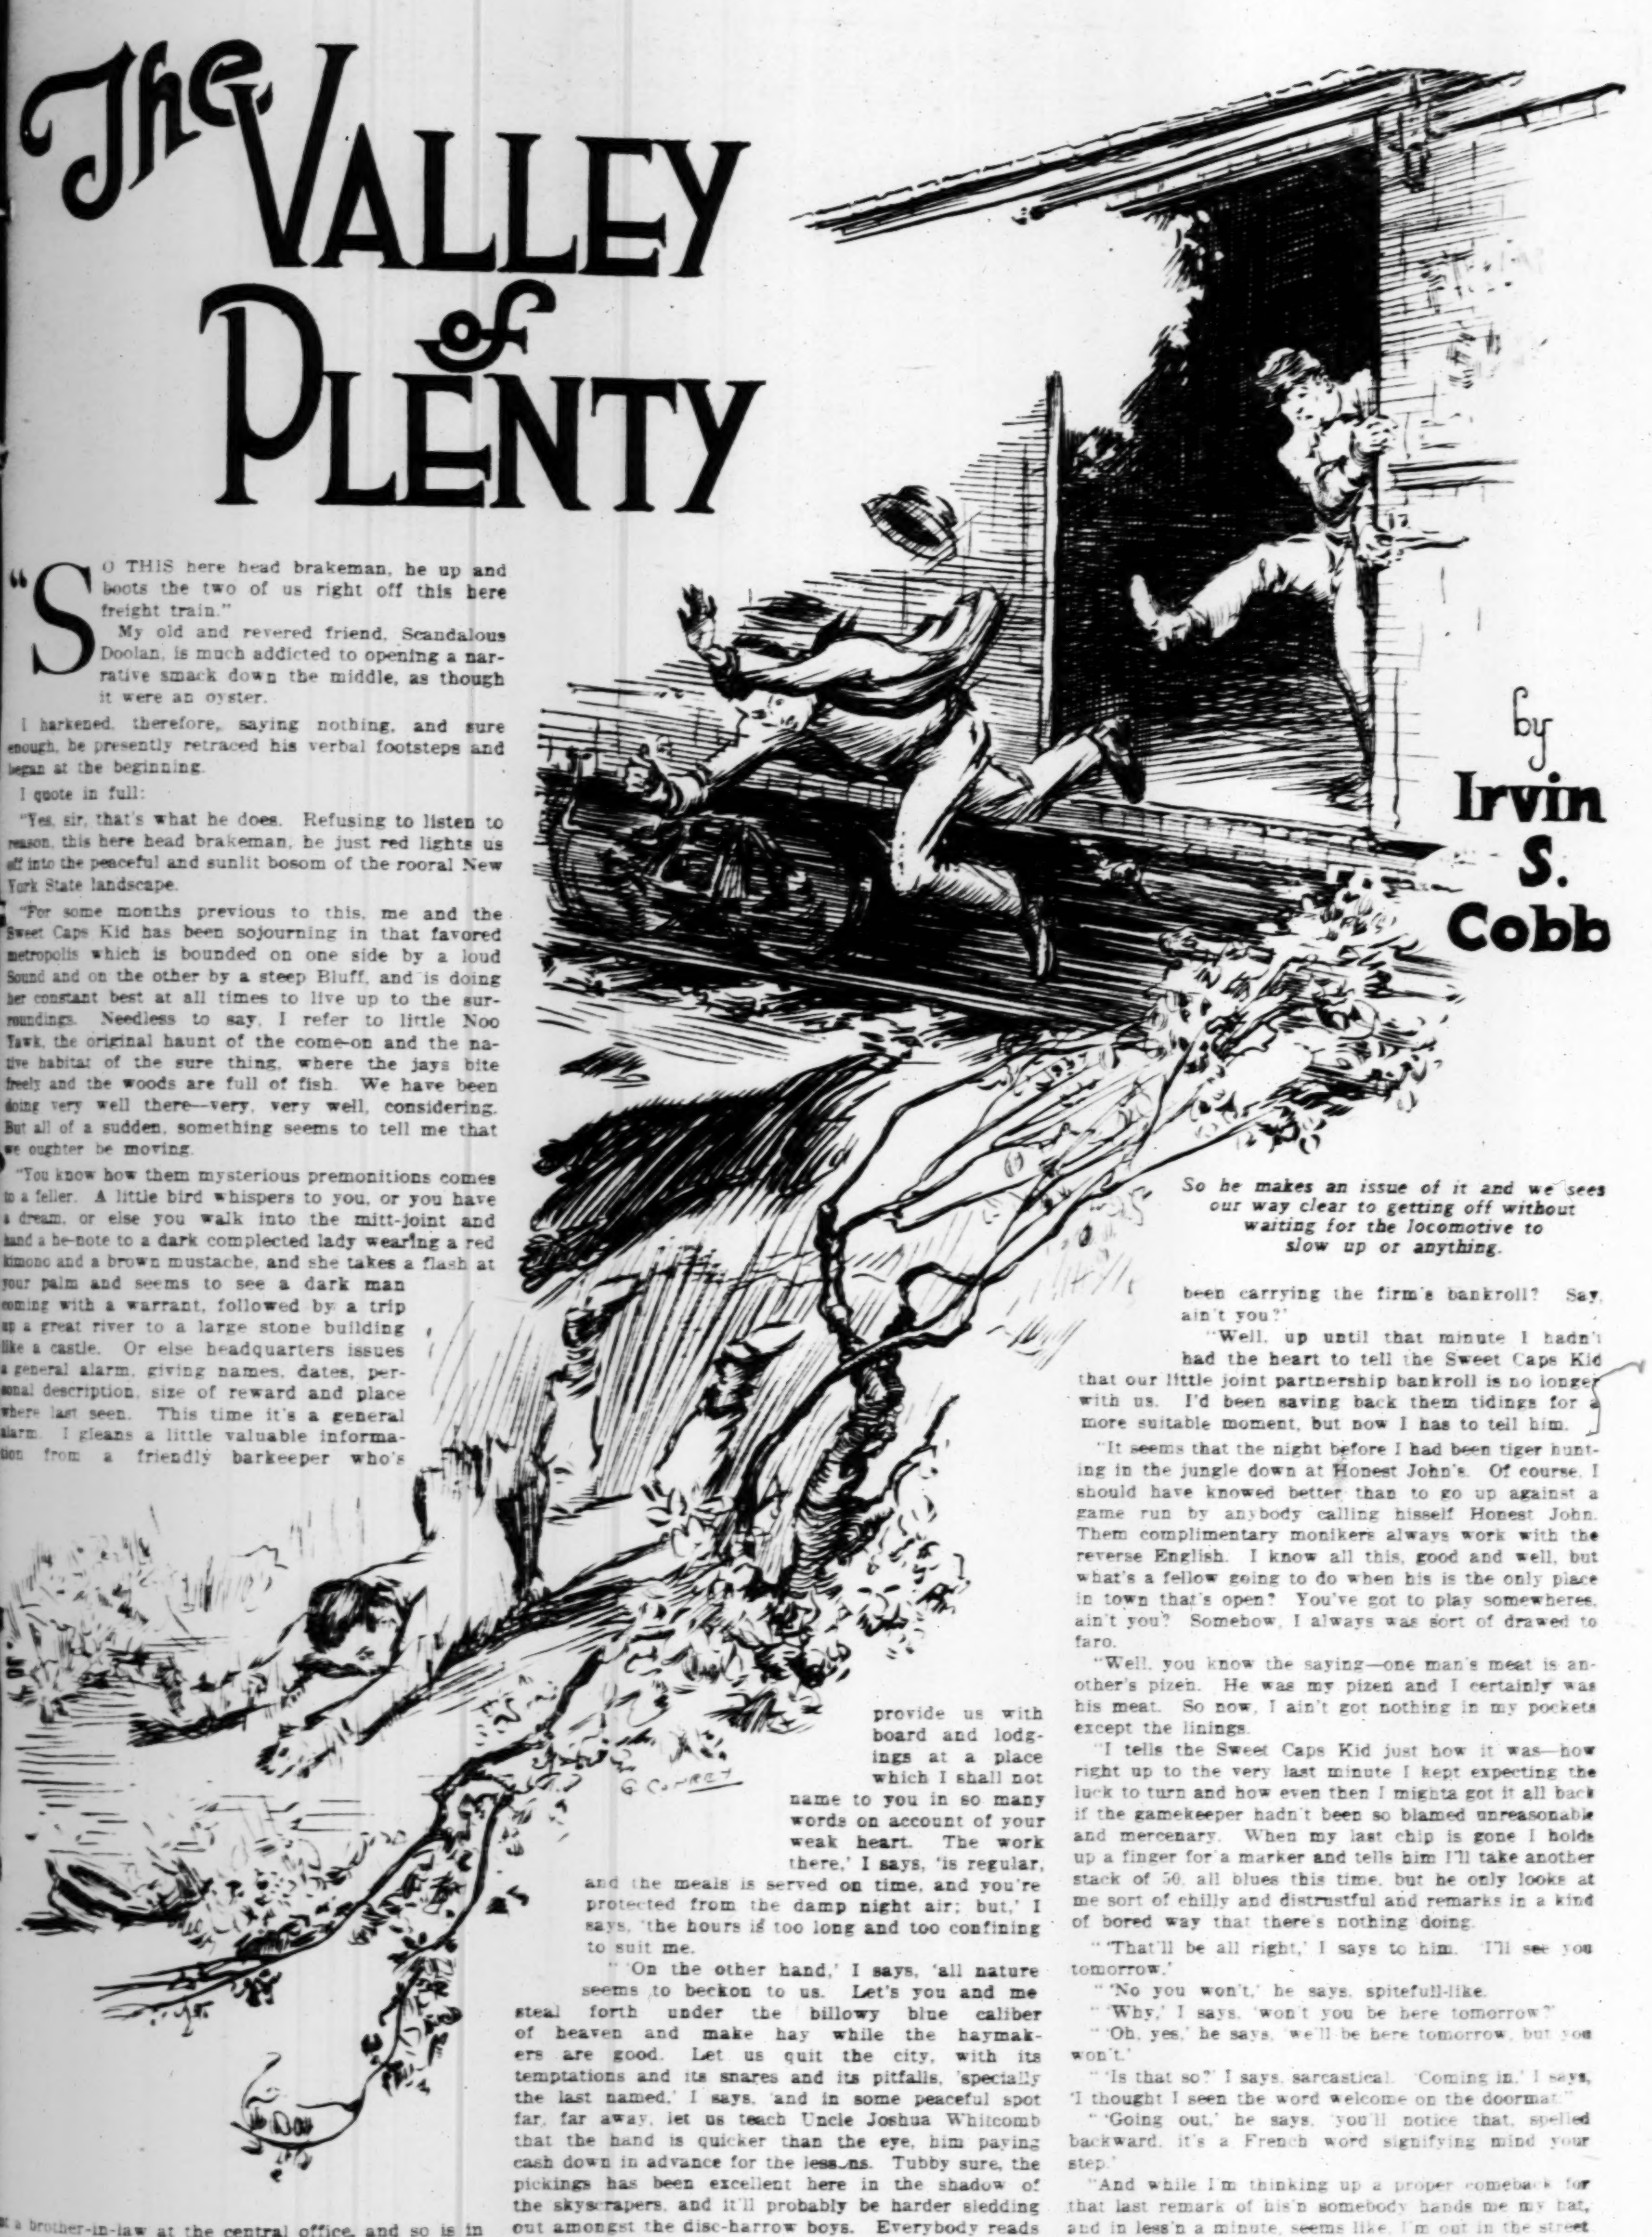
The VALLEY of PLENTY

by

Irvin S. Cobb



"SO THIS here head brakeman, he up and boots the two of us right off this here freight train."

My old and revered friend, Scandalous Doolan, is much addicted to opening a narrative smack down the middle, as though it were an oyster.

I harkened, therefore, saying nothing, and sure enough, he presently retraced his verbal footsteps and began at the beginning.

I quote in full:

"Yes, sir, that's what he does. Refusing to listen to reason, this here head brakeman, he just red lights us off into the peaceful and sunlit bosom of the rooral New York State landscape.

"For some months previous to this, me and the Sweet Caps Kid has been sojourning in that favored metropolis which is bounded on one side by a loud Sound and on the other by a steep Bluff, and is doing her constant best at all times to live up to the surroundings. Needless to say, I refer to little Noo Yawk, the original haunt of the come-on and the native habitat of the sure thing, where the jays bite freely and the woods are full of fish. We have been doing very well there—very, very well, considering. But all of a sudden, something seems to tell me that we oughter be moving.

"You know how them mysterious premonitions comes to a feller. A little bird whispers to you, or you have a dream, or else you walk into the mitt-joint and hand a be-note to a dark complected lady wearing a red kimono and a brown mustache, and she takes a flash at your palm and seems to see a dark man coming with a warrant, followed by a trip up a great river to a large stone building like a castle. Or else headquarters issues a general alarm, giving names, dates, personal description, size of reward and place where last seen. This time it's a general alarm. I gleans a little valuable information from a friendly barkeeper who's got a brother-in-law at the central office, and so is in position to get hold of much interesting and timely chit-chat before it becomes common gossip throughout the neighborhood. So then I takes the Sweet Caps Kid off to one side and I says to him, I says:

"'Kiddo,' I says, 'listen: I've got a strong presentiment that we should oughter be going completely away from here. Do you seem to get my general drift?' I says.

"'Huh,' he says, 'you talk as if there'd been a squeal.'

"'Squeal?' I says. 'Squeal? Son, you can take it from me there's been a regular season of grand opera. You and me are about to be accused of pernicious activity. What's more, they're liable to prove it. There's a movement on foot in influential quarters to provide us with board and lodgings at a place which I shall not name to you in so many words on account of your weak heart. The work there,' I says, 'is regular, and the meals is served on time, and you're protected from the damp night air; but,' I says, 'the hours is too long and too confining to suit me.

"'On the other hand,' I says, 'all nature seems to beckon to us. Let's you and me steal forth under the billowy blue caliber of heaven and make hay while the haymakers are good. Let us quit the city, with its temptations and its snares and its pitfalls, 'specially the last named,' I says, 'and in some peaceful spot far, far away, let us teach Uncle Joshua Whitcomb that the hand is quicker than the eye, him paying cash down in advance for the lessons. Tubby sure, the pickings has been excellent here in the shadow of the skyscrapers, and it'll probably be harder sledding out amongst the disc-harrow boys. Everybody reads the papers these days, only the rube believes what he reads and the city guy don't. I hate to go, but I ain't comfortable where I am. In short,' I says, 'I've been handed the office to skiddoo, and in such cases I believe in skiddooing. Let us create a vacancy in these parts sine quinine—which,' I says, 'is Latin, meaning it's a bitter dose, but you gotta take it.'

"'I can start right this minute,' says Sweet Caps; 'my toothbrush is packed and all I've got to do is to put on my hat. S'pose we run up to 125th street, which is a nice, secluded spot,' he says, 'and catch the rattler.'

"'How are you fixed for currency?' I says.

"'Fixed?' he says. 'I ain't fixed a-tall. Ain't you been carrying the firm's bankroll? Say, ain't you?'

"Well, up until that minute I hadn't had the heart to tell the Sweet Caps Kid that our little joint partnership bankroll is no longer with us. I'd been saving back them tidings for a more suitable moment, but now I has to tell him.

"It seems that the night before I had been tiger hunting in the jungle down at Honest John's. Of course, I should have knowed better than to go up against a game run by anybody calling hisself Honest John. Them complimentary monikers always work with the reverse English. I know all this, good and well, but what's a fellow going to do when his is the only place in town that's open? You've got to play somewheres, ain't you? Somehow, I always was sort of drawed to faro.

"Well, you know the saying—one man's meat is another's pizen. He was my pizen and I certainly was his meat. So now, I ain't got nothing in my pockets except the linings.

"I tells the Sweet Caps Kid just how it was—how right up to the very last minute I kept expecting the luck to turn and how even then I mighta got it all back if the gamekeeper hadn't been so blamed unreasonable and mercenary. When my last chip is gone I holds up a finger for a marker and tells him I'll take another stack of 50, all blues this time, but he only looks at me sort of chilly and distrustful and remarks in a kind of bored way that there's nothing doing.

"'That'll be all right,' I says to him. 'I'll see you tomorrow.'

"'No you won't,' he says, spitefull-like.

"'Why,' I says, 'won't you be here tomorrow?'

"'Oh, yes,' he says, 'we'll be here tomorrow, but you won't.'

"'Is that so?' I says, sarcastical. 'Coming in,' I says, 'I thought I seen the word welcome on the doormat.'

"'Going out,' he says, 'you'll notice that, spelled backward, it's a French word signifying mind your step.'

"And while I'm thinking up a proper comeback for that last remark of his'n somebody hands me my hat, and in less'n a minute, seems like, I'm out in the street keeping company with myself.

"I tells all this to the Sweet Caps Kid, but still he don't seem satisfied with my explanation. So I says to him: 'Cheer up,' I says, 'things ain't so worse. Due to my being in right with the proper parties we gets this here advance tip, and beats the barrier while this here fat central office bull, who thinks he wants us, is slipping his collar on over his head in the morning. Remember,' I says, 'we are going to the high grass where the little birdies sing and the flowers bloom.'

"Tubby sure, I'm speaking figurative. I ain't really aiming for the deep woods proper. I'm really figuring to land in one of them small junction points, such as Cleveland or Pittsburg. And we would, too, if it hadn't

So he makes an issue of it and we sees our way clear to getting off without waiting for the locomotive to slow up or anything.

A Tale of Two Wanderers and Their Desperate Quest been for that there head brakeman.

"Anyway, we moons round in a kind of unostentatious way until the shank of the evening arrives 'long about 2 a. m. Then we slips over into the yards below Riverside Drive. There we presently observes a freight train, which is giving signs of getting ready to make up its mind to go somewheres.

"A freight train is like a woman. When you see a woman coming out of the front door and running back seven or eight times to get something she's forgot, you know that woman is on her way. And it's the same way with freights; that's why they call them she's. Pretty soon this here freight quits vacillating back and forth and comes sliding down past where we're waiting.

"'Here comes a side-door Pullman, with the side doors open,' I says. 'Let's get on and book a couple of lowers.'

"'How do you know where she's going?' says the Kid, him being greatly addicted to idle questions.

"'I don't,' I says; 'the point is that she's going. Tonight she will be here, but tomorrow she will be extensively elsewhere; and so,' I says, 'will we. Let us, therefore, depart from these parts while the departing is good,' I says.

"Which we done so, just like I'm telling you. And for some hours we trundles along very snug and comfortable, both of us being engrossed in sleep. When we wakes up it's another day, and the wicked city is far, far behind us, and we are running through a district which is entirely surrounded by scenery. If it hadn'ta been that something keeps reminding me I ain't had no breakfast I coulda been just as happy.

"'Where'll we git off?' says Sweet Caps, setting up and rubbing his eyes.

"'Well,' I says, 'we takes our choice. Maybe Albany,' I says. 'The Legislature is in special session and a couple of grafters more or less won't make no material difference. Maybe Rochester,' I says, 'which is a pleasant city, full of thriving industries. Maybe,' I says, 'if this here train don't take a notion to climb down off the track and go berry-picking, maybe Chicago. Of course,' I says, 'Chi ain't quite so polished as New Yawk. But,' I says, 'what's the difference? Everywhere you go,' I says, 'there's always human life and Chicago is reputed to be quite full of population and very probably we can find a few warm-hearted persons there who are more or less addicted to taking a chance.'

"But this here brakeman comes snooping along and intimates that we better be thinking about getting off. He's probably the biggest brakeman living. If he was any bigger than what he is, he'd be twins. We endeavors to argue him out of the notion, but it seems like he's sort of set in his mind. So he makes an issue of it and we sees our way clear to getting off without waiting for the locomotive to slow up or anything. After our departure the train continues on its way thither, we remaining hither.

"'My young friend,' I says, when the dust has settled down, 'the question which you propounded about five minutes ago is now answered. This is where we get off—right here on this identical spot. So let us be up and doing,' I says, ''specially doing. But the first consideration,' I says, 'is vittles.'

"Well, we arises up and goes away from there, walking in a general direction, and before long we comes to a sign which says we are now approaching the incorporated village of Plentiful Valley—Autos Reduce Speed to Eight Miles an Hour—No Tramps Allowed. I kind of favors the sound of that name—Plentiful Valley. And as I remarks to the Sweet Caps Kid, 'We ain't no autos and we ain't no tramps, but merely two professional men, looking for a chance to practice our profession.'

"We rambles on until it must be going on towards 9:45 o'clock, and comes to a neat bungalow on a green slope inside of a high white fence. There's a venerable party setting on the front porch, in his shirt-sleeves. He looks beneficent and well fed.

"'Pull down your vest, son-boy,' I says to Sweet Caps, 'and please remember not to drink your coffee out of the sasser. I have a growing conviction,' I says, 'that we are about to partake of refreshment.'

"'Hadn't we better sell this ancient guy a few Bermuda oats, or something, to start off with?' says he.

"'Not until after we have et,' I says; 'business before pleasure. And anyway,' I says, 'I works best on a full stomach. Follow your dear uncle,' I says, 'and don't do nothing till you hear from me.'

"With that I opens the gate and we meanders up a neat gravel path. As we draws near, the venerable party takes his feet down off the railings.

"'Come in,' he says, cordially; 'come right in and rest your face and hands. You're out nice and early.'

"'Suffer us,' I says, 'to introduce ourselves. We are a couple of prominent tourist pedestrians, walking from Noo Yawk to Portland, Ore., on a bet. This,' I says, pointing to Sweet Caps, 'is Young Twinkletoes, and I am commonly knowed as old King Lightfoot the First. By an unfortunate coincidence,' I says, 'we got separated at an early hour from our provision wagon, as a result of which we have omitted breakfeast and feel the omission severely. If we might impose,' I says, 'upon your good nature to the extent of——'

"'Don't mention it,' he says; 'take two or three chairs and set down, and we'll talk it over. To tell you the truth,' he says, 'I was jest setting here wishing somebody would come along and visit with me a spell. I'm keeping bachelor's hall,' he says, 'and raising chickens on the side, and sometimes I get a mite lonely. I guess maybe the Chink might scare up something, although,' he says, 'to tell you the truth, there ain't hardly a bit in the house, except a couple of milk-fed broilers and some fresh tomatusses right out of the garden and a few hot biscuits and possibly some razzberries with cream; for I'm a simple feeder,' he says, 'and a very little satisfies me.'

"He pokes his head inside the door and yells to a Jap to put two more places at the table. So we reclines and indulges in edifying conversation upon the current topics of the day and, very shortly, nourishing smells begin for to percolate forth from within, causing me to water at the mouth until I has all the outward symptoms of being an ebb-tide. But this here pernicious Sweet Caps Kid; he can't let well enough alone. Observing copious signs of affluence upon every side he gets ambitious and would abuse the sacred rights of hospitality about half to three-quarters of an hour too soon. Out of the tail of my eye I sees him reaching in his pocket for the educated pasteboards and I gives him the high sign to soft pedal, but he don't mind me. Out he comes with 'em.

"'A little harmless game of cards,' he says, addressing the elderly guy, 'entitled,' he says, 'California euchre. I have here, you will observe, two jacks and an ace of spades. I riffle and shuffle and drop 'em in a row, the trick being to pick out the ace. Now then,' goes on this besotted Sweet Caps, with a winning smile, 'just to while away the time before breakfast, s'pose you make a small bet with me regarding the present whereabouts of said ace.'

"The party with the whiskers gets up; and now, when he speaks, I sees that in spite of him wearing a brush arbor, he ain't no real rube.

"'To think,' he says, more in sorrow than in anger, 'to think that me, who helped Canady Bill sell the first gold brick that ever was molded in this country, should, in my declining years, have a couple of wooden-fingered amateurs come along and try to slip me the oldest graft in the known world! I'll try to forgive you,' he says, 'but at this moment your mere presence offends me. On your way out,' he says, 'kindly latch the gate behind you—the chickens might stray off.

"'Furthermore,' he says, 'I would offer you a word of advice. Beware,' he says, 'of the constable in the village beyond. You'll recognize him by his whiskers,' he says. 'Alongside of him, I look like an onion in the face. Ten years ago,' he says, 'that constable swore a solemn oath not never to shave until he'd locked up a thousand bums, and,' he says, 'he's now on his last lap. Keep moving,' he says, 'till you feel like stopping, and then don't stop.'

"Them edifying smells has made me desperate.

"'We don't go,' I says, 'until we gets a bite.'

"'Oh! I'll see that you get a bite,' he says. 'Sam,' he says, calling off-stage, 'kindly unchain Ophelia and Ralph Waldo. Ophelia,' he says, turning to us, 'is a lady Great Dane, standing four feet high at the shoulders and very morose in disposition. But Ralph Waldo is a cross-breed—part Boston bull and part snapping turtle. Here they are now! Sick 'em, pups!'

"Sweet Caps starts first, but I beats him to the gate by half a length, Ophelia and Ralph Waldo finishing third and fourth respectively. We fades away down the big road, and the last thing we sees as we turns a wistful farewell look over our shoulders is them two man-eaters raging back and forth inside the fence, and the old guy standing on the steps laughing.

"So we pikes along through the village of Plentiful Valley without stopping and walks on and on and on some more, until we observes a large, prosperous-looking building of red brick, like a summer hotel, with a lawn in front and a high stone wall in front of that. A large number of persons of both sexes, but mainly females, is wandering about over the front yard, dressed in peculiar styles. Leaning over the gate is a thick-set man gazing with repugnance upon a lettuce leaf which he is holding in his right hand.

"'What, ho, comrades!' he says. 'What's the latest and newest in the great world beyond?'

"'Mister,' I says, 'how's the prospects for a pair of footsore travelers to get a free snack of vittles here?'

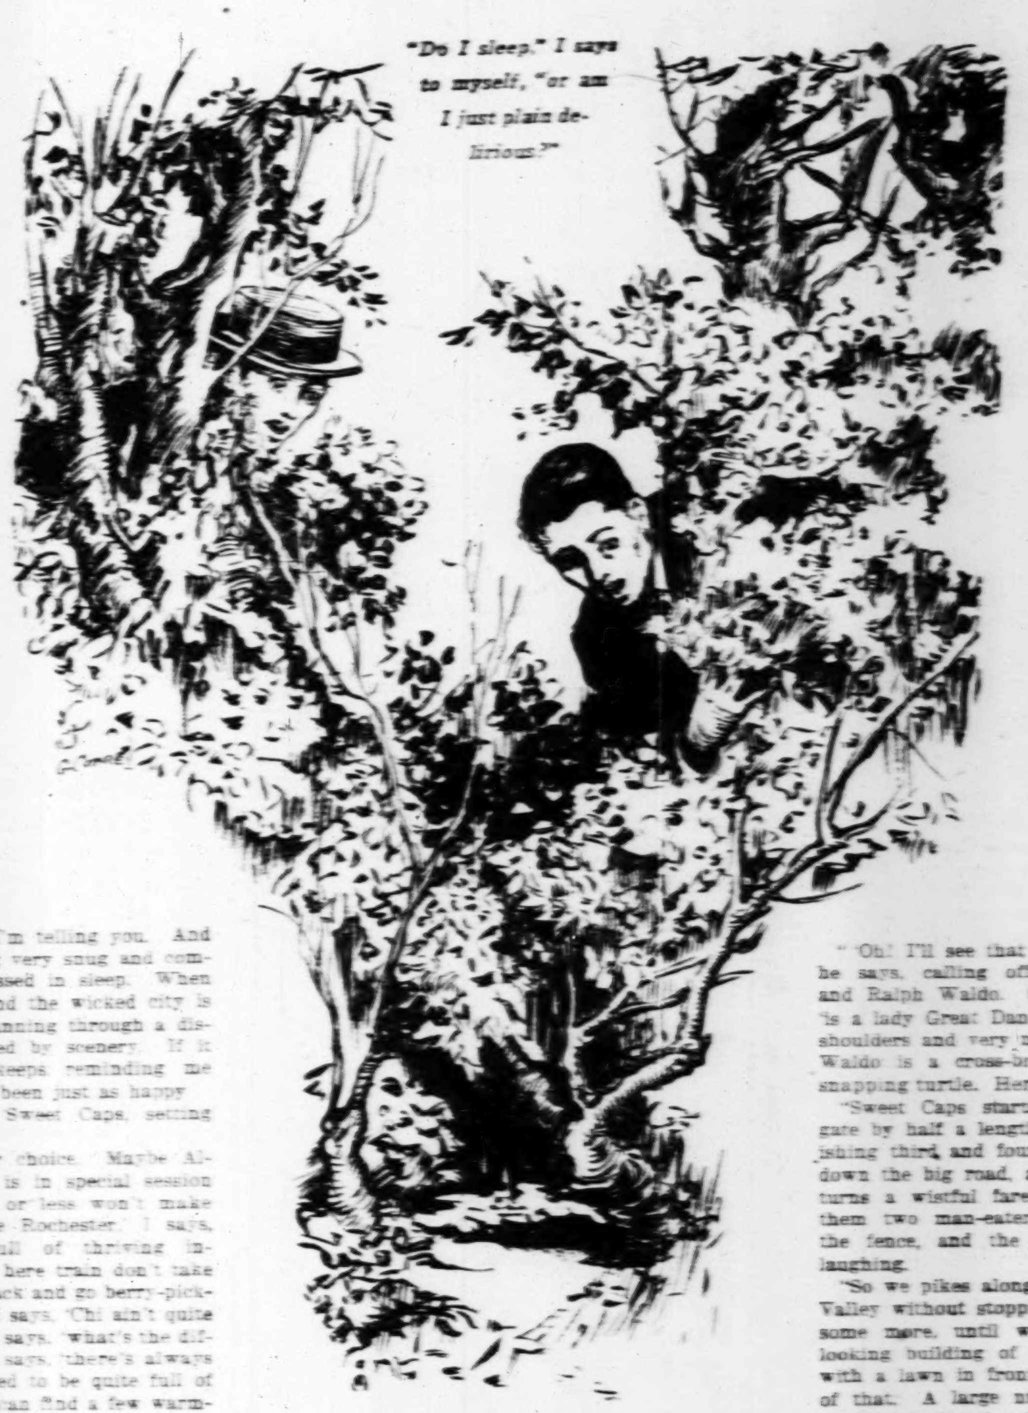
"'Poor,' he says, 'very poor. The diet here,' he says, 'is exclusively vegeterrible. You wouldn't scarcely believe it,' he says, 'but we're paying our good money for this. Some of us is here to get cured of what the doctors think we've got, and some of us is here,' he says, 'because as long as we stay here they ain't so liable to lock us up in a regular asylum. Yes,' he says, pensively, 'we've got all kinds here. That lady yonder,' he says, pointing to a large female who's dressed all in white and ain't got no shoes on, 'she's getting back to nature. She walks around in the dew barefooted. And that fat one just beyond her believes in reincarnation.'

"'Might I ask,' I says, 'what is your particular delusion? Are you a striped cabbage worm or a pet white rabbit?'

"I was thinking about that lettuce leaf which he held in his mitt.

"'Not exactly,' he says. 'I was such a good liver that I developed a bad one, and so I paid a specialist $80 to send me here. At this writing,' he says, 'the beasts of the field have but little on me. We both browse, but they've got cuds to chew on afterwards. It's sickening,' he says, in tones of the uttermost conviction. 'This here frayed foliage which I hold in my hand,' he says, 'is popularly known as the mid-forenoon refreshment. Later on there'll be more of the same, but the big doings will be pulled off at dinner tonight,' he says, with a bitter laugh. 'There'll be a mess of lovely boiled carrots,' he says, 'an' some kind of chopped fodder, and if we're all real good and don't spill things on our bibs or make spots on the tablecloth, why, for dessert we'll each have a nice dried prune. I shudder to think,' he says, 'what I could do right this minute to a large double-sirloin cooked with onions Desdemona style, which is to say, smothered.'

"'Mister,' I says, 'I never thought I'd fall so low as to be a vegeterrier, but necessity,' I says, 'is the mother of vinegar. Could you please, sir, stake us



"Do I sleep," I says to myself, "or am I just plain delirious?"

a couple of bites out of that there ensilage of your'n—one large bite for me and one small bite for my young friend there—to keep what little life we have until the coming of the corned beef and cabbage?'

"'Fellow sufferer,' he says, 'listen here to me: If I don't eat enough to keep me alive to get out of here when the time comes, I won't be alive to get out of here when the time comes. Anywhere else I could love you like a brother,' he says, 'and divide my last bite with you, but not here,' he says, 'not here! Do you get me?' he says.

"'Sir,' I says, 'I get you. Take care of yourself and don't get foundered on the green truck,' I says. 'A bran mash now and then and a wisp of cured timothy hay about once in so long ought to keep off the grass colic,' I says. 'Come on, little playmate,' I says to Sweet Caps, 'let us meander further into this here vale of plenty of everything except something to eat. Which, by rights,' I says, 'its real name ought to be Hungry Hollow.'

"And just as I'm speaking them words, we come to a lovely glade in the woods and stops with our mouths ajar and our eyes bulged out like push buttons. 'Do I sleep,' I says to myself, 'or am I just plain delirious?'

"For right there, out in the middle of the woods, is a table with a white cloth on it, and it's all covered over with the most lucivicious looking viands you ever see in your life, including a ham and a couple of chickens and a pie and some cool-looking bottles with long necks on 'em and gilt-foil crowns upon their regal heads. And a couple of flunkies in long-tailed coats and knee breeches and white wigs are mooning round fixing things up ship shape. And just then a tall lady comes sauntering out of the bushes, and she strolls up close and the flunkies bow and fall back and she says something about everything being now ready for Lady Gwyndolin's garden party and departs the same way she came. And the second she's out of sight, me and Sweet Caps can't hold in no longer. We busts through the roadside thicket and tears acrost that open place, likety-split. It seems too good to be true. And it is. When we gets up close we realize the horrible truth.

"The ham is wood and the chicken is pasteboard and the pie is a prop pie and the bottles ain't got nothing in 'em but the corks. As we pauses, stupefied with disappointment, a cheerful voice calls out: 'That's the ticket! Hold the spot and register grief—we can work the scene in and it'll be a knockout!'

"And right over yonder at the other side of the clearing stands a guy in a checked suit grinding the handle of a moving-picture machine. We has inadvertently busted right into the drammer. So we kicks over his table and departs on the run, with a whole troupe of them cheap fillum troopers chasing after us, calling hard names and throwing sticks and rocks and things.

"After while, by superior footwork, we loses 'em and resumes our journey. By the time 5 o'clock comes we have traveled upwards of 900 miles, running sometimes, but mostly walking. Nearly everything has happened to us except something to eat. So we comes to the edge of a green field alongside the road and I falls in a heap, and Sweet Caps he falls in another heap.

"'Kiddo,' I says, 'let us recline here and enjoy the beauties of nature,' I says. 'Consider the setting sun,' I says, 'a-sinking in the golden west. Gaze yonder,' I says, 'upon that great yellow orb with all them fleecy white clouds banked up behind it.'

"'I'm gazing,' he says. 'It looks something like a aig fried on one side. That's the way I always uster take mine,' he says, 'before I quit eating—fried with the sunny side up.'

"I changed the subject.

"'Ain't it a remarkable fact,' I says, 'how this district is addicted to dogs? Look at that there little stray pup yonder,' I says, 'jumping up and down in the wild mustard, making himself all warm and panty. That's an edifying sight,' I says.

"'You bet,' says the Sweet Caps Kid, kind of dreamy, 'it's a great combination,' he says, 'hot dog with fresh mustard. That's the way we got 'em at Coney,' he says.

"'Sweet Caps,' I says, 'you are breaking my heart. Desist,' I says. 'I ask you to desist. If you don't desist,' I says, 'I'm going to tear your head off by the roots and after that I'll probably get right rough with you. Follow me,' I says, 'and don't speak another word of no description whatsoever.'

"He trails along behind me, and his head is hanging low and he mutters to hisself. Injun file we retraces our weary footsteps until we comes once more to the village of Plentiful Valley. We goes along Main street because it's the only street there is—until we comes to a small brick building which you could tell by the bars at the windows that it was either the local bank or the calaboose. On the steps of this here establishment stands a party almost entirely concealed in whiskers. But on his breast I sees a German silver badge gleaming like a full moon seen through thick brush.

"'The town constable, I believe?' I says to him.

"'The same,' he says. 'What can I do for you?'

"'Lock us up,' I says, 'him and me both. We're tramps,' I says, 'vagrants, derelicks wandering to and fro,' I says, 'like raging lions seeking whatsoever we might devour—and not,' I says, 'having no luck. We are dangerous characters,' I says, 'and it's a shame to leave us at large. Lock us up,' I says, 'and feed us.'

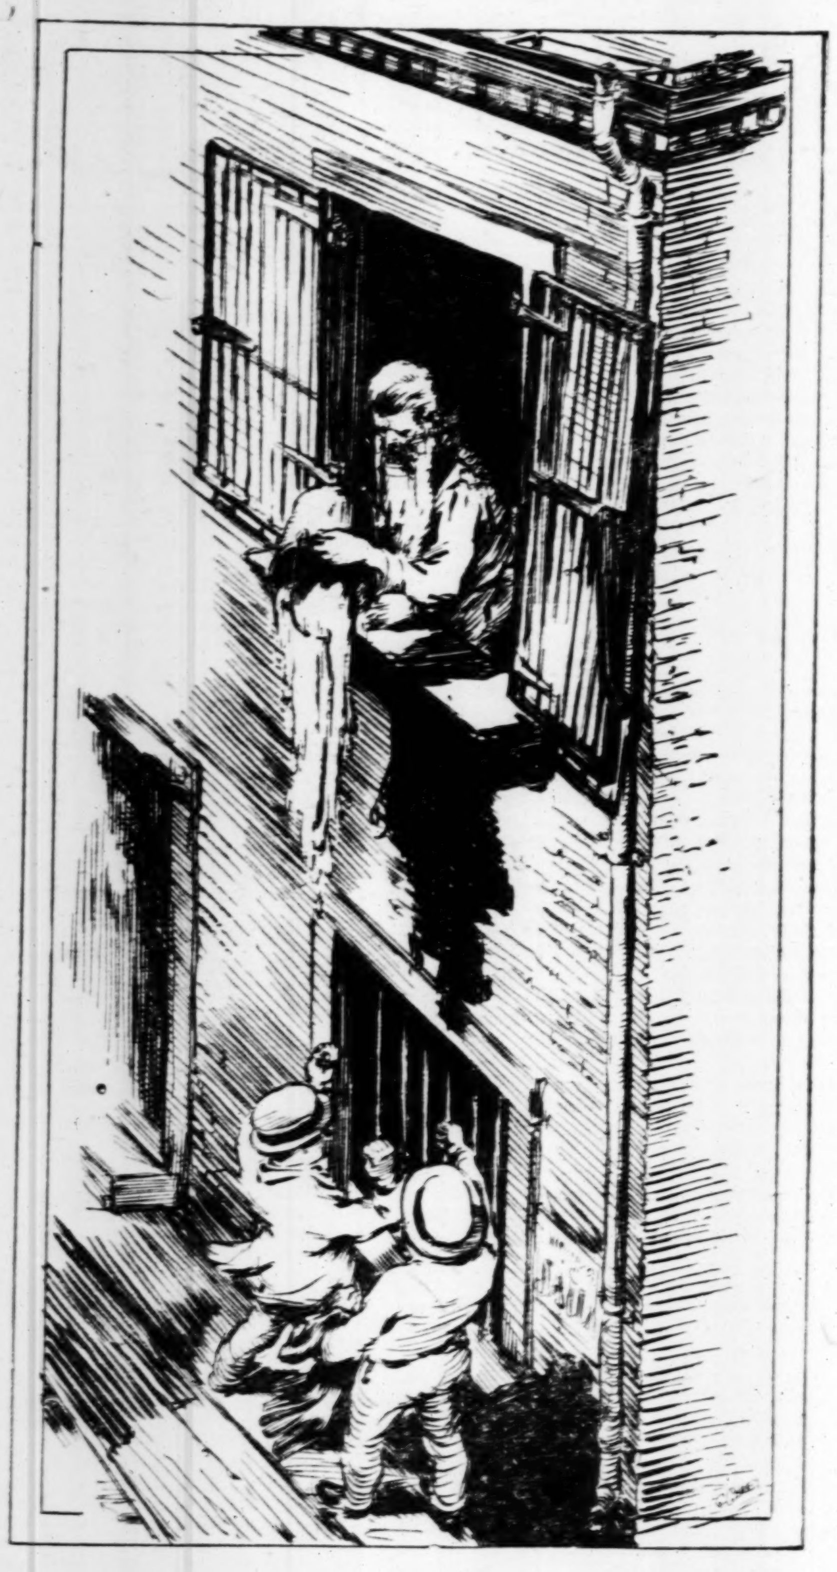
"'Nothing doing,' he says. 'Try the next town—it's only nine miles and a good, hard road all the way.'

"'I thought,' I says, 'that you took a hidebound oath never to shave until you'd locked up a thousand tramps.'

"'Yep,' he says, 'that's so; but you're a little late. I pinched him about an hour ago.'

"'Pinched who?' I says.

"'The thousandth one,' he says. 'Early tomorrow morning,' he says, 'I'm going to get sealed bids and estimates on a clean shave. But first,' he says, 'in celebration of a historic occasion, I'm giving a little supper tonight to the regular boarders in the jail. I guess you'll have to excuse me—seems to me like I smell the turkey dressing scorching.'



And with that he goes inside and locks the door behind him, and don't pay no attention to us beating on the bars, except to open an upstairs window and throw a bucket of water at us.

"And with that he goes inside and locks the door behind him, and don't pay no attention to us beating on the bars, except to open an upstairs window and throw a bucket of water at us.

"That's the last straw. My legs gives way, both at once, in opposite directions. Sweet Caps, he drags me across the street and props me up against a building, and as he fans me with his hat I speaks to him very soft and faint and low.

"'Sweet Caps,' I says, 'I'm through. Leave me,' I says, 'and make for civilization. And,' I says, 'if you live to get there, come back sometime and collect my mortal remains and bury 'em,' I says, 'in some quiet, peaceful spot. No,' I says, 'don't do that neither! Bury me,' I says, 'in a Chinee cemetery. The Chinees,' I says, 'puts vittels on the graves of their dear departed, instead of flowers. Maybe,' I says, 'my ghost will walk at night,' I says.

"'Look there,' says Sweet Caps, pointing up Main street on the other side. 'Read that sign,' he says.

"I looks and reads, and it says on the front window:

"'Undertaking and Embalming in All its Branches.'

"I rallies a little. 'Son-boy,' I says, 'you certainly are one thoughtful little guy—but can't you take a joke? I talk about passing away, and before I get the words out of my pore, exhausted, vacant frame you begin to pick out the fun'el director. What's your rush?' I says. 'Can't you wait for the remains?'

"'Keep ca'm,' he says, 'and look again. I don't mean the undertaker's,' he says; 'I mean the place next door beyond. It's a delicatessen dump,' he says, 'containing cold grub all ready to be et without tools,' he says. 'And what's more,' he says, 'the worthy delicatessener is engaged at this present moment in locking up and going away from here. In about a half an hour,' he says, 'he'll be settling in his happy home. And shortly thereafter,' he says, 'what'll you and me be doing? We'll be there, in that vittels emporium, in the midst of plenty,' he says, 'filling our midst with plenty of plenty. That's what we'll be doing,' he says.

"'Sweet Caps,' I says, reviving slightly, 'remember who we are? Remember the profession which we adorn? Would you,' I says, 'sink to burglary?'

"'Scandalous,' he says, with feeling. 'I'm so hollow I could sink about three feet without touching nothing whatsoever. Death before dishonor, but not death by quick starvation. Are you with me,' he says, 'or ain't you?'

"Well, what could you say to an argument like that? Nothing, not a syllable. So eventually night ensoos. And purty soon the little stars come softly out and at the same juncture me and the Sweet Caps Kid goes in. We goes in an alley behind that row of shops and after feeling about in the darkness for quite a spell we finds a back window with a weak latch on it and we pries it open and we crawls in.

"Only, just as we gits inside all nice and snug, Sweet Caps he has to go and turn over a big long box that's standing up on end, and down it comes ker-blim! making a most hideous noise. Then we hears somebody upstairs run across the floor over our heads and hears 'em pile down the steps, which is built on the outside of the building to save building 'em on the inside of the building and in about a half a minute a fire bell or some similar appliance down the street a piece begins to ring its head off.

"'The stuff's off,' says Sweet Caps to me in a deep, skeered whisper. 'Let's beat it.'

"'Nix,' I says. 'You fasten that there window! I'm too weak to run now, and if they'll give me about five minutes among the vittels I'll be too full to run. Either way,' I says, 'it's a pinch, and,' I says, 'we'd better face it on a full stomach than an empty one.'

"'But they'll have the goods on us,' he says.

"'Son,' I says, 'if they'll only hang back a little we'll have the goods in us. Bar that window,' I says, 'and let joy be unconfined.'

"So we fastens her up from the inside, and while we hears the aroused and infuriated populace surrounding the place and getting ready to begin to think about making up their minds to advance en massy, I pulls down the front shades and strikes a match and lights up a coal-oil lamp and reaches round for something suitable to take the first raw edge off my appetite—such as a couple of hams.

"Then right off I sees where we has made a fatal mistake, and my heart dies within me and I jest plum collapses and folds up inside of myself like a concertina. And that explains," he concluded, "why you ain't seen me for going on the last 18 months."

"Did they give you 18 months for breaking into the delicatessen shop?" I asked.

Mr. Doolan fetched a long, deep, mournful sigh.

"No," he said, simply, "they gave us 18 months for breaking into the undertaker's."

Famous Pony Express Revived for Celebration

ceived more loyal service than the pony express received. The employes included hard riders and quick shooters and some of them today would be classed as "bad," yet in their allegiance to the pony express and maintaining the schedule they never faltered. One of the surviving riders is John Seebeck, 84 years old, now residing at Alameda, Cal.

A service rendered by the pony express which is almost forgotten now is the part it played at the outbreak of the Civil War in keeping California in the Union. That rich region was ardently desired by the adherents of secession, and to wrest control of the State from the Washington Government was the object of a far-flung plot.

Of course, California never did secede, nor attempt to do so, but it is said that of her 380,000 population in 1860, three-eighths were of Southern descent and solidly united in sympathy for the Confederate states. This minority included 16,000 "Knights of the Golden Circle." The native Spanish, or Mexican, classes, the squatters and trespassers, were given glowing promises of what would be done for their benefit under a different government. And too many of the Union men thought the war was sufficiently far away and would not bestir themselves.

It was a time when prompt communication between the loyal Californians and the Federal Government was urgently needed. The pony express furnished the means for this communication. Had it not been for the pony express, history today might read differently. In Bradley's book and others may be found important dispatches to and from the War Department which went by pony express.

The record time was made in getting President Lincoln's inaugural speech across the continent in March, 1861. It was awaited with the deepest anxiety on the Pacific Coast, and the company decided to surpass all previous performances. Horses were led out two or three miles from the stations to meet the incoming riders and secure the supreme limit of speed. The document was carried from St. Joseph to Sacramento—1966 miles—in just seven days and 17 hours, an average speed of 10 6-10 miles an hour.

The company organized by the famous stage and freight-wagon firm to operate the pony express was called the Central Overland, California and Pike's Peak Express Co. When fully equipped, the line comprised 190 stations, about 420 horses, 400 station men and assistants and 80 riders. The promoters lost a fortune, although at first they charged $5 for each half-ounce. This later was reduced to $1, but even then the receipts were sometimes $1000 a week.

Their approximate total expenditures included $100,000 to equip the line; 16 months' maintenance, at $30,000 a month, $480,000; cost of war with the Utes and allied tribes, $75,000, and sundry items, $45,000; total, $700,000. The receipts were about $500,000, leaving a loss of $200,000.

With the completion of the Pacific telegraph, on Oct. 24, 1861, the pony express formally went out of business. For three months it had been paralleled by the daily overland stage and for several weeks the pony men had ridden only between the ends of the fast building telegraph, which was constructed from the east and from the west simultaneously. There was widespread regret when the pony express was discontinued. But it had served its purpose and withdrew from the everyday world to take a glorious place in history.

NEW METAL MAY BANISH ANOTHER HOUSEHOLD CARE.

REST for the housewife from rubbing the family knives, forks and spoons is foreseen as a result of experiments at Sheffield, England, which indicate that the stainless metal, chromium, may be used in electroplating. These experiments have crowned with success years of efforts to find a method of depositing this valuable element on iron, steel, copper, nickel and brass by an electric current. Chromium is harder and lasts longer than the rust-proofing metals usually used. As it resists oxidation by air, water and acids, chromium-plating may be employed also to make ordinary steel knife blades stainless, as well as for plating tools and ornamental ware.

La-may is more than just Face Powder
La-may is more than an ordinary Face Powder because it does more than just cover up complexion blemishes. This improved formula contains medicinal powder that doctors and dermatologists prescribe to improve the complexion, to remedy skin irritations and to reduce enlarged pores. La-may is also astringent, discouraging flabbiness, crow's feet and wrinkles. And women say La-may stays on better than any other face powder. It stays on perfectly and does not contain any rice powder or white lead. In fact, you will be given five thousand dollars reward if you can get any chemist to find that La-may contains either of these harmful ingredients. You will also be given the same reward if you can buy a better face powder than La-may anywhere at any price. Because La-may is so pure and so harmless and because it stays on so well it is used by millions of American women. These intelligent women use La-may in preference to the most expensive imported powders, because they know from experience that there is no better powder made than La-may. When you use this harmless powder and see how wonderfully it improves your complexion you will understand why it is the most popular complexion powder sold in New York. Remember, if you are offered a substitute for La-may it is sure to be a demonstrator or someone trying to make a larger profit at your expense. All dealers carry the large box and many carry the generous thirty-five-cent size La-may. Save this notice. Herbert Roystone, Inc., 216 W. 18th St., New York

THE NEW HANDWRITING ON THE SKY

SKYWRITING as a method of advertising has been introduced recently into the United States by an American offshoot of an English company engaged in this work. Gigantic, clear and lasting legends in the sky attract the immediate attention of thousands, says a writer in Scientific American.

The inventor, an Englishman, Maj. J. C. Savage, conceived the idea of aerial advertising back in the year 1911 when watching in a beautiful evening sky the thin trail of smoke left in the air by the exhaust of an airplane motor. The problem was to generate a vapor which would hang undisturbed in the air and whose emission would be under the complete control of the pilot. Lengthy experiments conducted in secrecy, both in the laboratory and in the air, were interrupted by the war, and a practical realization of the idea was achieved only in the summer of 1920.

The exact chemical process and the control of emission are held secret.

Dr. J. P. Simmons, professor of chemistry at New York University, suggests, however, that the process is a simple one, based on a chemical combination such as that of hydrochloric acid and ammonia, producing a smoke of solid particles of ammonium chloride. An experiment illustrating this can be carried out in the most primitive chemical laboratory. The tank placed in the airplane would have to carry two containers, one of the acid and one of the ammonia, both in liquid form. The tank is connected to the exhaust pipe of the engine, and this pipe is carried to the tail of the airplane so that the emission of vapor is undisturbed. The engine exhaust would provide a draft which would suck on the hydrochloric acid; the vapor of the acid would pass into the second container and mix with the vapor of the ammonia and the resulting ammonium chloride would be carried off into the exhaust pipe. The process could be begun or stopped at the will of the pilot, by working a valve shutting off the apparatus from the exhaust. Possibly another valve would be used to shut off the acid from the air.

A chemical process of this character seems entirely plausible. A combustion process such as used in smoke torches, where pitch is slowly burnt with saltpeter as the oxidizing agent, would be too dangerous, even if the combustion were slow and under perfect control as too great a heat for the comfort of the airplane would be generated. To carry gas under compression would be impossible owing to the enormous amount of vapor used up in the writing. A great deal of beautiful experimentation must have been involved in getting a vapor which would remain sufficiently coherent in the air to give duration to the skywriting.

The letters are written in a horizontal plane, with strokes one mile high for capitals. The smoke trail is circular in cross-section and approximately 50 feet in diameter.

Naturally, somewhat ideal conditions are required for skywriting. The sky must be clear and blue, and the day calm. The writing must be carried out at an altitude of at least 10,000 feet. At this altitude the air is clear of disturbances. There may be steady winds, but no gusty disturbances to render flying difficulty or to break up the vapor.

The airplane required for skywriting need not differ greatly from the ordinary machine. Only minor modifications are made in the airplane piloted by Capt. Cyril Turner, the chief pilot of the firm, such as cutting away a portion of the rudder to give the vapor a free exit. The speed must be as great as possible so that the letters can be quickly written, which enhances the chances of clear writing, and the maneuverability must be perfect. Quick climb to the desired altitude and stability are also essential.

Mail, From New York to San Francisco, in 28 Hours

skies. The hangars and airplane shop stand out in daylight perspective, illumined on every side by gooseneck floodlights, such as are used on billboards. Any large chimneys or other tall obstacles in the vicinity will have warning red lights. In one corner of the field is a large illumined "T," which turns in the wind. This gives a pilot wind direction.

On top of the hangars another type of flood light throws a pattern of light on the field. This light is placed high enough to prevent any glare in the eyes of the pilot. Experiments prove that a pilot can land directly facing the beam without any difficulty. Two cinder runways, 2000 feet long, bisecting the field, are outlined with lights sunk in the ground and covered with glass and a heavy iron grating.

Having taken a midnight glance at the field, let us take a look at the mail plane which has just arrived from Iowa City. On the lower wing tips of the plane are two lights, small but powerful, each of which produces 250,000 candlepower. These the pilot uses in an emergency to light up obstacles. Red and green navigating lights as well as the lighted cockpit and the red glare of the exhaust lend picturesqueness to the scene which will be typical in a few months.

With the establishment of night flying it will be possible to send a letter direct from San Francisco to Chicago or New York or the reverse. Letters which were marked "via air mail" were formerly given preference in the airmail advancing system, but there was no guarantee that the letter would make its entire journey by plane.

Since the Postoffice Department is anticipating a considerable use of this fast service by the public, it is regarded as probable that the establishment of through service from coast to coast will be accompanied by the announcement of the use of a special airplane stamp. Such a stamp would be sold at a price which would compensate for the fast service, and would guarantee transportation by plane.

Two purposes will be served by the establishment of through transcontinental air mail service: the public will receive the fastest mail service known to man over extensive distances, and, secondly, another step will be made in the United States, pioneer work in the field of aviation; a task which is one of the chief reasons for the establishment of air mail service.

Last year the air mail personnel won recognition for the greatest achievement in American aviation by flying 2,000,000 miles on the transcontinental route for an entire year without a fatal accident. Night flying, if it is successful, will be another feather in the cap of the Postoffice Department air service. Even though every precaution is being taken to safeguard the flyers whose duty it will be to travel at night, the hazards of this work are not to be minimized. A loyal group of flyers, whose courage has been steeled by many an exploit, will undertake the experiment, and if it can be done by man they will do it.

over special flesh slips designed for the purpose. Others are not so filmy and are worn over dainty lingerie.

The negligee for boudoir wear is usually simpler in design. For this purpose you want something that is easy to slip into.

You make a simple little affair in plain-color crepe or charmeuse softened with a touch of lace. Or you may prefer to have a model in two softly blending tints, which uses a plain banding of color instead of lace.

One perfectly simple model of this kind is made of orchid crepe de chine banded in an exquisite pale blue. The model is a perfectly straight affair, longer than it is wide, with slits at the neck and sides. An inch and a half band of the pale blue finishes the neck and sleeve slits. A wide girdle of blue and orchid ties about the waist.

Another simple model is a plain kimono affair made with a surplice effect. It crosses over, passing through a slit in front, and ties at the side.

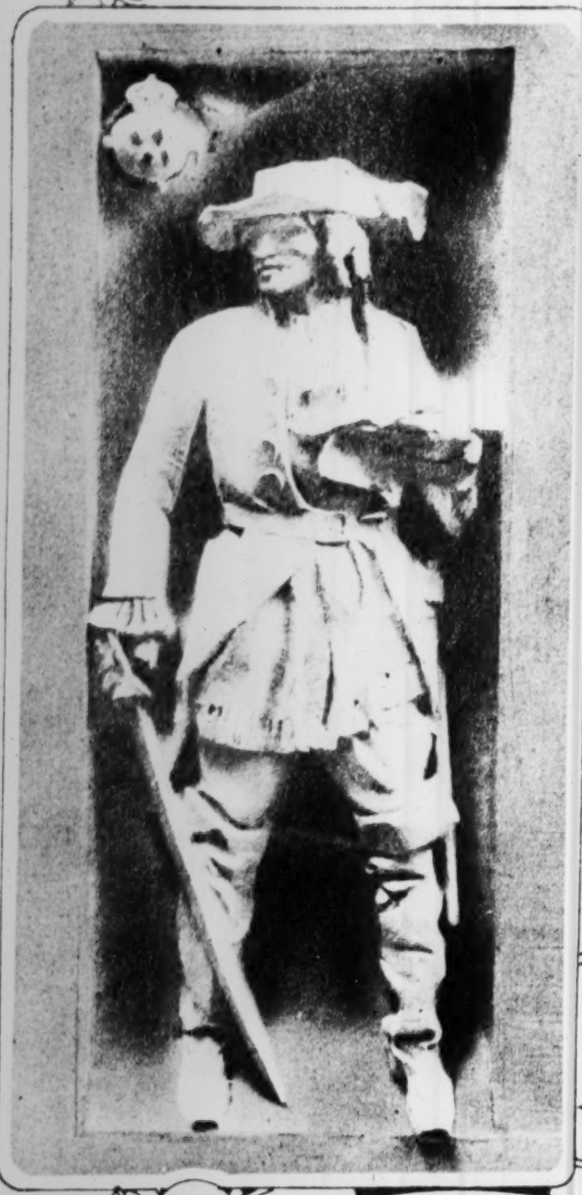
PUTTING PIONEER MISSOURI IN BAS-RELIEF AT JEFFERSON CITY



①

The work of carving the 130-foot frieze on the south facade of the Missouri State Capitol at Jefferson City has been started by the sculptor, A. Stirling Calder of New York.

The accompanying illustrations are reproduced from photographs of models from which the sculptor is working. The frieze will be 6 feet high and will cost $50,000. It will present a running story of the pioneer history of Missouri, in bas-relief.

Illustration No. 1 is a representation of Laclede, founder of St. Louis. "De Soto Sees the Setting Sun on the Great River," is the title of No. 2. The very striking picture designated as No. 3, depicts a buffalo hunt by primitive natives of the present great Commonwealth. A Missouri Indian of the early days praying to the rising sun is shown in No. 4. In No. 5 is seen a family of pioneers building a home in the Missouri wilderness. "The First Ploughing" is the title of No. 6.

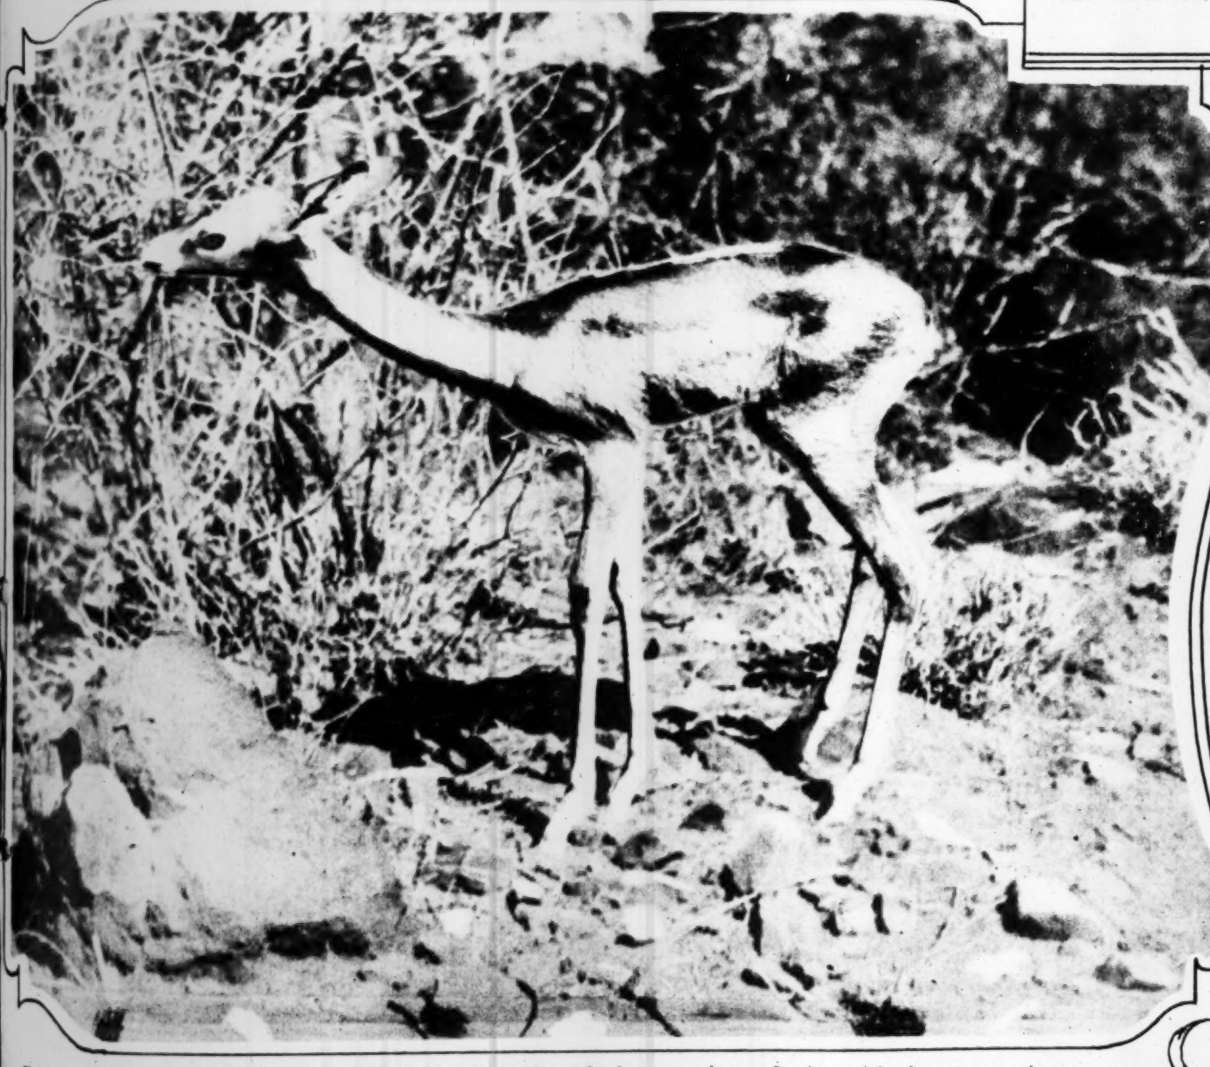
"WILD ANIMALS WE HAVE MET IN AFRICA"

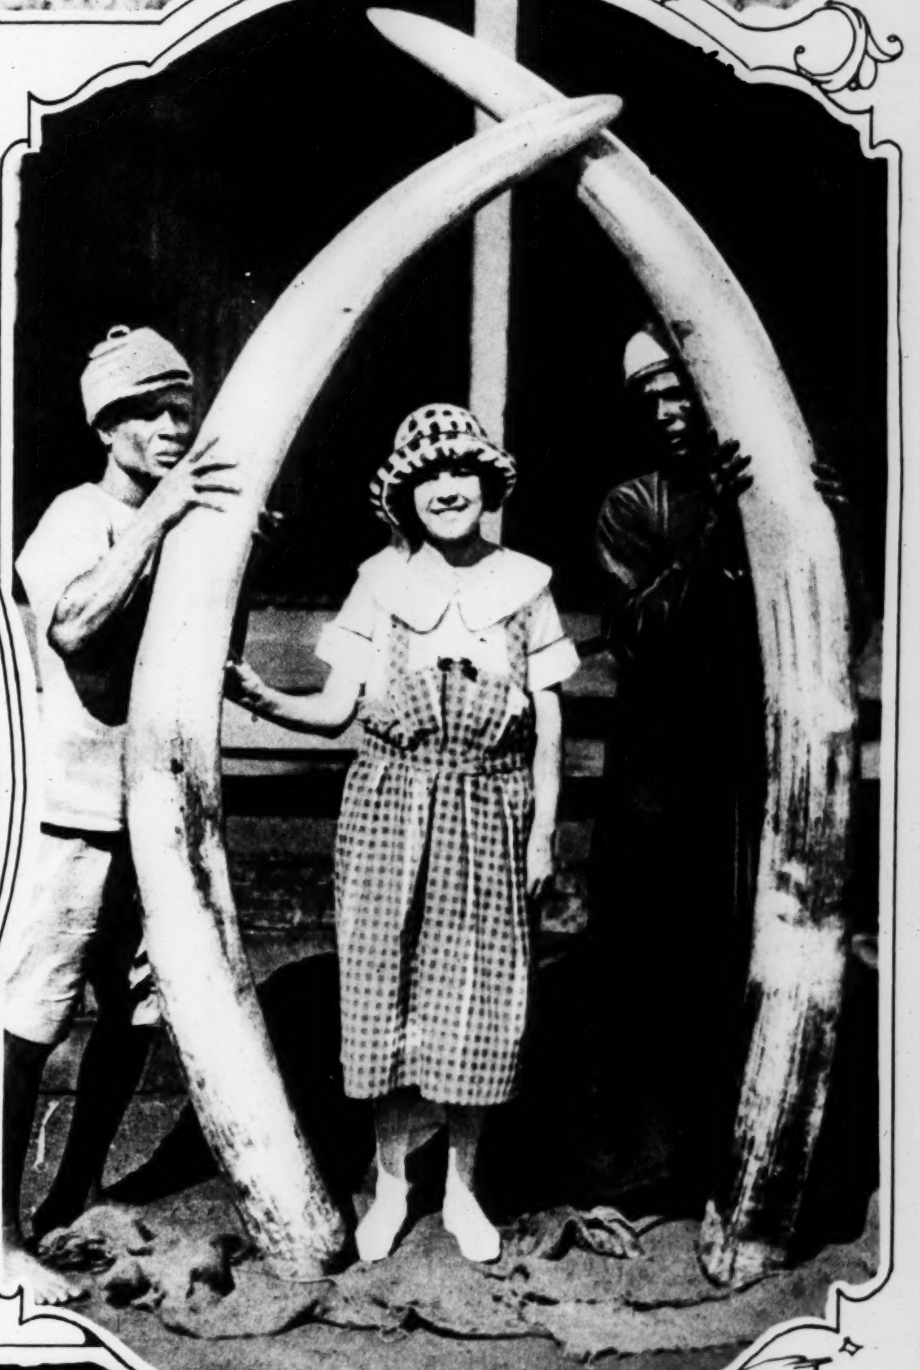
The wart hog is remarkable for attributes other than beauty—for instance, his roamin' nose.

These two elands are among the many animal actors in Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson's photoplay, "Trailing African Wild Animals," a Metro Pictures Corporation release. They were photographed in action in British East Africa. The eland is the largest of the antelope tribe, weighing as high as 1000 pounds.

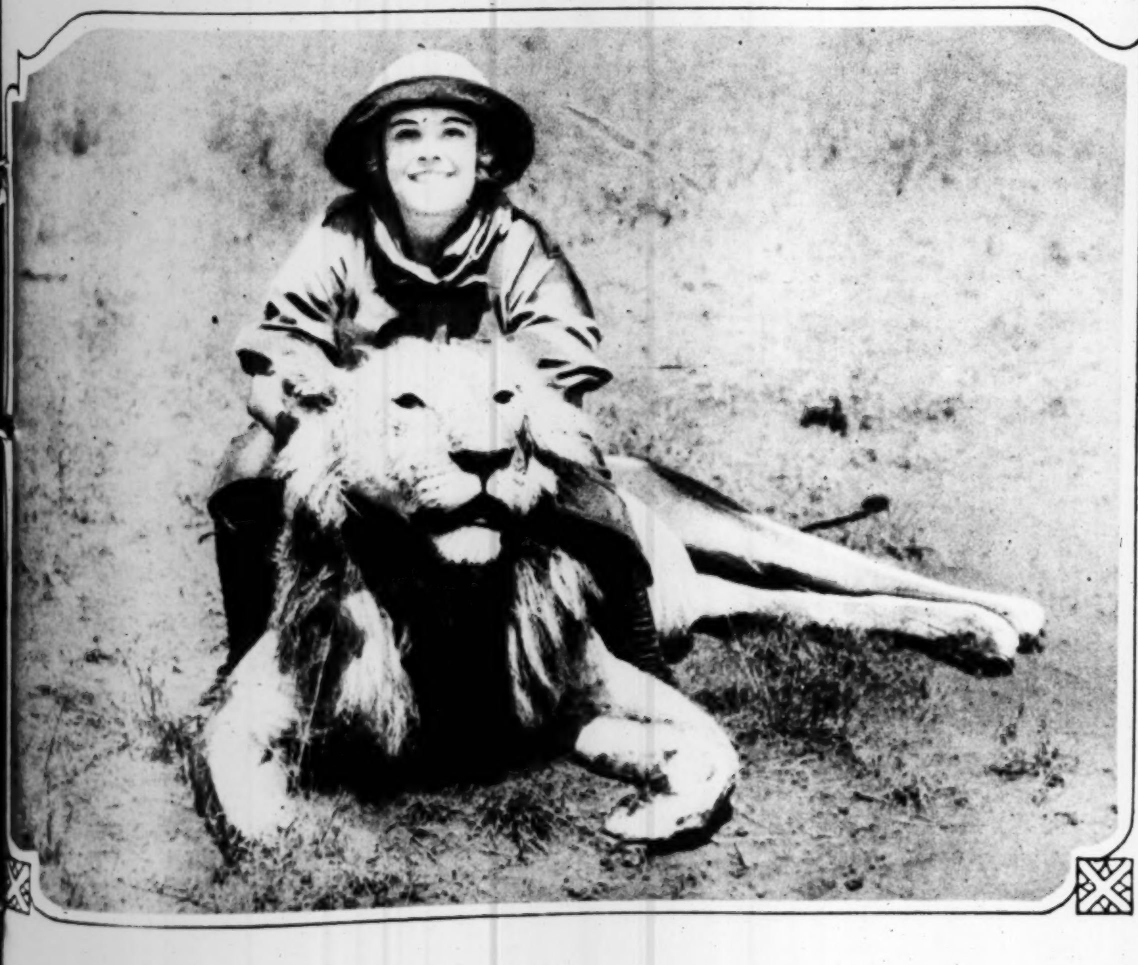


Did you ever see a gerenuk? Here's a female of the species. It is said the gerenuk never drinks, getting its moisture from grass and other vegetables. Its young feed on camel's milk, however. Nature gave the gerenuk a long neck so that it might eat its fill of leaves.

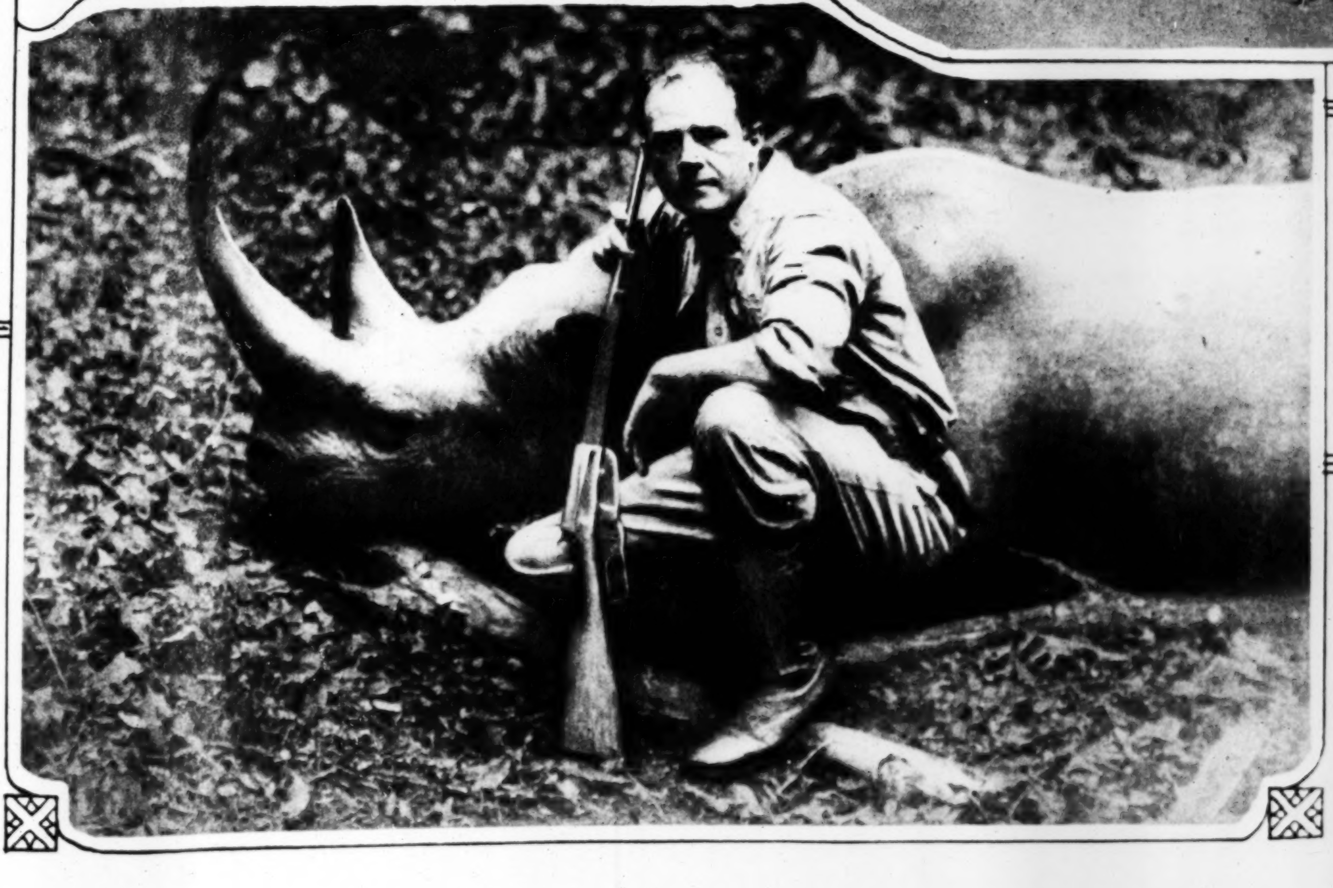
An unusual photograph of an African (or cape) buffalo. These are cunning and vicious animals. Both sexes have horns. The cape buffalo averages 1100 pounds in weight.



Mrs. Johnson stands between elephant tusks weighing 365 pounds and said to be worth $10,000.



From behind a blind, the Johnsons watched a file of lions passing. Ten having passed, Mrs. Johnson decided she'd "get" the eleventh. She fired one shot, then went out and sat down on the carcass until this picture was taken.



Martin Johnson is seen here beside the body of a big rhinoceros he killed with a shot through the head, when the ugly beast was but six feet away.

The bridge will connect highways on both sides of the river and eliminate long detours and ferry delays. The main span will be 1632 feet long, roadway 38 feet wide, towers 350 feet high.

Happiness Regained

For years her heart had hungered for the companionship of her children. She had longed to hear their childish prattle, and enter into their amusements. But this happiness had been denied her. To her their voices were dumb. Deafness had doomed her to live in an all-pervading silence. In her world was no music, no song of birds, no social diversion except with effort and embarrassment.

Deafness No Barrier Now

Now she lives in another world. A little device worn concealed in her hair enables her to hear as well as ever. It has restored her to that precious companionship of husband and children. It has enabled her once more to take her place in the social world from which her affliction had so long excluded her. It has wiped from her face the lines of suffering, and made her seem ten years younger.

Are You Left Out of Things?

Have you given up society because of deafness? Do you choose to sit at home rather than seem stupid when you are not? Do you endure suffering and humiliation because you think there is no help for you? Are you discouraged after buying costly outfits only to be disappointed?

If tiny lines appear—hateful signs of early ageing

Fine lines around your eyes, your nose, the corners of your mouth. Long before they have any right to come! What are you doing about them?

How will you smooth out these tiny lines—your changes of expression—before they can be worn deep into your skin?

You must give your skin the suppleness it needs. You must keep it so soft it cannot help but be smooth and unlined, for those premature lines are the troubles of a skin allowed to be too dry.

USE THE FAMOUS METHOD that many lovely women depend on

Many women are finding that the Pond's Method, which is based on the two fundamentals for keeping the skin supple, is more successful than they had dreamed it could be.

One woman in a letter telling about the suppleness a Pond's cleansing gives, and the soft freshening the Vanishing Cream imparts, says enthusiastically, "With this Cold Cream I find there is no place for wrinkles to come in my face. I have been a constant user of both Creams for over ten years. Although I am thirty years old my face looks twenty and I think I owe it to the use of Pond's Two Creams."

Begin tonight

Start tonight to keep your skin smooth and young by this method:

Every night cleanse your face thoroughly with Pond's Cold Cream. Apply this cream softly with a piece of moistened cotton. Wipe it off with a soft cloth. Do this twice—already your skin feels less tight and drawn. Now apply more cream and let it stay on. Pat it in especially around your eyes, nose and mouth where wrinkles form first. Feel how your face gradually softens and relaxes as it absorbs the fine light oil of this cream.

Then in the morning apply Pond's Vanishing Cream lightly over your whole face. This wonderful daytime softening cream will prevent your skin from drying out during the day. Now the wind cannot whip out its new suppleness. You will love its smoothness that lasts through the day. And you need not worry about early wrinkles. They will not form in your soft supple skin.

Never let your skin get dry and lined. Keep it soft and young with these Two Creams. Buy both creams in jars or tubes tonight. Neither will clog your pores nor grow hair. The Pond's Extract Company, 131 Hudson Street, New York.

Miss Marion Davies, who is acting so charmingly in her new picture, "Adam and Eva," says "My skin, of course, is constantly exposed to trying lights and I have to use a great deal of make-up, yet my complexion has kept young and smooth with Pond's Two Creams."

California
A PLAYGROUND FOR THE WORLD

Girls and boys play tennis twelve months in the year in the San Francisco Bay cities.

Polo is a natural sport for many Californians who grow up in the saddle and live much out-of-doors.

Touring over the superb highways of Central California, you make camp close to a trout stream, and sleep under clear skies.

PEOPLE play more in California because there are more days of sunshine, higher mountains and deeper valleys, smoother roads to travel—and because you feel more like playing in California.

In Picturesque San Francisco

Your first hour in San Francisco will tell you why, and how people in California play as they prosper, and prosper as they play. Street corners ablaze with flowers, the balconies of Chinatown, giant ocean liners, sky blue dories of the fisher fleet, world famous Golden Gate Park, oceanside public golf links, soft sunshine and cool breezes are only a few of its distinctive attractions.

Your Best Starting Point

More than that, San Francisco is your natural starting point for all your trips. North to rivers, lakes, redwoods, geysers, the volcano of Lassen Volcanic National Park, or snowy Shasta; east to blue Lake Tahoe, Yosemite National Park, the Feather River Canyon and the High Sierras; southward along the Pacific Ocean to many famous seashore playgrounds—all these trips you will want to make, and can make easily.

See the Great Valley

And here's the point—you can live all the time in California, the land of a thousand enjoyments, more easily and more profitably than elsewhere. There is room for you with only a modest nest egg at the start. For example, the Great Central Valley, tributary to San Francisco and five hundred miles long, contains not only millions of cultivated and fertile acres—it contains nearly a million acres of irrigated lands alone; close to cities and served by the matchless system of paved highways, now ready for occupancy, and opportunities for many other enterprises are everywhere manifest.

Trees thousands of years old tower above smooth auto roads in the great redwood forests of California coast counties.

What makes this picture notable is that it shows the living room or "parlor" of the modest $50-a-month house at St. Charles, Ill., where Mr. and Mrs. Lester Norris will live on return from their honeymoon. Mrs. Norris, you know, was Dellora Angell until the other day, and she is heiress to half of the $50,000,000 left by John W. Gates. She could afford a gilded palace, but what's the use?

"It improved the condition of every one who was constipated"

Recent experiments explain action of Fleischmann's Yeast in relieving this common complaint

In three great scientific laboratories and hospitals, recent experiments were made on over 100 persons—to test the effects of Fleischmann's Yeast on constipation.

It was found that the yeast mixes with the highly-nutritious, concentrated foods which form most of our modern diet, softening them and increasing their bulk. This greater bulk gently encourages the intestinal muscles to act, and at the same time strengthens them by offering just the resistance they need.

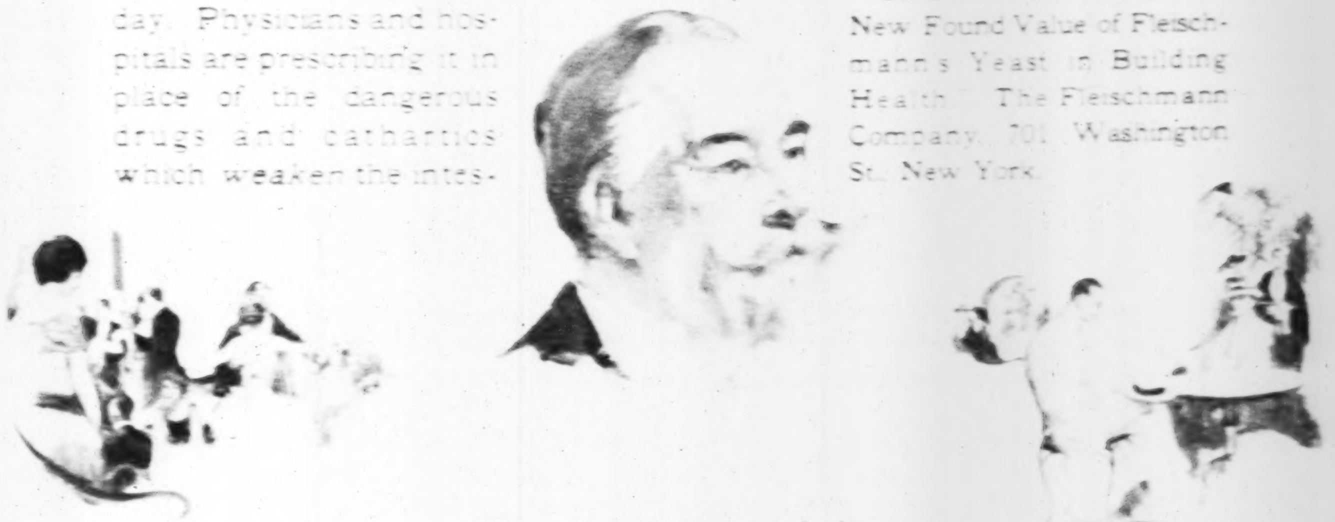
That is why, according to the recently-issued report of these tests, Fleischmann's Yeast "improved the condition of every one who had any degree of constipation." It simply assists Nature to restore normal healthy conditions. Hundreds of thousands of men and women are eating Fleischmann's Yeast today. Physicians and hospitals are prescribing it in place of the dangerous drugs and cathartics which weaken the intestinal muscles and so actually increase the trouble.

Your own physician will heartily endorse this principle of treating constipation by gently encouraging the intestinal muscles to act for themselves. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast—yeast in its natural fresh form. Recent experiments have shown that yeast corrects constipation only when its cells are alive and active, and that it loses its laxative effect when these cells are "killed" and dried.

Eat at least 2 or 3 cakes a day—plain or dissolved in water, milk, or fruit juices—preferably half an hour before a meal, or the last thing at night.

Get several cakes at a time—they will keep in a cool, dry place for several days. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast. All grocers have it.

Send for free booklet, "The New Found Value of Fleischmann's Yeast in Building Health." The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington St., New York.



"Though 58 I am feeling like a boy of 20"

"For the last four years I had been suffering constantly with indigestion," writes a broker from Havana. "I could not go to the club at night. I had to give up all my pleasures. But since a friend of mine recommended to me to try Fleischmann's Yeast, I am back again on the same old footing. Though 58 years old I am feeling as if I were only 20—thanks to Fleischmann's Yeast."

INDIAN SUMMER

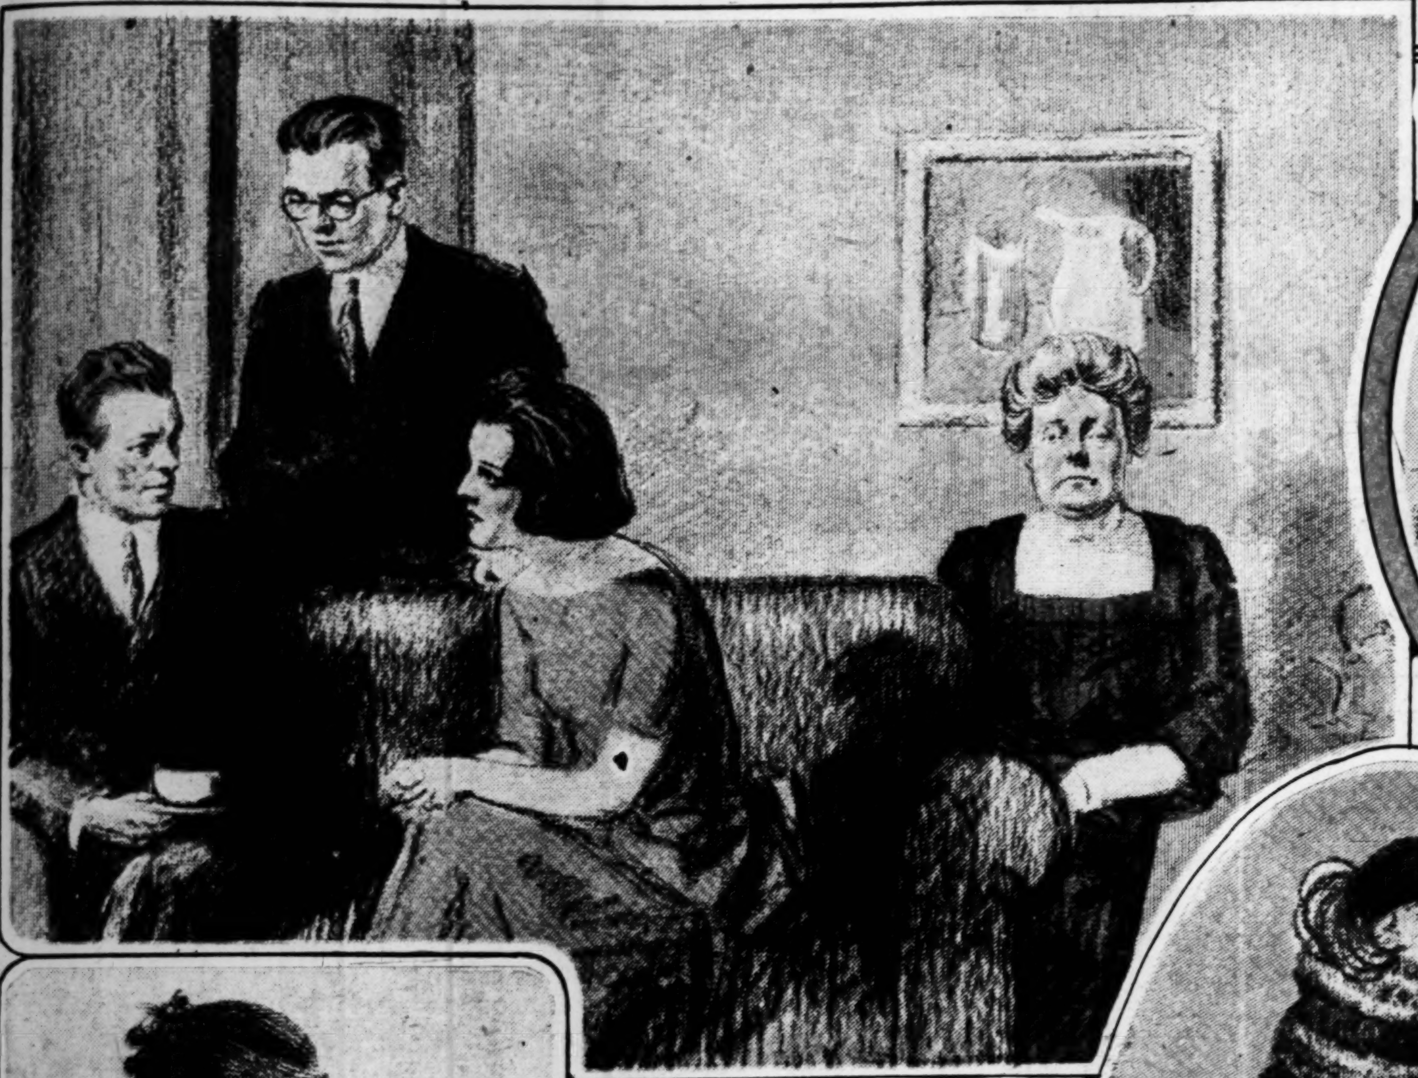
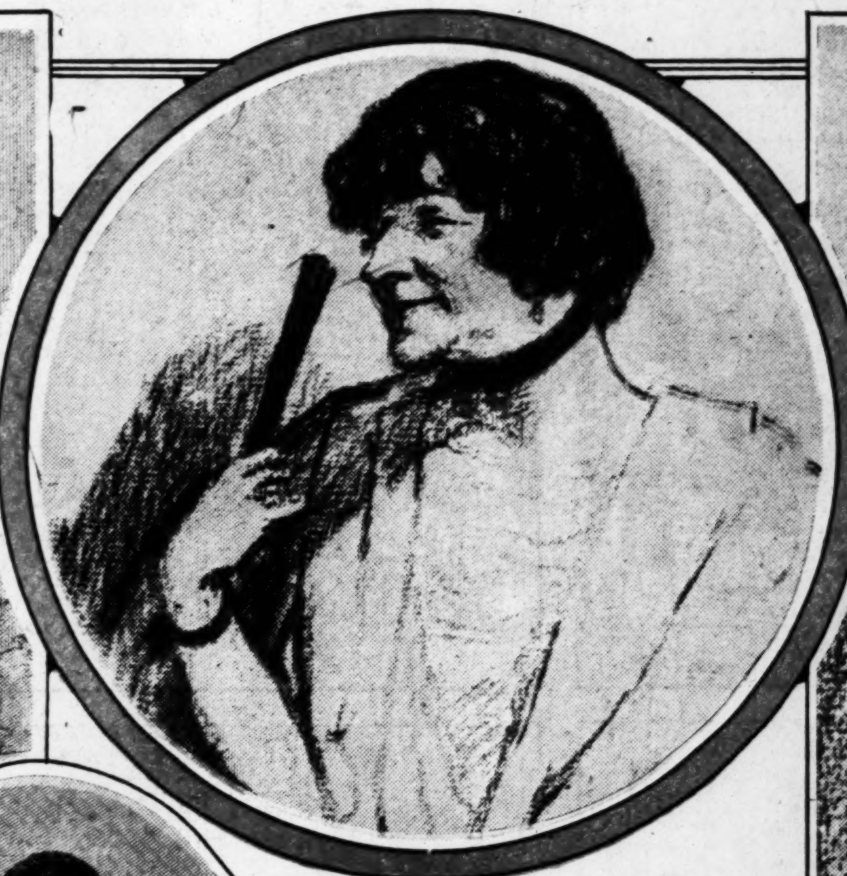
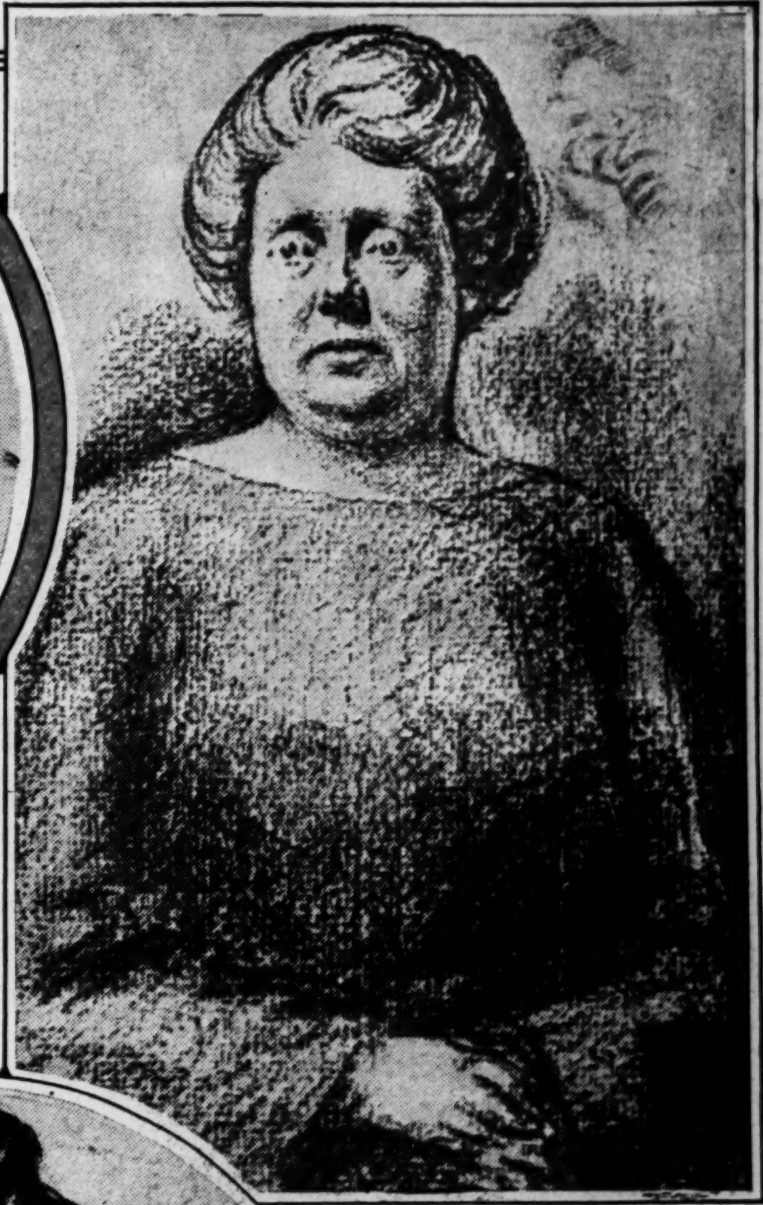
By W. E. HILL



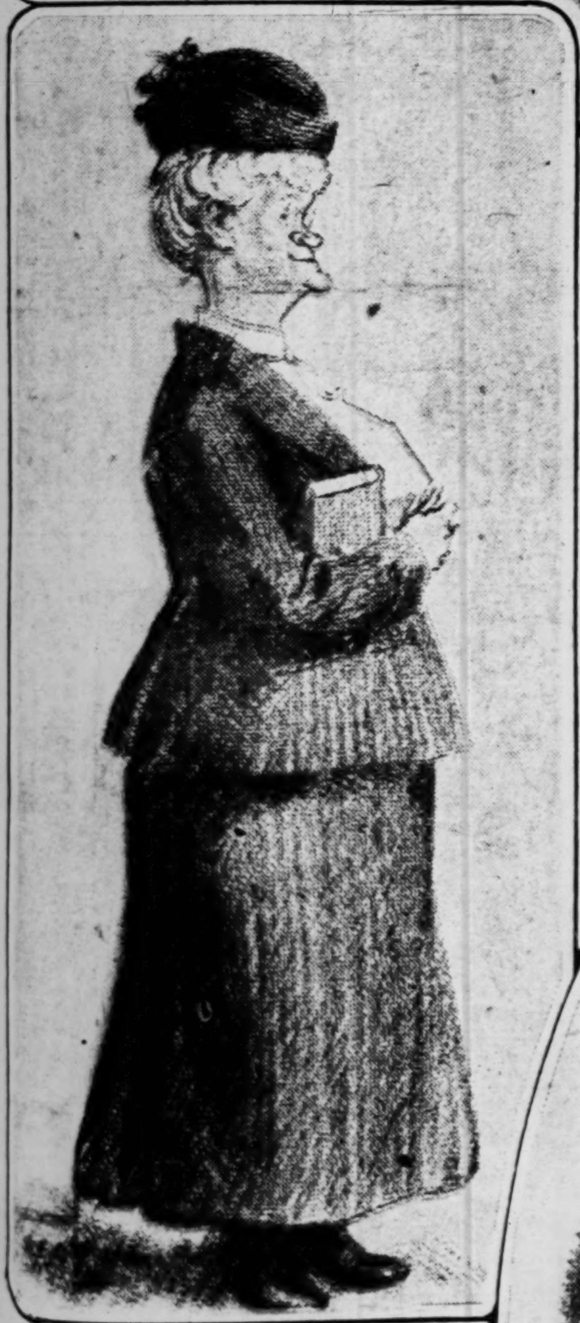
Mrs. Waldo Emerson Fulsome, with a long string of Puritan ancestors to back her up if need be, is having a terrible time. The mother, if you please, of a radical daughter, who talks and talks with the younger intellectual element, about D. H. Laurence, "Ulysses," and whether or not the state should enforce a law compelling all unmarried young ladies to contribute one child to the scheme of things! Now what do you think of that? And what, indeed, would great Aunt Tabitha Fulsome think? Just look at poor Mrs. Fulsome spending what ought to be a calm Indian summer afternoon under that horrible modern art still life that Caroline would bring home from the Independent Exhibition. The Puritan ancestors have fallen down flat in Mrs. Fulsome's darkest hour.



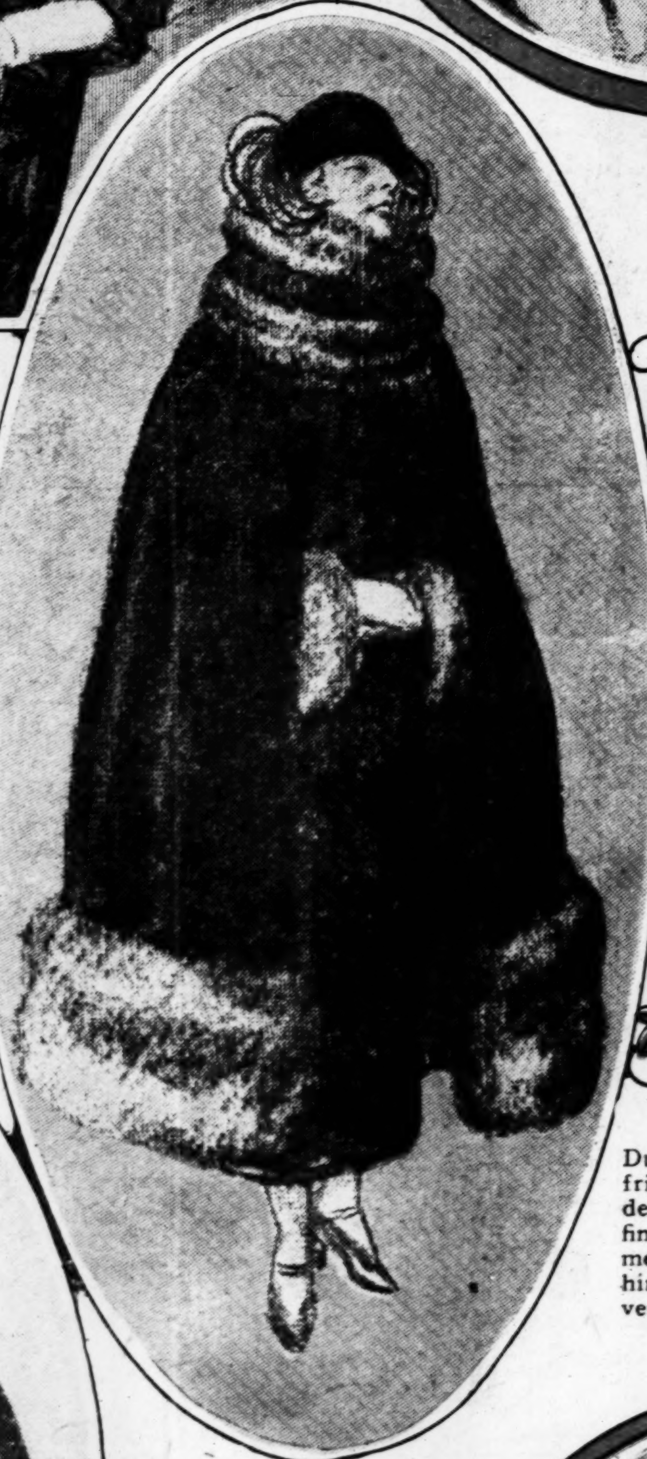
For the lady who was a great belle in her. early days, and can't seem to get over it. Indian summer is an awfully coy, gurgly period.



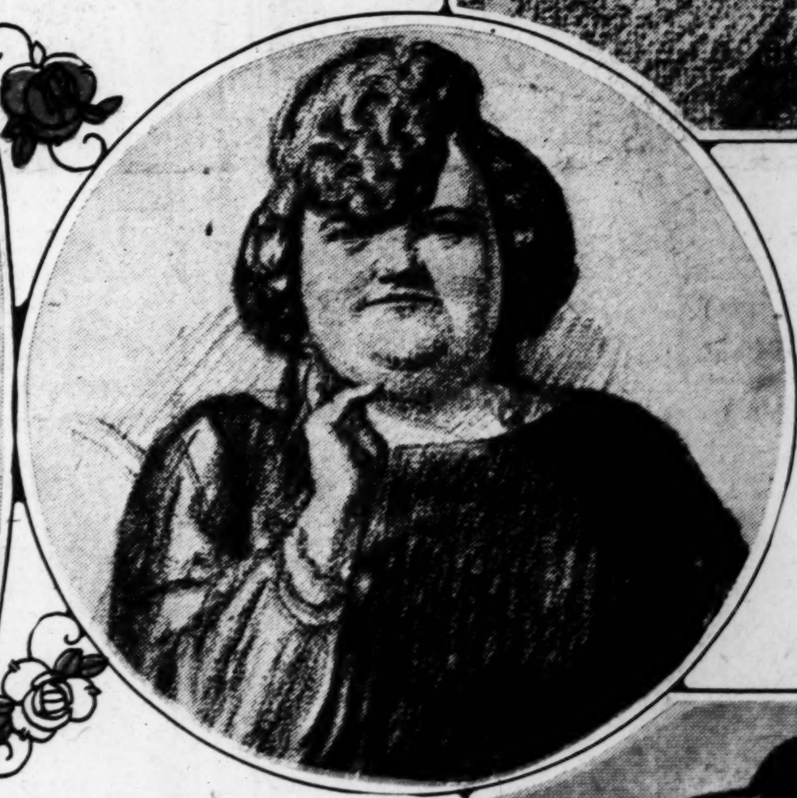
Indian summer for a great many estimable ladies — and by Indian summer any age between 50 and 90 is meant—becomes a period of great mental unrest. It's a struggle for any lady with a background of household duties to focus on any subject for long. Sooner or later a far-away look creeps into her eye and you know that even though her lips say "Yes, indeed!" or "How nice that must be!" she's wondering if Hilda remembered to order the chops, or if the furnace man did what he was told to do about the ashes, or if tonight is the night Roger is to bring Mr. Bentley to dinner.



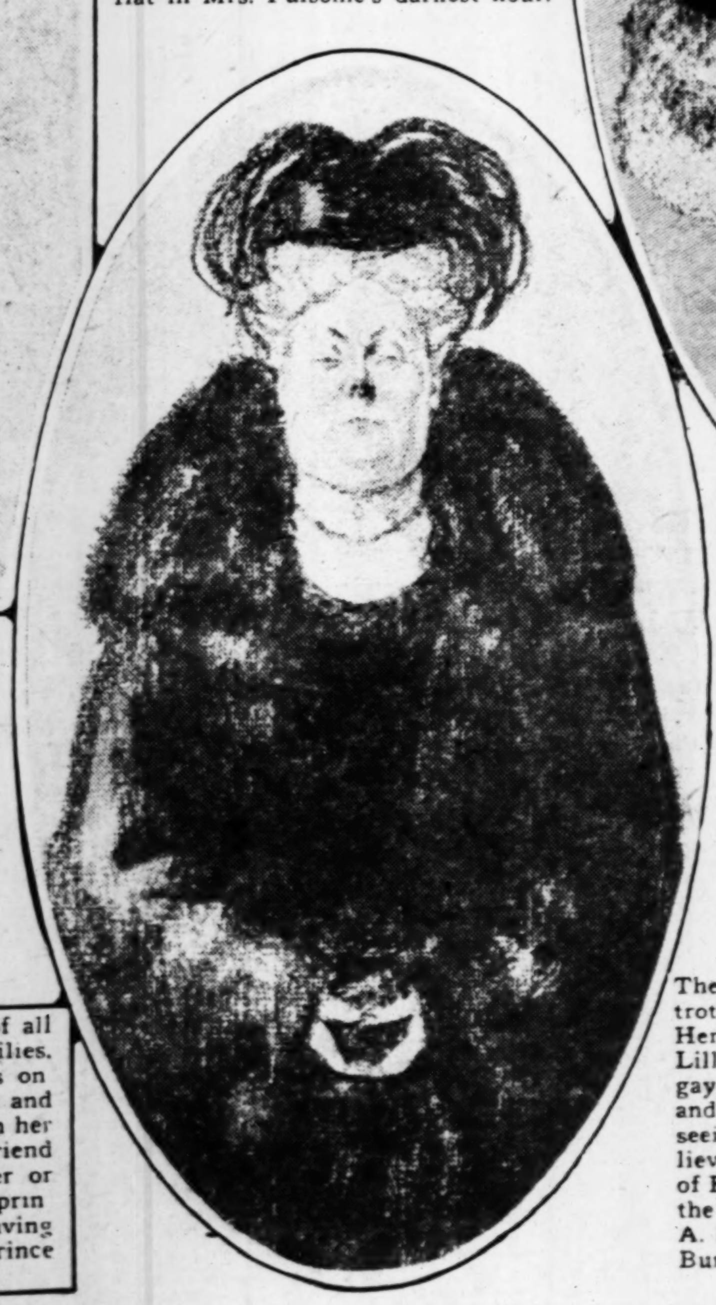
Indian summer in sequestered communities is just as fraught with activity for the born social leader as it is in the big city, where only too often nobody cares Take Mrs. Carl Hammit for example—chairman of the ladies' aid, member of the Methodist choir, secretary and treasurer of the reading club and prime mover in the coming fried oyster supper in the church parlors That's a full program for any social light!



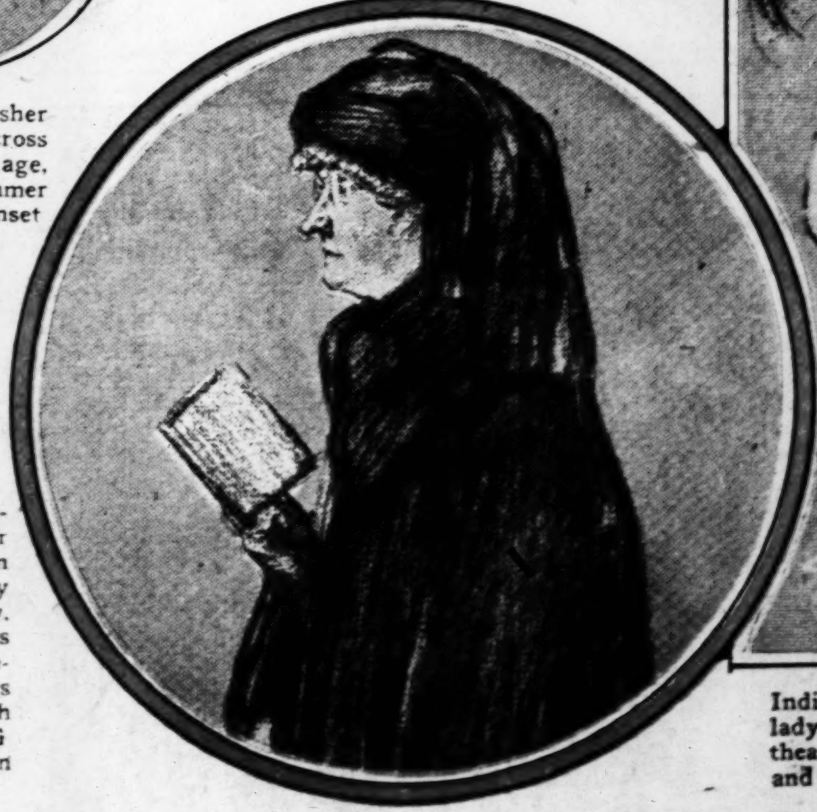
Some women get stylisher and stylisher as they cross the border of middle age, making of Indian summer a blinding autumn sunset



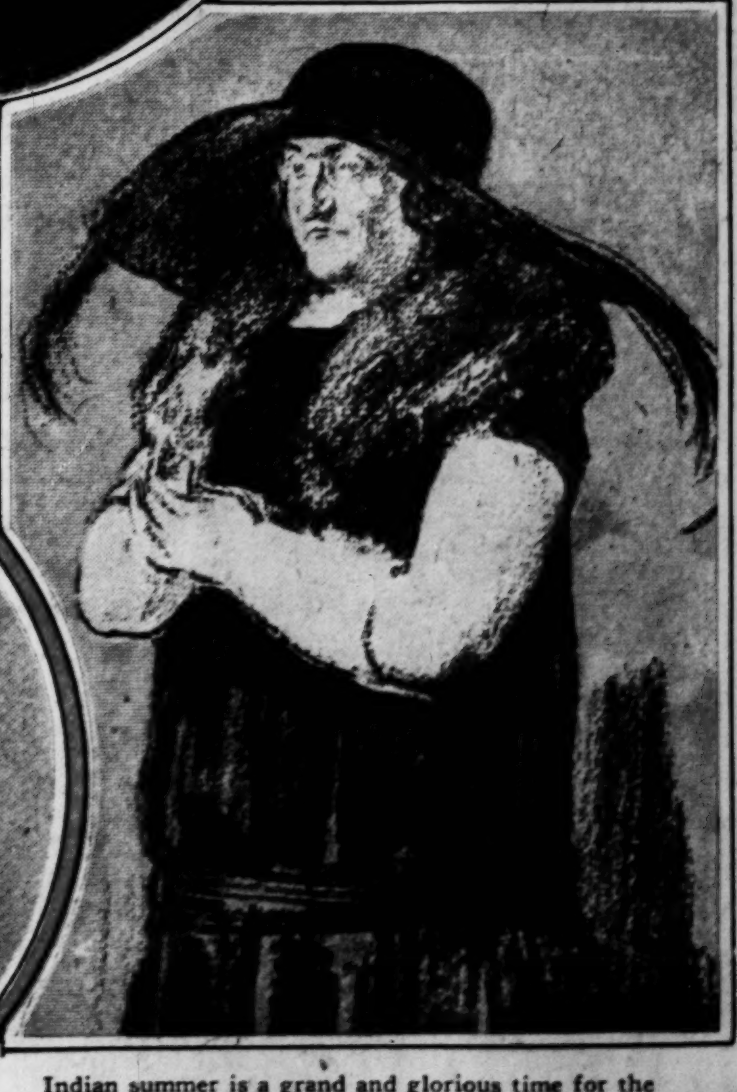
Dumb but happy, is how the catty friends of Mrs. Jas. T. Gloss would describe that lovely lady. At 50, we fine Mrs. Gloss very fond of caramel ice cream, murder trials, beauty hints, and any permanent waves. A very placid Indian summer.



Mrs Harvey Smythe-Smith, exponent of all that is grandest in our very first families, gets grander and grander as time goes on Her pet themes have to do with kings and queens and the Social Register She's on her way now to lunch with a very dear friend and they are going to discuss whether or no poor dear Princess Letitia of the principality of Boo Boo did wrong by leaving the bed and board of her royal spouse, Prince Rigadom of Garcia



The Indian summer globe-trotter After poor, dear Herbie's demise. Cousin Lilla decided to be a very gay globe-trotting widow, and oh, my, the things she's seeing! And would you believe it, not all the galleries of Europe can compare with the art treasures in the G. A. R. exhibit back home in Burden, Wisconsin.



Indian summer is a grand and glorious time for the lady who is oh, so interested in movements—little theater movements, civic movements, art movements and welfare movements.
